UTILITIES HAD SECRET PACT WITH STATE COMMISSION

Documents Give Evidence of a Working Understanding With Missouri Service Board.

AID GIVEN TO GET APPROPRIATIONS

Sheridan's Files Show Operators Wanted Understanding as to Favors in Exchange for Assistance.

BY RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Conclusive evidence of a secret working agreement between the Missouri Public Service Commission and the Missouri Public Utilities has been filed with the Federal Trade Commission, which is making a general investigation of the public utility industry.

Robert E. Healy, counsel for the commission, introduced this evidence as a general exhibit late yesterday when he submitted a great batch of correspondence and documents taken from the files of J. B. Sheridan of St. Louis, director of the Missouri Committee on Public Utility Information, the propaganda agency of the utilities' association.

When Sheridan was on the stand, two weeks ago, he identified these exhibits as authentic. They were not formally introduced until yesterday because Healy wanted to reexamine them.

Secret Understanding.

Among other things, they show the following:

1. General secret support for the commission, including disguised distribution of the commission's propaganda.

2. Aid given by the utilities to have the commission made permanent by inclusion of a commission provision in the proposed Constitution of 1922.

3. Aid given by the utilities to commission appropriations and legislation in the Legislature.

4. Insistence by some utility operators for a "clear understanding" with the commission for better treatment, if any more assistance was to be given.

5. Former Chairman Henby proposed the idea to the utility group that the commission should be included in the proposed Constitution.

6. Thomas J. Brown, a member of the commission, was grateful for two articles Sheridan wrote for the commission and had circulated through the secretary of the Missouri Press Association.

Cover More Than Three Years.

The exhibits were introduced by Healy without identification in the record of each document. They extended from Nov. 14, 1921, shortly after Sheridan took over the office of propaganda director, to March 28, 1925.

In a letter to J. D. Von Maur of the Laclede Gas Light Co., Sheridan said that when he succeeded a Mr. Bell as director of the committee, Bell told him the policy of the committee toward the commission was that "while the committee is not pledged to the support of the Public Service Commission in any way, it will tactfully and cautiously at all times support the commission and keep in close touch with it."

"I have not at any time failed to bear this in mind," Sheridan observed.

This same letter continued: "About three weeks ago (this was written in June, 1922) I took the matter of support of the commission up with Chairman Henby. Mr. Henby advised that we should proceed with caution, but that he deemed it wise that we should, in a quiet and indirect way, print matter in our bulletin calculated to impress the public with the necessity of retaining the commission. On this point I beg to refer you to the bulletin of June 24, 1924, to the story: 'Courts, not commissions, are the final arbiters of public utility operations.'

"The committee has not so far decided to come out in open support of the commission, although I feel that the time will come when the utilities will find it profitable to urge the retention of the commission and its establishment in the Constitution.

Planned Constitutional Change.

Sheridan knew at that time that the utilities were secretly fighting for the commission at the constitutional convention. On June 15, 1922, C. L. Proctor of the Em-

U. S. Court Takes Slap At Medical Experts

Judge Symes of Denver, in Confirming Sentence, Declares Medicine Is Not an Exact Science.

An emphatic warning against acceptance by juries, particularly in criminal cases, of the conclusions of expert medical witnesses was sounded by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday in an opinion affirming a sentence of two years in the penitentiary and $1000 fine imposed upon Harold M. Stunz of Kansas City for mail fraud.

Stunz had marketed a preparation which he advertised as a sure "gland rejuvenator." The court found, in affirming his conviction, that he had misrepresented his facilities by saying the preparation was made in an extensive laboratory, but District Judge Symes of Denver, who wrote the opinion, indirectly discounted the testimony given for the Government by physicians who said Stunz' preparation was "of doubtful therapeutic value."

"Quack" Today, Cure Tomorrow.

"Medicine is not an exact science," wrote Judge Symes in an opinion in which Circuit Judge Kenyon, former Iowa Senator, and District Judge Martineau, former Governor of Arkansas, concurred. "A respectable amount of authority can be cited to dispute the value of any well recognized method of treating disease.

"The decision as to the efficiency of any particular remedy or drug ought not, in criminal cases, to be left for laymen, nor can the liberty of an accused be allowed to depend solely upon the choice that a jury might make between the conflicting opinions of medical experts.

"The so-called quack remedy of today may be hailed tomorrow as an absolute cure, or vice-versa. Vaccination, for instance, is believed by a large majority of the medical profession and the public to prevent smallpox. Others with equal sincerity openly advocate contrary views.

Excludes Experts' Conclusions..

"When the white man and the Indian hunted deer together and the meat was divided, the liver, discarded by the white man, was prized by the red man for its medical properties. Today it is prescribed as a certain cure for pernicious anemia.

"Not many years ago so-called Chinese herb doctors were prosecuted under this identical statute for representing that portions of dried fish, especially the head, cured heart disease. It is now known that adrenalion, which can be obtained from certain fish, is the most powerful heart stimulant.

"The testimony of medical experts should be limited carefully. Conclusions by these witnesses should be excluded."

WET PLATFORM IN WISCONSIN

Democrats Declare for Fundamental Changes in Dry Law.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 7.—Mayor Albert G. Schmedeman of Madison, former Minister to Norway, was nominated today by the State Democratic conference for the governorship by acclamation. The conference urged the candidates to fight the primary contest in September on a platform which, among other things, declares for "fundamental changes in the eighteenth amendment."

Judge John C. Karel of Milwaukee and M. K. Reilly, Fond du Las, former Congressman, were indorsed for the United States Senate, although some doubt was expressed that the Milwaukee Judge would run without resigning from the bench.

MAN ON PORCH WITH DAUGHTERS SHOT FROM AUTO

Vincent Anello Wounded in Arm When Men in Car Open Fire on His Home.

Vincent Anello, 48 years old, was shot in the right arm when a blast of shotgun fire was poured in on his home at 5729 Kansas street at 9:40 last night as he and three daughters sat on the front porch.

Fired by two of three men who drove slowly past the house in an automobile, the shower of slugs crashed through a window and struck the wall of the living room in which another daughter, Sarah, 11, was sitting.

Only Anello was hit and his wound was not serious. At city hospital he told policemen that he was sitting in a chair chatting with his daughters, Pauline, 18, Lena, 16, and Rosa, 14, when the automobile pulled up to the curb and two men in the back seat opened fire.

He declared he could not explain the attack. He has not worked, he said, for the past two years since he left a job with a grocery concern because of ill health. He said the family was supported by the earnings of the three eldest of his six children.

A few minutes after the shooting, policemen found two automatic shotguns in a vacant lot a half block east of the Anello home, where they had been thrown, apparently, by the fleeing gunmen.

Anello has been arrested twice, once suspected of murder, in 1921, and again last November, for disturbance of the peace. No charges were pressed against him in either case.

WHITE DRESS UNIFORMS SOON FOR ARMY OFFICERS IN U. S.

War Secretary Orders Regulations Amendment for Extremely Hot Weather.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Army officers on duty in the United States soon will have the privilege of wearing white dress uniforms during extremely hot weather. Secretary of War Davis has directed that army regulations be amended to authorize the wearing of the white dress uniform and mess jacket when prescribed by the commanding officer.

This is the rule in the tropics where contingents of the army are stationed. The wearing of whites in continental United States has been optional heretofore.

LINDBERGH FLIES TO DETROIT

Reported Purpose Was to Test Latest Type of Mail Plane.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 7.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, unaccompanied and flying a mail plane, landed at Selfridge Field near here shortly after 6 p. m., today from Buffalo, N. Y. He left his plane in a hangar and came by automobile to Detroit. He made no announcement concerning the purpose of his visit here.

It was reported he was testing the latest type of mail plane.

FIVE YACHTS SAIL FROM NEW YORK IN RACE TO SPAIN FOR KING'S CUP

Craft Delayed Two and a Half Hours by Lack of Wind at Start of 3055-Mile Cruise.

FAMOUS SKIPPER ON ST. LOUISAN'S CRAFT

Charles Francis Adams at Helm of the Atlantic, Owned by G. B. Lambert; Elena First to Start.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Elena, a gliding rhapsody of white and mahogany, with the fresh varnish of towering masts and the sheen of polished brass work flashing in the sun, swept to first place at the start this afternoon, leader of a field of five contenders in the greatest of major yachting classics in 23 years.

The event is a trans-Atlantic race of 3055 nautical miles from Ambrose Channel lightship to Santander, Spain, for the gold cup offered by King Alfonso. (The U. S. nautical mile is 6080.27 feet or 1.152 statute miles). Four smaller boats, candidates for the trophy offered by Queen Victoria (of Spain), started last Saturday.

One veteran of the last across-ocean contest was there today—the Dowager Atlantic, which, in 1905, set the record for sailing yachts. The record stands today—12 days, four hours and one minute from Sandy Hook to the Lizard. (Southwest tip of England). The Atlantic is owned by Gerard B. Lambert of St. Louis.

But the grand old mother of American yachts had to whistle for a breeze today. Officially the southwest wind recorded slightly more than three knots and it all belonged to Elena, a light weather craft, 136 feet and six inches on deck and owned by William B. Bell of New York. (A knot is a speed of one nautical mile per hour).

Boats Wait for Wind.

Postponed two and one-half hours to enable the boats to get enough wind for steerage way, the Elena was caught well out beyond the starting line when the warning signal, a white cone, was hoisted to the signal yard arm of the committee boat, the navy tug Iuka, at 2:30 p. m.

Ahead of her was the bronze-hulled, bald-headed, three-sticker, Azara of Detroit, which had been towed to the line by the Sea Lady, whose owner, Henry A. Wise, frequently came alongside the committee boat, hailed the bridge and carried dispatches to the big schooners which were scattered over miles of ocean.

Those on lookout in the after and forward guards of Elena leaped to the sheets as the white cone was two-blocked, but the wind was so light that the big boat slatted in stays under her working lowers, maintopsail, forestaysail and jib. Her foretopsail, out of stops, hung limp.

Stood for the Line.

The preparatory signal, a blue peter cone, went aloft on the Iuka as Elena's headsails filled and she stood for the line on the port tack. The red cylinder and the starting gun caught her crossing and well to leeward.

Meantime Azara, showing all plain sail, kept on unheeding and finally put her helm down, but because of her short sail area—4226 square feet for an overall length of 112—had a hard time to keep from going in irons.

While these maneuvers were in progress, the veteran Atlantic, a 185-footer, was working up to windward back of the line, with the old time amateur, Charles Francis Adams, Boston attorney and trustee of Harvard University, at the helm. She nosed well over toward the lightship, pressed on her quarter by the 126-foot two-master, Zodiac, which sported the topmasts of the famous Gloucesterman, Mayflower, and had cracked on everything in the sail locker, including a big fisherman staysail.

For a time there was a hot luffing match. Then Atlantic, carrying the masts which once graced Sea Call, Vanitie and Resolute, stood up into the wind, outpointed the Zodiac and then payed off and headed for the line on a broad reach. Her topsails were sheeted home and gradually she crept forward with 18,500 square feet of canvas drawing.

Veteran at the Wheel.

As Elena crossed the line preparatory to making her start, Azara still was working to come about half a mile to the Eastward. The Bell Schooner stood well

GERMAN FLYERS UP 65 HOURS, A NEW RECORD

Risticz and Zimmerman Exceed Previous Duration Mark by Six Hours.

By the Associated Press.

DESSAU, Germany, July 7.—Surpassing the old record for duration in the air by six hours and 52 minutes, the German flyers, Risticz and Zimmerman, landed their Junkers plane at 9:30 o'clock tonight, after having been in the air for 65 hours and 26 minutes. The former record of 58 hours and 34 minutes was held by Capt. Arturo Ferrarin and Maj. Carlo P. Del Prete of Italy.

Prof. Hugo Junkers, just back from the United States, was a grateful spectator as his plane, piloted alternately by Risticz and Zimmerman, reeled off the telltale rounds on the monotonous shuttle between Dessau and Leipzig which meant a new air record, fresh aviation honors for Germany and furthur vindication of his plane. He was the first to greet the tired airmen as they climbed from their plane and to congratulate them upon their achievement.

When it was announced at 3:29 o'clock this afternoon that the record of the Italian flyers had been broken one hour, as is required to make a new mark effective, there was tremendous cheering from the Junkers airdrome and crowds began to gather to witness the final stages of the flight. The birdmen were swamped with congratulations when they landed.

They brought the new duration ribbon to Germany in a one-motor Junkers plane, the D-1231, a sister ship of the Bremen and Europa. It was this type of plane in which Risticz and Cornelias Edzard brought to Germany its first world endurance record of 52 hours, 23 minutes, in August, 1927, and which this year carried Capt. Hermann Koehl, Baron von Huenefeld and Maj. James E. Fitzmaurice from east to west across the Atlantic.

Risticz and Zimmerman started their long flight early Thursday. For 36 hours weather conditions favored them. Then yesterday they ran into a heavy electrical storm and cloudburst which for three hours threatened serious interference, if not the end of their flight. During the night of Friday and throughout today conditions generally were good. From the early hours of this morning the motor was throttled down so that the fuel consumption which normally would have been about 12½ gallons an hour dropped to nine. The fuel thus saved enabled them to stay nearly six hours longer in the air than they had planned.

AURORA BOREALIS DISTURBS WIRE COMMUNICATION

Wires From New York to San Francisco Chatter as if Picked Up and Shaken.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—One of the most widespread interruptions of wire communication service experienced in years was caused tonight by earth currents thrown out by the aurora borealis. Telegraph companies reported main trunks out of service, or functioning intermittently over a period of several hours.

The tie-up put wires out of commission from New York to San Francisco, and points far south were seriously affected. Atlanta, Ga., an important relay point, reported its main trunks adversely affected for several hours.

Operators at their wires experienced the rising and falling of current peculiar to the phenomenon of the northern lights. At one minute the wires would be entirely clear, in the next the earth current would so clog the lines that the wires would chatter as though the whole system had been picked up and shaken.

A brilliant display of Aurora Borealis, commonly known as "northern lights," attracted the attention of many residents of St. Louis and St. Louis County last night. The rare phenomenon was observed clearly for a considerable time in the northern and northeastern skies.

PLANE FROM WHICH BANKER VANISHED SEIZED BY BRITISH

Authorities Refuse to Let Pilot Fly Craft to Brussels for Inquiry Into Loewenstein Mystery.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co.'s (the New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, July 7. — While the mystery surrounding the death of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier who is supposed to have fallen or jumped from his private Fokker air yacht while crossing the channel Wednesday night, continued unsolved, the plane from which he fell was sequestered this afternoon at Croydon airdrome by the Air Ministry, which is investigating the mystery, and Capt. Donald Drew, pilot of the machine, was called to Brussels to give evidence to police officials there.

That the authorities share at least to some extent in the widely expressed opinion that the Belgian financier is not dead was shown today when they postponed indefinitely the memorial services scheduled to take place in a Brussels church Wednesday. In their announcement of the postponement they said "the death of Capt. Loewenstein is not yet sufficiently established."

It was learned today that there was a complete wireless outfit on the Loewenstein machine, but that no signals were sent out when the occupants found their employer had disappeared in mid-channel. When asked why no signals had been sent, Capt. Drew said: "It is not the sort of thing one wants to broadcast."

Authorities Hold Plane.

This was at the airdrome, where Drew went this afternoon to get the Fokker and fly with it to Brussels to talk with the officials there. Giving no reason for their action, the authorities refused him permission to take the plane out of the hangar, and he was forced to make the journey by train and boat.

Theories on the mystery of the financier's disappearence are numerous. Facts are difficult to establish owing to the seclusion in which all the members of Loewenstein's party who were in the machine are except Pilot Drew and Mechanic E. F. Little, neither of whom was in a position to see exactly what happened.

Both of these ridiculed the reports current that Loewenstein did not enter the plane at Croyden or else was spirited away when it landed on the sands at Dunkirk.

The other occupants of the machine—a secretary, two typists and a valet—are quoted in the French

WOMEN AND CHILDREN VICTIMS; 4 MEN SAVED

Ministry of Marine Gives Out Information of Marine Disaster in Bay of Arauco, Near Coast.

80 PASSENGERS AMONG VICTIMS

Vessel, the Angamos, Had Been Refitted by Government Two Years Ago—Had Speed of 14 Knots.

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 7. — Two hundred and ninety-one lives were lost when the transport Angamos sank today in the Bay of Arauco, according to information given out tonight by the Ministry of Marine. Eighty of the victims were passengers.

Women and Children Victims.

Among the 80 passengers on the ship, which was bound northward from the Straits of Magellan, were many women and children. The suicide of the captain, Corbeta Ismael Suarez, is said to have taken place when he realized he was without power to save these.

Although it is not known what caused the ship to sink, it is believed possible the storm, which today had reached a most violent stage, may have been a contributing factor.

The boat had a crew of 215 men, and with the 80 passengers there were 295 aboard. The four who were saved were said on the marine ministry's bulletin to be conscripts.

The Captain killed himself on the bridge of the vessel.

Wireless dispatches tonight said that the cruiser Zenteno and the destroyer Williams arrived at the scene of the disaster, which is south of Lebu, off the Southern Coast of the Republic, but had found no wreckage of the vessel. Other ships are being sent to the locality.

The ship Tarapaca reported today that last night at 8:40 it intercepted weak radio signals from the transport, stating that it was in an extremely difficult position, but there was no explanation. The Tarapaca radio man said he believed the weakness of the signals indicated a storm, which has raged for two days in that vicinity, had dismantled the main set forcing use of an auxiliary apparatus.

Ship Had Been Refited.

The Angamos was a single screw steamer of 5975 tons and a speed of 14 knots. She was built in Scotland in 1890 and was refitted by the Chilean Government two years ago.

Arauco Bay is off Arauco Province, one of the smaller divisions of Chile, a little south of the center of the country's long coast line. The nearest large city is Concepcion, with 64,000 population.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Cal., July 7.—Thirty miles from here, on the Hearst ranch, Mayor "Jimmy" Walker of New York and William Randolph Hearst are ostensibly holding conferences having to do with politics involving the support of the Hearst newspapers for the campaign of Gov. Smith. Both are beyond communication. The Hearst ranch contains 240,000 acres. Telephone calls go unanswered. E. C. Rodgers, publisher of the San Luis Obispo Telegram, and his local staff spent $10 in telephone service calls to San Simeon. The news they obtained was that Mayor Walker was "out riding."

Officially, Walker is at the Hearst ranch for a rest.

FLOOD CONTROL BOARD CONCLUDES INSPECTION TRIP

Members Gain Concrete Idea of Opposing Plans and Viewpoints of Affected Localities.

READY FOR STUDY OF ENGINEERING DATA

Report of Decision on Conflicting Army and Commission Proposals to Go to President.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 7.—A hearing at New Orleans concluded the inspection trip of the Mississippi Flood Control Board down the river from St. Louis. "We have gained a concrete idea of the two opposing plans in detail," said Major-General Thomas H. Jackson, president of the Mississippi River Commission, "and we have an intimate grasp of the viewpoints in the affected localities. Now we are ready to get down to a study of engineering data."

He and the other members, Major-General Edgar Jadwin and Carleton W. Sturtevant, would venture no estimate of the period which remaining study would require, but Gen. Jackson intimated that it would be a matter of months. The board is to report to the President its decision on the conflicting army engineer and Mississippi River Commission plans of flood control.

For this section of the river, the commission proposes a floodway to carry 900,000 second feet of water from the Mississippi down the west side of the Atchafalaya River below Old River. The Army Engineers propose to carry 500,000 second feet within the Atchafalaya itself and 600,000 in a floodway on the west side, with a reserve floodway on the east side to carry 400,000 second feet in a superflood.

Both Propose Spillway.

The army plan, which is to care for the greatest predicted flood, requires raising levees on the Mississippi by three feett between Old River and Bonnet Carre, where both plans propose a spillway. If the Commission plan were adopted to care for the greatest predicted flood, levees would have to be raised six feet.

Most of the discussion in the New Orleans hearing yesterday concerned a matter not directly before the Board. This was a spillway at Caernarven, where the levee was dynamited to relieve New Orleans of flood danger in 1927. The spillway was included in the commission's "comprehensive plan" but not in its essential plan for immediate action. The Army engineers reported that it had been considered but rejected.

Caernarven Spillway.

John Klorer of the New Orleans Levee Board advocated the Caernarven spillway and declared that it would not dangerously increase the current at New Orleans. He declared that the city would not be fully protected without it. In reply, four instances of "scouring" attributed to the acceleration caused by the Caernarven crevasse last year were cited by Marcel Garsaud, Port Commissioner and general manager of the Dock Board.

"I advocated a spillway at Caernarven before 1927," he remarked. "We had no idea that an outlet there would increase the velocity as it did then. If the commission plan to retain 1,750,000 second feet in the main river below Old River is adopted, then we need both the Bonnet Carre and Caernarven spillways. But not if the army plan to retain only 1,500,000 second feet is adopted."

"I believe the people below Caernarven have a right which the board is bound to respect," said Congressman O'Connor of New Orleans. "In 1927 they showed a spirit of self-abnegation rarely shown in history to save this city. They consented to their own temporary destruction. I think Mr. Klorer will concede that a plan which will destroy them again should be approached with the greatest reluctance.

"Let me urge that the actual work get under way as expeditiously as possible, not only to protect from a repetition of the disaster, but to lift the depression that followed it by starting the wheels of commerce. Your great task will employ thousands. Remember that he who gives quickly gives twice."

Fuse Plug for the Valley.

The position of residents in the Bayou Desglaises section, flooded last year, was presented by G. L. Porterie of Marksville and E. L. Blakewood of Moreauville. It is proposed in the army plan to cut off part of a 30-mile loop in the Bayou Desglaises levee to eliminate hindrance of the flow through the floodway.

"Levees on the Bayou Desglaises have for a generation been the fuse-plug levees for the whole valley," said Porterie. "When the stage became critical they gave way and relieved it, as they did in 1912, 1922 and 1927.

"Our request is a spillway large enough to care for the whole excess. Leave the spillway open, so that water can go through freely. Take as much of the Bayou Desglaises loop as you need of immediate engineering necessity. Save all you can of the more valuable and populous part of it."

ALTHOUGH only seven months old, Yu Vawn Shotts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shotts, of Birmingham, Ala., is reported to converse as well as the average child of five years. At three weeks old she could repeat many words said to her by her parents. At two weeks old she was saying "daddy" and several other words. The infant's words are well enunciated. At the age of four months, Yu Vawn was asked by her mother, "Where is Dean?" Yu Vawn replied, "I don't know."

and Belgian press as having made detailed statements, all of which agree in the story that the financier went to the washroom in the stern of the plane, and failed to return.

In the meantime, a thousand rumors are rife, especially in the financial district, where the effect of the reports of Loewenstein's death was felt more keenly than anywhere else.

Man Reported on Steamer.

One of these is to the effect that a mysterious passenger had debarked Thursday morning at Tilbury from the steamer Flamande, which left Dunkirk during the night. The passenger is described as closely resembling Loewenstein. This and other rumors are completely unconfirmed.

The Air Ministry, meanwhile, declines to comment on its seizure of Loewenstein's plane, which is now under guard of air force soldiers. Before leaving for Brussels this afternoon, Pilot Drew said he could not discover under what legal grounds the Ministry acted.

In the meantime, rumors that Loewenstein still is alive somewhere, possibly in hiding, possibly in the hands of captors who executed a stock market coup, are rapidly gaining ground, and are a source of interested conversation both here and on the Continent.

FIVE YACHTS SAIL FROM NEW YORK IN CUP RACE TO SPAIN

within the starting line, with Charles M. Barr, veteran of the 1905 event, at the wheel. Although handicapped with a new crew hastily recruited Friday night along the Brooklyn waterfront, when the regulars struck for prize money, the slender hull swept in a perfect half circle and almost seemed to spin on her keel.

She pointed a little east of north, a huge balloon jib was broken out of stops and filled away and the headsails came down almost at the same time. Foot by foot she nosed ahead, crossed the line well in the lead and then headed probably up toward the forty-fifth meridian to sail from there along the great circle track and reblaze the Columbus trail.

"Good Luck Elena."

In her stern puffed the Dauntless, a grimy tug which towed her down from Gravesend Bay this morning and hovered protectingly around her all day. From the masthead of the Dauntless waved a heroic blue streamer with the sentiment in white lettering—"Good Luck Elena."

Stem and stern, Atlantic and Zodiac crowded each other to the line. The heavy ground swells dipped their bows and for a time it was boat for boat. Suddenly there was a burst of unfolding white as Atlantic's balloon jib was broken out and a balloon staysail followed. Slowly the old timer began to find her heels and soon her black hull stood out against the horizon ahead of the battling Zodiac and steadily gaining.

Meanwhile Azara corrected her premature start, jibed, and went over the line for fourth place. Once across she hauled in her jib apparently in preparation to set a light sail, but a few minutes later the jib was again hoisted, and the boat, the only center boarder in the contest, glided along at a rate which surprised old timers on the committee boat.

Trapped Behind the Line.

Trapped far behind the line, the crew of the Guinever, the Goliath of the fleet, Edgar Palmer's 195-foot three-master, was "cracking-on" with feverish haste. Decked in working lowers, topsails and four jibs, the crew literally smothered her in canvas. The headsails went down with a rush and a huge balloon bellied to the slight breeze. Main and mizzen balloon staysails were set and the squaresail on the foremast hauled taut and the yard braced. In a final desperate effort, sailors scrambled into the foreriggings and set the starboard raffee, which may have helped some as Guinevere was on the starboard tack.

She reached the line officially 29 minutes late and then, like a good omen, the breeze suddenly freshened and a curl of white water showed under the yacht's graceful clipper bow.

By this time, however, Elena was well out to sea and seemed perfectly content with the balloon jib and main topsail, although equipped with an extension to her main boom and a ringtail, an almost obsolete sail which could have been set as an added inducement.

Morgan at Starting Line.

Dozens of boats were clustered around the starting line, including the famous Corsair, carrying her owner, J. P. Morgan, and former Commodore George Nichols of the New York Yacht Club, and the mighty Savarona, 294-foot motor yacht, built this year for Mrs. Richard M. Cadwalader of Philadelphia. Savarona followed Elena to sea until the craft, seen from the starting line, was hull down on the horizon.

By contrast to the leviathan yacht was the stocky little Ketch-Typhoon, now named Southwester, in which the late Bill Nutting once crossed the Atlantic. She sailed from Port Washington, L. I., to see the start of the big fellows.

One of the most interested spectators was Wilson Marshall of Bridgeport, Conn., former owner of Atlantic, who hovered around in his semihouseboat Ansantawae.

The Iuka arrived at the line and dropped anchor at 10 o'clock this morning. She carried the Spanish Ocean Race Committee, composed of Gherardi Davis, chairman; Henry Howard of Newport, secretary, and Clinton Mackenzie and Edmund Lang, all of the Newport Yacht Club. They came aboard from the Atlantic Yacht Club, accompanied by Commodare G. Harry O'Shea and Fred R. Thorns, a former Atlantic flag officer.

The Zodiac is owned by Robert W. Johnson of New Brunswick, N. J., and has Commander Vincent A. Clark, navigator of the dirigible Los Angeles, on board as navigating officer. The Azara is owned by George J. and Francis Baker of Detroit.

COOLIDGE ASKS HOOVER TO VISIT HIM IN WISCONSIN

Telegraphs Invitation on Receipt by Mail of Commerce Secretary's Resignation From Cabinet.

By the Associated Press.

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 7.—President Coolidge received in the mails today the resignation from the Cabinet of Secretary Hoover of the Commerce Department. Mr. Coolidge has not yet accepted the resignation which is to take effect at the Chief Executive' pleasure.

In reply to another letter from the Republican presidential nominee, Mr. Coolidge invited Hoover by telegram to be his guest at the summer White House next week.

No definite information was available as to when Hoover would reach here, but he is expected July 15 or 16.

Although the letter of resignation was formal, Hoover was reported to have sent a second letter, explaining his reasons for resigning. This letter intimated the Commerce secretary's desire to call upon the Chief Executive to discuss various phases of the political situation. It also expressed Hoover's wish not to embarrass the administration in any way by his activities as a presidential candidate, but explained that he would remain in the Cabinet if the President wished it.

Resignation Not Yet Accepted.

The meeting of the President and Mr. Hoover will influence greatly the determination of the date of replacing Hoover in the Cabinet. Mr. Coolidge is represented as desirous of hearing what plans Hoover had and of learning to what extent these would interfere with his duties as Secretary of Commerce.

The acceptance of Hoover's resignation will wait until Mr. Coolidge has fixed on his successor.

Early this week Mr. Coolidge talked on the political situation with Chairman Work of the National Republican Committee, and it is thought likely that James W. Good, who has accepted the post of Western manager of the Hoover campaign, will visit the Chief Executive for a similar exchange of views.

From such conversations Mr. Coolidge will be able to determine the most suittabale way of making good his assurance to Chairman Work that he would help the Republican campaign.

Progress was reported in Mr. Coolidge's endeavors to find a new Secretary of the Interior to succeed Dr. Work.

Takes Auto Drive.

For the first time since his arrival in Wisconsin the President today took a two-hour automobile ride in the country, driving to the divide between the Mississippi River and the Great Lakes watershed. Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, accompanied him.

Upon reaching the old portage from the head waters of the Brule River and the St. Croix Lake, Mr. Coolidge turned back to Cedar Island Lodge in time to receive the morning's mail containing Hoover's communications.

THREE NOMINATIONS FOR PRESIDENT THIS WEEK

Two Dry Parties and Farmer-Labor Groups Will Name Candidates at Chicago Meetings.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Three Presidential candidates are to be named at three meetings here next week.

The Jefferson-Lincoln League opens a convention on July 9, and the following day the Prohibition Party and the Farmer-Labor group convene to select candidates and prepare platforms.

James A. Edgerton of Washington, President of the Jefferson-Lincoln League, declared one of the "fundamental purposes" of the organization is to assist in the "protection and enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the prohibition laws."

Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, secretary, will deliver the keynote address at the Prohibition party's convention, candidates will be named on July 11. The party largely is interested in preserving the dry laws, or in making them more arid.

Charles C. Shirley of Chicago, chairman of the Northwest Committee of the Divisional Committee of the Farmer-Labor Party, who arranged for the convention, expects 250 delegates from 20 states. The party's chief objectives are to do away with the injunction in labor disputes, bring about farm relief and foster public ownership of utilities.

Authorities Summon Capone.

MIAMI, Fla., July 7.—"Scarface" Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, whose recent purchase of a home in an exclusive Miami beach area brought protests to the City Council was ordered today to appear Monday afternoon before County Solicitor R. R. Taylor for questioning. In issuing a subpena for Capone, the solicitor declined to tell for what purpose he was summoned.

Dies of Lockjaw From Sore Heel.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., July 7.—A wound on her heel caused by the rubbing of a shoe, resulted in the death today of Mabel Fowler, 9 years old, as the result of tetanus. The injury, a week old, was thought to have healed.

MEN ON SHIP THINK THEY SAW END OF AMUNDSEN PLANE

Laborers on Way to Advent Bay Report Seeing Object Fall From Sky Into Sea While Near Bear Island.

(Copyright, 1928.)

By the Associated Press.

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, July 7.—A clew to the fate of Roald Amundsen and the five men who accompanied him in the French seaplane in search of missing members of the Nobile expedition, came to light today. Laborers of the Great Northern Coal Co., on their way from Norway to Advent Bay, said that June 18 when their vessel, the Ingerfire, was off Bear Island, they saw a dark object dropping from the sky into the sea.

The distance was so great that they could not make out just what it was, and they thought nothing further of the incident until their arrival, when they heard other workmen discussing the disappearance of Amundsen's plane. The big machine would have been in the neighborhood of Bear Island at about the time the men mentioned.

Capt. Wisting of the steamship Quest was pessimistic when he was told of the laborers' story.

Anxiety is being felt by the Italian rescue forces for Capt. Sora, commander of a party of Alpinists who have been exploring the north coast for traces of the three members of the Nobile party who left the ice floe camp May 30. The Captain has been absent from his party more than a week.

He had been warned in a note dropped by Lieut. Luetzow Holm, Norweigan aviator, not to attempt a foot crossing of the sea ice between him and the Nobile refugees near Foyne Island. Members of the Captain's party said he started despite this advice. Another sledge party found a note from him at Cape Brun saying he was proceeding toward Foyne Island, and relating Lieut. Holm's warning.

Capt. Sora carried little food. Arctic experts said his attempt alone was against all Arctic experience.

Swedish Flyers Seek Vainly for Party Headed by Malmgren.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, July 7.—The leaders of the Swedish expedition at Spitzbergen has forwarded the information that the Swedish planes have patrolled the whole coast of Northeast Land without finding trace of the three men of the Nobile party headed by the Swedish scientist, Dr. Finn Malmgren. Anxiety for Dr. Malmgren and his two Italian comrades is growing daily, and any rescue now would be a last minute one.

The Swedish North Pole expert, Maj. Duse, characterizes as nonsense the statement by Gen. Nobile that the Malmgren group had 50 day's supplies. If they are still alive, he says, the three wanderers must be found immediately; search for the balloon group of seven men must be suspended until definite knowledge is had of the fate of the Malmgren group.

Gen. Nobile Still Hopeful Malgren and Two Others On Ice Floe Are Alive

Italia's Commander Cites Heroic Courage of Missing Men; Says Expedition Was a Scientific Success.

By GEN. UMBERTO NOBILE,
Commander-in-Chief of the Lost Dirigible Italia.
(Copyright, 1928.)

ABOARD THE CITTA DI MILANO, Virgo Bay, July 7.—Although I must await the return of my stranded comrades before disclosing fully the story of our long stay at the red tent camp—a story such as has seldom been told—there is no reason why I should keep silent.

There are some notable episodes that may prove interesting to many. First, there is my dear friend Malmgren. I feel confident that he will return safely with his two companions in spite of the apparent failure of all attempts to find traces of their march across the ice to the sea.

The well known Norwegian hunter, Kramer, came aboard yesterday bringing supplies from King's Bay and in conversation with some of our officers expressed the view that as no trace of the Malmgren party had been found the party must therefore have been lost.

I differ from this opinion. Malmgren and the two Italian navy officers who accompanied him were seen by us after they had reached the solid ground of Foyne Island. If no footmarks have been seen on the stretches of ice between Foyne Island and Northeast Land, this does not mean necessarily that the three men went beyond the island.

But, even if they had been compelled, for some reason unknown to us, to remain on Foyne Island, they would still be alive as they had supplies sufficient for another month from now.

The hypothesis that the three men may have fallen into the depths of a crevice while crossing from Foyne Island to Northeast Land seems to me very far fetched. In any case one might have fallen, but not all together.

Moreover, I have great faith in Malmgren personally. He was aboard the Maud from 1922 to 1925 during the historic drift of that famous boat across the glacial Siberian Ocean. Those three years taught him all there is to know of Polar hardships and dangers and how to resist them.

But, whatever the fate of those three brave men may be, I wish to draw the attention of the public to their heroic unselfishness. They left our camp deliberately to face the unknown with the only object of getting help for those of us who remained behind. I recall the moving dialogue I had with Malmgren soon after our crash. I was injured in the head as well as the right leg, arm and hand. I felt then that death would be merciful if it came swiftly, and I know that all or most of my comrades felt the same way.

It was during the evening of that tragic May 25 that, opening my eyes, I saw all my comrades around me. I said:

"Let us lift up our souls toward God and our country."

Malmgren, who had fallen a short distance from me and had hardly moved since, suddenly got up to his feet on hearing me speak. Coming nearer, he said:

"There is nothing to be done. We must die."

Then he remained silent for some time, sitting down on the ice with his head resting on his arms. He seemed to be thinking deeply. Of a sudden he got up again and coming toward me said:

"I thank you, General, for consenting to take me with you; but now I am going there—under the water."

And he pointed to the icy water lapping the side of the ice floe. Those stoic words from such a man roused me and gave me new strength to fight and endure. I replied:

"No, Malmgren, you have no right to take your life. When God wills that our hour has come, we all will die together, but it is not for us to anticipate God's will. We do not know what He may have in store for us, in His wisdom."

Malmgren appeared to have been visibly moved by my words. He said nothing at all, but sat down again, apparently dissuaded from his design.

As I have said before, the time has not yet come for me to describe our vicissitudes in full. But I may say that our lack of adequate equipment compelled us to adopt the strangest expedients at times.

For instance, in order to cook the white bear flesh that became our staple diet, we had to burn all our cameras. The only white bear we were able to kill approached our tent out of sheer curiosity and was plodding forward with obviously pacific intentions when Malmgren felled him with a well-aimed shot from his revolver.

Life on our ice floe was so precarious that we thought of land nearby as one would think of heaven. If only we could reach Foyne Island, we thought, most of our troubles would be over. Cecioni even began to build a sledge out of the remains of our control cabin, but soon had to give up his attempt.

Considering the expedition from a purely objective point of view, I wish to say that despite its disastrous end, the many scientific purposes I had in view were achieved with the exception of the oceanographic work. That could not be done without a landing at the pole. Our original program included three long air journeys, one to Nicholas II Land, one to the pole through Greenland and a third to the pole, returning over the eastern way to Svalbard.

The Italia went to the pole by the western way and returned by the eastern, thus accomplishing in one single journey, explorations of the whole polar zone. During nearly 40 hours of flight, the polar cap was explored in all directions over a total cruise of at least [illegible] miles. All the observations made by Physicist Behounek, as well as those by Prof. Pontremoli, have been saved.

Prof. Pontremoli's conclusions as to the horizontal component of polar magnetism are especially valuable to science. I think that the scientific result of the expedition will be most important, despite the final catastrophe.

If only I had not determined to make the planting of the Italian flag at the pole coincide with the anniversary of Italy's entry into the World War on May 24, 1915, the disaster might have been avoided.

Morrow's Aid to Run for Senate.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 7.—J. Reuben Clark Jr., who, next to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, is credited with having most to do with settlement of the oil controversy between the United States and Mexico and who has been Morrow's intimate assistant without official status, left today for his home in Salt Lake City, where he is Republican candidate for the United States Senate. Clark, long a friend of Morrow, accompanied the latter to Mexico when he was named Ambassador and has remained since as his legal adviser and right-hand man in the adjustment of the problems which Morrow faced.

Your Good Times

. . . . Yours Forever—

in Ciné-Kodak home movies you make yourself

FRIENDS will soon gather for joyous good times at the beach, the lake, the farm. Gaiety — laughter — fun — sport will reign supreme.

But such happy times don't last forever. They're here and then they're gone. Days seem to pass like hours. Hours like minutes. Vacation is over before it's hardly begun. Wouldn't you like to make it more than a memory—to make these rare good times yours to enjoy for life? You can, and mighty easily, too, through the miracle of home movies.

Just glance at the compact little camera pictured above. It's a Ciné-Kodak, the simplest of all home movie cameras. Hard to believe, isn't it, that such a simple device can catch life as it is—in action—for you to enjoy throughout the years? You merely press the button.

The action before you is instantly recorded just as it is. Your films are developed without extra charge and returned to you ready to run. That's all there is to it.

Decide now to make this vacation's sport your permanent possession—one to enjoy all over again long after you've returned. Stop in today for a free demonstration of the seeming wonders the Ciné-Kodak can perform.

Ask any of our salesmen. He'll gladly arrange a demonstration for you. We have on hand complete home movie-making outfits—Ciné-Kodak, Kodascope projector and screen—for much less than you think. Act today. Don't let this summer's fun slip by unrecorded.

MAN WHO DID NOT CHOOSE WAITING FOR HIS EXIT CUE

At Rapid City Coolidge Was Focus of Nation; at Brule Near Term's End He Is Almost Neglected.

SECLUSION THIS TIME IS COMPLETE

Four Notables in Three Weeks Have Called—But the President's Face Is Losing Its Tired Lines.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 7. — The difference ebtween a President at the top of his political power, with another term ahead of him as the master of a great patronage machine, and a President about to go out of office, is epitomized in the contrast between President Coolidge's summer at Rapid City, and this summer in the Northern woods.

Last year the politicians, of high and low degree, swarmed about him. An army of reporters attended his press conferences. If there was no news in these gatherings or in the presidential exploits with rod and line, there were always visiting celebrities desiring to be quoted. As a climax there was the announcement by the President, dramatically handed about on little slips of paper, that he did not choose to run again.

The President and his two-gallon hat, the President and his attitude toward the Geneva conference, the President and flood control, the President and what Senator Fess or Senator Capper thought of his waving aside the crown—these were items of prime importance. Whatever the President said or did was, and deserved to be, big news. The correspondents at Rapid City, counted that day lost on which they didn't land the President in the main head lines on page one.

Four Notables in Three Weeks.

What a contrast the present scene affords. Outside the representatives of the press associations, there are not half a dozen reporters here from out of town. All the snap has gone out of the assignment. Visiting notabilities are few and far between. William M. Butler, who managed the President's campaigns, spent a night with him at Cedar Island lodge and presumably give him an account of the Kansas City convention. Dr. Hubert Work, the Hoover chairman, dropped in for a brief conference. Yesterday the President received Gov. Zimmerman of Wisconsin, who told him that the Republicans would surely carry this State in the fall election, and Gov. Christianson of Minnesota, who brought the same word with regard to Minnesota. Those four make up the whole list of persons of more than purely local fame that the President has seen in the three weeks of his vacation.

The President's angling adventures get but a perfunctory line in the papers. His meetings with the Governors are worth no more than a paragraph. The story of his weekly attendance at the little Brule church has been squeezed dry. There is nohing left for the correspondents to do save to speculate on when Mr. Hoover will arrive and pray to the gods of news to speed the day.

In Complete Seclusion.

This elimination of Mr. Coolidge from the front pages is the result not only of his "I do not choose" statement of last August, but of his subsequent choosing to spend his vacation in complete seclusion. Never has a President buried himself away so deeply as Mr. Coolidge has at Cedar Island lodge. The place is 40 miles from Superior and a couple of miles from any highway. It was possible last year for tourists to approach near enough to the summer White House to see the President and Mrs. Coolidge on the front porch. This year the forest surrounds them with an impenetratable screen. If anyone tried to make his way down the side road to the lodge he would be stopped by soldiers. The President can loaf and fish to his heart's content and no eye of man or camera, except invited, can spy him out.

The executive offices are in a high-school building at Superior. Twice a week, on Tuesdays and Fridays, the President drives over and meets the reporters. His conferences are conducted under the same rules as at Washington: Questions must be put in writing and no direct quotations are permitted. His desk is, as always, a model of neatness.

Coolidge Looking Well.

The one conspicuous change, apart from he physical surroundings, is in the President's appearance. His color is better and he has lost the look of fatigue that he had when he left Washington. He has said that he feels a great deal better.

The President's only desire for the moment, from all appearances, is to be left free to fish as much as he pleases. He goes about his fishing with all the serious-minded zeal of a convert. If he is giving any attention to politics, he has

The President's only desire for the moment, from all appearances, is to be left free to fish as much as he pleases. He goes about his fishing with all the serious-minded zeal of a convert. If he is giving any attention to politics, he has successfully concealed the fact from his official household. Coming out to Superior, he ignored the radio set which had been installed on his train to give him the story of the Republican convention, and he went to bed without waiting to hear the result of the balloting. His only comment was that contained in his messages of congratulation to Hoover and Curtis.

Part in Campaign Unsettled.

What part will Mr. Coolidge take in the campaign? He has given the politicians no sign. By some who have visited him it is thought that he will throw his influence back of Hoover in a number of speeches—not specially arranged campaign pleas, but speeches, before selected gatherings out of the many that he will be urged to address between Labor day and the election. The theory is that in this casual way he can be of the maximum benefit to the ticket. The President, however, is yet to say whether this idea appeals to him. He is yet to say anything about the campaign, or anything about his own plans for the future.

In the meantime the spotlight is turned upon a new set of political actors. Somewhere bands are playing, and somewhere men hang upon the words of new-risen prophets. The Northern woods see only the twilight of the gods.

St. Louis Wins Polo Game, 9 to 3, With Better Ponies

138th Field Artillery of Louisville Defeated at Country Club in Hard Fought Contest Under Blazing Sun.

Under a baking sun, hard-riding polo players of the St. Louis Country Club yesterday wrested a one-sided victory from a Louisville team ,representing the 138th Field Artillery, Kentucky National Guard, by a score of 9 to 3.

The mounts of the Country Club players were obviously far superior to those of the visiting team, not only in "handiness" but in speed. The dexterous steeds of the heavy-malleting Wallace, the Country Club captain, repeatedly streaked ahead of the rival ponies to give him a series of dramatic running "straight shots" or headed a dangerous dash by the opposition.

The Country Club four had things their own way in the first three chukkers. They pounded the wood repeatedly to the Louisville end of the field in the first chukker, but scored only once—an excellently malleted shot from an over-ridden ball by Hayward Niedringhaus, veteran defensive man of the team.

Simmons Makes Second Goal.

"Ned" Simmons, playing the difficult No. 1 position, knocked the ball over for the second goal, shortly after play in the second chukker began, on a skillful pass from Wallace. The St. Louis team, which had overplayed itself in the first period, started on a rush of brilliant team work at the opening of the third chukker. The white wood ball whizzed from one St. Louis player to another in repeated rushes—three of them were successful—to the Louisville goal.

The Country Club riders patently eased their play, beginning with chukker No. 4, when they were five ahead, and the Louisville team scored two goals. Maj. Chesheir and Maj. Hardy, playing No. 2 and No. 3, respectively rode brilliantly in this period, and handled their mallets as masters.

But next to the flashing play of Capt. Wallace, the outstanding feature of the afternoon was obviously the synchronized maneuvering of Wallace and Simmons. The latter again and again rode off the Louisville guard, as Wallace carried the ball, and several times, having plucked his man out, wheeled his mount to receive Wallace's pass and to tap the wood through the posts. Simmons scored four of the Country Club goals. Wallace counted three.

Love Makes One Counter.

E. K. Love, who, as an undergraduate, played on the Yale polo team, appeared for the first time in the No. 3 position and counted one score, in addition to riding off his man consistently when Wallace or Simmons was carrying the ball. The veteran Niedringhaus, in the first three periods, did much to keep the wood out of Country Club territory. There were no fouls.

Fred W. Gardner, the referee said: "It was a clean, hard played game, a better game than the score indicates. Malleting on both sides was good."

The two teams will oppose each other again this afternoon on the Country Club field.

The lineup:

Country Club.	Position.	Louisville.
"Ned" Simmons	No. 1	Capt. Alex Heyburn and Capt. A. Kirby
Mahlon B. Wallace (Capt.)	No. 2	Maj. J. E. Hardy Jr.
E. K Love	No. 3	Maj. G. M. Chesheir
Hayward Niedringhaus	No. 4	Col. S. K. Bridgers

Referees—A. Kirby of Louisville and Fred. W. Gardner. Timekeeper—Wallace Simmons.

Analysis of Play in Hard Fought Polo Game.

The game started slowly. It got faster toward the third or fourth chukker. The St. Louis horses were noticeably easier to handle and more experienced than those of the visiting team. This was a strong factor, it seemed to me, in our victory. The middle part of the match was good. It was hard fought. Both teams maneuvered well. There was too much bunching in the last period.

Wallase showed well as usual as a quick-leader, thinking continuously ahead, play by play.

Maj. Chesheir seemed to be the outstanding player of the Louisville team, hard-riding and a skilful malleter. It was very much the sort of match that the score indicates.

HEAT KEEPS AWAY POLO GAME CROWD

Only a small group braved the mid-afternoon heat of a typical July sun to motor to the St. Louis Country Club yesterday for the first of two polo games between the Red Birds of the County Club and the yellow-coated riders of the 138th Field Artillery of Louisville.

In the thin fringe of guests seated along the edge of the grass-covered spectators' gallery overlooking the field were Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Simmons, whose sons played excellent polo for the club's team, with Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Love and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Faust. Farther down the terrace were Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., watching her husband's playing. Alex Primm, Mrs. Cupples Scudder, Harry Hayward, Mrs. A. Heyburn of Louisville, with a group of friends, and Mrs. Horace W. Soper and a party of friends.

A group of the younger married set watched the play with obviously more comfort in the swimming pool to the left of the terrace and played water ball or sat in the sun on the side lines. In this group were Miss Margaret Rumsey and her father, Lewis M. Rumsey Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Loisel Papin, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fitzhugh Gordon and Arthur Crunden. Watching the bathers as well as the game was Miss Trimble Hoblitzelle, and Miss Janet Wallace and Mrs. Paul Moser arrived after the baseball game. Another group under a Bombay umbrella beside the pool overlooking the polo field comprised Mrs. Charles Mullikin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Niedringhaus Jr. and Mrs. Mason Scudder.

The Louisville guests were Mr. and Mrs. Heyburn, G. M. Chescheir, J. E. Hardy, S. M. Bridgers, C. J. Cronan and A. G. Kirby.

The parties for the visitors include a polo dinner last night on the veranda, the table a replica of a polo field; a luncheon today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Jr., and a buffet supperd tinight at the club.

DICTATOR SETS SUMMER FASHION FOR ITALIANS

Mussolini Flies in Face of Custom by Discarding Suspenders for a Belt.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 7.—Premier Mussolini today set the summer fashion for all male Italians. He appeared in a leghorn straw hat shaped something like a Panama; a pale gray silk tie with a glowing ruby-colored stripe; socks matching the gray and ruby; a pale gray silk shirt with soft collar and no vest; a single-breasted dark blue coat with thin black braid; a linen handkerchief with multi-colored stripes peeping over the edge of his left breast pocket; trousers of ice cream hue with cuffs upturned, white shoes with tan leather trimmings.

He also flew in the face of custom by discarding suspenders and wearing a belt.

WARTIME SHIP BUILDERS MUST PAY U. S. $1,327,890

Judgment Results From Government Suit for $9,300,811 and Counter Claims of $14,791,881.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 7.—A decision in equity, awarding the United States Government a judgment of $1,327,780 against Skinner & Eddy, war-time ship builders, was handed down here today by Federal Judge Jeremiah Neterer.

The claims of the Government and counter-claims of the shipbuilding corporation had been in litigation almost a decade. The amount of the award was less than the amount granted the Government by Harold Preston, master in chancery, from whose decision the ship builders appealed. Preston awarded the Government $1,401,425.

The Government originally sued Skinner & Eddy for $9,300,811, alleging overpayment on war-time shipbuilding contracts. Counter-claims, totaling $14,791,881, were brought in a suit by the shipbuilders, asking reparations for cancellation of contracts at the close of the war and other causes. Attorneys for the shipbuilders were not prepared to say whether Judge Neterer's 42-page decision would be appealed.

W. T. HILL HAD COLORFUL CAREER AS SPECULATOR

St. Louis Grain Plunger Who Died in Asheville Known for His Spectacular Deals.

GRAIN DEALER DEAD

WILLIAM T. HILL.

A spectacular career on the grain market closed yesterday when William T. Hill, wealthy investor and the most colorful plunger in grain on the St. Louis exchange in the last quarter of a century, died at Asheville, N. C., after a year's illiness of cancer. He was 53 years old.

It was said of "Billy" Hill, as his associates knew him, that he could take the most devastating losses with calm imperturbability and that, a born investor, he could watch falls in the grain market without the flicker of an eyelash.

That calmness and a rare astuteness in the market amassed for him a substantial fortune, and one campaign of speculation during the war days, when wheat quotations ran crazily from top to bottom, brought him winnings estimated at $3,000,000 by his associates on the exchange.

Followed Market by Radio.

A year ago, when he retired from active participation in business because of his illness, he was out of direct touch with the market for a time, but while he was bedfast at his home in the St. Louis Country Club grounds, before going to Asheville, he followed the market with his radio set and made several profitable investments.

A native of Sedalia, Mo., Hill was educated there and came to St. Louis as a young man, going to work for the Teasdale Commission Co., of which he was president when he died. His first investment was a $10 flyer on wheat. On it he made several hundred dollars overnight.

In the years that followed he became known as the heaviest plunger here in grain since the days when Corwin Spencer was making investment history on the local exchange in the late 90s and the early days of this century.

It was in 1917, shortly before and immediately after the United States entered the World War, that he made his first big killing. None of his associates ever was able to determine just what he made on the rising wheat market, but it was generally agreed that his winnings ran into seven figures. At that time he was already a wealthy man and he retired from 'Change.

Winnings in the Millions.

Almost two years later he returned. Wheat was again on the rampage, and Hill leaped into the market with his old vigor. In 1919 and 1920 it was said on the Exchange his winnings ran between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000.

He continued in his pursuit of the market until he died. It was said of him on the Exchange that "when he wins, it's big money; when he loses, it's just as big." Whatever the turn of the market, however, his associates always found him agreeable and unworried.

Among his friends as well as business associates, his generosity was proverbial. Any solicitation for charitable purposes found him a willing and a lavish donor. On one occasion, it is said, he was asked to contribute to a fund to pave a street in front of a convent, and he met the entire tax assessment from his own pocket. On another occasion he off-handedly gave a $100 bill to a clergyman to whom he was introduced and told him "spend it as you see fit."

Raising Tulips a Hobby.

During his spare moments he spent much time in the flower garden at his home, where he made a particular hobby of raising tulips. Recently a relative photographed the garden, containing 12,000 blooms, many of rare variety, and forwarded it to Hill at Asheville, much to the latter's satisfaction.

An enthusiastic hunter and fisherman, he maintained a country lodge which was in charge of a keeper. During the winter he kept the lodge granary well stored with food to be fed to the birds when ice or deep snow made forage difficult.

Mrs. Hill was with her husband when he died at Asheville. Mrs. Paul E. Winter of 5823 Cabanne avenue, a niece, also was present. Besides them he is survived by a brother, Stanley F. Hill of Dallas, Tex., and a nephew, W. C. Engle of the Teasdale Commission Co.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at an undertaking establishment at 4259 Lindell boulevard, with interment in Oak Grove Cemetery.

TWO KILLED, THREE PROSTRATED BY HEAT

Deaths of Man in Hotel and Unidentified Victim Make Total 18.

Two men died last night of what City Hospital physicians declared was heat exhaustion, bringing the total of deaths attributed to heat since Tuesday at 18.

Jack Metcalf, 47 years old, was taken unconscious from his room in a hotel at 1917 Market street at 6 o'clock, died a few minutes later at City Hospital without regaining consciousness.

An hour later an unidentified man about 60 years old shabbily dressed, fell dead at Seventh and Biddle streets from the effect of the high temperature.

Others who were taken to the hospital yesterday afternoon in a serious condition from heat prostration were: Thomas King, 40, a lodger at Third and Market streets; Martin Foley, 48, of 814 South Fourth street, and Henry Miller, 52, of 5406 Thrush avenue.

Yesterday was the seventh day of the present heat wave.

Dorothy Boncek, 10 years old, daughter of Mrs. Clara Lotzkat, of 6870 Southwest avenue, died yesterday afternoon at City Hospital of burns suffered two weeks ago while on a picnic on the Meramec River.

The child's dress was ignited when she stepped too close to an open fire and she was burned about the body before her mother and others in the party could beat out the flames.

AIR TOUR AT SAN ANTONIO, TEX.

Two Planes Forced Down on Way From Fort Worth.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 7. — Twenty-two of the 24 planes in the national air tour reached the control field here tonight, having made the day's journey from Fort Worth without incident, but two others were forced down before reaching the field. Louis G. Meister, in an Airsedan, was reported down at Round Rock, a few miles north of Austin. It was thought a sudden flurry of rain may have caused the landing. Charles W. Meyers in a Waco biplane was forced down by motor trouble at the second division air field, about 10 miles from the official field.

Robert B. Cantwell in a Lockheed monoplane led into San Antonio at 3:30 p. m., after winning the first half of the day's tour to Waco, where a noon stop was made. He was eight minutes ahead of David P. Levy in a Stearman biplane. The others followed shortly, the last one landing at 4:52 p. m.

Utilities Had Secret Pact With Public Service Board

pire District Electric Co., of Joplin, had written him the following letter: "Undoubtedly it would strengthen the position of the commission and also of the utilities, if the constitutional convention will establish the commission in the organic law of the State. It would also be very desirable to have the convention write into the public service commission clause of the Constitution full authority and control over municipal plants.... while it is doubtful that such a clause could be included, it would, in my opinion, be productive of good results as a back-fire on some of the provisions being suggested by municipal ownership agitators.

"I feel very strongly in regard to the matter of giving the commission any assistance in working out its present difficulties which are coming up before the constitutional convention. We have found from sad experience that, after having gone to a great deal of trouble to help the commission out when they were in the limelight before the Legislature, we have gotten nothing for our pains, and have been offered up as an unwilling sacrifice on the altar of public opinion.

"Clear Understanding" Sought.

"I think we should insist on a clear understanding with the commission before any assistance is rendered, that we may at least expect fair treatment, so that the utilities will be allowed to earn a return that will safeguard the credit of these institutions and enable them to grow and serve the communities to the best interest of both the public and the utilities."

Sheridan's answer, dated June 20, 1922, was as follows: "I note what you say about the Public Service Commission and its disposition to forget, but we must not forget that the commission is appointed on a political basis; that the commissioners owe their jobs to politics and that it is the most human thing in human nature to take care of your job.

"In any event, the utilities assumed to feel that with the commission they have some security and that while they might get along better under local regulation or no regulation whatever, they had better put up with the evil they have than evil from others they know not of. So in a quiet way this committee is supporting the commission, although it is not absolutely committed to that support.

"Surely if the commission is made a part of the organic law the commissioners will be in a much more secure position and will be enabled to pay more attention to economics and less to politics. Then there can be no doubt that we are educating the people and that will achieve some good results."

Marked "Confidential."

Proctor replied in a letter marked "confidential:" "Regarding my remarks concerning an understanding with the commission. I am, of course, aware that this being a political body, it must always consider the political significance of its actions. I think, however, that when assistance is rendered them in a political way, they should not have such a short memory. Furthermore, I am heartily in favor of making the commission a part of the organic law of the State, provided, of course, that this can be done without throwing so many restrictions and impediments in the way of the commission that they will not be able to have a free hand in awarding utilities their just deserts."

Sheridan was carrying out the instructions of J. W. Dana of the Kansas City Gas Co., who had told him in December, 1921, that the committee "should at once show the Public Service Commission that it was supporting it and preparing the ground for a favorable reception of it's rulings."

In a letter to G. C. Adams of the St. Joseph Railway Light, Heat and Power Co., dated June 14, 1922, Sheridan said: "As I have written you, I have very little doubt about the excellent constitution of the constitutional convention. I do not think the utilities have anything to fear from the convention. I believe that it will propose a great many things that will be of great benefit to the utilities.

"However, the constitution drawn up by the convention must be submitted to the people for ratification, and I feel that here is where our principal work will come in; that we must, insofar as is humanly possible, educate the people to regard the constitutional provisions concerning the utilities with favor. I think we have several very good aces in the convention, but I think our biggest ace is an entirely independent gentleman, Mr. J. F. Hull of Maryville, who is also president of the State Press Association.

"Mr. Hull is just a fair-minded, well dispositioned man, of fine ability and good will. He is not committed to us or anyone else in the slightest, excepting so far as his natural good sense and good judgment commits him as an honest, honorable proposition. Mr. Hull is writing a series of daily letters to his newspaper, the Tribune at Maryville. I am going to Jefferson City tomorrow to look into the taxation of utilities and other matters and I am going to see if there is not some way in which Mr. Hull's daily letter to his own newspaper may not be distributed generally to the newspapers of Missouri, with which he stands ace high.

"I would not suggest this to Mr. Hull myself, and of course, the utilities cannot distribute his letter, but I am going to see a couple of good friends I have in the convention and see if they cannot, in some tactful way, entirely independent of the utilities, have Mr. Hull's letters distributed to the press."

Sizing Up the Delegates.

The utilities had many good friends at the convention, among them Judge Daniel G. Taylor of St. Louis. The opponent most feared was Judge R. E. Culver of St. Joseph, who had introduced a resolution to abolish the Public Service Commission.

Writing to Dana in July, 1922, Sheridan said: "I find that as far as the Public Service Commission goes, Judge Culver of St. Joseph seems to be the key man. The weight of opinion among the delegates, newspapermen, etc., is that Judge Culver is the ablest individual in the convention. He has, as you are aware, introduced a proposal to abolish the Public Service Commission."

"As far as I can find, the big four of the convention are D. G Taylor, R. E. Culver, J. H. Bothwell and C. D. Morris. The next six are Henry P. Lay, George H. Williams, F. E. Atwood, G. L. Zwick, A. N. Gossett and Robert Lamar.

"It is admitted that these 10 men will write or largely influence the draft of the amended Constitution. Judge Taylor is a particular friend of mine. He is counsel for the Laclede Gas Light Co., but is a very wealthy man of ideals and spirit, and his attitude as a delegate will not do much to influence all his good feeling toward the public utilities.

"I wish that I could meet you in Jefferson City so that I might impart to you some information that I cannot very well convey in a letter."

When what Sheridan had written is considered, the last paragraph of his letter has wonderful possibilities.

A few days later, Sheridan wrote Dana the following note, which indicates how the utilities intended to go to bat for the Public Service Commission: "You will receive official notification from Mr. Beardslee, that the executive committee of the Missouri Association of Public Utilities has requested you, at its meeting held in St. Louis today, to get up a proper argument for placing the Public Service Commission in the Constitution of Missouri, said argument to be delivered by some member of the convention."

Fearful of "Bolsheviks."

This note was dated July 19, 1922. On the following day, Sheridan wrote to Adams of St. Joseph a short letter with which he inclosed a "confidential report," which was not among the exhibits. It is fair to assume that this report dealt with the meeting of the executive committee referred to in the Dana note. The Adams letter said: "I need not say that this report is confidential to you. I believe that the Public Service Commission can make best progress through the corporations committee of which Mr. Morris is chairman. I think the committee on counties, cities and towns is pretty well loaded up with Bolsheviks."

Tip From Commissioner.

Sheridan developed this idea of outside, disguised aid for the commission the next month. There are indications that this idea came from a member of the commission.

In a letter to E. R. Locke, president of the Utility Association, dated Aug. 16, 1922, he said:

"From what I can gather, the Public Service Commission rather expects some opposition in the next Missouri Legislature. This idea has also occurred to me and I submit it to you for your consideration: That the Missouri Association of Public Utilities should endeavor to form advantageous relations with the Associated Industries of Missouri, the Farm Bureau or some of the recognized organizations of farmers in the State, and that the work of the Public Service Commission for the farmers, in the way of securing and maintaining reductions in grain rates, installation of stations, stock shutes and pens, also services of the commission to the merchants who pay freight in the State, may be brought to the attention of the people through the organizations of these farmers and merchants.

"A member of the commission made the suggestion that it would be wise for this committee to secure lists of all holders of public utility securities in Missouri and that the companies should keep the stockholders informed on matters of interest, such as maintenance of the Public Service Commission.

"This is a very delicate matter, but I promised that I would submit it to you for consideration."

Working for the P. S. C.

Two days later, Sheridan wrote to Proctor at Joplin:

"I happen to have four very close friends among the five leaders of the constitutional convention. These gentlemen are Judge Daniel G. Taylor, who so far is 25 per cent of the convention; Judge George H. Williams, a very able man who, but for a miscarriage, would have been chairman; Mr. J. F. Hull, president of the Missouri Press Association of Maryville; and Mr. Charles W. Morris, publisher of the St. Joseph Gazette, who is moving heaven and earth for the commission.

"With these men decidedly in favor of imbedding the Public Service Commission in the Constitution, and with but one powerful man, Judge Culver of St. Joseph, opposed, it seems to me that the commission should get somewhere, particularly as I do not think that Judge Culver will offer very determined opposition."

Disguised Aid.

By February, 1923, the disguised aid was working well, and Sheridan was able to write a typical letter of congratulation and thanks to Wiley F. Corl, of the Missouri Utilities Co. at Mexico, Mo.:

"As usual you have done the most effective work for the utilities of Missouri in handling the transmission line story with the local newspapers at Mexico and getting comment upon it. This story was sent out at the request of the P. S. C. to 57 newspapers in 33 cities. So far we have record that it has appeared in one or more papers in 27 of the 33 cities to which it was sent."

Proctor of Joplin was also carrying on the good work. On Jan. 31, 1923, he wrote to Sheridan: "I spent part of yesterday in Jefferson City and had a very pleasant interview with Mr. McIndoe and Mr. Simpson. We discussed the present situation and I found that the commission somewhat more hopeful since Mr. Bales has been deposed as leader of the House.

"I have offered my assistance to the commission in any way that we can be of service and have been attending to a few errands for them since my return.

"I also had a very pleasant visit with Mr. McReynolds, secretary-manager of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation. I found him disposed to do anything that he can along with his work to help us out of the present situation. He even went so far as to say that he would try to get the editors of some of the smaller papers to give the commission a boost from time to time in recognition of the work the commission has done for the bureau in straightening out car supply and questions of that kind."

About this time, Sheridan decided he would ascertain how other State propaganda directors had helped their Public Service Commissions. He wrote to H. M. Lytle of the Illinois group to find out what methods were employed in that State to obtain favorable publicity and expression of editorial opinion "during the election of 1920 when the Public Service Commission was an issue."

"Quite unexpectedly we have a lot of nasty fight to embarrass the operation of the Public Service Commission in Missouri," he wrote.

As Done in Illinois.

Lytle's reply was a veritable handbook for disguised propaganda. It said: "Replying to your letter as to what plans the committee pursued during the election of 1920, when the Utilities Commission was in issue, the committee made every effort to stay out of the limelight and to utilize such agencies as seemed best and let them put up the fight. These included the Illinois Chamber of Commerce (composed of about commercial clubs scattered throughout the State), the Western Society of Engineers, the Investment Bankers' Association and various other civic and professional organizations. The Illinois

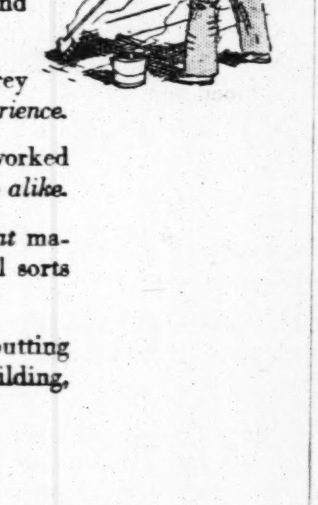
The reason behind this ROOF



EVERY once in a while someone asks us, "Why do Carey Built-up Roofs stand up so much longer? Do you use better materials, or what?"

Well, of course, we are particular about materials—we make our own felt, for instance, from the longest, toughest rag fibres we can get—refine and blend our own asphalt . . .

But the chief reason for the longevity of Carey Built-up Roofs is our more than fifty years of experience.

During that half century and more we've worked upon thousands of roofing problems—no two alike.

And, of course, we've learned a lot about what materials to use and how to use them under all sorts and kinds of conditions.

And that should help a lot when it comes to putting a Carey Built-up Roof on your plant or building, shouldn't it?

UTILITIES HAD SECRET PACT WITH STATE COMMISSION

Chamber of Commerce took a referendum of its 30,000 members, and they voted about 12 to 1 in favor of retaining the commission. The other organizations got out matter—or maybe it is better stated that we prepared matter and this was adopted.

"Of course, in addition to whatever distribution they gave such matter we made a very intensive distribution to a very extensive mailing list, including Mayors, members of councils, city and State officials, business men, etc. The Illinois Chamber of Commerce also held an open forum on the subject at the State Capitol, both sides being invited to present views. No utility men appeared before that forum. Those who did appear included engineers, investment bankers and business men who presented the public viewpoint rather than a prejudiced viewpoint such as might come from the utility man or which might be branded as 'utility.' Of course, in the news bulletin we printed the news as it happened, and which is our privilege, but neither the committe nor any utility association took a definite stand in the matter."

The Inside in the Legislature.

Despite this agitation, the work of the 1923 Legislature was apparently satisfactory to the utility interests. Writing to Proctor at Joplin, Sheridan gave the "inside" of the Assembly. This letter, dated March 29, 1923, said: "The committee held an informal meeting today with but three members present. Mr. John C. Hall, legislative agent of the Missouri Association of Public Utilities, gave us the inside of public utility matters during the recent assembly.

"Mr. Hall has a high opinion of Mr. Roney, says that as chairman of the judiciary committee he kept a great many bills affecting the Public Service Commission in their proper place, but, at the last moment, was obliged to declare himself on the question of appropriation for the commission.

"The St. Louis papers quoted Mr. Roney as saying that he was voting for the appropriation under protest and that he warned the Public Service Commission that they better devote the next two years to protecting the public rather than protecting the utilities in paying dividends upon watered stock.

Mr. Hall believes that Mr. Roney was impelled to this action by political conditions in his county.

"Mr. Hall further reports that the farm bloc saved the day. The appropriation made for the commission was $321,000—$3000 more than requested but $125,000 of this must come as fees from companies. So far, $50,000 has been high work for these fees."

A Rebuke Answered.

There is a general hiatus in the exhibits for the next 12 months, but there are indications that the aid was not being kept as quiet as some of the utility operators desired. The exhibits indicate, however, that Proctor had made some sort of report in which he referred to the assistance given the commission. This brought a rebuke from E. D. Bell, general manager of the Illinois Power and Light Co. of St. Louis. Bell wrote Sheridan: "We are not supporting the Public Service Commission and do not want to take the attitude of supporting any commission."

Sheridan was not the sort of man to take such a rebuke in silence. He wrote to Bell: "Concerning your criticism of 'support of the Public Service Commission,' may I say that it is my recollection that the policy of the committee in this regard was implied and understood rather than publicly announced and practiced. (You understand, of course, that the letter was sent only to companies subscribing to the committee). We have been very careful of this respect lest our position be misunderstood."

"Beneficent Publicity."

But the work went on. As late as March 28, 1925, Sheridan wrote to Herman Spoehrer of the Union Electric Light and Power Co.:

"Concerning relations between the Missouri Committee on Public Utility Information and the State Public Service Commission, I am attaching certain correspondence with the chairman of the commission, Hon. Thomas J. Brown.

"About Jan. 15, I found the 1923-24 report of the P. S. C. floating around the State capitol. I suggested two important pieces of publicity to Mr. Brown. I drew up a draft of No. 1 for his assistance. The commission used this draft in whole.

"I also secured the services of the secretary of hte Missouri Press Association to distribute any publicity the commission might desire to distribute to the newspapers.

"The attached story, No. 2, about the work done by the commission with the steam railroads was suggested to Chairman Brown by me by letter of Jan. 21, 1925.

"The beneficent publicity received by the commission on these instances was originated in the Missouri Committee on Public Utility Information. The chairman was kind enough to thank me for what I had done in this relation. I visited his office at Jefferson City."

REED EXPECTED TO GALVANIZE STATE CAMPAIGN

He Is Likely Soon to Take Stump for Collet and Make Bitter Personal Fight Against Hay.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

In the closing month of the Missouri Democratic primary campaign, plans have been laid for stirring up both the senatorial and gubernatorial contests to a pitch to arouse real interest.

Under the leadership of Senator Reed, the campaign of James A. Collet of Salisbury for the Senatorial nomination, which has dragged along uninterestingly awaiting Reed's return from the Houston convention, is to be based upon the argument that the irreconcilable conflict of views on prohibition held by Charles M. Hay, Collett's opponent, and by Gov. Smith, the presidential nominee, call for Hay's defeat.

On the governorship, Francis M. Wilson's supporters are preparing to attempt to head off the extensive gains of State Senator McCawley reported in the rural sections of the State.

Hay, it is conceded by informed politicians, has a long lead over Collet, and the Collet organization has come to a realization that if its candidate is to have any chance at all, vigorous measures must be taken. Reed, retiring from the Senate, is free to put the pep into the Collet campaign and is preparing to do it. Whether a statement of his plans will come from the Senator within the next few days is problematical, but whether he issues a statement, it is virtually certain he will be on the stump for Collet within 10 days.

Hay's pledge of support to Gov. Smith notwithstanding Smith's advocacy of modification of the eighteenth amendment, taken in consideration with his prominence as the leader of the dry forces of the State for the last 15 years, will be seized upon by the Collet organization as his vulnerable point of attack.

They will argue that it would be foolhardy to nominate for the Senate a candidate openly antagonistic to the nominee for the Presidency on the subject of prohibition, and who is committed to opposition to him on a big public issue.

Collet Takes Smith's View.

Collet's views on prohibition coincides with those of Gov. Smith, while Hay's position has been substantially that taken by Reed in the speeches delivered in his two months' campaign preceding the Houston convention. Reed said that prohibition and all questions on which there was a division within the party should be kept out of the campaign. Hay has argued that prohibition is a settled question and that there was no reason why it should be a campaign issue.

Reed, however, through a restatement of his prohibition views, has placed himself in a position to campaign against Hay on this question. In his latest expression, Reed said that Smith's telegram to the Houston convention had brought prohibition sharply to the front as an issue, and he now holds that under the existing conditions, there is no course other than to support Smith's stand for modification.

It was probably not easy for Reed to reach the decision to get actively into the Collet campaign because of the likelihood that his activity there would have a direct bearing on the Wilson-McCawley race for the nomination for Governor.

Likely to Help McCawley.

Reed's close political associates are supporters of Wilson, and there is little doubt that a Reed fight against Hay will cause many of Hay's supporters who have been favoring Wilson, to turn to McCawley because of their resentment at Reed's participation in the senatorial fight.

This gubernatorial fight is an involved affair, and while most of the supporters of Reed and Collet are lined up with Wilson, many of them are not at all enthusiastic, because of an evasive rumor which has gone about the State that there is some sort of agreement between the Hay and Wilson leaders. Some of those most active in the Collet organization hold to the theory that while neither Hay nor Wilson may have aided the circulation of the report personally, they have not repudiated it publicly, and that its effect has been injurious to Collet's candidacy.

There is little doubt that within the last month there has been a marked change in the Wilson-McCawley race. Wilson started in as the Pendergast organization candidate of Kansas City, a position which drew to him very generally the support of the Democratic County organizations over the State. McCawley, with very little organization support, has been campaigning the State, delivering from three to six speeches a day.

A little more than a month ago Wilson underwent an operation for stomach ulcer and will not be active before the primary.

While Wilson's illness possibly has aroused some sympathy for him and an understanding of a reason for his failure to campaign actively, it has raised also a doubt of the advisability of nominating a candidate not in robust health, the practical politicians looking to the possibility that a candidate capable of meeting the requirements of a strenuous general election campaign will be needed.

As a consequence recent reports have been that McCawley has been closing the gap, and that the contest is looked upon as close, with the odds, if any, not unfavorable to McCawley.

In the present situation the gubernatorial nomination is anybody's, and the Senatorial nomination depends upon whether Reed and Collet are able to break down the big advantage Hay now has. The illness of Wilson will prevent personalities from getting into the gubernatorship contest, but there is nothing to keep them out of the Senate scrap, and anybody who knows the campaigning resourcefulness of Reed and Hay does not doubt it will develop into a personal fight of intense bitterness.

TRUCK, SWERVING TO MISS, UPSETS AND KILLS CHILD

Six-Year-Old Bernadine Voelpel, Policeman's Daughter, Crushed Under the Machine.

Bernadine Voelpel

Bernadine Voelpel, 6-year-old daughter of Patrolman Chester W. Voelpel, 3604A North Newstead avenue, was killed at noon yesterday by a light auto delivery truck at Lexington and Newstead avenues.

The child was crossing Newstead from east, when the truck came around the corner. Observing the child in his path, George Windecker, 21, 4320 Swan avenue, swerved sharply to avoid striking the child. The sharp turn caused the truck to turn over, pinioning the child as she started to run back to the sidewalk, crushing her and fracturing her skull.

Windecker, who was cut and bruised, said the accident was unavoidable, explaining that he was moving at a moderate rate west in Lexington and was turning north in Newstead when the child darted suddenly from the sidewalk directly in the path of the truck and so close it could not be stopped in time.

FRENCH AIR MISSION ENJOYED ST. LOUIS VISIT, LETTER SAYS

Appreciation for Courtesies Extended by Air Board Is Expressed.

Appreciation for the courtesies extended to the French Aeronautical Mission during their recent visit to St. Louis was expressed in a letter received by the Air Board of the Chamber of Commerce from W. P. McCracken, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, yesterday. The letter says:

"Mr. Leighton W. Rogers of the Department of Commerce, who was in charge of the itinerary of the French Aeronautical Mission which recently completed its air tour of the United States, has told me of your reception at the Lambert Field to the French Aeronautical Mission. Various members of the mission spoke to me of their visit to St. Louis, and there seemed to be general regret that circumstances made it impossible for them to stay longer. They saw much to interest them at the airport and at the factories located nearby.

"Let me thank you for your courtesy in receiving them and for your part in making their visit to St. Louis the success that it was."

PORTER ATTACKED PASSENGER

By the Associated Press

RITZVILLE, Wash., July 7.—Richard B. Ott, prosecutor of Adams county, said today that he would file charges against Ellis Williams, Pullman car porter, who confessed attempting an attack on white girl psssenger on his train.

The specific chrges, Ott said, would depend on the nature of the injuries suffered by the 19-year-old-victim, who is in a Spokane hospital. The girl told officers here that the porter attacked hed in the washroom of a Northern Pacific Pullman car, throwing a blanket over her head and choking her; that she fought him off and that he leaped from the train at Lind, Wash. In his confession, Ott said, Williams admitted the attack, stating that he approached the girl, that she repulsed him and that he choked her to prevent her from spreading the alarm.

WOMAN DIES OF RARE DISEASE

Mrs. Putnam Succumbs to Hemolygic Jaundice in East St. Louis.

Mrs. Janet Putnam, 36 years old, of 4014 Donovan avenue, East St. Louis, died at Christian Welfare Hospital in East St. Louis Friday night of hemolygic jaundice.

The disease which is caused by the failure of the agency producing red corpuscles in the blood to function, brings on an anemic condition. Physicians who attended Mrs. Putnam said hers was the second which has ever been called to their attention. Mrs. Putnam was taken ill last Sunday. Three blood transfusions were performed. She is survived by her husband, W. E. Putnam, an engineer for the East St. Louis Levee Board, and two sons.

Woman Killed in Collision.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., July 7.—Mrs. Porter Dycus, 50 years old, was fatally hurt here late this afternoon when the automobile in which she and her son, Dr. William Dycus, were driving was struck by a car driven by Warren Pace, 28 years old. Mrs. Dycus died at the Mount Vernon Hospital an hour after the accident.

Inventory Shows Officer of Mercantile Trust Co. Held 125 Shares of Its Stock.

The inventory of the estate of Edward Buder, vice president and treasurer of the Mercantile Trust Co., who died June 7, was filed in Probate Court yesterday. Total valuation of his property, as listed in the inventory, is given at $134,143, but as much of the corporation stock, which is carried at only par of $100 a share has a greater market value, the actual value of the estate, determined by present market quotations, is approximately $218,763.

Some of the stock holdings are 125 shares of Mercantile Trust Co., quoted on the market at $530 a share; 140 shares of United States Steel Corporation, quoted at $140, and 266 shares of Burroughs Adding Machine Co. no par common. The Burroughs stock is carried in the inventory at $1 for the entire lot, but has a market value of $95 a share. Other items listed consist of bonds totaling $35,600, cash amounting to $1800.35, life insurance $10,000, chattels appraised at $3590.50 and 734 acres of land in St. Charles County, Missouri, appraised at $6150.

After leaving $5000 to St. Louis Children's Hospital and $8000 to be added to a scholarship fund previously created by him at the Missouri College for Agriculture, Columbia, Mo., Mr. Buder bequeathed the residue of estate in equal parts to his sister, Miss Josephine Buder, and two brothers, Eugene and Rudolph F. Buder. The Mercantile Trust Co. was named as executor.

Varicose Veins

Reduced by New Method

Varicose veins are reduced by Dr. Clason's Absorption treatment. You are not laid up or deprived of time from duties or pleasure. There are no scars or ill after effects. The method is painless and harmless. This is the record of thousands who have had veins reduced to avoid unsightly appearance or prevent the ill effects of poor circulation. Those already suffering from varicose symptoms, such as pains, cramps, or inflamed veins, leg ulceration, leg rash or swelling, must heal these first. We apply the Viscose Method to heal while you work, or will teach you its use at home.

To become familiar with these new methods call, if possible, or write for information. Explain your ailment. Office hours, 9 to 5 daily. Tuesday and Friday evening until 8 o'clock. Consultation and examination FREE.

For a Vacation in a Car

Here's a playground which has about everything that you can wish for on a motor vacation.

Splendid paved roads—2,000 miles of them; good hotels all the way; woods and streams for sportsmen; in less than a day's driving distance of city comforts, but providing such fishing, hunting, camping, as you would otherwise go hundreds of miles further to find—golfing, canoeing, bathing. Drive in from anywhere, Toronto to Chicago, and enjoy yourself any place along either trail—the Lake Erie-Niagara Falls, or the Michigan-Wisconsin. Whether you stick to main roads or follow the paved byways, you'll be glad you came.

You'll find it an economical vacation, too, if that appeals to you.

A Big Picture-Book, with Maps, is Ready

TROLLEY LINE IGNORES ANTI-SKIP STOP ORDER

Mayor Declares Nothing Can Be Done by City in Olive Street Dispute.

The Public Service Co. has refused to comply with the city's order to restore stops at every street intersection between Grand and Twelfth boulevards on its Olive street line.

Mayor Miller said yesterday there was nothing to be done. So it is probable that the cars will be continued in skip stop operation.

Thus it again becomes obvious that the city has no authority over the operation of its public utilities. Authority lies with the Missouri Public Service Commission, and the street car company declares that it will appeal to that body if the city insists upon enforcing its order.

The company believe that skipping certain stops is a profitable operation for most car riders. It reckons that the stops reduce the running time of Delmar, University and Maryland street cars about 14 per cent. Recently it held a referendum of car riders and announced that 72 per cent of the riders had voted for retention of the skip stops.

Objections to the continuance of the plan came solely from business interests along Olive street, which next Tuesday will be thrown open to vehicular traffic through its entire widened length.

FARMER BANK PRESIDENT KILLED BY KICK OF MULE

George W. Hilliard, 88 Years Old, Was Macoupin County Pioneer.

By the Associated Press.

BRIGHTON, Ill., July 7.—George W. Hilliard, 88 years old, a wealthy Macoupin County farmer and president of the First National Bank of Brighton, was fatally injured by the kick of a mule at his farm residence near here early today. He was kicked as he passed the mule's stall at 6:30 a. m. and died at 9 a. m.

Hilliard was a pioneer, having been born on the farm on which he lived all his life. He had extensive land holdings in his vicinity. He is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters—Frank W. Hilliard of 6173 Waterman avenue, St. Louis, and Mrs. Elvin Gates, 7210 Creveling drive, University City, and Charles and Leah Hilliard of Brighton.

HAVANA, July 7.—Three members of the Cuban Tax Commission are proceeding to New York next week to inspect the books of United States sugar companies operating in Cuba. The commission will visit the American Sugar Co. and the Cuban State Sugar Co., both of New York, and make an inspection for the purpose of regulating taxes.

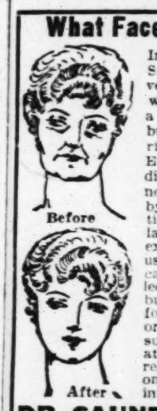
WASHINGTON U. SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE TO FIVE VETERANS

Gifts for Worthy Applicants Are Among 700 Provided by Estate of La Verne Noyes.

Five scholarships to Washington University for the year 1928-29 will be given to five veterans of the World War or their descendants by the estate of La Verne Noyes of Chicago. Acting Chancellor George R. Throop will make recommendations and the selections will be subject to approval by the trustees of the estate, considering the need and worthiness of the applicants.

It is announced that 700 scholarships in various schools are being donated by the estate to "reward those who ventured the supreme sacrifice of life for this country and for mankind in this war for the liberty of the world, and to aid in keeping alive the spirit of unselfish patriotic devotion which these men displayed and without which no free government can endure."

What Face Lifting Means



Before

After

In an interview with Dr. Saunders regarding this very popular operation we learn it is not only a painless proceedure, but is now done without risk or inconvenience. Everyone knows what it did for Fanny Ward. She not only profited thereby, but has made Plastic Surgery very popular. Dr. Saunders, in explaining the methods used, said: "Not only can an aged and wrinkled face be rejuvenated, but such unpleasant deformities as large lips or ears, an ugly nose, sunken cheeks or an unattractive skin., can be restored to normal. Any one wishing advice is invited to write.

He couldn't tell her it was "B.O." (Body Odor)

Once she couldn't hold a job....

—now the highest paid girl in the office

"I'M sorry, Miss Scott—but we just can't use you any more. It's all I can say."

Fired again! Why? They couldn't explain—and she couldn't guess.

But that very day she discovered the reason. The girls were whispering about it and she happened to overhear. "B.O."—body odor.

That's the last job Miss Scott ever lost. For since she learned what her handicap was and how to overcome it, her natural ability and charm—unspoiled by this unpardonable social error—have won her promotion after promotion—and a host of friends, besides.

No fear of body odor* when pores are purified

Body odor is treacherous. We can't tell when we have it because our own sense of smell becomes deadened to familiar odors.

And no one is safe. We all must perspire to live. Even on a cool day, our pores give off as much as a quart of odor-causing waste.

Don't risk embarrassment—use the delightful, purifying toilet soap that millions enjoy—Lifebuoy. Its bland and abundant antiseptic lather deodorizes pores, giving bath-to-bath freshness and freedom from body odor.

Lifebuoy keeps complexions fresh and clear, too. Guards health, removes germs! You'll learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, and which vanishes as you rinse.

NEW CROP MOVEMENT AFFECTS WHEAT PRICE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 7.—The movement of new wheat and favorable harvesting weather offset comment on finding evidence of black rust while the lower corn market with report of favorable weather conditions in corn belt also was factor in late wheat trade. In the cash grain market Saturday soft red wheat was off 2 to 5 cents, with demand at the current premiums limited. New Missouri No. 2 red 60-lb 14 per cent moisture rather dark caste wheat sold on track at $1.65, new Oklahoma No. 2 red $1.60 to $1.60. Mills bought about 10 cars No. 2 red for July shipment at $1.52, and one car basis 17c over Chicago July price, July shipment. Hard wheat was down 1 and 2 cents, demand being slow. The track offerings mostly applied on contracts. New No. 2 hard 12.09 to 12.15 per cent protein sold on track at $1.41. There was No. 2 dark hard 11.17 per cent protein offered at $1.38. Mills bought 40,000 bushels No. 1 hard 12 per cent protein for July shipment at $1.40 and a few cars No. 1 and No. 2 hard 11.25 per cent protein at $1.35½ delivered for immediate shipment. No. 1 hard no protein specified was offered for July shipment basis 2c under Chicago September price delivered. Corn was 1c to 1½c lower, there being a fair scattered demand mainly from mill and outside orders at the decline. Oats of choice quality and heavy test were in limited demand, but offerings ran mostly ordinary to very poor. Offers to sell No. 3 white oats of around 28 and 28½ pounds at 67 to 68 cents were reported.

After opening lower, September wheat recovered and recorded advance early, the upturn being credited to private crop observers' comment on pressure of black rust at point in spring wheat belt. Liverpool closed ¼d higher on all deliveries. Winnipeg early was mixed. Corn early declined ¼ to more.

September wheat opened at $1.35¼, December wheat $1.40½, September corn $1.00⅝ and December corn 85c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 70,000 bushels, compared with 57,400 a week ago and 79,800 a year ago, included 39 cars local and 11 through. Corn receipts, which were 82,600 bushels, compared with 70,000 a week ago and 77,000 a year ago, included 28 cars local and 31 through. Oats receipts, which were 34,000 bushels, compared with 30,000 a week ago and 78,000 a year ago, included 4 cars local and 12 through. Hay receipts were 4 cars local and 5 through.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators amounted to 394,985 bushels of wheat, 466,655 bushels of corn and 31,711 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 17,324 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 64,714 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 12,231 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 42,592 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 33,185 bushels of No. 2 corn, 465,312 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 7628 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 18,013 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 12,318 bushels of No. 3 white oats, 77 bushels of No. 2 rye.

St. Louis Bran Market.

Wheatfeed was weak and prices were down. Hard bran was offered at $30.50 to $31 and gray shorts $42 to $42.50 shipment next week. Oatfeed was quoted at $20 and sacked white hominy feed $9. Late Friday a car of grey shorts sold at $43.25 local, immediate shipment.

Alfalfa Meal.

Alfalfa meal No. 1 was quoted at $30 and choice $33. A sale of 1 car No. 2 in secondhand sacks at $26 was reported.

BIG WHEAT LOADINGS ARE LATE WEIGHT ON PRICES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Record breaking loadings of newly-harvested wheat in the Southwest proved finally to be more than a counterbalance today for black rust comments from Northwest. Arrivals of wheat at Kansas City, Enid, Wichita, Hutchison and Salina today totaled big, 1560 cars.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ½c lower, with corn ⅞c to 1⅝c off, oats ⅝c to 1¼c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22c.

Until the last half-hour today, wheat displayed a general upward trend owing largely to black rust comment from the Dakotas and Minnesota. Besides, prevailing weather was of a kind likely to hasten development of rust, and an observer telegraphed from Yangton, S. D., that in two places he had found black rust on the sheeth of wheat. There was also talk that black rust had been discovered in Southern Manitoba.

As the day drew to an end, though, sellers of wheat became more numerous, and price gains failed to hold. It was shown that wheat receipts today, at Kansas points especially, were of larger volume than a year ago. Hedge selling was much in evidence, and only a limited export business was heard of. Bears also put stress on Nebraska advices telling of wonderful harvest weather there and on the fact that notable weakness here was being shown by the corn market.

Weather conditions for the new corn crop were excellent. Commission houses and speculators were active sellers, and December corn touched nearly the lowest price yet this season. Oats sympathized with corn. Cutting of oats was reported as under way in Southern Indiana.

Provisions had a firm tone, helped by good demand for meats.

Cash wheat premiums and discount for hard grades were reduced 1c. Red and spring nominal unchanged. Prices easier with futures. Local sales 17,000 bushels and cancellations were for 35,385 bushels No. 1 Northern spring. Receipts inspected 16 cars. Deliveries on July contracts today 747,000 bushels. New York reports limited business in wheat overnight.

Demand for cash corn was fair. Basis steady to ¼c easier. Prices dropped with July futures. Local sales 55,000 bushels and receipts 72 cars. Cancellations 49,022 bushels. Deliveries 118,000 bushels and booked to arrive 32,000 bushels.

Cash oats closed easier in prices. Basis steady to ¼c better, latter for choice grades. Shipping sales 41,000 bushels, and cancellations were for 54,133 bushels No. 3 white. Booked to arrive 5000 bushels and receipts 8 cars.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Cotton goods were firmer today in the unfinished goods division, some prices being slightly higher. More interest was shown in bleached cottons and further small lot buying of wash fabrics was reported. Curtailment of production this week was so general and effective that efforts are now under way to bring about curtailment for three weeks more, in the weeks beginning July 30, Aug. 27 (including Labor day) and Sept. Raw silk was steady. Silk velvets and crepes sold better for fall. Printed lawns and handkerchiefs make up the bulk of current linen business. Burlap was steady to firmer.

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, July 7.—With the exception of cows, bulls and stocker stuff the trade was higher on fed cattle here this week, fed steers and yearlings advancing 25c to 50c, and veal calves $1.50. Grass steers and yearlings were slow movers at weak to 25c lower values. Receipts were of fair propostions but lighter than last week due to the holiday on Wednesday. A new top, the highest since January, was scored for yearling steers when a drove reached $15.25. Medium weight mature steers sold as high as $15 and heavy steers reached $14.85. Market was active throughout the week, bulk of steers of desirable fat scoring between $13.50 and $14.85, while the plainer descriptions ranged from $11.50 to $13. Western steers comprised better than 50 cars, both Oklahoma and Texas grassers that sold from $9.25 to $11.65. Practically all were light weights. Straight heifers at $15.25, an equal of the steer top for the week, was the highest paid locally for this class of stock in eight years. Those grading good or better sold mostly from $14 up while medium descriptions varied between $12.50 and $13.75 and plain kinds and grassy offerings ranged downward to the $7 column. Grassy kinds were slow movers but not radically changed in price from last week. Beef cows held largely to a spread of $8.25 to $9.50 this week although plain kinds sold as low as $7.75 and $7.50 occasionally. Tops scored $11 to $11.50 in a very few instances. Cutter cows bulked at $6.75 to $7.25 and $7.50, canners ranged from $6.50 down to $5.50. Bulls were lower early in the week but effected a recovery later on. Most beef bulls were sold between $9 and $9.50, some light butcher bulls bringing higher figures. Bolognas ranged largely from $8 to $8.75, plainest kinds around $7 to $7.50.

Stocker and feeder steers ranged from $8.60 to $11.15, more offerings with weight among arrivals this week. Stock cows bulked at $7.50 to $7.75 and stock heifers at $8.50 to $9.50. Demand for she stock was brisk toward the latter part of the week, but only fair in steers. Continuous advances in veal calves put prices $1.50 higher for the week on this class. Tops closed at $15.75, first cuts around $13 to $13.50 and second outs and heavy calves from $8 to $12.50. Canner yearlings and throwouts ranged from $6 to $6.50 largely.

Advance in Hogs.

Hog values were being constantly pushed upward in the early part of the past week's trade and prices got to the highest point since last October. However, about 20c of the advance was lost the last two days in slow, lower markets. Nevertheless, best hogs are 40 to 50c higher for the period, with pigs and light lights 25 to 75c higher, light lights up most. Packing sows are 30 to 35c higher. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday (Wednesday was a holiday) light receipts and good demands pushed market up until top price stood at $11.65, the week's high point. Friday and today, however, receipts were only fair but the demand was considerably curtailed and the markets were slow and lower with the week's closing top at $11.45. Bulk of desirable 190s up sold for the week at $11.25 to $11.60, with sales of light hogs 160 to 180 pounds unevenly from $10.75 to $11.60, depending considerably on quality, weight and fat. Half-fat hogs continued in poor demand with the market on them a catch-as-catch-can affair. Light hogs sold in wide spread due to the wide variance in quality, but sales were somewhat more easily made than last week. Pigs and light lights were in fairly good demand and sales were fairly easily made. One hundred fifty pounds and down made $8 to $11 during the period. Packing sows sold from $9.40 to $10 during the week. Closing prices ranged from $9.75 to $9.90. Shippers were the principal outlet during the week. Butchers furnished a fairly good outlet, but packers were not very good buyers. They were continually looking for bargains and in most cases failed to follow the advancing trade.

Lamb Prices Higher.

Although receipts of sheep and lambs were fairly liberal the past week lambs took to higher levels. Aged sheep remained steady. The early sessions of the week were on a steady basis but lighter runs around the circuit and a good local demand helped to shove prices up 50c on all grades of lambs. Aged sheep held steady. The markets each day were usually active affairs and good clearances were noted each day. Quality wasn't anything extra, in fact, it is not as good as it should be for this time of the year. High top for the period was $15.50 with desirable native offerings selling at $15 to $15.50. Kentucky and Tennessee stock were included at the higher prices. A good portion of the supply early in the week was southwest natives and they sold at $14.75 to $15, largely the lower price. Some sales dipped to $14. Common to medium grades were somewhat slow movers and cleared from $10 to $14. Culls early in the week brought $9 while later deals were made at $9.50. Only one double deck of yearling wethers were offered. They were of good quality and weighed 81 pounds, cashing at $13.50. Fat light ewes made $6.50 with 120s up at $4 to $6. Cull sheep made $1 to $3.50. Quotations: Slaughter Stock—Good to choice lambs, $14.50 to $15.75, medium to good $12.50 to $14.50, plain to medium, $10.50 to $12.50, cull and common $9 to $10.50, skips $6 to $8. Good to choice yearling wethers $12.50 to $13.50, medium to good $10.50 to $12.50, plain to medium $9.50 to $10.50, cull and common $7.50 to $9.50. Good to choice mutton ewes $6 to $6.50, plain to good $4 to $6, choppers and bucks $2.50 to $3.50, canners $1 to $2.

Breeding ewe quotations: Good to choice yearling ewes, $11.50 to $13, according to weight. Good to choice 2 to 4 years with good black faces $8.50 to $10; plain to medium $5 to $7.

Horses and Mules.

Lightness of receipts was the most prominent feature of the horse and mule trade here the past week and trading was on a quiet basis throughout and although the early week featured auction sales the biggest part of arrivals which came later in the week were sold in retail trade. Prices held to a steady basis for all classes, quality running mostly to the medium priced and plain kinds of both horses and mules. A ready clearance was afforded all arrivals from day to day.

NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

Good to choice draft $140@200; medium to good draft $85@140; good to choice chunks $75@100; medium to good chunks $50@60; choice southern horses $40@55; fair to good Southern horses $25@35; smooth-mouthed Southerners $15@25; plugs $5@15.

BRITISH RAILWAY HALF-YEAR RECEIPTS DOWN $22,000,000

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY.

LONDON, July 7.—Attention this week has been concentrated on the parlous condition of the railway industry, the progress of the industrial conference and the obscurity of the money position.

The railway receipts for the half year show a reduction of £4,750,000, or about 5 per cent, but no statistics are available to indicate how much was due to highway competition, to which railroads in England are especially exposed, owning to the shortness of the average haul and the magnificent trunk roads built from motor taxation since the war.

The railways undoubtedly lose traffic more through delays in delivery than because of relative costs, and a big effort is being made to speed up the handling and clearances of freight.

It is now evident that railways wil receive powers to operate highway vehicles, thus competing directly with road contractors who have brought about the heaviest losses owing to their cutting down the railroads' revenues. Compared to last year, however, the losses are attributable to a reduction in traffic in coal, which last year was overtaking arrears on account of the strike.

Nevertheless, it is believed that the railways have achieved substantial economies largely through the lower coal costs, but they reveal no statistics of working expenses until the annual accounts have been published.

The industrial peace conference is welcome as tending to promote a better understanding of the problems of both sides.

The industrial report on finance shows that there is still a desirability for inquiry into the operation of the gold standard and whether the credit policy should be determined largely automatically by gold movements. It considers it undesirable that the Bank of England be tied down by a gold reserve law which would render it unable to co-operate freely in a gold economizing policy.

This part of the report apears behind the times, as it is generally recognized that the power of the Bank of England is vastly increased by the provision of the recent currency act, enabling the fiduciary limit to be varied by the Treasury's consent, on which the chief criticism arose when the act was passed on the score that it was placing undue power in the hands of the Bank of England.

The monetary position of England is still thought to depend largely on development of the market turn in the United States over the half year, which, it is believed, has not gone far enough to release credit sufficiently to obviate the possibility of severe autumn tightness unless the stock market loans undergo a further severe reduction.

The strength of British exchange has been produced by the large foreign loans of the United States and the heavy purchasing of English securities in America. If the Wall street market reacts substantially, there is a possibility that resales in the United States might impose a strain on the English position.

Considerable relief is felt, however, at the skill with which the French position has been managed and the tendency exchange has taken to indicate no likelihood of immediate gold movements on the continental account which is reflected in the weaker discount rates.

The financial effects of the untimely death of Capt. Alfred Lowenstein are not expected to produce a lasting repercussion. His interests are in strong hands, though private investors in England and on the continent who followed him blindly will doubtless sustain serious depreciation in capital. Companies are understood to be intrinsically sound but their shares are at reduced prices on account of discounted future developments.

FRUIT MARKET

ST. LOUIS PRODUCE ROW, July 7.—Good-sized new apples were in quiet demand and there was a good clearance of this stock, although there was only a local outlet. The market was well supplied and an excess of small fruit, whch holders found difficult to move even at low prices, was reported. Home-grown boxed apples were in good supply and trading was slow. COTTON TRADES EVENED UP FOR GOVERNMENT REPORT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The volume of business in the cotton market today was smaller and trading operations were largely weekend liquidation and evening up for Monday's Government report on acreage. The October position advanced to 22.60, but eased to 22.43. The general market closed barely steady at net losses of 6 to 9 points.

The opening was steady and somewhat irregular at 6 points lower to 8 points higher, with sentiment somewhat divided owing to lower Liverpool cables than expected and reports of further showers in portions of the cotton belt states. Early buying was moderately active, prompted by numerous reports from the south relative to the backwardness of the crop and boll weevil infestation, but selling increased on the bulges and there was a general disposition to dispose of long cotton. The South figured more or less conspicuously on the selling side. The December price, which started at 22.36, advanced to 22.42 but eased off to 22.26 and closed at 22.28.

It seemed to be the prevailing impression that the bureau report would show an increase in acreage perhaps nearer the maximum than the minimum private estimates, but owing to the grassy condition of the fields, some authorities believe that the amount of abandoned acreage will be above normal. The State Plant Board of Mississippi stated that poisoning for the boll weevil is needed on a large number of farms in that State at this time.

Two additional private acreage reports were issued during the day, one indicating an increase of 3.6 per cent and the other an increase of 5.6 per cent from last year.

Private cable from Liverpool said that Bombay was buying there, but there was local liquidation on the better weather and despite improved cloth inquiry from India, many offers were impracticable.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance was reported at 63,220 bales against 72,753 last year and 60,505 two years ago.

Spot, quiet, middling 22.80c.

The cotton market was under considerable pressure during the earlier part of the week. Evidently the late June advance to 22.87 for October contracts, making an upward movement of about 2½c a pound from the low level of last month, had eased its technical position. The situation in this respect undoubtedly accounted for part of the selling which was later stimulated by the appearance of clearing and warmer weather in the South, and the report on boll weevil showing only a very small percentage of emergence from test cages up to June 15.

There was some trade buying and covering on a scale down, but the decline continued until October contracts sold off to 21.95c, or about 92 points from the best just before the adjournment for Independence day. A good part of this loss, however, was recovered later in the week, owing to the failure of private crop reports to show much improvement as a result of the warmer weather noted earlier in the week, and claims of increasing boll weevil infestation.

October sold up to 22.80c during today's trading or within 7 points of the previous high price, but the advance was checked at this figure by a renewal of realizing, and ther were irregular fluctuations toward the close of the week, when a tendency to even up commitments was probably increased by uncertainty as to the showing of the Government's acvreage figures expected on Monday.

Nine or 10 of the private end June crop reports have been issued during the past few days. On the average they have pointed to a condition of 66.7, an increase of 5.7 per cent in acreage, and the average of six private crop indications was 12,957,000 bales.

There has been a wide difference in the private figures on acreage, however, with estimates of the increase over last year, ranging all the way from 2.1 to 9.1 per cent, which, of course, represents an uncertainty of considerable importance. This, no doubt, had a tendency to slow up business toward the end of the week, as it is generally supposed that the Government report on Monday will be accepted as a basis for private as well as official forecasts of the yield based on crop conditions as they develop later in the season.

Nearly all private crop advices received here during the week have emphasized the boll weevil situation and infestation is supposed to have increased as a result of showery or cool weather during June.

EUROPE'S PURCHASES IN MAY $17,000,000 OVER LAST YEAR

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Gains in American foreign trade for May were due chiefly to increased business activity between the United States and Europe.

Commerce Department figures today dealing with the month's foreign trade disclosed that Europe purchased American goods during the month to a total of almost 17 million dollars more than like purchases in the same month last year, while the United States in return bought $5,000,000 more of European goods than it did in the same month of 1927.

There was a slight decline in the dollar value of American imports from Asia during May as compared with the corresponding month last year, but this was attributed entirely to the rubber price fall between the two periods rather than any decrease in quantity. Exports and imports for the month for the principal world divisions as compared with the same month a year ago:

EXPORTS.

	May, 1928.	May, 1927.
Europe	188,172,013	171,773,172

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"A flurry of 10 per cent call money early this week failed to shake the market's confidence in stocks and failed to destroy faith in the prospect for downright cheap money in July. Now that the midyear settlements are in process of completion and the return flow of currency after the Fourth of July is on, the time is at hand when signs of this easy money should appear, if at all. As the passing days carry us further into July, however, and nearer to the period of seasonal ease the market finds itself in a more uncertain state of mind than it was early in the week when the call rate ran up to its dearest level since 1920. Money more and more has become the base from which market prophecies radiate. In the financial district those who expect easy money generally are bulls on the stock market and those who expect the tightening pressure to continue are bears. In this emphasis on money sight has been lost in most speculative quarters of all else.

Loans Increase Surprise.

"It must be confessed that this week's $148,000,000 rist in brokers' loans nips in the bud a hope of the bull party that seemed near to realization. Three weeks of liquidation had drawn the volume of loans down $400,000,000. In view of the market's recent contraction in activity most financial prophets expected no important change this week. What they did not figure on was the efficacy of rising prices to expand loans even in a quiet market. A resumption in speculation for the rise at present levels would represent an act too defiant of reserve policy for the system to ignore. It would mean that instead of the easier money everybody hoped the reserve banks might grant soon to expedite the seasonal business movements the system would find itself obliged to let things take their course. A resumption in excited bull speculation within the next month, if undertaken, must result in a dearer price for funds to business just at the season of year when industry most needs help.

Banks Increase Borrowings.

"In an effort to restore their reserve positions at the regional institutions member banks this week increased their borrowing by $159,000,000. A part of this sharp upswing is explained by the exigencies of the mid-year settlements. The fact remains that gold losses and reserve sales of Government securities rapidly have increased the dependence of member banks upon the reserve banks this year until the total volume of discounts now stands at $1,191,000,000 or more than twice that of a year ago. It will not be easy in present conditions for the Federal Reserve System to cut down this extraordinary total, but without a substantial reduction in discounts it is difficult to see how the prevailing level for call money can be brought down. An inflow of gold later in the year or a modification of reserve policy would provide new influences for ease in the money market. In the absence of either such moves money probably will not decline materially even this month.

Interpreting New Loan.

Whether the Reserve Board was or was not justified in creating cheap money a year ago and thus indirectly inviting a condition from which it now is seeking to extricate itself is not a point immediately in question. Very good arguments can be advanced either way. The fact remains that over a period of months the loss of half a billion dollars in gold and heavy sales of Government securities have brought on a condition of dearer money. In Wall street this week there was a disposition to read into Mr. Mellon's new financing program the sign of a reversal in the money trend. If the truth were known, it probably would be found that his general plan was laid out months ago, awaiting only the condition of the money market at this time to fix the rate. If as now seems likely money will remain firm a distinction must be drawn between the present and certain previous periods of dear money. Money still is available even if it commands higher rates than before.

FINANCIAL NOTES

NEW YORK, July 7.—Improved earnings are looked for from the Erie Railroad for the first half of 1928, with surpuus around $2,925,000 after fixed charges, but before sinking fund requirements an increase of $1,987,000 over a year ago. June surpuus is expected to show a gain of $300,000. The gain for June was made, despite decreases, revenues and non-operating income. The increase in merchandise traffic was one of the most favorable factors this year.

The dividend of 14 guilders recently declared by Royal Dutch Co. as a final dividend for 1927 on the ordinary shares is equal to $1.87 a share on each New York share, payable by the Equitable Trust Co. on Aug. 3 to holders of record July 23. The recent dividend of 3 shillings by Shell Transport & Trading Co., Ltd., is equal to $1.45 on each American share, payable July 23 to stock of record July 16.

June construction contracts in territory east of the Rocky Mountains broke all previous records for that month, amounting to $650,466,200, the second highest monthly total on record F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. The half year's volume was $3,444,867,500, largest half year total and 8 per cent more than the first half of 1927.

Shipments of Dodge Bros. cars and trucks in the United States and Canada for the half year rose to 121,327 from 107,115 in the first half of 1927. Exports gained 17.9 per cent. June exports broke all monthly records, gaing 79 per cent over June last year.

Continental Baking Corporation and subsidiaries had net profit of $1,107,616 for 10 weeks ended June 23, equal after preferred dividends to $1.06 a share on the "A" common, against $1,202,533 or $1.38 on the "A" in the same period of 1927.

Ice cream sales of General Ice Cream Corporation this summer probably will be ten million gallons provided conditions are reasonably favorable, the company estimates. At last year's prices this would amount to about $13,900,000. Sales of other products are expected to produce $5,000,000 more this year.

The management of Consolidated Gas Co. has received proxies representing more than the necessary two-thirds of voting stock, assuring completion of the merger with Brooklyn Edison Co. at a special meeting of Consolidated Gas stockholders on July 16. The electric properties of the combined companies will form the largest power grouping in the world [illegible] point of horsepower served, it is said, [illegible] annual output of 3,500,000,000 [illegible] hours.

Late Wave of Profit-T After Gains Run From 1 to 3 Points in dustrials and Rails and to 18 in Few Special

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Specula tion for the advance was [illegible] in today's brief session of the market, but buying was of a [illegible] ly selective character. [illegible] gains, which ran from 1 to 3 p in the popular industrials and [illegible] and from 5 to 18 points in a specialties, were cut by a [illegible] of profit-taking. There were [illegible] eral soft spots, but no points [illegible] acute weakness.

Some uneasiness was still [illegible] parent over the credit [illegible] despite the favorable terms of the new U. S. Treasury financing [illegible] the decline in call money [illegible] this week. The gain of $147,000,000 in brokers' loans and the [illegible] crease in rediscounts by Federal Reserve member banks, [illegible] with the shipment of an addition al $12,000,000 in gold to [illegible] tended to dampen hopes of immediate easing of rates.

Trade Is Restricted.

Absence of many traders on tended week-end trips tended restrict trading, although the [illegible] sales totaled 771,600 shares.

There was little in the [illegible] news to influence the price [illegible] ment. Weekly commission [illegible] reviews stressed the favorable character of most of the current trade reports, and laid especial emphasis on the preferred position of refining companies in the oil industry.

Indian Refining Feature.

Indian refining issues [illegible] showed outstanding strength. [illegible] preferred soared 18 points [illegible] as against a low of 101 earlier [illegible] the year. The common ran up [illegible] points to 38 and then eased [illegible] or more than four times the [illegible] low. Houston oil fell back [illegible] points and General Asphalt [illegible] ed fractionally, but most of [illegible] other oils moved upward.

Midland Steel products preferred [illegible] oared 13½ points to 237½ [illegible] losed within a fraction of the [illegible] ubstantial gains also were recorded by American Express, American Radiator, Davison Chemical, [illegible] n Motor, Johns-Manville, [illegible] elly Springfield issues, [illegible] partment stores, Lehn & F[illegible] ational Tea, U. S. Cast Iron P[illegible] d Woolworth. Sears-Roebuck [illegible] n up more than three points [illegible] new high at 116⅞. Emerson-Brantingham Co.'s farm implement division has been sold to [illegible] e Threshing Machine Co.

Southwestern Rails Best.

Southwestern issues made [illegible] best showing in the rail group, with Texas & Pacific, Wabash, [illegible] Chicago Great Western preferred in the forefront of the advance.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges moved within extremely narrow limits, with Sterling Cables holding [illegible] around $4.87⅛.

IRREGULARLY HIGHER CLOSE TO TRADE ON THE CUR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The curb market closed irregularly higher today. Week-end profit taking reduced many gains, [illegible] there was sustained buying of some [illegible] motive, mining and industrial specialty shares.

Noranda Mines, which has been [illegible] encountered profit taking at the [illegible] levels and closed more than 4 [illegible] lower at 54⅝. Leadership in the [illegible] group was assumed by Bunker Hill, which closed more than 17 points higher, at [illegible] Newmont, Consolidated Copper Mines [illegible] Hudson Bay declined.

Checker Cab, moving to a new top [illegible] 36½, led the advance of automotive shares. Crock Wheel touched its previous high, 70, and Pines Winter Front [illegible] Durant Motor, Triplex Safety Glass [illegible] Wire Wheel made good gains.

A feature of the industrial group [illegible] the 7½-point rise of Alabama [illegible] Southern. American Rayon Products, Warner Bros. Pictures, Niles Bement Pond, Aero Supply A and Atlas Portland Cement also were strong.

Radio issues improved. Marconi [illegible] less B and Spanish & General Radio [illegible] touched new highs. Canadian [illegible] improved fractionally.

Utilities were rather neglected, [illegible] American Light and Traction and [illegible] States Power A made small gains. [illegible] Light and Power "A" was in demand [illegible] reports of pending mergers.

Oils were firmer, with Galena Signal Oil old and new preferred showing gains of more than a point each.

HIGH CALL RATE, LOAN INCREASE EVENTS OF WEEK

Ten Per Cent Money, First Since 1920, Lasts Only One Day — Week's New Bond Offerings Smallest in Two Years.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The announcement of long term Government financing on a 3⅜ per cent basis, a temporary credit stringency which sent call money to 10 per cent on Monday and back to 5 the next day, the lowest volume of new bond offerings in two years, an increase of $147,000,000 in brokers' loans and the resumption of the upward movement of stock prices were the high lights in this week's financial markets.

The brief "squeeze" in money rates was the direct result of the mid-year settlements and the heavy holiday demand for funds. Stock prices broke on the 10 per cent money rate but rallied briskly when the rate dropped again and then continued to climb on Wall Street's interpretation of the new Treasury offering as an indication of no permanent tightening of credit, and a grist of favorable trade news.

Effects of Loan Increase.

The increase of $147,000,000 in brokers' loans cancelled about one-third of the decline in borrowings in the three previous weeks. The advance in stock prices, while unevenly distributed, embraced most of the leading industrial and railroad shares.

So great was the volume of funds attracted here for temporary investment by the high interest rates that call loans after dropping as low as 5 per cent renewed on Friday at 5½ per cent.

High temperatures had a stimulating effect on retail trade and also aided in the development of crops. Several of the large automobile, chain store and mail order companies reported record-breaking June sales. Steel consumption was maintained at relatively high levels although output showed the usual seasonal decline.

Texas & Pacific showed outstanding strength among the rails, soaring to the highest level in its history.

Some Buying in Oils.

Continued reduction in the output of a seminole field, coupled with reports of record-breaking gasoline consumption, brought some fresh buying into the oil shares.

Mail order stocks moved up into new high ground following reports of steadily expanding earnings. Motors were mixed although buying was noted in General Motors, directors of which were expected to declare a substantial extra dividend next month. Packard directors declared an extra of $1, in addition to the regular payments, and Chrysler and Dodge issues responded to reports of steadily increasing deposits under the new merger plan.

Wall Street was not disturbed by the death of Capt. Alfer Loewenstein, Belgian financier, which unsettled for time the European markets.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, July 7.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly foreign exchange market review, says:

"Nearly all the leading banking interest was concentrated during the week in developments in sterling exchange, which was supplied in such large volume as to be forced down from $4.87⅝ to $4.87¼ for cables. Earlier selling had been attributed to the shifting of sterling credits into dollars credits because of the rates for call money here being double or more the call money rate in London. The selling this week was not accompanied by any statements in regard to such transfers of sterling, but it was assumed that the heavy selling of sterling must have automatically changed sterling into dollars and increased the available supply of funds in this city, which may have had much to do with the decline in the call money rate after the advance to 10 per cent on Monday.

"Interest was attached to the fact that French exchange, which yielded to 3.91⅝ for cables, was at a new low since the establishment of the franc at its arbitrary parity.

"Italian was also heavy and failed to rally much when firmness was shown in other exchanges. Dutch exchange yielded with sterling, and there was a shading off in rates in continental exchanges generally in the last half of the week.

"There was a special movement in Argentine exchange, which dropped 15 points to 42.43, a new low for the year, and bringing the Argentine exchange below the parity of 42.45.

"Indian exchange also was heavy, having a further loss of 3 points to 36.37 for cables, and Japan also developed a heavy tone, falling 20 points to 46.25. Shanghai was another weak feature in the Far East and yielded over a cent to the Shanghai tael.

"Canadian exchange was not materially improved by the importation of gold and held close to ⅛c discount. Havana, which for some time past has ruled at a discount suddenly became strong and was established at a premium of over 1-16c."

NEW YORK, July 7.—Foreign exchange quotations were as follows:

The power output of the Associated Gas & Electric system showed gains of 6.6 per cent and 4.9 per cent for the week and four weeks ended June 30, compared with the same periods last year.

Heavy melting steel scrap, No. 1, is 25 cents a ton lower in the Pittsburg district, sales having been made at $15.75. Dealers look for an advance in price, should large tonnage orders appear, as the metal is comparatively scarce.

Consolidated net income of Pullman, Inc., for the quarter ended March 31 was $2,563,248 after all charges and taxes, equal to 76 cents a share on 3,375,000 no par shares to be outstanding when all of the $100 par stock of the Pullman company has been exchanged for stock of Pullman, Inc.

Case Threshing Machine has bought the farm implement division of Emerson Brantingham Corporation, effective Aug. 1.

Commercial failures last week are figured at 357 by R. G. Dun & Co., against 313 a year ago.

The lumber movement in the first half of 1928 showed a more favorable relationship between supply and demand than existed at any time in the last five years, and the trade appears to be sanguine regarding the last half of the year, says the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

BONDS IRREGULAR IN NARROW RANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Prices moved irregularly within narrow limits in the bond market today and trading was light, but there was a firm undertone and an increased demand for high-grade issues which brightened the outlook. The renewed interest was attributed to buying by institutions which have been placing their surplus funds in the call money market, but now are again finding attractive yields in the bond market.

Industrials were rather neglected and there was some week-end profit taking. Dodge Brothers 6s, Liquid Carbonic 6s and U. S. Ruber 7½s were under pressure. Fisk Ruber 8s, Mid-Continent Petroleum 6½s, Pure Oil 5½s, Andes Copper 7s and a few others were active at higher levels.

St. Paul 5s of 2000 attracted most buying in the railroad group. Erie 5s, Norhtern Pacific 6s B, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Central Pacific 5s and New York Central 4½s also gained.

Public Service of New Jersey 4½s again led the advance of the utilities. International Telephone & Telegraph 4½s and American Telephone & Telegraph 5s improved practically.

The foreign list was irregular and price changes small.

United States Government obligations were inclined to heaviness.

SCRUGGS STOCK SALES FOR WEEK 3884 SHARES

Price of 20 Recorded in All Transactions With Exception of 35 Shares

Scruggs common stock sales aggregating 3883 shares, all but 35 of which changed hands at the uniform price of 20, featured the session on the St. Louis Stock Exchange the past week. Since June 29 when 1010 shares sold, about 5750 shares of Scruggs stocks have changed hands at the 20 level. The street heared several explanations as to basis of the movement in the stock.

The other outstanding event of the week was the 11½ point advance in Coca Cola Bottling Securities, the top price of week 49½, being several points above the previous high. Sales were 610 shares.

Sales of the newly listed Mahoney-Ryan Aircraft stock aggrigated 1384 shares between 21½ and 20. Very little sold at 21½. There was a fair turnover in Fulton Iron. Bank of Commerce sold lower.

WEEK'S METAL MARKETS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Holiday operations featured the steel market during the past week. Reduced production rate was reported at practically all centers. In some instances, however, specifications against contracts were said to be good, considering the season of the year and due to the heavy pipe line business recently booked, as well as to the consistent demand for other qualities of steel. In the Chicago district new business closed better. Prices were unsettled and the tendency was easier in some positions.

Pig iron was barely steady.

European consumers continue to buy moderate amounts of copper for July-August shipment, while domestic business was quiet, owing partly to the intervening holiday. Some house consuming plants were closed during the week for their annual shutdown. Producers continue to hold steady at 14⅝c for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley, on the expectation of renewed buying to supply August requirements.

Tin was steady, despite the sharp reaction at London, but turned easy later and sold at the lowest level of the past four years. Dealers were reported as good buyers for a time. Estimated tin plate production for the first half of the year was figured at the greatest on record.

Lead prices held well and were not influenced by the reaction abroad.

Zinc was steady and a fair consuming demand was reported for July, with some interest also noted for August.

Antimony was dull, with consuming interest estimated reduced by the extensive supply of recovered antimonial lead available.

$12,000,000 More Gold on Way to France

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Another shipment of about $12,000,000 in gold left New York early today for France on the steamship France, which is expected to be followed shortly by additional consignments totaling $56,000,000 from the supply "earmarked" for French account in the Federal Reserve vaults here. The steamship De Grasse carried nearly $14,000,000 last Thursday. Another shipment will leave on the Rochambeau next week.

A total of $256,560,000 in gold has gone to France since the movement began last December. Should present schedules be carried out, the outflow would exceed $312,000,000. More than $81,000,000 went out in June.

Reports that insurance could not be obtained for more than $14,000,000 gold in a single shipment apparently were unfounded, officials of the French line having been informed, it is said, that risks would be taken on as much as $30,000,000 on one of the larger vessels of the company. It is reported that a shipment of $19,000,000 in gold had been sent to Argentina in one steamship, the largest known.

St. Louis Metals.

Lead was quoted in St. Louis today at $6.15 per 100 lbs.

Slab zinc was quoted at $6.15 per 100 lbs.

Chancellor Wins Fairmount Closing Day Handicap

Close Finishes and Parmelee's Riding Thrill Big Crowd

By Dent McSkimming.

The closest finish and one of the most spectacular races of the meeting were reserved for the closing day of the Fairmount Jockey Club's Spring season, yesterday afternoon. Noses and heads decided the issue in both feature races, in one of which, the Jefferson Hotel handicap, Chancellor won for the Audley Farm by outlasting Broadside, in a thrilling drive.

In the full span of 37 days, no afternoon's sport was so crowded with good racing and strangely the best piece of horsemanship of the day was not crowned with success. J. Parmelee's surprise maneuver, wherein he checked Broadside after the latter had taken the early pace, held him in restraint all the way through the back stretch and then sent him out for his second effort to catch Chancellor, was probably the most daring example of judgment of pace that the meeting developed, but it received no reward, since Broadside was beaten at the wire by inches.

Real Thrill for 10,000 Crowd.

Chancellor's fine race proved a surprise to the crowd of 10,000. The Audley Farm entry was heavily played in the mutuels, not because of Chancellor, but because of Bobashela's reputation. It was not surprising, therefore, to see Bobashela catch Broadside at the clubhouse turn, but when the field of five reached the stretch turn a quarter mile from home and Chancellor moved up on the inside rail, the crowd was astonished. Chancellor, perhaps, did not need the assistance of a stable mate to win, for he gave a very promising display of speed in winning the Benish cup race a week ago, but the early sprint of Bobashela in temporarily disposing of Broadside surely did not harm for the Audley Farm entry.

Only a truly great horse could have responded to the demands of Parmelee, sprinting first to take the lead, slowing down to let two horses pass him in the back stretch and then coming forward again, taking the outside course and finishing gamely only to be beaten by the breadth of a hand. Broadside's effort made the race one of the finest of the meeting.

Two others of the field of five cam with enough speed in the stretch to make the finish close, but neither of them, Genial Host nor Galahad, was at any time in position to threaten the leaders. The race was run in 1:51 1-5, which is within one-fifth of a second of the track record for the mile and a furlong.

The "Big Train" Wins Again.

Joyous lost to Louisville and Nashville in the first race because she couldn't reach the rail. The Audley Farm filly held the lead almost every step of the way through the five and one-half furlongs, but she was never able to gain sufficient advantage to cut in ahead of Louisville and Nashville. As a result, when it came to the run through the stretch, W. M. Cain's horse, through J. Parmelee's good effort, was able to outlast Joyous to win by a nose. Nama was third, but the six others were never prominent.

My Dandy, which won by almost half a dozen lengths in his previous start, repeated in winning the second race. There were 11 starters and My Daddy was the favorite, at even money. Bad post actors delayed the start and Fortunate Man was flat-footed when the barrier was sprung, and was left far behind. Ursa Major showed good speed in finishing second.

Because of his remarkable record over a period of eight races, Black Darling had to carry 120 pounds when he started in the third race. Katrina L, with only 105 pounds on her back, got away to a good start and Black Darling was never able to come within two lengths of her. Katrina stretched her advantage to seven lengths at three-eighths ground, but slowed up a bit at the stretch turn. When Black Darling approached, Horvath got busy and Katrina again pulled away, winning by four lengths. Black Darling made a brave fight of it, but appeared to be shouldering too great a burden. Jessie Carey was third.

If all race finishes were as close as that in which Fortunate Girl nosed out Gold Mint, there would soon be a universal shortage of judges. Gold Mint caused all the difficulty by refusing to be beaten. And Prisoner further complicated the situation by coming up to finish only a head back of the winner and only a nose in front of Charlie Bergin, the early pacemaker. Under such circumstances, some bettors were disappointed when Fortunate Girl's number was hung up as the winner, but she had the rail position and her nose advantage was not visible to the grand stand crowd.

Intense, the favorite, took the sixth race at a mile and a sixteenth without the aid of accidents. She was a prominent factor from the start, and when it came to a battle in the stretch, she outran High Life and Up and Down. D. Smith rode the winner. The refund was $7.40 for $2.

Spanish Aster scored the second victory to the day for the Audley Farm in taking the seventh race. Marabou, Alborak and Finland challenged all the way, especially in the back stretch, where D. Smith tried vainly to send Marabou to the front. C. Williams rode the winner, keeping her going smoothly all the way.

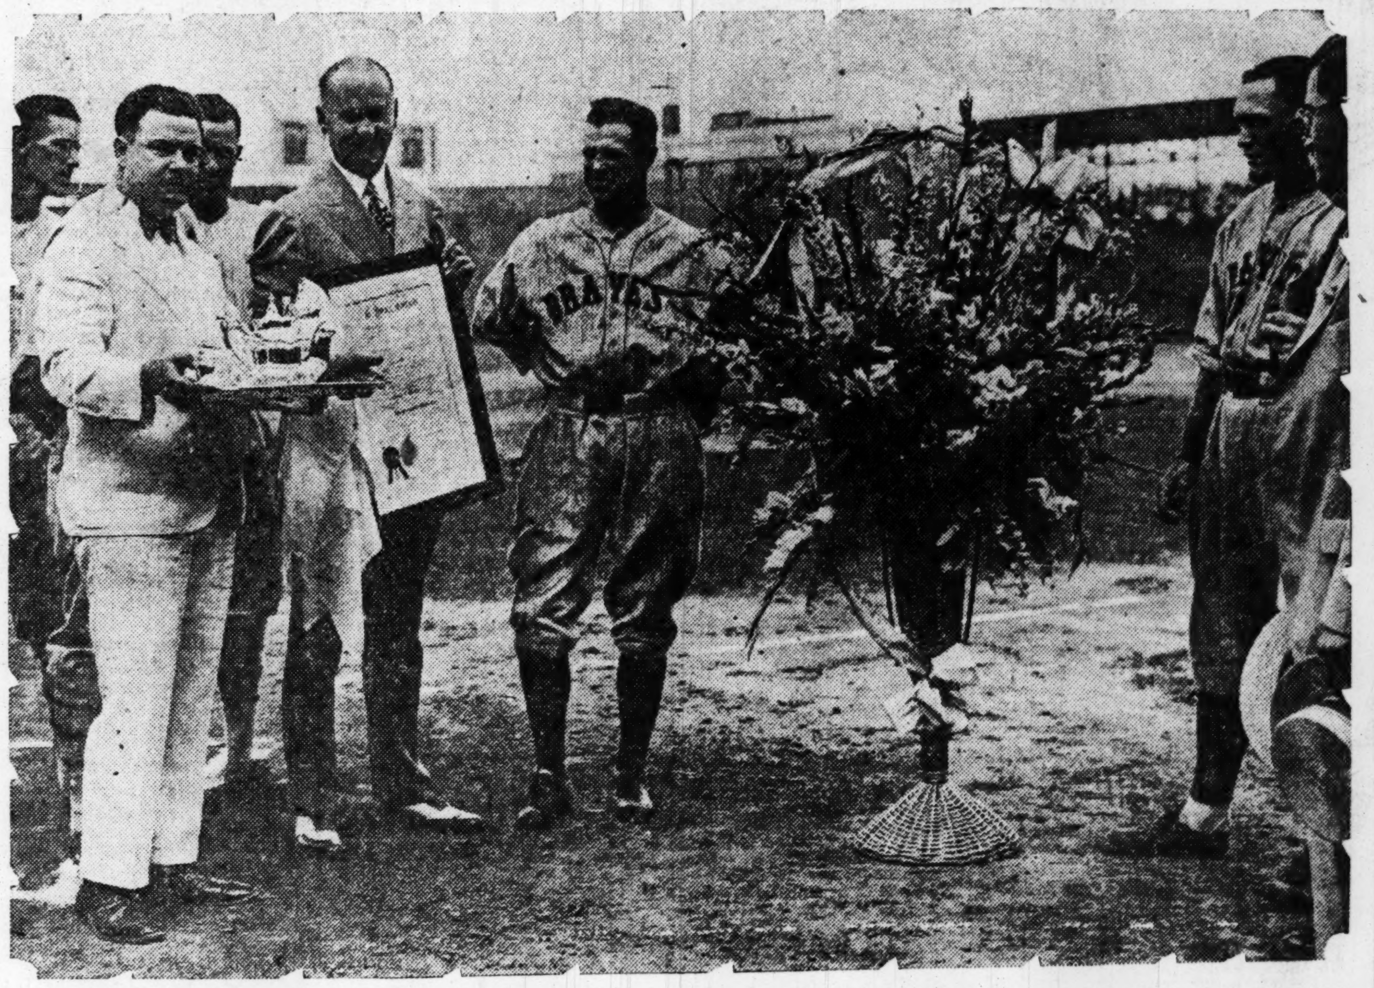
Mayor Miller Presenting Sisler a Silver Set, at Sportsman's Park



That Sisler grin idicates he enjoyed the mayor's speech and the silver set that went with it, the token of St. Louis fans appreciation. Hornsby, at the right in the picture, had his "day" earlier in the year. Sisler celebrated his home-coming by driving in three runs and scoring one.

STRAIGHT-SET VICTORIES MARK MUNY NET PLAY

Easy straight-set victories marked the opening matches of the Municipal Championship Tennis tournament at the Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park yesterday afternoon. Few matches required more than two sets to decide.

Ted Drewes, the present champion, won his first match from Leon Neuman of Forest Park without particular difficulty, 6—2, 6—3. Hap Schaberg, another strong contender, won from Talbot Murphy of Oakland, 6—4, 6—1.

Eighty-four players entered the singles competition. The winners in both the singles and doubles division will be sent to the national public parks tournament at Cleveland, starting Aug. 6.

Singles results:

FIRST ROUND.
W. Lindauer, Fairground, defeated Tom O'Brien, Forest Park, 6—3, 6—4.

GORDON LUM TO MEET EMMETT PARE FOR WESTERN NET TITLE

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., July 7.—Gordon Lum, Chinese Davis cup star, and Emmett Pare, Chicago, today won the right to meet in the finals here tomorrow for the Western tennis men's singles championship. Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Cal., and Ruth Reise, Saginaw, Mich., also won their semifinal matches today and also will fight it out for the women's singles title.

Lum downed Bruce Barnes, Houston, Texas, one of the favorites to win the men's title in straight sets, 6—2; 6—2; 6—1. Pare met stronger opposition than Lum in Billy Clines, Louisville, Ky. Clines failed to win a set but fought every point before losing 6—1, 6—2, 6—3.

The women's semifinal matches also were decided in straight sets. Clara Zinke, Cincinnati fell before the California woman by 6—1 and 6—2 and Ruth Oexman Cincinnati dropped out before the playing of the Michigan woman, 6—2 and 6—3.

Hamm and Hahn Set World Marks; Borah Beats Olympic Record

By Alan J. Gould
Associated Press Sports Editor.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 7.—Uncle Sam served notice today that the Yanks are coming again, this time in athletic but none the less formidable array, with olympic conquest as their main objective.

The final tryouts deciding the make-up of the American track and field team that sails next Wednesday for Amsterdam, were completed this afternoon at Harvard stadium in the greatest carnival of record-breaking performances any meet has ever witnessed. While a crowd of 25,000 cheered and a broiling sun beat down, old man Time and Pop distance literally were slaughtered to make an American athletic holiday and bring to the front the most powerful collection of performers that has ever answered the Olympic roll call.

The Record Breakers.

The most startling feats were turned in by Ed Hamm, Georgia Tech's famous broad jumper, who leaped to a new world's record of 25 feet 11⅛ inches, and Lloyd Hahn, the Boston Express, who shattered another world's record by winning the 800-meter finals in 1 minute 51 2-5 seconds.

These two world marks topped off an unprecedented succession of record feats in which one other world's record was equaled, two American records shattered and ten National A. A. U. championship marks either broken or established. To give further idea of the class of this American team it may be noted that the existing Olympic games' record were bettered in six events during the two-day meet and equaled in three others.

Hamm's amazing broad jump, the greatest in history, gave the crowd its first thrill of the afternoon. Charley Borah, the Southern California flyer, furnished the final sensation as he romped off with the 200-meter final, bettering the Olympic record for the third time in a race that saw Charley Paddock, the blond California veteran, second to clinch his place on the Olympic team for the third time, along with his old rival, Jackson Scholz of the New York A. C.

FILM WORK BRINGS PROTEST PADDOCK IS NOT AMATEUR

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 7.

PROTEST of the eligibility as an amateur of Charley Paddock, veteran California sprinter, by at least one foreign country because of his motion picture activities, is understood to have been received by the American Olympic Committee and to have figured tonight in the debate over the track and field team selections behind closed doors.

Announcement of the team was deferred until tomorrow.

Hamm Sets Mark on First Hop.

Hamm did not even hesitate in leaping to his new record. He dashed down the straight away on his first attempt to whirl out farther than any man has ever jumped before. Hamm's mark was just a quarter of an inch better than the former record, set in 1925 by De Hart Hubbard, Cincinnati Negro, then wearing the colors of the University of Michigan, as he jumped 25 feet, 10⅞ inches. Hubbard finished third today with 23 feet 11¼ inches, which gave him third place and a berth to Amsterdam.

Hahn, beating off sensational challenges by Ray Watson of the Illinois A. C., and Earl Fuller of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, in the final 800-meter race, broke the world's mark for this distance but failed in his additional attempt to shatter the 880-yard record. His time of 1:51 2-5 for the 800 me-

Junior Boehmer In Semifinals; Tietjen Beaten

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 7.—Junior Boehmer of St. Louis smashed his way into the semi-finals of the junior singles in the Southern tennis tournament here today.

The St. Louis youngster defeated Monte Tiller of Louisville, 6—4, 6—1, and then trounced Earl Bossong of Cincinnati, 6—4, 6—2. Boehmer poured a veritable stream of balls over the webbing at Tiller and had the Kentuckian on the hop from the first point.

The fact that Bossong was one of the favorites to win the meet meant nothing to Boehmer. The Missourian sent his sizzling forehand drives burning down the side lines with such vigor that Bossong was lost.

As a result of his two victories today, Boehmer is carded against Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., in the semifinals Sunday at 10:30 o'clock. If Boehmer wallops Hines, he will meet the winner of the Clifford Sutter-Jack Hoffman match in the afternoon for the title. Sutter is seeded No. 1 and Hoffman is an outsider.

H. V. Tietjen of St. Louis was eliminated by Sutter, 6—0, 4—6, 6—3. The match was a case of steadiness against brilliance, and the steadiness of Tietjen couldn't quite match the brilliance of the New Orleans boy.

Tietjen and Boehmer played their semifinals doubles match and lost to Sutter and Hines, 6—3, 6—1.

FINNISH RUNNER EQUALS WORLD'S MARK FOR 1500 METERS, BEATING NURMI

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 7.—Larva, Finnish middle distance star, equaled the world record for 1500 meters and stamped himself as an outstanding Olympic candidate in the Finnish team tryouts today. Larva covered the distance in 3 minutes 52 6-10 seconds to equal the mark Paavo Nurmi set in 1924.

The best Nurmi could do today was third behind Borg, another Finnish "dark horse," who ran the 1500 in 3:53:01.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Fifteen thousand persons journeyed to Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon to help celebrate "Sisler Day," and there was great cheering when the peerless George singled in the first inning and helped to produce three Boston runs. However, the cheering was for Sisler and for Rogers Hornsby, still a great favorite among the fans who remember that he led the Cardinals to St. Louis' first pennant and world championship in 40 years.

The big idea was to cheer Sisler and Hornsby and have the Cardinals defeat the Braves. For the scoreboard showed that the Pirates were beating the New York Giants twice and that offered the Cardinals a fine opportunity to increase their first-place lead.

But the Braves, cheered on by that productive first-inning attack on the slants of Jess Haines, refused to lapse back into the role alloted to a seventh-place club and with the slender Arthur Delaney pitching effectively, they spanked the league-leaders, 11 to 3, and collected 17 hits.

Despite the defeat the Cardinals added half a game to their first place margin and today they are two and a half games ahead of McGraw's team, but the defeat was costly, as a victory would have meant a lead of three and a half games.

Cards Make Four Errors.

Hornsby's men looked more like league leaders than did the Cardinals in the first game of the series. There were four misplays by the men of McKechnie, and when the ninth inning arrived the fans were passing the razzberries freely and several of the Cardinals, heroes a few short weeks ago, were called "big bums" and advised to pay a little more attention to the necessary thing they call sleep.

An error started the Braves on their first inning rally and another helped them make the frame good for three runs. Richbourg opened the game with a bunt toward third and was safe when Bottomley dropped Holm's throw. Jack Smith then lined a double down the right field line, Richbourg stopping at third. Sisler acknowledged a cheer from the stands and celebrated his first appearance at the Sportsman's Park plate in an enemy uniform by smashing an old-fashioned single to center, scoring Richbourg and Smith and continuing to second when Douthit fumbled the ball.

Hornsby continued the assault with a double that hit the bleacher wall on the first bounce and Sisler crossed the plate.

Haines Belted Again in Sixth.

Haines put on the brakes and prevented further scoring in that inning, but in the sixth the Braves again jumped on him and pushed four runs over the plate.

Brown drew a pass to start the inning and was forced at second on Farrell's bunt, Jimmy Wilson making a fast play to catch Brown at the middle sack. Taylor then punched a single between Frisch and Bottomley and Delaney laid down a bunt that pulled Bottomley off first and turned out to be a single, filling the bases.

Richbourg singled to right, scoring Farrell, but Harper's throw to the plate caught Taylor when the catcher also tried to score. Jack Smith followed with a triple that hit the bleacher wall in left center, Delaney and Richbourg scampering home. Sisler then contributed his second hit, an infield single to Bottomley, and Smith scored the fourth run of the inning.

The game was in the bag by this time. Delaney relaxed with his seven-run lead and the Cardinals scored two runs in their sixth on doubles by Bottomley and Wilson and Hafey's single.

Reinhart Bombarded.

Reinhart went to the hill for the Cardinals in the seventh and the Braves bombarded him for five hits and three runs in the inning. Bell dropped a single just out of Frisch's reach. Brown and Farrell singled to right and Taylor doubled against the pavilion wall. Delaney struck out, but Richbourg beat out a badly-bounding grounder to Bottomley to score Farrell with the third run.

Frankhouse finished for the Cardinals and allowed two hits and an unearned run in two innings. Hornsby's double and Maranville's bad throw on Bell's grounder produced the run, the eleventh for the Braves, in the eighth.

Chick Hafey drove in the third and final Cardinal tally in the eighth when he hit into the left field seats for the circuit.

red bird notes

Alexander and Sherdel will pitch against the Braves in the double-header this afternoon, Manager McKechnie said last night.

Greenfield and Hollingsworth were named by Rogers Hornsby as probable starters for the visitors.

About 15,000 persons turned out to help celebrate George Sisler day. The former Brownie star, who was the American League's first most valuable player, received a solid silver five-piece tea set, a framed copy of Mayor Miller's "Sisler day" proclamation and a basket of flowers. The Mayor made the presentation at home plate just before the game.

Sisler violated tradition by lining a single to center, driving in two runs, his first turn at bat. Usually the recipient of gifts strikes out.

Richbourg opened the game

HAMM AND HAHN SHATTER WORLD'S RECORD IN OLYMPIC TRYOUT FINALS

BORAH LOWERS OLYMPIC MARK FOR 200 METERS; M'GRATH FAILS

ters erased the figure of 1:51 3-5, set by the famous German, Dr. Otto Peltzer, in London in 1926.

The new American records fell to Joie Ray in the 10,000-meter final and to his Illinois A. C., club mate, Ray Conger, in a spectacular 1500-meter race.

Joie Ray Sets a Mark.

Ray ran the 10,000 meters, approximately six and one-quarter miles, in 31 minutes 28 2-5 seconds, more than 15 seconds faster than the record set in 1912 by W. J. Kramer at Cambridge.

Conger had to kick through with a wonderful sprint in the last 50 meters to win the 1500 meters in the new American record time of 3 minutes 55 seconds.

An even more startling upset marked the final of the 110-meter high hurdles. Won by Steve Anderson, Rangy University of Washington Star, in the world's record-equaling time of 14 4-5 seconds after Ross Nichols of Stanford, the favorite and hero of the trials, fell over the next to the last barrier, finishing fifth and last.

Records in Weight Events.

In addition to the establishment of six National A. A. U. championship marks in the running events at metric distances, meet records were blasted by Herman Brix, University of Washington giant, in the shot-put; by Creth Hines in the javelin and by five competitors in the pole vault, won by the Olympic champion, Lee Barnes, in a jump-off of a triple tie with Sabin Carr of Yale, and William Droegemueller of Northwestern at 13 feet 9 inches.

Brix came within a quarter of an inch of equalling the world's record in the shot-put, improving on his qualifying performance of the day before and leading three Pacific Coast rivals—Rothert, Kuck and Krenz — by tossing the 16-pound ball 50 feet, 11¾ inches.

Hines, the Georgetown and intercollegiate champion, after trailing Arthur Sager of Boston A. A., in the trials, shot the javelin out 202 feet, 1¾ inches today to lead the spear-tossers.

Matt McGrath Fails.

Fifty-year-old Matt McGrath, New York Police Captain and a hero of four previous Olympics lost his chance to make a fifth trip abroad when he finished fifth in the hammer throw, won by Edmund Black, Maine collegian, representing the Newark A. C., with a toss to 166 feet, 4⅜ inches. This pulled Black up from last place. McGrath's mark of 158 feet, 9¼ inches was more than 20 feet short of the Olympic record he made in 1912 at Stockholm.

The high jump, in which 20 performers did six feet or more, went to Bob King of Stanford, when, in a jump-off, he broke his tie with Charley McGinnis of the Chicago A. A., at 6 feet 5 inches.

Bud Houser, the Olympic discus champion, increased his margin over the other plate tossers with a toss of 153 feet 6¼ inches, an improvement over his own Olympic record.

Levi Casey of the Los Angeles A. C. successfully defended his title in the hop, step and jump and beat the Hammond (La.) schoolboy, Sid Bowman, with a mark of 48 feet 10⅛ inches.

The National A. A. U. team championship, at stake as the individual titles were decided, went to the powerful Los Angeles Athletic Club squad, which scored a total of 42 points. The New York A. C. finished second with 33 and the Illinois A. C. third with 23.

COACH MANLEY FINDS NEW SWIMMING STAR

The victory of Miss Monnie Pohlman of the New Coliseum Athletic Club in the Mississippi races on July 4 brought out a new star for Coach Ed Manley inasmuch as she had previously given most of her attention to diving. Miss Pohlman swam from Eads Bridge to Market street, a distance of about a half mile in 5:34.

Olympic Mat Squad Announced

By the Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 7. Names of 14 men were forwarded to the United States Olympic selections committee today with the recommendations they be named members of the United States wrestling team at the Olympic games. The members of the squad, most of whom engaged in the National A. A. U. championships which closed here last night, left for West Point today.

The team was:

123-POUND CLASS—Robert Hewitt, University of Michigan, and James Reed, Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa.

134-5-POUND CLASS—Allie R. Morrison, University of Illinois, and Arthur L. Holding, Iowa State College, Ames, Ia.

145-POUND CLASS—Clarence Perryman, Oklahoma A. and M., Stillwater, Ok., and Ralph A. Prunty, Ward, S. D.

158-POUND CLASS—Lloyd O. Appleton, Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Ia., and Leslie Beers, University of Iowa, Iowa City, Ia.

174-POUND CLASS—Ralph W. Hammonds, Texas University, San Antonio, Tex., and Auree B. Scott, Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind.

191-POUND CLASS—Ensign H. L. Edwards, U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, and George Rule, Stillwater, Ok.

HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS—Ed George, University of Michigan, and Charles W. Strack, unattached, Stillwater, Ok.

In general the team followed the result of the matches of the national championship here excepting where injuries necessitated changes. George Rule, Oklahoma A. and M., not a competitor here because of injuries, was given a place in the 191-pound class, and Strack, winner of the second place in the 191-pound class, was moved to the heavyweight class.

The vacancy in the 123-pound class caused by the default of Ralph Lupton was filled by the selection of Reed, who reached the semifinals, where he was defeated by Lupton.

MAJOR BOWLING LEAGUE TO ELECT OFFICERS

The final meeting of the St. Louis Major City Bowling League, at which time officers for the 1928-29 season will be elected, the schedule drafted and the selection made of the alleys on which the league will bowl this season, will be held Tuesday, July 17, at 7:30 p. m. at the Statler Hotel.

As it is the desire of the league to increase the number of teams from eight to 12 or 16 for the coming season, all strong teams who desire to participate are requested to attend the meeting or file their entry with Jerry C. Ameling, secretary of the league.

Seven of the eight teams that participated last season made application for membership at the initial meeting held Friday evening at the Hotel Statler held in conjunction with the St. Louis Ten Pin Bowling Association meeting. The teams were the Wooster Lamberts, last season champions, Witter Razz, E. A. Schaefers, Cabannes, Rogers Recreation, Trovas and the Justin T. Flints. The Clover Leaf Cafes have also made applications for membership.

WRIGHT BEATS LEE TO WIN DIAMOND SCULLS

By the Associated Press.

HENLEY, England, July 7. — Joe Wright Jr., Toronto, won the Diamond Sculls today, defeating R. T. Lee, Oxford, by a length in eight minutes, 24 seconds.

It was a reversal of the 1927 decision in the premier singles event when the 21-year-old Canadian lost in the finals when his oar became entangled in a punt rope near the finish line.

Both Wright and Lee received a tremendous ovation as they sculled to the starting post and the race justified the early cheers.

At the start Lee was stroking 35 to the minute and Wright 34. Wright soon forged ahead and led by a length at the first signal. He increased his advantage to two and one-quarter lengths at the second signal and at fawley in four minutes and one second he was still two lengths ahead.

Wright Retains Lead.

Lee came back and at the mile had reduced the Canadian's lead to one and one-half lengths. The Oxonian continued to fight but Wright had the race well in hand and his advantage could not be overcome.

As the scullers approached the finishing post and it was obvious that the Canadian was the winner, the band struck up "The Maple Leaf Forever." Joe Wright Sr., was presented to Prince George and members of the Henley committee.

It was the second Canadian victor in the event. Capt. Lou Scholes, Toronto, won in 1904. Wright's time today was 14 seconds slower than the record, held by F. S. Kelley of the Leander Rowing Club, London.

Wright's Father Former Sculler.

Wright is the son of Joe Wright Sr., who acted as his son's coach and was a famous sculler in his younger days. Joe Wright Sr., now an Alderman in Toronto, was formerly a rowing coach in the United States.

The Grand Challence Cup went to the Thames Rowing Club through a two-lengths defeat of Trinity College in six minutes and 56 seconds in the eight-oared classic.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Football Heroes Pass.

TWO St. Louis football heroes of other days passed on last week—Horace "Dump" Dyer and Eddie Murphy.

As fullback for Michigan University in the days of the old plugging game of three downs and five yards to go, when the fullback was a human battering ram, Dyer was an outstanding player.

In the nineties teams crashed and banged down the field inches at a time by long torturing marches and perdition take the man who caused his team to lose possession of the ball. Today they hurl the ball around through the air until one scarcely knows whether to call the sport a foot race, a ball-throwing contest or a football game.

Then there were only two fundamentals to gridiron play: "Keep the ball as long as you can; boot it as far as you can when you must."

Dyer was a fine kicker and a great line crasher—attributes that he carried with him into his professional career and which broke many an enemy's legal line of defense.

A Great General.

EDDIE MURPHY—I have a mental picture of a mere stripling, waving blond hair and cool blue eyes, standing just back of his own goal line, on Thanksgiving day, 1907, at Sportsman's Park.

Immediately in front of him were the bowed backs of two football forward lines, those of St. Louis University and the Giants of Nebraska—the latter fresh from holding the champion Minnesota eleven to a 6-6 tie.

The ball was on the one-foot line, with St. Louis having just regained possession of the ball.

Here was a cut-and-dried situation for a field general. Drop the punter back for a kick out of danger—that was sound strategy.

But Murphy paused and looked around at the disposition of the Nebraska team. Already the Nebraska safety man was trotting back toward midfield for the expected kick. The line and backs were tensed for a dash through to block the kick if possible.

Murphy tapped the center rush on the back and barked out a signal. The St. Louis punter fell back to boot the ball. Frank Acker, the plunging back, moved in closer as if to protect the kicker—and then came the final signal.

The ball was snapped. The St. Louis line opened and the Nebraska forwards poured down upon the kicker—and then the fun began. The pass, faked to the kicker, really went to sturdy-legged Acker, who charged through a great opening up the field, with nobody but the safety man before him. He ran 55 yards before he was downed.

Eddie Cochems, on the side lines, must have felt an icy chill run up his spine when he heard Murphy call that play, one of the most daring and successful the writer has ever seen on any field.

The play was typical of "Eddie," renowned throughout the Middle West as one of the greatest of field generals. It was Murphy's handling of Cochems' wonderful plays that helped gain national renown for St. Louis University during three splendid football seasons.

Can Stop Us.

THE tremendous resources of this country, athletically, could not better be illustrated than by the events of the Olympic trials at Boston and Philadelphia.

Men supposed to be world's champions were outdone by striplings almost unheard of. Champions whose loss through injury threatened to cause our Olympic defeat were replaced by "discoveries" as good as the men lost.

Eight times in one event was the Olympic record equalled and FOUR TIMES, young Wykoff, in one afternoon, tied the world's record for 100 meters!

In all of the events, except perhaps the decathlon, America showed replacements of a caliber that should free this nation of worry as to the outcome of its ninth Olympic venture. Its team will win unless the steamship taking our men sinks.

The "Fastest" Human.

BACK in the ruck of beaten sprinters were names famous in Olympic and national championship story.

In their place we have a youth fresh from the high school who seems to stand out as the greatest runner in all history, ancient or modern—Frank Wykoff, of Glendale, Cal.

Since Arthur Duffey first ran 100 yards in 9 3-5 seconds, that time has been equalled about a dozen times in official history.

In one afternoon Wykoff ran four 100-meter heats in world's record time. Three other sprinters in the other heats equalled the same record. We will have in the 100 meters race Wykoff who tied the record four times, Claude Bracey who equalled it twice the same afternoon and two other great sprinters.

Germany has four fast flyers in Houben, Koernig and others; but if they break into the first four places of this Olympic event they will be fortunate.

AUDLEY FILLY BEATS CANBERRA IN LATONIA OAKS

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., July 7.—Latonia's spring meeting came to a close today with a large crowd of racing enthusiasts on hand to witness the thirty-second running of the $10,000 added Latonia Oaks, which brought to the post five good 3-year-old fillies, in which the Audley Farm's Easter Stockings proved the best by a length over Canberra of the Camden Stable with Pink Lily showing.

Canberra, away fast at the start, held the lead until reaching the stretch, where Easter Stockings, following the leader closely all the way, overhauled Canberra 70 yards from the finish to win going away. Pink Lily raced evenly. The winner's time for the mile and one-quarter was 2:03 2-5 and paid her backers $6.10 for each $2 ticket.

PELTZER FAILS TO QUALIFY IN ENGLISH GAMES

STAMFORD BRIDGE, England, July 7.—One world's record tumbled, two British marks were beaten, and to the surprise of all Dr. Otto Peltzer, German star, failed to qualify in the mile run in the British Amateur Athletic Association championships started here today.

Despite Peltzer's failure, the performances of other German stars were particularly impressive and revealed the Teutons as dangerous competitors in the coming Olympic games. Paulus of Germany tossed the discus 147 feet to beat the old British mark of 145 feet 8½ inches. The listed world record of 218 feet 6⅞ inches made in the javelin throw by Gunnar Lindstrom of Sweden in 1924 was surpassed by the Australian, Salay, who tossed the spear 222 feet 9 inches.

S. J. Atkinson of the South African Olympic team, broke the British 120 yard hurdle record when he was clocked in 14 7-10 seconds. Bob Lucas, American college student from Bowdoin, finished fourth in the hurdles.

AMATEUR BOXING SHOW SCHEDULED JULY 19

The next amateur boxing show of the People's Motorbus Athletic Club will be held at the club's arena, 3547 Pine street, on Thursday, July 19, George Wilsman, matchmaker, has announced.

An attempt will be made to match John Schwake of the South Broadway A. C. and John Day of the Motorbus team in a return bout as the feature of the program. Day lost to Schwake in the previous meeting a few months ago but the flight was his first ring appearance and he has made exceptional progress since then.

The admission prices for the show will be somewhat reduced because of the recent abolition of the Federal tax.

By Jack Alexander

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Dick Coffman and Walter Stewart are not growling tonight for being charged with the defeats in this afternoon-s double-header with the Yankees, because they know they are working for a club that is getting by in the first division on its nerve, but their grounds for getting hostile are indisputable.

Both men lost by one-run margins, Coffman losing the first game, 6 to 5, and Stewart dropping the second contest, 1 to 0. It [illegible] the first of three consecutive double-headers with the New York [illegible]

A costly error by Bettencourt, an ordinary fumble which any youngster might make, in the sixth inning of the opener, gave the Yankees a chance to score twice and nullified a fine three-run rally the Howleymen made in the eighth.

Breaks Against Howley's Club.

In the second affair Stewart outpitched Waite Hoyt, and the Browns failed to score in several easy instances. Once they had the bases full with none out and didn't get a run; another time they had two on and none out, and in the seventh they played the right strategy and saw it work out [illegible]

The Yanks won by the extra foot power carried in the bats of Ruth and Gehrig. They scored the only run, Ruth doubling with one out in the sixth to score on Gehrig's single.

About 40,000 saw the games and went home talking about the good game.

In spite of an injured right [illegible] which he continually favored, Ruth was a tremendous source of power to the Yankees. He played faultlessly in the field, he got [illegible] hits in seven official times [illegible] and one walk. Two of the [illegible] doubles. He was walked [illegible] and then not intentionally by Coffman, and was struck out also by Coffman.

O'Rourke in Old Form.

An encouraging feature of the [illegible] for the Browns was [illegible] of Frank O'Rourke to [illegible] after a long absence [illegible] thumb injury. O'Rourke [illegible] the infield, handled several [illegible] perfectly and got a [illegible] a single off Hoyt in [illegible] at bat.

[illegible] pitched great ball [illegible] Yanks. Ruth was the [illegible] to get as far as third [illegible] he and Combs and [illegible] able to reach second. [illegible] little southpaw didn't [illegible] pass and fanned one [illegible]

[illegible] only two weak spots [illegible] performance. In the [illegible] singled to start the [illegible] Collins and Hoyt [illegible] Combs sent Dugan [illegible] a single, and when [illegible] a single to right [illegible] imminent, but Mc[illegible] to Schang caught [illegible] to score. It was a [illegible] but Stewart had it [illegible] Ruth-Gehrig act in [illegible] the only other blur.

Hoyt Gets Out of Holes.

[illegible] to open the [illegible] singled and Manush beat out a bunt to fill the bases with none out. Schulte took a hefty swing and almost knocked Gehrig off his pins, but Lou held to the drive. It was a great setting for a triple play, but none of the basemen was near enough to a sack and the bases remained full for Kress to hit into a double play.

The right strategy went wrong in the seventh. Blue rolled to Gehrig, but O'Rourke got a single. With the weak end of the batting order up and one run behind, Howley pulled the right strategy and sent O'Rourke to second in order to get him in scoring position for a possible single by Schang, but Collins' throw to Koenig cut down O'Rourke. Schang did single, and when Stewart also singled to center, Schang tried to get over to third, since Combs is supposed to have a weak arm, but Combs nailed him with a perfect throw to third.

Coffman in the Lead.

The first defeat was harder to take, because Coffman was spotted to a two-run lead before his troubles started. The Yanks earned a run in their third on Robertson's double and Combs' single, but Dick pulled out of bad holes in the fourth and fifth and seemed set for a victory. Ruth opened the fourth with a two-bagger, Gehrig fanned and Meusel walked, but Lazzeri was retired on a tap to the box and Ruth was run down between third and home.

Grabowski singled and Pipgras walked with one out in the fifth, but Coffman retired Combs on an infield fly and Koenig on a roller to Brannon.

His downfall came in the sixth. Ruth singled and was forced by Gehrig. Then Meusel hit an easy roller to Bettencourt, which Larry fumbled. Except for the fumble, Lazzeri's foul to Manion would have closed the inning, but Coffman passed Robertson to fill the bases and Grabowski drove in two runs with a single.

The Yanks forged farther ahead in the seventh on Combs' single, a walk to Ruth and a triple by Gehrig, and the throng was thrilled when the Browns made a courageous effort to tie it in the eighth, but fell one run short.

Two were out when Manush beat out a bunt and Schulte walked. Kress drove in Manush with a single, and Blue walked, filling the bases. Here Guy Sturdy, batting for Bettencourt, singled to drive in two more runs and Pipgras was taken out in favor of Pennock, who made Manion pop up. The Yanks hit Coffman in the ninth and Wiltse finished without further casualty.

With a three and two count Ruth broke his back missing Coffman's slow outdrop in the first inning of the opener, and fanned with Combs on base. Combs was on his way to second and Manion's throw to Kress had him easily for a double play.

Triple for Bettencourt.

Brannon and Manush got clean singles off Pipgras in the first inning and Schulte sacrificed Brannon to third by sending Ruth back to the fence for his fly, but Kress failed with a grounder to Koenig. However, Blue opened the second with a single and when Meusel shifted toward center for the rightfield hitting Bettencourt, Larry crossed him with a long fly to left, just out of Meusel's reach, and it went for a triple, scoring Blue. Manion pushed Ruth far back for his sacrifice fly and Bettencourt got home easily.

McNeely Stars in Field.

McNeely made a great leap for Ruth's long fly in the fourth and robbed the Babe of a homer when he knocked the ball down and kept it out of the right field seats for a double. Gehrig fanned, Lazzeri tapped to Coffman and when Ruth slipped and fell rounding third he was run down by Bettencourt and Manion. He apparently had aggravated his shoulder injury and gave up without a struggle.

Hoyd Bests Stewart.

Beaten in the opener by one run, the Browns went right back after the Yanks in the second game, McNeely leading off with a triple to left center. But after Brannon had walked, Hoyt tamed Manush, making him to roll to Gehrig, fanned Schulte and got Kress on a fly to Combs.

Stewart got Ruth on a skyscraper to Schulte in the first inning. Combs had opened with a single, but Koening hit into a Kress-Brannon-Blue double play.

The second hit off Hoyt, which came in the fifth, was also a three-bagger. O'Rourke pushing a long fly over the heads of Combe and Meusel, with one out, but Schang tapped to Hoyt and O'Rourke was run down and Stewart fouled to Gehrig.

BLAEHOLDER AND CROWDER TO HURL IN TODAY'S GAMES

George Blaeholder and Al Crowder are the likely starters for the Browns in the Sunday doubleheader, with Johnny Ogden a possible candidate. The Yanks' choice will be between Henry Johnson, Pennock and Coveleskie.

Sam Gray was to have pitched the opening game but caught the flu and tonsilitis and was confined to his room under the care of a doctor.

COLDSTREAM'S ENTRY BREAKS TRACK MARK IN ASHLAND HANDICAP

RACELAND, Ky., July 7.—The Coldstream's entry, Barbara, won the Ashland Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth here today. J. C. Ellis' Stampdale was second and Alfred Kane's Golden Powder third.

The time for the distance was 1:44, which bettered the previous track record by one full second. The race was worth $1860 to the winner.

Braves Make 17 Hits and Win From Cardinals, 11-3 with a bunt to Holm and Bottomley dropped the throw. The play was ruled an error for Bottomley and the official scorer did not change his decision when Umpire Magee sent word that Richbourg had beaten the throw. The scorer said Magee started to call Richbourg out and changed his decision when the ball was dropped.

And How They Did Hit!

Four former St. Louis players were bunched in the Braves' batting order. Jack Smith bats second, with Sisler, Hornsby and Lester Bell following. Smith, Sisler and Hornsby hit in the first inning, George driving in two and Hornsby one run.

Frisch got a double in the first inning because Sisler stumbled and fell going after his pop fly. The ball almost hit George on the head as he sprawled on the ground.

Lester Bell and George Sisler made fine stops in the fourth inning. Bell grabbed Hafey's hot smash on the first hop, and Sisler ran to his right and snared Harper's bounder with his glove hand, Delaney covering first. The stops were useful, as Wilson followed with a single to center.

Sisler in five times at bat made two singles and hit the ball solidly except in the eighth, when he fouled to Holm.

In the ninth inning, with the Braves far ahead, the fans yelled for Hornsby to send Sisler to the pitching slab.

Howard Williamson, the left-handed outfielder who suffered a fractured ankle during the training trip, made his first appearance of the season w hen he batted for Reinhart in the seventh inning and struck out.

Gland-Grafting Made Stake Horse Of Selling-Plater

(Copyright, 1928.)

PARIS, France, July 7.

DON ZUNIGA'S victory in the French Grand Steeplechase in the record time of 5 minuts 44 seconds for the three miles and a furlong over 22 obstacles is due to a gland-grafting operation, Prof. Gabriel Petit believes.

Prof. Petit, a member of the French Academy of Medicine, revealed today that a gland operation was performed on Don Zuniga by Dr. Serge Voronoff when the horse was a yearling, and Voronoff agrees with him, he says, that Don Zuniga's speed is the result of this operation, for the horse's pedigree is mediocre.

Indeed, the yearling Don Zuniga was considered such doubtful racing material by his then owner that he consented to the experiment. Prof. Petit admits further experiments are necessary to prove his theory definitely.

Pro-Amateur Golf Meet Tomorrow

The second of the "pro-amateur" golf tournaments which were suspended during the important events of June, will be held tomorow afternoon at the North Hills Country Club. The 18-hole round will start at 1:30 p. m.

The best amateurs of the district, all of whom are back in the city after competing in the national open and Trans-Mississippi tournaments, have entered tomorrow's event. All the pofessionals of the district will participate. Entries will be received up until starting time and pairings made at the first tee.

Following the awarding of prizes, there will be a meeting of the local chapter of the Missouri Golf Professionals Association in the club house.

NELSON LEAVES TODAY TO JOIN U. S. BIKE TEAM

By Wm. M. Martin.

Chester Nelson, who will represent St. Louis in the Olympic bicycle races, will leave at noon today for New York where he will join the riders representing the other divisions of the United States. They will sail July 11 on the President Roosevelt which will carry them direct to Amsterdam and will be their headquarters while in that city.

Nelson has qualified to ride in the road race which is usually termed the bicycle marathon. The distance has not been determined as yet, but has been announced between 100 and 120 miles.

Added to Olympics in 1912.

The bicycle races were added to the Olympic games in 1912 and since that time St. Louis has been represented in each event.

In 1912 Carl Schutte and Valdon C. (Peg) Martin qualified and went to Stockholm, Sweden. In 1916 the Olympic games were abandoned on account of the World War. In 1920 James B. Freeman qualified and went to Paris, France. In 1924 John Boulicault qualified and went to Antwerp, Belgium. All these riders were members of the St. Louis Cycling Club, but this year the Century Cycling Club has produced St. Louis' representative.

Nelsen has been a consistent rider since his advent in the racing game, his records for the past eight years show: On Aug. 14, 1921, at Fairgrounds, Nelsen lowered the competition record of one and one-quarter miles, which is one lap around the course, to 2:40 1-5. On Sept. 7, 1922, he set a new 2½ mile competition record at 6:04. On Sept. 1, 1924, the 10-mile competition record, eight laps around the Fairground track. This time was 24:40. All these are city and state records existing at the present time.

Nelsen won the State championship on points in five races at distances of one-half to 10 miles, on Aug. 3, 1927. He was State representative in the National championships at Louisville, Ky., Sept. 11, 1927, where he finished sixth. On June 3, 1928, he rode the 105.3 mile over the North St. Louis course of Bellefontaine and Larimer roads and Riverview Drive in five hours and 50 minutes which is considered good time.

ST. LOUIS NEGRO STARS OPEN SECOND HALF OF SEASON WITH VICTORY

The St. Louis Stars of the Negro National Baseball League defeated the Detroit Stars in the opening game of a five-game series yesterday at the Stars' Park. The score was 9 to 8.

The second game of the series will be played this afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock.

Toro raced like a crack colt, was far out of it in early part, came gamely steadily in last furlong and was drawing out near the end. Sunbeau moved up strongly after racing prominent from start, but was not good enough for winner. Flat Iron showed fine effort and lasted gamely when urged hard in final drive. Chicago showed sudden improvement, but began tiring when reached last sixteenth. Handy Mandy came from far back in last half mile and was going fastest at the end. Mike Hall began slowly and was raced wide. Mad Play tired. Kiev quit badly after going first mile, and was eased in last sixteenth. Helen's Babe also was eased in stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Toro, win $6.04, place $4.56, show $3.70; Sun Briar, place $13.62, show $7.28; Flat Iron, show $4.02.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN FIELDS, July 7.—Toro, the great 3-year-old, owned by the Washington publisher, E. B. McLean, captured the $25,000 Lincoln Handicap here today, winning his victory under a strong stretch drive by Jockey Ambrose.

Sun Beau, owned by Willis Sharpe Kilmer and ridden by J. Craigmyle, was a close second, lasting long enough to beat Flat Iron, the Peabody colt, which was ridden by Jockey Fronk. The time for the mile and one-quarter was 2:05 3-5.

Kiev, J. E. Widener's colt, ridden by Earl Sande took the lead at quarter and showed the way until the mile was reached. The field overtook the big gray horse at the head of the stretch and for a short time Chicago was in the lead. Jockey Chiavetta failed to keep the Grabner colt in front however, and he finished fourth.

The race was worth $20,075 to winner.

Martie Flynn Scores.

Stuyvesant Peabody's Martie Flynn, odds-on choice, had an easy time in winning the Dixie Highway Purse, sixth race, from a fine field. Martie Flynn, with C. Meyer up won handily from J. J. Coughlin's Ida O'Day and Seagram Stable's Rolls Royce. Martie Flynn paid only $3.64 for $2 to win.

Many form reversals marked the day's racing. Crossco won the seventh and final race and rewarded his few backers to the extent of $62.56 for $2 to win. Hot Shot took the second at $24.48 and Golden Racket the third at $35.06.

The Homewood Purse, for juveniles, resulted in a blanket finish between Vermajo, Virado and Coal Black. Vermajo, owned by Three Ds Stock Farm stable, got up in the alst stride to nose out C. P. Winfrey's Virado. Coal Black ran an even race to place third. The winner paid $4.28 for $2.

Hot Shot, racing in Hal Price Headley's colors, beat a large band of maiden 2-year-olds in the second race. He was half a length in front of Jack Haskell. Earl of Warwick, a field horse, was third.

Domesticated won the opening race with Portia second and Huntsman third.

He Hopes to Perfect Stall Gate and Betting Plan

JUDGE JOSEPH A. MURPHY, Fairmount official, who in a story written for the Post-Dispatch, points out that the present plan of wagering "blind" on place and show should be corrected.

He points out that no totalizer yet devised has given entire satisfaction.

He believes a way will be found to post "approximate odds" on the second and third horses.

JUGGLER BEATS BLACK PANTHER AT EMPIRE CITY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—A. H. Waterson's Juggler, showing improvement and quoted at 10 to 1, scored a nose victory in the Mt. Vernon Handicap, a mile and 70 yard gallop, here today. It was a stirring finish and Juggler was mightly lucky to win. W. J. Salmon just missed scoring a double when Black Panther finished second with W. Zeigler's Weeburn third.

The start was very bad and Starter Mars Cassidy came in for a lot of booing and hissing. Half of the field was not ready for the word, with the result that they went away in Indian file.

Juggler with his light weight rushed into the lead and E. Watters who had the mount, made the most of it by hustling Juggler along all the way. He led in the stretch by three lengths but in the final furlong Maiben brought Black Panther up on the outside and just failed to gain the purse by a nose. Weeburn was third, three lengths back. The race was worth $5545.

Approximate Odds for Place And Show Need for All Tracks, Judge Joseph A. Murphy Says

By Joseph A. Murphy,
Presiding Judge Fairmount Race Track

IN RETROSPECT, gauged purely from the viewpoint of a racing official, the Fairmount meeting was most satisfactory. I think we can claim without fear of contradiction that we gave the public in the St. Louis district a clean, high-class sporting proposition.

The steady and healthy improvement in paronage and interest makes us feel that we earned public approval.

The suspensions of Jockeys Lauscher and Fisher for unfair tactics, had a salutary offect. Outranking, as they did, in experience, most of the riders and connected, as they were, with big establishments, the suspensions served as a warning to other riders that only fair riding would be tolerated. The result was that there was less rough riding than any meeting it has been my privilege to be connected with for some time.

The meeting marked the introduction of "the stall gate, which is destined to revolutionize the starting system of the Country. The gate used needs some improvement. We must get away from the individual release of the barrier, and we must have a gate which will place no obstructions under horses' feet. This will come and I think shortly.

"Place and Show" Bets Blind.

We must still work out something better in our betting system that will give the public more ante-post information. The straight approximate odds are reasonably correct; but the place and show odds are guess work and no totalizer yet demonstrated is practical.

Ninety per cent of the betting is done the last ten minutes before a race. Even with a totalizer we would be in the same position as the New York Stock Exchange, where the ticker is often many minutes behind the sales.

One can visualize the howl that would go up if the totalizer was still recording bets on a horse lengths in front up the backstretch.

I intend to do some experimenting at Hawthorne, with a view to ameliorating this condition. If my efforts seem constructive there is no question that Mr. Head, who is one of the most progressive of the present day managers, will take full advantage of them.

Stillman Will Not Make Trip As Olympic Boxer

The notice received by Al Stillman, Western A. A. U. middleweight champion, and finalist in the National tournament, which stated that he would not be taken to Amsterdam as a member of the United States, Olympic boxing team, was verified yesterday by Robert Probst, president of the Western A. A. U., who just returned from New York.

Eddie Herbst, who lost to Stillman on a foul in the semifinals, was named to take Stillman's place.

Stillman, according to Probst, wrote Olympic officials that he would be unable to make the trip on account of business reasons. He later made arrangements, however, and had received his passport and instructions to report in New York.

Probst could give no explanation why the Olympic Committee then substituted Herbst for Stillman. Herbst, with Ensign Eddie Henderson of the Naval Academy, who defeated Stillman for the National title, will represent the United States in the middleweight division.

According to press dispatches from New York, Tommy Lown, New York, three-times national welterweight champion was elected captain of the boxing team. Election of an Olympic boxing captain is a departure from custom.

North End Crew Defeats Baden In Barge Race

The North End barge crew defeated the Baden Rowing Club representatives in their special match race, opening event of the Municipal Rowing Regatta, at Creve Coeur Lake yesterday afternoon. The North Enders finished six lengths ahead of Baden, which, hopelessly beaten, quit rowing before the victors actually crossed the finish line.

In the junior double scull, Western defeated Century by six lengths over a mile and a quarter course. Dahlgreen and Kreuder were the winners. Callahan and Rethert rowed for Century.

The four-oared shell event between St. Louis and Western, and the eight-oared race were postponed because of the absence of several contestants.

In today's events the Municipal championship will be decided. Yesterday's match races did not credit points toward the title.

Eight crews, the largest entry of any event, will compete in the four oared shell race. Century, Western, and St. Louis will be represented by two crews in this race with the Baden and North End Clubs will have one crew each.

Only two clubs will compete in the single scull race. Century and Western each having two entrants.

The six-oared barge race will open the program at 2:30 p. m. and the single scull, four-oared shell, double scull, and eight-oared shell races will follow in order. The barges and eights will be rowed over a straightaway course. The other events will be one mile in length with a turn so that the spectators will see both the start and finish of the races.

Fortunate Girl raced up with the leaders but was in close quarters and lacked racing room until stretch where she slipped through on the inside, raced into lead and just lasted to outfinish Gold Mint. Latter moved up fast, challenging Charlie Bergin at half-mile ground, but was crowded badly while rounding stretch turn. Prisoner was on the outside most of the way but showed speed and raced well. Charlie Bergin set the early pace well until headed by Fortunate Girl, then was done. McTinkle and Ethel Galliger showed early speed but quit.

$2 mutuels paid—Fortunate Girl, win $4.34, place $2.44, show out. Gold Mint, place $2.76, show out. Prisoner, show, out.

aAudley Farm entry.

Chancellor raced restrained in the wake of Bobashela to the stretch turn and when latter began tiring went ahead to win in a drive over Broadside. Broadside also raced forwardly under restraint and when called upon in last eighth moved up with a strong challenge and was slowly wearing down Chancellor at end. Bobashela set a good pace until just around last turn, then tired but held on. Genial Host had no race on the outside, always kept Galahad safe and finished going fast. Galahad had no mishaps.

$2 mutuels paid: Chancellor, win $3.50, place $2.34, show out; Broadside, place $2.90, show, out; Bobashela, show out.

Intense racing forwardly under restraint for the first six furlongs, then moved up fast and when in the stretch gradually wore down the leaders and gamely outfinished High Life. Latter took command after rounding the first turn and set a good pace to the stretch, but tired, then came again, outlasting Up and Down. Up and Down followed the leaders closely and then took brief lead in stretch, but could not hold it. Oregon Fir had no mishaps. Firth of Tay closed gap. Ocean Current turned sideways at start, hopelessly left.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Intense, win $7.40, place $4.06, show $3.28; High Life, pace $6.70, show $4.34; Up and Down, show $4.92.

Spanish Aster took command on the first turn and setting a good pace held the lead thereafter held sway to end, winning easing up. Alborak was allowed to drop back after the start but worked his way up gradually, closed a wide gap and easily outfinished Finland. Latter had no mishaps racing prominently most of the way. Marabou raced in forward pursuit of leader to the stretch then began tiring. Governor Seth was always outrun.

$2 mutuels paid: Spanish Aster, win $7.33, place $3.96, show $3.24; Alborak, place $3.02, show $2.46; Finland, show $2.80.

Elias O. began slowly and was quickly hustled into a contending position, then raced restrained to far turn, moved up with a rush thereafter into the lead and easily kept Talequa safe. Latter also raced restrained well out of it for the half mile, moved up with a rush at far turn and challenged strongly, but was safe. Betsy Bacon gained gradually while saving ground on inside and also closed a wide gap. Speedwell came like a flash in the last quarter. Fire Dog, My Destiny, Post-Dispatch and First Pick showed early speed.

MISS WILL

AMERICAN STAR WINS FINAL SET AFTER LOSING THREE GAMES

Wimbledon Final Results.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

Miss Helen Wills defeated Senorita de Alvarez, 6—2, 6—3.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

Mrs. Holcroft Watson and Miss P. Saunders defeated Misses Ermyntrude Harvey and Ellen Bennett, 6—2, 6—3.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, French Davis Cup pair, won from Gerald Patterson and J. B. Hawkes, Australian veterans, 13—11, 6—4, 6—4.

MIXED DOUBLES.

Elizabeth Ryan, California, now living in England, and P. D. B. Spence of South Africa defeated Jack Crawford and Daphne Akhurst, youthful Australians, 7—5, 6—4.

By the Associated Press.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 7.—In a victory that developed dramatic possibilities unlooked for when Helen Wills is riding the courts, the Queen of American tennis today conquered Senorita Elia de Alvarez of Spain, in the women's singles final of the Wimbledon championships to gain the crown for the second straight year.

The American youngster, not as accurate as usual and somewhat off form generally, beat the Spanish girl in straight sets, 6—2, 6—3, but not until Senorita Alvarez had led 3—0 in games in the final session. Cracking then under the strain of the battle and possibly the illness that kept her from the courts for several days, Senorita Alvarez folded up under Helen's powerful drives.

Regaining her speed and stroking control, Miss Wills ran out the next six games in fine style to clinch the match and the unofficial title of world champion for the second time in succession.

There was no apparent trace of weakened stamina as Senorita Alvarez hopped, skipped and danced about the center court before a gallery of 15,000 enthusiasts that included their Majesties King Georg and Queen Mary while hundreds of ordinary fans stood in line 12 hours outside the arena seeking admission.

America's Only Winner.

Of all the American stars, Miss Wills alone captured a Wimbledon championship from the huge field that opened play two weeks ago in the annual blue ribbon tournament of the tennis world.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian, won the mixed doubles partnered with P. D. B. Spence of South Africa, but the British claim her victory because of Miss Ryan's long residence in England. Big Bill Tilden, eliminated from the singles, and Francis T. Hunter, his partner in a semi-final doubles defeat, sat in the stand and watched the men's double crown they won last year go today to the French Davis Cup Stars, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon.

Last year during four American victories in five finals, Tilden and Hunter shared the final day's spotlight with Miss Wills. The American men won the doubles, while Hunter teamed with the California girl to win the mixed doubles crown, and Miss Wills joined Miss Ryan in the women's doubles victory.

First honors in this Wimbledon tournament must go to the rising tide of France's court stars, Rene Lacoste, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, who ran away with all honors in the men's division. Lacoste won the singles crown from his Davis cup teammate, Cochet, yesterday, and today Cochet teamed with Brugnon to trounce the erratic Australian veterans, Gerald Patterson and the left-handed J. B. Hawkes, 13—11, 6—4, 6—4, after a hectic first set.

England Wins One Title.

Only one championship went to England without claim from another country, Mrs. Holcroft Watson and Saunders defeated Eileen Bennett and Mrs. Harvey in an all-British final. Although winning no title, the Australians made a particularly fine showing. Critics particularly watched young Jack Crawford, a coming star in international competition. Teamed with Daphne Akhurst, Australian girl, Crawford made a gallant stand against Miss Ryan and Spence before losing the mixed doubles championship, 7—5, 6—4.

The supremacy of Miss Wills remained unquestioned throughout the tournament, which she won without the loss of a single set. In six matches Helen dropped only 18 games while winning 72. The five games she lost to Senorita Alvarez were as many as she has dropped in any match of her present European tour.

To just what extent Miss Wills was extended today appears debatable. Not until late in the match was the California girl forced to uncover her cannonball service, and when she did unloose it in the final game, victory came at love.

The "imperturbable" Helen appeared just a bit worried at the beginning of the second set, but she may have been following her courteous custom of letting up on a beaten opponent.

BOBBY JONES Says

NATURALLY, when I look back at the recent national open championship, the highlight for me is the recollection of the play-off in which Johnny Farrell beat me by a stroke for the title. But before considering that I think I should say that Johnny and I were very lucky to be able to play again on Sunday.

With two holes left to play, Young Roland Hancock of Wilmington, N. C., had the championship as nearly won as any may be before the last putt is holed. Needing two fives against a fairly easy par of four-five, his task appeared a simple one. But the finishing strain which had got every other man in the field finally got Hancock, and, weighed down by the consciousness of his unlooked-for opportunity, two sixes was the best he could do. That, of course, left him one stroke outside of a triple tie.

It was really a shame that one who came so near must yet be so far away. Up to those last two holes Hancock had played truly magnificent golf. It is, of course, a bitter dose for him, but I hope he will be consoled by the knowledge that men much more experienced than himself faltered just as badly and a whole lot sooner than did he.

Farrell Superb in Playoff.

FARRELL'S last four rounds of 71, 72, 70, 73, were as fine as any ever played, considering the difficulty of the course and the importance of the competition. Johnny surely looked out of it after scoring 77, 74 in his first two rounds. Playing the last two rounds of the tournament proper, unnoticed save by a half dozen spectators, his finish reminded me of that of Gene Sarazen at Skokie when he came up from nowhere to win with a 68 in the final round.

With regard to the play-off, I can say only that Johnny was the winner all the way through. I must confess that after I had regained on the first two holes in the afternoon, all of the three-stroke deficit which I had faced at luncheon, I thought Johnny would find himself struggling the balance of the day. It resulted, however, on the contrary, for it was I who took six at the next hole and gave back two of the strokes so recently acquired. I then caught up again at the seventh, only to fall back again with another six at the ninth.

The stroke which actually lost for me was dropped at the sixteenth hole but I think that the deciding stroke came earlier. Standing on the thirteenth tee of the afternoon round I found myself ahead for the first time since the second hole in the morning and I was beginning to believe that I would be able to hang on until the finish. Johnny had played the last three holes in one over par each and appeared to be a bit uncertain of his shots. As he addressed his shot from that tee, I expected to see a break in my favor. Instead, however, Johnny hit one of the best pitches I have ever seen, laying his ball within a scant foot of the hole. Hearing the cheers from the green and seeing the perfect alignment of the shot, I thought for several moments that he had made a hole-in-one.

HARSHANY GIVES ONLY ONE HIT AND TOWER CAMPS BEAT AMERICANS, 2-0

BOECKMAN, THE LOSING PITCHER, LIMITS WINNERS TO FOUR BLOWS

On a sweltering, sticky afternoon when tight baseball was the exception, S. Harshany of the Tower Camps and Boeckman of the American Centrals put on a brilliant pitchers battle yesterday afternoon in the Commercial division of the Municipal Baseball Association, with the former winning, 2 to 0.

Harshany allowed only one hit during the nine innings, while Boeckman granted four. However, loose fielding was responsible for the hits off Boeckman, although there are no errors credited to his teammates. Both runs scored by the winners were unearned.

No Outfield Putouts.

In pitching his one-hit game, Harshany struck out eight, and not one ball was hit outside the infield. His record was marred by three bases on balls but not one of the three proved costly.

Only two hits were granted by Scharfenberger of the Wabash club to the Olivers, in a Y. M. C. A. Industrial League No. 1, and his team put on a 10-run rally in the second and a five-run rally in the seventh to bury its opponents, 21 to 0. Scharfenberger struck out 11.

Two double-headers were played in the Missouri Pacific League, and the Freight Accountants took advantage of the occasion by defeating the Boosters twice, 4 to 0 and 6 to 1. The Engineers and the General Accountants divided the other twin-bill, the Engineers winning the first, 8 to 4, and losing the second, 4 to 7.

The Naps gained a firmer grasp on the pennant in the Downtown Employed Boys' League by defeating the Edins, 10 to 2, for their eleventh straight victory. Joe Singer, for the winners, allowed only four hits and fanned 10 opponents.

GOLF

JOHNNY FARRELL

"The Champion Over Champions"

Without question, the most conspicuous figure in the world of sport today is Johnny Farrell, who astounded fans all over the country by capturing the national open golf championship from the supposedly invincible Bobby Jones and a brilliant field.

How did Farrell score this unexpected triumph? How did he feel when pitted against golf's "miracle man"? What were his thoughts as he found himself forging ahead of his mighty rival?

Farrell will tell all this—himself!

For years before he scored his sensational victory over Bobby Jones in the national open championship, Johnny Farrell has been known as one of the best of all player-writers on the subject of golf.

Now that Farrell has captured the championship by achieving the supposedly impossible feat of stopping Jones, his writings carry added weight.

Farrell will contribute three articles a week—pass out some tips that will help many an amateur—and will write numerous "inside" stories, not only on well-known personalities, but upon the big tournaments scheduled for the season.

Geller Trophy At Stake in Net Matches Today

Possession of the Geller trophy will be at stake this afternoon when the Forest Park and O'Fallon tennis teams clash on the Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park. The matches, which begin at 2:30 o'clock, are expected to be the most hotly contested of any played in the Interpark League. Forest Park has won the trophy twice and can gain permanent possession by winning today.

Schedule of the events:

SINGLES.

Sidney Smith, Forest Park, vs Ted Drewes, O'Fallon.
Herb Weinstock, Forest Park, vs. Ed Serrano, O'Fallon.
Leon Neuman, Forest Park, vs. Bill Bell, O'Fallon.

DOUBLES.

Jim Murphy and Al Rothschild, Forest Park, vs. Hap Schaberg and Billy Bascom O'Fallon.
Isadore Rosenfeld and Joyce Portney Forest Park, vs. Dude Meyer and Ed Beckerman, O'Fallon.

JOE DUNDEE STOPS SPANIARD IN EIGHTH

BARCELONA, July 7.—Joe Dundee of the United States, welterweight champion of the world, won over Hilario Martinez of Spain by a technical knockout in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout here tonight. It was the first appearance of a world champion in Spain since Jack Johnson, former heavyweight titleholder, was boxing here.

With blood streaming down his face from a badly cut eye, Martinez was forced to abandon the fight. Dundee was clearly leading on points when the end came.

Angry at what they considered illegal punching by the champion, spectators hissed as the referee awarded the decision to the American.

PART THREE.

Hearing on Ouster of 162 Stations Will Open Monday

Three Broadcasters in St. Louis Slated to Be Put off Air Will Make Fight Before Federal Radio Board at Washington Tomorrow.

DISPATCHES from Washington indicate that the Federal Radio Commission expects only 30 or so stations to be represented at the hearing tomorrow to show cause why they should not be refused licenses to broadcast.

Among the 30 will be the three St. Louis stations that have virtually been ordered off the air—KFQA, of the Principia; WMAY, of the Kingshighway Presbyterian Church, and KFWF, of the St. Louis Truth Center.

There is no information indicating whether any of these St. Louis stations have a chance to convince the Commission that it should be allowed to broadcast. KFQA and WMAY share time with KWK, but use only an hour a week and have not aroused any opposition from listeners. KFWF is on the air regularly two night a week—Sunday and Thursday—and at times broadcasts more frequently. It has been the object of opposition from listeners in the neighborhood of Lindell boulevard and Sarah street, who have complained that it blankets their receivers. The discussion between the Rev. Charles Hartman, minister of the Truth Center, and the more pugnacious of the complainants has more than once become acrimonious. The Rev. Mr. Hartman said Friday that he planned to appear himself at the Washington hearing and that KFWF also would have legal representation.

Notice was sent by the Commission to 162 stations to show cause why their licenses should be renewed. It is believed in Washington that more than 100 stations will acquisce in cancellation of their licenses without making any effort to have them renewed.

It is generally believed that most of the stations that do appear will find it difficult to prove that they serve a sufficient public interest to justify their continuance.

While it is conceded that the stations may have some value, the thought is that there are too many stations and so there must be a reduction. The stations to which the ouster notice was sent represented those that, in the opinion of the Commission, could best be spared.

The Commission will follow these rules in conducting the hearings:

"The applicant for license may introduce any witnesses it may desire.

"In addition, it may introduce any affidavits relating to relevant facts.

"The fact in issue is whether or not public interest, convenience or necessity will be served by granting to the applicant a license under the request for the wave length or frequency.

"All persons interested in the granting or refusal of the application and the frequency therein applied for, including other licensees authorized to use the frequency requested, may appear and will be heard upon any relevant matters.

"The Commission may likewise introduce witnesses or affidavits.

"All applications for licenses or copies thereof on file with the Commission may be introduced in evidence at the hearings.

"The witnesses introduced at the hearing before testifying will be sworn by a member of the Commission. The Commission will pass upon the relevancy and competency of the testimony offered to be introduced before it.

"After conclusion of the hearing and within a reasonable time the Commission will render its decision in writing."

Southern Songs By Roxy's Gang

A cycle of Southern Negro songs, by Stephen Foster, Lily Strick and David Guion and W. Middleton, is to be sung in the Roxy broadcast over KWK tomorow evening. An added feature is to be the formal return to the Gang of Frank Moulan, the comedian. He is to sing Collinge's "Breezy Day" with the male quartet, and "What's the Use of Words?" His arrangement of "Limericks" is to be sung by the quartet.

The Symphony Orchestra, the ensemble, the male quartet, Gladys Rice, Viola Philo, Douglas Stanbury, Harold Van Duzee and Aldo Bomonte will take part in presenting "Down South," "Arkansas Traveler," "Swanee River," "Lindy Lou," "Old Folks at Home," and "Turkey in the Straw."

A dramatized version of the Biblical episode in which Abraham nearly sacrifices his son, Isaac, is to be given over KSD at 7:45.

William Ford Manley, the author, has graphically depicted the terror of the boy's mother when she suspects some deadly motive for Abraham's insistence that the boy accompany him to the place of sacrifice. He further portrays the unquestioning faith of the son in obeying his father's commands—even to the point of suffering himself to be bound and held beneath the knife of Abraham.

Scotch Music on KSD Tomorrow

Robert Bruce, liberator and hero of Scotland, will be the center of the drama broadcast in the General Motors Family Party over KSD tomorrow night. The program will be one of Scottish songs and instrumental music.

Famed in song and story as the founder of the new kingdom of Scotland, Robert the Bruce, from his wanderings as an outlaw in the mountains to his victory at Bannockburn and then on to his Irish and other wars, typified the Scottish love of liberty and independent nationality.

Descended from Robert de Bruis, a Norman knight who accompanied William the Conqueror to England, this the eighth Robert the Bruce was born July 11, 1274. After the death of "Red Comyn," whom he had stabbed in the church of the Minorite Friars at Dumfries, Bruce hastened to Lochmaben Castle, assembled his vassals, and proclaimed his right to the throne. On March 27, 1306, he was crowned King at Scone, but later was forced to flee to the highlands and then to Ireland.

The memorable battle of Bannockburn, June 24, 1314, established him as Robert I, of Scotland. In this battle, the Scots, to the rumble of drums and with the bagpipes playing "Hey Tutti Taiti," fought their way to freedom, defeating the English army of Ed-

DUESENBERG FORECASTS HIGH Efficiency Speed Engines

MARKED improvement in high-speed, high-efficiency engines is to be accomplished in the next few years, Fred S. Duesenberg, famous Indianapolis biulder of fast power-plants, believes.

The engine of the future, in the opinion of Duesenberg, will have better balance, longevity, develop more power with greater efficiency, and be more satisfactory to the motoring public,

"The present trend is toward a larger number of small changes in design and construction rather than toward radical departures from former design and methods," Duesenberg said recently in an address before the Society of Automotive Engineers at Milwaukee.

"The combustion chamber is the most important contributor to high efficiency," he said. "If the shape of the combustion chamber, the area and location of the valves, and the location of the spark plugs are not right, all the other refinements of detail are of little value."

Stating that the intake manifold is no doubt second in importance, Duesenberg said that this is particularly true with present fuels and becomes of even greater importance as the speed of the engine increases. Apparently the manifold that gives top-speed performance does not give best results at low speed, and the manifold for best economy does not give high-speed performance.

Therefore, the best that can be accomplished is a compromise, and, unless a manifold can be perfected so that double carburetion becomes possible and practicable, he sees no means of obtaining correct mixtures at all speeds.

Valve area does not seem to be an important factor at low speeds, but for high speeds it is the controlling factor unless a supercharger is used. In the latter case the pressure created by the supercharger can offset to some extent the deficiency in valve area.

The shape of the valve, its circumference and the surrounding contour of the head all play an important part.

The valve-seat angle also is of considerable importance in connection with high speed. Comparing the 30-degree with the 45-degree angle seat, the speaker stated that it is possible to get considerably greater area and a better opening for the same amount of lift with the former.

Misalignment Said to Cause Most Valve Troubles

ELIMINATION of engine and chasis noises has been keeping pace with other progressive steps in the evolution of our automobiles into the powerful and smooth running cars we have today.

Few, however, are the engines that can accumulate any great mileage in use without valve trouble, which is made evident by repeated visits to the service station to have the tappets adjusted and sticky valves freed or, in some cases, to have a burned valve replaced.

Valve trouble in most cars means lack of power; the engine will not idle, the car will not climb a hill as it used to do; some simple indication tells a man that his car needs the valves ground. Perfect valve action is complete, quiet closing at any speed.

Ninety per cent of the valve troubles are the results of misalignment of the valve head with the valve stem, valve-stem guide or valve seat.

The valve seats and valve-stem guides are subject to seasoning, as is the case with all parts made of cast iron, and the intense heat generated in the automobile engine brings a rapid change in the texture of the metal and distorts these parts. The guides sometimes require from 1000 to 2000 miles of running before they have become permanently set or seasoned.

Thus, every hour's operation of the engine adds to the value of the material in these parts, but makes it necessary to service or recondition the valve seats as soon as possible after the engine shows such reconditioning to be needed.

The guide, a small cast-iron member held by less than 50 per cent of its own length and extending, as it does, into the valve port where the heat from the burning gas has greater opportunity to warp it, soon loses its perfect alignment with the seat and changes the direction of travel of the valve.

The spring has the power to close the valve regardless of this untrue condition, but does so through the valve striking a small portion of the seat first, and then gaining the full seat through a pendulum-like swing of the stem. This produces a metallic click that defies removal through cutting the tappet clearance.

Sticking valves are produced through the same misalignment. Fifty thousand to 100,000 times a day the valve is opened and closed in the normal running of an automobile. Under the best conditions, this side-slap of the stem will produce carbon to such an extent that it will seal the valve stem in its guide regardless of the amount of clearance.

With the advent of high-speed engines, warped and burned valves began to be noticed. When a valve does not close completely, the compressed burning gas, which reaches, under ordinary operating conditions, a temperature of 1500 to 2000 degrees Fahrenheit, is forced with great velocity through the small opening left and burns the valve face or warps the stem.

It is impossible, when a valve guide warps and loses its original alignment with the block and the valve seat, to bring it back, yet it is ridiculous to replace it. The first 10,000 to 15,000 miles of operation of any engine makes the set of cylinders worth a dozen new ones, so far as warpage is concerned. On most of them warpage of 5 to 15 thousandths of an inch occurs in 15,000 miles of running.

Motoring Trip To Shenandoah Valley Offers Lovely Scenery

Tour Traverses War Road of the Indians and Highway of Strife in Civil War—Caverns and Famous Natural Bridge Among Attractions.

By ROBERT H. HALL,
Auto Editor.

FOR scenic beauty and historic interest, there is probably no motor trip that a St. Louisan can take that can surpass the tour via Louisville, the Kentucky bluegrass region, Lexington and Cumberland Gap to the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia—war trail of the Indians and highway of strife during the Civil War.

Near the valley, at Manassas Junction, a town near the little stream called Bull Run, about 25 miles southwest of Washington, Gen. Beauregard defeated Gen. McDowell's Federal army, in the famous battle of that name.

In the valley itself was Gen. Joseph Johnston, the greatest Confederate commander next to Lee, who guarded, among other things, the Confederate Capitol at Richmond. And who does not remember the stirring tale of Harper's Ferry, where John Brown's famous raid occurred and where subsequently he was executed? Winchester, in old Virginia, which changed hands 70 times during the Civil War. And Strasburg, where still can be seen the rugged fort Gen. Bank erected so that he could guard the coveted pass over Mansanutten Mountain.

Not because of its historic interest only is the Shenandoah Valley a lure to tourists. Near New Market, in the center of the valley, are the Endless Caverns, subterranean labyrinths of vaulted halls and chambers, richly colored and studded with stalagmite and stalactit[illegible] At Lexington, Va., on the road through the valley, the tourist crosses a natural bridge 210 feet high and with a span of 90 feet.

Again, at Grottoes, Va., adjacent to the Shenandoah National Park area, are the Grand Caverns, discovered in 1804 and since explored for many miles; at Luray, the Caverns of Luray, vaster than Grand and Endless Caverns, and made easily accessible by a complete system of indirect lighting, cement walks, iron railings and stairways.

For scenic beauty, Shenandoah Valley is unlike anything nature has to offer in this part of the country. The mountains bordering it are wooded and highly colored, not bare and drab as are those in many portions of the West.

Shenandoah, in the language of the Indian, means "daughter of the stars." Anyone who has seen it, flanked as it is on the east by the Blue Ridge range and on the West by the Allegheníes, realizes the appropriateness of its Indian name.

Shenandoah Valley and its environs are easy of access. Lexington, Ky., for Missourians, is the preferable gateway. Going this way and following a circuitous route, the motorist can pass a pleasant vacation of several weeks in seven states.

Leaving St. Louis, the motorist can follow U. S. Highway No. 50 through Illinois to Vincennes, Ind. Save for a short detour at Breese, Ill., about 30 miles east of St. Louis, this highway is entirely of concrete. From Vincennes to Shoals, Ind., U. S. 50 is a good gravel road. From the latter point, U. S. 150 is followed through West Baden, Paoli and Palmyra into Louisville, except for a gravel detour between West Baden and Paoli. Concrete is traveled between Palmyra and Louisville.

Eastward from Louisville to Lexington, concreted U. S. 60 is the route.

South beyond Lexington, the Dixie Highway, marked U. S. 25, is traveled. This is concrete and passes through such historic points as Kingston, Berea, Conway and Corbin. Just south of Conway the Great Saltpeter Cave may be visited.

The route becomes U. S. 411 through Barbourville and Middleboro, in the heart of the Kentucky coal fields. Cumberland Gap, on the Kentucky-Tennessee and Virginia border, is next gained and now the picturesque mountain country is entered. U. S. 411 winds along the southern rim of the Shenandoah Valley, sometimes high along a mountain side, again down deep valleys, always in Virginia—into which State it enters immediately after Cumberland Gap is passed—until one has traveled almost 100 miles of it, and then it swings down into Bristol, Tenn.

But brief is the stay in Tennessee, for now the tourist faces northeast, straight up the heart of the valley through Pulaski and Roanoke to Natural Bridge. The bridge at this point, as previously mentioned, carries the main high-

WHAT'S NEWEST IN AUTOMOBILES IN ST. LOUIS As Seen in Distributers' and Dealers' Showrooms

NEW CARS OF STUDEBAKER LINES ARRIVE

Lurie Motor Company Displaying Models Today.

New models of the Studebaker President, Commander and Dictator lines of automobiles have been placed on display for the first time in St. Louis today in the showrooms of the Lurie Motor Car Co., at Grand and Lindell boulevards. The new cars carry many refinements over the present line of Studebaker cars, and, in the case of the President line, an eight-cylinder car with an engine developing 109 horsepower, is being offered at $1695 factory list. It is said to be capable of 80 m. p. h.

New body lines and radiators of new design are offered on the models of all three lines. These are the major changes, but in the case of the Dictator and President lines, engines have been made somewhat more powerful, thereby adding to the speed possibilities of these cars.

Adoption of ball-bearing spring shackles was announced by Studebaker after tests totaling more than 177,000 miles on 11 test cars. These tests were made on Studebaker's million-dollar proving ground and over transcontinental roads. During the entire time, there had been no bearing failures and the shackles were performing as quietly and smoothly as the day they were applied. Even though some of the test cars had attained more than 35,000 miles, it was not necessary to add lubricant to any of the test shackles, it is said.

Coupled with deep upholstery and hydraulic shock absorbers, these new spring shackles insure unexcelled riding comfort.

The President straight eight line offers two five and two seven passenger sedans, a victoria for four, two cabriolets for four, a seven-passenger state limousine, a smart sport roadster for four and a seven-passenger tourer.

Color combinations embody many of the latest shades dictated by fashion authorities. Body panels are antiqued in attractive shades and delicate pin striping completes the color schemes.

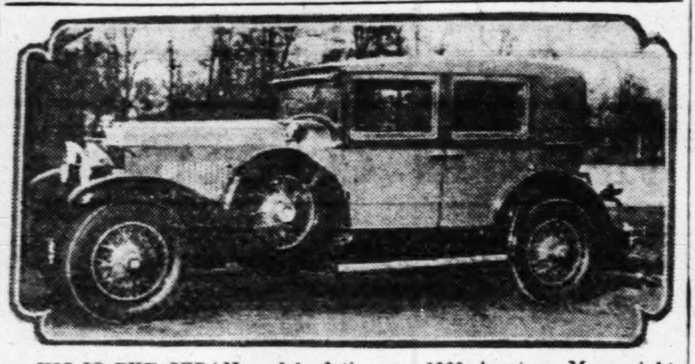
The interiors harmonize with the exterior color combinations. The broad lounge cushions are luxuriously deep and form fashioned along lines entirely different from conventional practice. The contour of the seat backs and cushions fits the human body perfectly.

Silk curtains at both back and rear quarter windows, silk assist cords, heavily upholstered arm rests, antique finished door panels with etched silver medallions, heavy Wilton velvet carpets, upholstered foot rests, large door pockets and heavy ornamental robe rails are features.

Equipment is complete. Twin-beam headlights, automatic windshield cleaner, rear vision mirror, coincidental lock to steering and ignition, hydraulic shock absorbers, dash gasoline gauge and rear traffic signal light are standard equipment on all President, Commander and Dictator models.

Two of Studebaker's advancements in engineering are incorporated in the President. The first provides for the driving of the President 40 miles per hour even when new. The second provides for the elimination of frequent motor oil changes and chassis lubrication attention. Due to an efficient system of crankcase ventilation, thermostatic water control and oil filter, it is necessary to change engine oil only at intervals of 2500 miles.

HOW THE NEW MOON LOOKS



THIS IS THE SEDAN model of the new 1929 Aerotype Moon eight-cylinder line which has just been placed into production here by the Moon Motor Cor Co.

1929 CHRYSLER MODELS TO BE SHOWN TODAY

Marked by More Powerful Engine and Striking Radiator Change.

New 1929 Chrysler cars, in both the "75", replacing the present "72", and the "65", replacing the present "62" models, are on display today by Midwest Motors, Inc., the Chrysler distributer here. The "65" is priced slightly above $1000, while the "75" is priced around $1500.

The major changes in the line are a more powerful engine, developing greater speed, a striking change in radiator design, longer chassis and wider bodies.

The new cars have style and beauty, finer smoothness of operation at all speeds; greater comfort through a redesigning of seats and seat postures, plus the use of finer shock absorber equipment; light-action internal expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes; "silver dome" perfected high-compression cylinder head, using any grade of gasoline, and extracting from each grade more in power, speed, acceleration, hill climbing and general operating efficiency than has hitherto been considered possible.

The new "65" combines a powerful engine, strong chassis and roomy, luxurious body into a beautiful motor car costing only slightly more than $1000.

Like the "75", the "65's" entire body is mounted on live rubber shims to promote quietness and prevent loosening of hold-down bolts. Seats are both wider and deeper, with greater leg-room and head-room; upholstery and body trim finer and more durable. Brilliant new colors are offered for each of the six body styles. List prices range from $1040 for the business coupe to $1145 for the four-door sedan and cope with rumble seat.

Many other features heretofore exclusive to the higher priced Chryslers are now included in the "65". Like the "75" and Imperial "80", its seven-bearing crankshaft is counterweighted. The engines develop 65 and 75 horsepower and car speeds of 65 and 75 miles an hour, respectively.

Bodies and engines of both cars are wholly insulated against transmitting shocks to each other by new type Chrysler engine mountings, having rubber plates between the frame and engine supports. Instead of metal spring shackles, both cars have rubber spring mountings, with their freedom from wear, easier riding, lack of noise and nonlubricating features. Both use Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers all around.

Other new standards of beauty are noticeable in both cars. Radiator, hood and cowl are all higher. There is a distinct innovation to the radiator shell design. Departure from the heavy conventional type to the narrow oval design gives each a trim, powerful, clean-cut appearance and lends itself in perfect harmony with the treatment used throughout hood and body. Both the head and cowl lamps are ingeniously mounted, concealing all bolts, nuts, wires and grommets.

Cushions in all closed cars are the saddle-spring type. Upholstery in the "75" is offered either in mohair or broadcloth. Particular attention in both cars has been devoted to the human body's proper seating posture to provide the most restful and comfortable seating both for the driver and passengers. This same attention is also noted in the open models.

Marmon Chief Wants Baumes Law Everywhere

Thinks Its Equivalent Would Curb Activities of Automobile Thiefs.

The equivalent of the Baumes law, or the habitual criminal act, in every State as a means of reducing automobile thefts to a minimum is the suggestion made by G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor Car Co., based on the recent report of such thefts in 28 American cities, issued by the National Automobile Dealers' Association.

This report shows that of the 95,083 motor vehicles stolen in these cities last year, 87,186, or 91.7 per cent, were recovered.

Commenting on these figures, the Marmon head expressed satisfaction at the change of attitude shown by the courts in dealing with cases involving automobile theft, which, he pointed out, was in marked contrast to the attitude 10 years ago when it was almost impossible to secure the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

"Neither the efficiency of the police nor the co-operation of the courts, however," said Williams, "is going to solve the problem satisfactorily. Laws requiring a bill of sale with each car changing hands have had their share in discouraging thefts in states where such legislation has been passed, and such laws should be enacted into the statutes of every State. Thus it would be more difficult to dispose of a stolen car.

"The Dyer act is another good law. But the Dyer act does not go far enough. New York seems to have an efficient weapon in the Baumes law, an uncompromising measure which is rightly feared by all criminals."

Sport Roadster Added to Dodge Victory 6 Line

Has All of Closed Car's Refinements, With Additional Features.

The addition of a sport roadster in the Victory Six line has been announced by Dodge Brothers, Inc., to meet the demand for an open car combining Victory Six performance with smartness and attractive color combinations. Six wire wheels, the two spares being carried in wells of the front fenders, are standard equipment with trunk rack in the rear are provided. With the top down, the windshield can be pushed over forward to afford unobstructed vision.

Heavy nickel plating features the roadster equipment throughout. Included in the nickel finish are steering column, gear shift and handbrake levers, bumpers, windshield frame and automatic wiper, cowl lamps and molding, head lamps and stanchions, door handles, spare tire carriers and locks, hood hinge and latches and hub caps.

Three passengers can be seated comfortably in the front seat. Mechanically, innovations of the sport roadster include the starting button on the instrument board instead of on the floor, and an engine temperature indicator under the glass instrument panel grouped with oil gauge, speedometer, ammeter and fuel gauge.

'PLYMOUTH' IS LOW-PRICED CHRYSLER JOB

New Line, Replacing Model "52," to Sell From $670 to $725.

Walter P. Chrysler has entered the low-priced car field. Beginning today Chrysler distributers and dealers here and elsewhere in the country are displaying the new Plymouth car which replaces the model "52" car of the past. Offered in six body styles, a coupe, two and four door sedans, de luxe coupe, roadster and phaeton, the new line is priced at from $670 to $725, factory list.

Various of these body styles are on display at Midwest Motors Inc., Chrysler distributer here.

These are the features the new car is said to have: Finer smoothness of operation at all speeds; [illegible] miles per hour with a smoothness unlike anything approaching its price; rides the roughest roads at 25 to 30 miles an hour without jar or discomforts; handles with amazing ease at every speed under any condition; is the only car in the low-price field with the safety factor of internal expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes. "Silver dome" perfected high-compression cylinder head, using any grade of gasoline and extracting from each grade more in power, hill-climbing ability, speed and acceleration than has hitherto been considered possible.

Other merits include the 45-horsepower engine with the Chrysler principle of entire engine floating in rubber, forming a cushion between power plant and frame to destroy the transmission of torsional vibrations and sound from one to the other; frame rigidly tied together by four cross supports; new type self adjusting spring shackles, thereby eliminating noise, wear and attention; force feed lubrication; ventilated bridge type alloy pistons; special manifolding; Silchrome steel exhaust valves; air cleaner; oil filter; crank case ventilation; propellor shaft of seamless steel tubing; impulse neutralizer, which prevents transmission of torque impulses to the car body; new type shock-absorbing spring

At St. Louis

DIFFICULT flying conditions were encountered by St. Louis pilots in their search for Leslie H. Smith, crack air mail pilot, whose body was found last Sunday on a wooded slope near Elsinore, in Southern Missouri, where he had crashed in a storm four days before, on a special trip from Little Rock to Lambert Field.

When it became evident that the search for the pilot, or his body, must be carried on in a systematic manner, a base was established at Flat River, and from it the flyers operated on missions designed to cover every section of the territory near which Smith's motor had last been heard.

The Flat River field was tight, and well sprinkled with tree stumps, which made even taxying dangerous. To add to the pilots' troubles, sightseers gathered on the field and refused to get out of the way of the planes.

For a final obstacle, the weather grew hot and buggy, so that the air lost its lift and made a longer run necessary for a takeoff. A tragedy was narrowly averted on the day before Smith's body was found, when Chief Air Mail Pilot "Bud" Gurney took his powerful Whirlwind Travel Air off the field.

Before the take-off a sightseer had been warned to remove from the field a battered flivver in which he and four or five others were watching the pilots. He moved his machine up the field and over the top of a hill but beyond that he refused to go.

Gurney, taxying up the hill, pulled his ship off near the machine, but it did not climb rapidly enough and his landing gear crashed squarely through the windshield of the machine and ripped the top from it. Oddly enough, none of the occupants was hurt.

Low-hanging clouds that wreathed the Ozark hills in mist forced the flyers to whip along almost in the treetops to catch a glimpse of the ground and many times they had to pull their ships back and climb steeply to avoid hills that loomed up before them in the mist.

Clyde Brayton of Parks Airlines and "Boots" Dempsey of Lambert Field, flying Whirlwind Travel-Airs, roared past each other in a thick cloud without Brayton ever seeing Dempsey's ship. Elmer Lindberg, the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Corporation pilot, who was Dempsey's observer, caught a swift glimpse of Brayton's plane—just enough to identify it—before it disappeared in the mist. At the time both planes were traveling at more than 100 miles an hour.

Runs Into Pond, but Wades Out.

"Bud" Gurney and Eyre Sloniger flew to Advance, Mo., Thursday, and there dragged from a pond a Ryan brougham which had settled in the water in the preceding week after Gurney had made a forced landing there with a load of newspapers.

Flying to Houston with papers for convention delegates, Gurney had made a successful landing in a heavy storm, but on the take-off had gone into the pond and had to wade out in water breast deep. The only damage was a bent propellor.

It was on the day after the forced landing that Smith crashed. To fill his place Gurney made the round trip between St. Louis and Houston in one day, flying 1580 miles and spending almost 17 hours in the air.

In One Day of Flying.

An equally unusual flying record for a single day was made recently by Frank Dunn, pilot for Phil DeC. Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns. Taking off from Lambert Field in the early morning in Ball's Ryan brougham, Dunn called before luncheon at Omaha, Neb., where he picked up Frank Mahoney, president of the Mahoney-Ryan Aircraft Corporation.

On that same day he and Mahoney hopped at Lincoln, Neb., Sioux City, Ia., and St. Joseph, Mo., where Mahoney called upon prospective dealers in Ryan monoplanes. They were back in St. Louis for dinner the same evening.

To Summer Resort by Air.

Milt Girton of Von Hoffmann Aircraft Corporation picked up Albert Von Hoffmann and Bernard Von Hoffmann at Parks Airport Sunday and flew them to Eagle River, Wis., for a vacation. Girton will remain in Wisconsin for several weeks, carrying passengers at the summer resorts.

In the previous week Girton had made cross-country trips to Chicago and Kansas City, carrying on the latter trip four officials of the Monsanto Chemical Works.

Flying Students Graduated.

Thirty-two student flyers were graduated from the Parks Airlines ground school at a banquet last Tuesday at the Broadview Hotel, East St. Louis, at which Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow, commandant of Scott Field, was the principal speaker. All of the students have taken flying courses in connection with their ground work and 26 remained at the school to continue with advanced flying work.

The ground school is under the direction of J. B. Bogart, who was toastmaster at the dinner. Among the speakers were H. P. Mammen, president, and Oliver L. Parks, vice president of Parks Airlines. The honor man in the graduating class was H. J. Zimmer, 3922 Federer avenue.

Troy Rides Out to the Show.

James A. Troy, general secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, had his first airplane ride last Sunday, when he went to Lambert Field to look over the airplanes that had rooms

Offered in six body styles, a coupe, two and four door sedans, de luxe coupe, roadster and phaeton, the new line is priced at from $670 to $725, factory list.

Various of these body styles are on display at Midwest Motors Inc., Chrysler distributer here.

These are the features the new car is said to have: Finer smoothness of operation at all speeds; 60 miles per hour with a smoothness unlike anything approaching its price; rides the roughest roads at 25 to 30 miles an hour without jar or discomforts; handles with amazing ease at every speed under any condition; is the only car in the low-price field with the safety factor of internal expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes. "Silver dome" perfected high-compression cylinder head, using any grade of gasoline and extracting from each grade more in power, hill-climbing ability, speed and acceleration than has hitherto been considered possible.

Other merits include the 45-horsepower engine with the Chrysler principle of entire engine floating in rubber, forming a cushion between power plant and frame to destroy the transmission of torsional vibrations and sound from one to the other; frame rigidly tied together by four cross supports: new type self adjusting spring shackles, thereby eliminating noise, wear and attention; force feed lubrication; ventilated bridge type alloy pistons; special manifolding; Silchrome steel exhaust valves; air cleaner; oil filter: crank case ventilation; propellor shaft of seamless steel tubing; impulse neutralizer, which prevents transmission of torque impulses to the car body; new type shock-absorbing spring

At St. Louis Air Fields

Difficult flying conditions were encountered by St. Louis pilots in their search for Leslie H. Smith, crack air mail pilot, whose body was found last Sunday on a wooded slope near Elsinore, in Southern Missouri, where he had crashed in a storm four days before, on a special trip from Little Rock to Lambert Field.

When it became evident that the search for the pilot, or his body, must be carried on in a systematic manner, a base was established at Flat River, and from it the flyers operated on missions designed to cover every section of the territory near which Smith's motor had last been heard.

The Flat River field was tight, and well sprinkled with tree stumps, which made even taxying dangerous. To add to the pilots' troubles, sightseers gathered on the field and refused to get out of the way of the planes.

For a final obstacle, the weather grew hot and buggy, so that the air lost its lift and made a longer run necessary for a takeoff. A tragedy was narrowly averted on the day before Smith's body was found, when Chief Air Mail Pilot "Bud" Gurney took his powerful Whirlwind Travel Air off the field.

Before the take-off a sightseer had been warned to remove from the field a battered flivver in which he and four or five others were watching the pilots. He moved his machine up the field and over the top of a hill but beyond that he refused to go.

Gurney, taxying up the hill, pulled his ship off near the machine, but it did not climb rapidly enough and his landing gear crashed squarely through the windshield of the machine and ripped the top from it. Oddly enough, none of the occupants was hurt.

Low-hanging clouds that wreathed the Ozark hills in mist forced the flyers to whip along almost in the treetops to catch a glimpse of the ground and many times they had to pull their ships back and climb steeply to avoid hills that loomed up before them in the mist.

Clyde Brayton of Parks Airlines and "Boots" Dempsey of Lambert Field, flying Whirlwind Travel-Airs, roared past each other in a thick cloud without Brayton ever seeing Dempsey's ship. Elmer Lindberg, the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Corporation pilot, who was Dempsey's observer, caught a swift glimpse of Brayton's plane—just enough to identify it—before it disappeared in the mist. At the time both planes were traveling at more than 100 miles an hour.

Runs Into Pond, but Wades Out.

"Bud" Gurney and Eyre Sloniger flew to Advance, Mo., Thursday, and there dragged from a pond a Ryan brougham which had settled in the water in the preceding week after Gurney had made a forced landing there with a load of newspapers.

Flying to Houston with papers for convention delegates, Gurney had made a successful landing in a heavy storm, but on the take-off had gone into the pond and had to wade out in water breast deep. The only damage was a bent propellor.

It was on the day after the forced landing that Smith crashed. To fill his place Gurney made the round trip between St. Louis and Houston in one day, flying 1580 miles and spending almost 17 hours in the air.

In One Day of Flying.

An equally unusual flying record for a single day was made recently by Frank Dunn, pilot for Phil DeC. Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns. Taking off from Lambert Field in the early morning in Ball's Ryan brougham, Dunn called before luncheon at Omaha, Neb., where he picked up Frank Mahoney, president of the Mahoney-Ryan Aircraft Corporation.

On that same day he and Mahoney stopped at Lincoln, Neb., Sioux City, Ia., and St. Joseph, Mo., where Mahoney called upon prospective dealers in Ryan monoplanes. They were back in St. Louis for dinner the same evening.

To Summer Resort by Air.

Milt Girton of Von Hoffmann Aircraft Corporation picked up Albert Von Hoffmann and Bernard Von Hoffmann at Parks Airport Sunday and flew them to Eagle River, Wis., for a vacation. Girton will remain in Wisconsin for several weeks, carrying passengers at the summer resorts.

In the previous week Girton had made cross-country trips to Chicago and Kansas City, carrying on the latter trip four officials of the Monsanto Chemical Works.

Flying Students Graduated.

Thirty-two student flyers were graduated from the Parks Airlines ground school at a banquet last Tuesday at the Broadview Hotel, East St. Louis, at which Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow, commandant of Scott Field, was the principal speaker. All of the students have taken flying courses in connection with their ground work and 26 remained at the school to continue with advanced flying work.

The ground school is under the direction of J. B. Bogart, who was toastmaster at the dinner. Among the speakers were H. P. Mammen, president, and Oliver L. Parks, vice president of Parks Airlines. The honor man in the graduating class was H. J. Zimmer, 3922 Federer avenue.

Troy Rides Out to the Show.

James A. Troy, general secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, had his first airplane ride last Sunday, when he went to Lambert Field to look over the airplanes that had arrived on the preceding day in the National Air Tour.

The tour incidentally was a good show for the flying fan. Among the ships were such neat busses as the Buhl sesqui-plane, a Whirlwind Stearman, the big Ford tri-motor, the tiny monocoupe, Bellancas, Stinsons and others of aviation's latest efforts.

There were 24 planes in the tour and all of them made the first day's travel, from Detroit to Indianapolis and from Indianapolis to St. Louis, without incident.

Thousands visited the field Sunday to inspect the ships, which were staked out on the line in order of their arrival. They hopped off Monday morning at one-minute intervals for Springfield, Mo., and Wichita, Kan.

Arrangements for handling the planes had been made by Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, and the ships were berthed, staked and serviced without a hitch. They were timed by T. Preston Sultan, World War pursuit flyer and airport consultant.

Need of Airport Shown.

The arrival of the tour emphasized St. Louis' need of a good airport such as is to be established if the voters approve the $2,000,000 bond issue proposal on August 7. The present field was adequate for the tour, but it could have been handled with much less special preparation had it been larger and better equipped.

In New Brick Hangars.

The Von Hoffman Aircraft Corporation has moved into its new brick hangars, on the sides and roofs of which have been painted the firm's name in white letters. Among the new ground school equipment in the hangars are cut-out OX-5, Lawrence, Hispano and Liberty motors, which will be used for classroom work. The company also has a new Eaglerock, which was flown in by Dale Jackson from Colorado Springs.

Ford Tri-Motors Expected Soon.

Robertson Aircraft Corporation is expecting the first of its Ford tri-motors for delivery on Aug. 1. The planes will be put into passenger service between St. Louis and Chicago and will be used between St. Louis and Omaha as soon as that route is lighted.

The Robertson Corporation also has ordered two new Ryan broughams and also is expecting delivery of a carload of Waco-Tens, which will be placed in stock for sale.

Visitors at Parks Airport.

Parks Airlines has purchased a new Stinson Detroiter, which has been delivered. The plane is equipped with dual dep control and will be used to acquaint advanced students with wheel control, as well as for carrying passengers.

Among the visiting pilots at Parks Airport last week were Barney Zimmerly in a Monocoupe, traveling from Moline, Il., to Marshall, Mo.; Glen Ronky in an American Eagle, in a round trip from Peoria; Glen Harrman from Marietta, O., to Tulsa in a J-5 Stearman; C. R. Beindorf, also traveling from Marietta to Tulsa, in a J-5 Travel-Air, and W. D. Ator on a round trip from Champaign, Ill., in an OX-5 Waco-10.

Today the usual Sunday afternoon OX-5 race is to be held at Parks Airport, with the Ambassador Theater trophy for the winning flyer.

Dempsey, incidentially, had been painfully injured on the day Smith was lost, when a Monocoupe which he was testing at Lambert-St. Louis Field, crashed as he came in to land, washing out completely.

In the crash Dempsey's ankles were sprained and he was cut on the legs but when the search began the next day he was among the first to fly south and he was in the air during all the daylight hours for three days, with his feet in carpet slippers. Oscar Johnson, wealthy young sportsman for whom Dempsey is flying, instructed his pilot to remain in the search until Smith's fate was learned, and Dempsey, who likes to fly, enthusiastically carried out his order.

Others active in the search were Maj. C. Ray Wassall, Capt. Harry Young, and Lieuts. Sparks and Johannpeter, of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, Maj. William B. Robertson, E. I. Sloniger, one of Gurney's flying mates, "Red" Jackson, the first pilot to get to the spot where his body was found by hunters, Lindbergh and Milt Girton.

"Red," "Boots" Dempsey, and Lindbergh flew over the grave of the flyer at Memphis, Mo., Wednesday and dropped roses as the funeral obsequies closed. Other pilots who flew to Memphis for the funeral were O. E. Scott and Frank T. Dunn.

New Drop Frame On the Humobile

Demand for lower-slung automobiles has led to radical changes in motor car design in the last few years, exemplified by the Century Hupmobile, which hugs the ground closely and not only looks more graceful but is capable of maintaining with safety the high speeds of present day motoring.

In addition to the esthetic value of the new appearance it creates, Hupmobile's use of a lower body designs has resulted in the practical advantages of greater rigidity, better balance, increased roadability and enhanced riding ease.

In the Century Hupmobile six and eight, the low, balanced smartness is due in large measure, according to Hupp engineers, to their successful development of a satisfactory drop frame, an innovation by which they were enabled to cities in Europe.

Jugo-Slav Rulers Ride in Packards

Seven Packard eights have been purchased for the royal household of Jugo-Slavia. Two royal families of Europe now have Packards for their personal use, King Alphonso, Queen Victoria and the Crown Prince of Spain each having a Packard eight.

Chrysler Dealers to Hear Woman Flyer Over Station KSD

Chrysler dealers throughout the St. Louis territory are to hold open house next Wednesday night, July 11, from 6 to 7 o'clock, when radio station KSD will broadcast from Madison Square Garden, New York, the ceremonies for the "Friendship" trans-Atlantic flyers. They will have radio sets in their showrooms and will put the broadcast on speakers as Miss Earhart, first woman to fly across the Atlantic, and her companions tell their stories. Midwest Motors Inc., Chrysler distributer in St. Louis, will receive the program at its headquarters, 2621 Locust boulevard.

A New Car.. A New Car Style.. A New Zenith of Low Priced Car-Luxury and Performance

New slender profile chromium-plated radiator.—Long, low bodies.—Generous room for 2 to 5 passengers, according to body model.—Luxurious deep upholstery and appointment detail.—New "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine, for use with any gasoline.—Smooth speed up to 60 and more miles an hour.—Chrysler light-action internal expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes—no other car of this price possesses this feature.

CHRYSLER PLYMOUTH

All Chrysler research, engineering and manufacturing have been inspired by the fundamental motive of giving ever greater quality and value for each dollar of car cost. Public recognition of this principle, in four years advanced Chrysler from 27th to 3rd place in sales in the N. A. C. C.

With a new product—the Plymouth—Chrysler is the first to give, at so low a price, the advantages of performance, riding ease, dependability and full adult size which characterize fine cars of higher price.

The Plymouth assures in the following exceptional advantages the full measure of quality and value to which buyers of low-priced cars have long been entitled—

Smooth speed up to 60 and more miles an hour and Chrysler acceleration given by the new "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine, with which you can use any gasoline; comfort and roominess of far costlier cars; luxurious interior finish; smartness and style equal to the most beautiful; rugged strength to assure the long life and economy of operation so vital to the buyer who would conserve his outlay; the safety secured only by internal expanding hydraulic 4-wheel brakes; and such high-priced features as body impulse neutralizer, air-filter; shock absorbing spring compensators, all-rubber engine mounting, and full balloon tires.

The new Chrysler-designed and Chrysler-built Plymouth is so revolutionary an advance over other low-priced cars, it is such conclusive evidence that the past year's strides in the science of manufacturing have multiplied the purchasing power of the motor car dollar, that you will surely want to see it and drive it.

And above all, you must see its beautiful lines and finish, and stretch at ease in its deep-upholstered, full adult-size bodies, to comprehend how completely the Plymouth surpasses cars heretofore sold under $1000.

See it. Ride in it. We believe you will discover there has never been a car anywhere near its price that can approach the Plymouth for power, pick-up, smoothness, easy handling, safety, quietness and roominess—nor that can equal it in beauty and style.

Dodge Brothers Standard Six is the fastest car, with the fastest pick-up, under a thousand dollars . . .

HOWEVER

That is only HALF the story. The IMPORTANT point is that this exceptional speed is made practical by Dodge ruggedness of chassis and body construction.

OTHERS

Might succeed in building a car at this price with equal SPEED, but to do so successfully they would also have to build a car with equal STURDINESS . . .

AND

That is where Dodge Brothers, with years of experience in building a dependable low-cost product, are years ahead of the field . . . .

RE-ELECTED

THOS. P. HENRY.

THOS. HENRY RE-ELECTED A. A. A. CHIEF

Has Been President of Auto Association for Five Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 7. Thomas P. Henry of Detroit, who has headed the American Automobile Association for the last five years, was re-elected for another term of one year, at the twenty-sixth annual convention of the national motoring body held in Cincinnati, O., June 27-June 30.

Election of Henry for the sixth term, it is declared, assures a continuation of the A. A. A. national program for safety, fair taxation of the motorists, extension of the highway system of the nation and the progressive development of motoring services.

Henry's service to the car owners of the nation was officially recognized during the closing hours of the convention, when he was made a member of the staff of Gov. Flem D. Sampson of Kentucky, with the rank of Colonel. Ernest N. Smith, general manager of the A. A. A., was also given the rank of Colonel on the Governor's staff.

Motoring Trip To Romantic Shenandoah Valley

way through the Shenandoah Valley and forms a natural connection between two of the five round-top mountains which rise boldly from the valley floor.

Were it possible to place Niagara Falls immediately beside Natural Bridge — with the bed of the river below the falls on a level with the bed of Cedar Creek beneath Natural Bridge—one could stand on top of the bridge and look down nearly 50 feet below to see the flashing water as it passed over the famous precipice.

Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence and third President of the United States, was the first private owner of the bridge tract, acquiring it by grant from King George III of England in 1774. Natural Bridge Hotel, open the entire year, is charmingly located on one of the two peaks connected by the bridge.

The Alleghany Mountains are the principal attraction in this portion of Southwest Virginia. They are unlike the mountains of the Blue Ridge chain to the east, being more rugged and majestic. They offer many inducements to the tourist motorist. There are, for instance, the widely known curative springs—Alleghany and Crockett—both reached from Shawsville, 23 miles west of Roanoke. Another of the same character is found at Wyrick Springs, near Crockett.

Many side trips can be made over good roads into the mountains south of Natural Bridge and Roanoke. This country is a realm of dreams and imagery, wild, rugged and sparsely settled. In this region John Fox Jr. wrote "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and Thomas English composed "Sweet Alice, Ben Bolt."

Again following the trail northward, one passes through Staunton, of Civil War fame then, after a 40-mile jog into Winchester, still of Colonial aspect and boasting several buildings associated with the activities of George Washington.

From Winchester, one can go east over U. S. 50 to Washington, 35 miles distant.

One can face homeward from this point, using U. S. 240 northwest to Fredericktown—the junction for U. S. 40, which may be followed to St. Louis. If, however, one has the time to spare, one can continue east from Washington to Annapolis, 25 miles distant, and there view the Naval Academy, then go north to Baltimore, which is on U. S. 40.

Motorists who arrive at Winchester and do not care to visit Washington, Annapolis or Baltimore can go 10 miles east to Berry, then north and at Rippon enter West Virginia, and at Shepherdstown, the Antietam Battlefield National Park and historic points surrounding it.

From Shepherdstown it is only a short jog north through Sharpsburg to Hagerstown—on U. S. 40—and the homeward journey can be started from this point.

The trip, going and coming, can be made by easy stages in 12 days, though if one has the time there's enough to see to last a month. The entire round trip is approximately 2000 miles.

Urges Air Lines To South America

The race of European countries to establish fast air communication with South America looms as the most interesting export development of the next decade, according to Ed G. Willems, export counsel for the Franklin Automobile Co., who has just returned after a year's trip that has taken him to three continents.

The most vital and immediate problem for the United States to consider is the commercial advantage ignored by this country through failure to provide adequate transportation facilities to South American ports, Willems said. He pointed out the fact that ships leave Buenos Aires almost daily for Europe, while only through cooperation of a British-owned line have sailings about once every 10 days been made possible to New York. Ships of an American line leave every 15 days.

At present, Willems said, it requires two months for an American export representative in Buenos Aires to send a contract by letter and have it confirmed by mail so that goods can be ordered. Europe, which is virtually the same distance by steamer (and particularly France) has been working for two years to secure five-day air-and-boat communication and will shortly be able to get contracts confirmed, orders placed and merchandise on boats before the American representative's first letter is received in New York.

NEW FRANKLIN MODEL STRIVES FOR BEAUTY

Airman Limited Offers a Number of Unusual Innovations.

New style features, emphasized in interior trims, both as to fabrics and accessories, and in exterior appearance, characterize the new Franklin Airman Limited now on display here by the Franklin Automobile Co., 3949 Lindell boulevard.

While certain changes have been made in mechanical construction of these cars, they are largely in the nature of refinements and an addition to the performance ability of the power plant.

In general appearance, Airman Limited surpasses anything hitherto shown by Franklin.

In the enclosed models, broadcloth is used for upholstery. These materials have been developed in new and unusual colors, some of them exclusively for the car in which they are used. Cushions, foot rests which are in themselves elaborately constructed hassocks, covered to match the upholstery, and specially made robes, woven by the Shannon Mills in Ireland and designed for the individual cars in which they are used, are novel features.

In the five and seven-passenger models in both open and enclosed types, folding arm rests are furnished in the rear seat, making it possible to convert these seats into two chairs with rests for both arms.

The use of tufted upholstery has been discarded in favor of the smooth type of seat cushion and back cushion and the cushions are relieved by piping and with welted teams Wilton carpeting is used for both front and rear compartments, the carpets being closely fitted and extending up the sides and over the seat boxes so that no metal is exposed.

Door frames are covered with cloth to match the upholstery. The dash in the front compartment is covered with muleskin, and a marquetry finish on the instrument panel board gives the appearance of inlaid mahogany.

The enclosed models are furnished with shopping list, a beveled mirror and a white gold cigarette case and ash receiver, carried in a mahogany case decorated with shaded parquetry. An electric lighter with a 36-inch cord is combined with the ash receivers.

The car, from the exterior, looks characteristic of custom built properties. The appearance of the hood shell has been improved materially by raising the height of the grille panels and reducing the nickel area on the top section of the radiator shell. This gives a high, narrow appearance to the front conforming to the most modern tendencies in radiator design.

A plaque with scroll design bearing the Franklin motto is used to ornament the top of the hood shell. The headlights have been raised two inches and the license carrier bracket is also carried higher than the previous design. Rear vision mirrors are mounted on both the right and the left fenders. Nickel silver binding is used on the running boards and channel rubber covering.

On the five and seven-passenger sedan, seven-passenger touring, limousine, sport sedan and sport runabout, spare tires are carried on the side, fitting into wells in the fender. Depending upon the requirements of the individual purchaser, either one or two spare tires are carried in this manner. On body types other than those mentioned above the spare tire is carried on the rear.

Cushions, foot rests which are in themselves elaborately constructed hassocks, covered to match the upholstery, and specially made robes, woven by the Shannon Mills in Ireland and designed for the individual cars in which they are used, are novel features.

In the five and seven-passenger models in both open and enclosed types, folding arm rests are furnished in the rear seat, making it possible to convert these seats into two chairs with rests for both arms.

The use of tufted upholstery has been discarded in favor of the smooth type of seat cushion and back cushion and the cushions are relieved by piping and with welted teams Wilton carpeting is used for both front and rear compartments, the carpets being closely fitted and extending up the sides and over the seat boxes so that no metal is exposed.

Door frames are covered with cloth to match the upholstery. The dash in the front compartment is covered with muleskin, and a marquetry finish on the instrument panel board gives the appearance of inlaid mahogany.

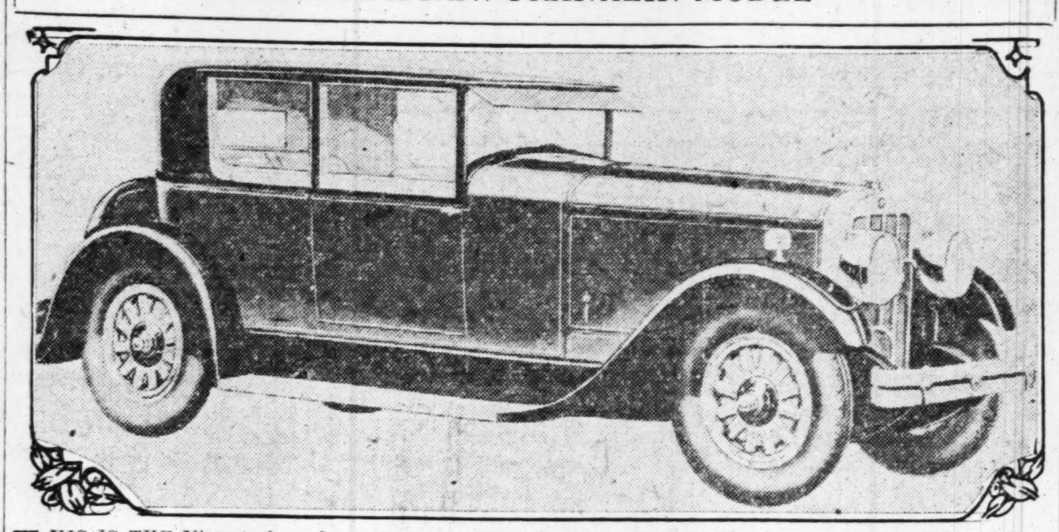
The enclosed models are furnished with shopping list, a beveled mirror and a white gold cigarette case and ash receiver, carried in a mahogany case decorated with shaded parquetry. An electric lighter with a 36-inch cord is combined with the ash receivers.

The car, from the exterior, looks characteristic of custom built properties. The appearance of the hood shell has been improved materially by raising the height of the grille panels and reducing the nickel area on the top section of the radiator shell. This gives a high, narrow appearance to the front conforming to the most modern tendencies in radiator design.

A plaque with scroll design bearing the Franklin motto is used to ornament the top of the hood shell. The headlights have been raised two inches and the license carrier bracket is also carried higher than the previous design. Rear vision mirrors are mounted on both the right and the left fenders. Nickel silver binding is used on the running boards and channel rubber covering.

On the five and seven-passenger sedan, seven-passenger touring, limousine, sport sedan and sport runabout, spare tires are carried on the side, fitting into wells in the fender. Depending upon the requirements of the individual purchaser, either one or two spare tires are carried in this manner. On body types other than those mentioned above the spare tire is carried on the rear.

HERE'S A NEW FRANKLIN MODEL



THIS IS THE Victoria brougham of the new Franklin Airman Limited series, a distinctive car with long, low body lines.

Graham-Paige Demonstrates Advantage of Four Speeds

By THE AUTO EDITOR.

FOUR-SPEED transmission has its virtues. Aside from providing more power and greater speed it is economical since it effects a gasoline saving, because at higher speeds the fourth speed reduces the actual speed of the engine.

The writer's first experience with four-speed transmission was had several weeks ago through the courtesy of the Weber Motor Car Co., the Graham-Paige distributer here, who provided one of the new four-speed Graham-Paige model 619 sedans to be used in a test trip.

There's nothing to be said regarding the appearance, exterior or interior, of the new Graham-Paige, or its roadability, for it has all that, and the greatest interest in it seems to be about the four-speed transmission.

There's a distinctly new type of motor car performance made available by four-speed transmissions. Improved performance, smooth, remarkable acceleration and hill climbing ability together with ample reserves of power, were among the things noted on the test trip.

It was easily demonstrated, too, that, mile for mile, a car with four-speed transmission and a high gear rear axle, uses less gas and oil—for the simple reason that its engine, transmission and drive shaft make approximately 25 per cent fewer revolutions than these parts do in the average car. At the end of 1000 miles, for instance, an engine with such transmission has made only as many revolutions as has the engine in the average three-speed car at 750 miles. The conclusion is obvious.

Probably nine-tenths of the normal driving in a Graham-Paige with four speeds forward is done in fourth speed (direct drive), but the performance in "third" is fully as remarkable as that in fourth.

Third speed in this Graham-Paige transmission employs internal gears which are quiet in operation and through which 98 per cent of the power coming from the engine is delivered to the rear axle.

Acceleration and power are greatly increased and car speed uphill is much more easily maintained.

The difference in gear ratio between third and fourth speeds—third being 5.18 to 1 and fourth 3.64 to 1—is much less than between second and high in a three-speed transmission. This results in giving the car virtually two high speed—one for power and acceleration and the other for speed—while it also permits exceptionally easy shifting back and forth between the two gears at speeds as high as 40 to 50 miles per hour.

Second gear of the four-speed transmission is employed for the same purpose as first in a conventional transmission—for starting and rough going.

It was found that first speed in the Graham-Paige is seldom required and is so located that it is not employed at all during normal driving conditions. When needed for extreme emergencies it affords a great reserve of power.

To appreciate the mechanical advantages of this new transmission it is necessary to understand the relationship between the transmission and the final drive ratio in a motor car. The transmission, as is generally known, is needed to vary the ratio between the speed of the engine and the speed of the rear wheels.

When starting a motor car, the engine must operate considerably faster than the wheels to produce maximum pulling power. As soon as the car gets under way, the engine can run much more slowly in relation to the revolutions of the wheels.

With "direct drive" the power is not transmitted through any transmission gears. The propeller shaft revolves at the same speed as the engine. There is always a gear reduction in the rear axle.

Using a three-speed transmission, this rear axle reduction averages 4.8 to one—the ration being different for various makes of cars—the engine crankshaft revolving 4.8 times for every revolution of the wheels.

Using the four-speed transmission—in direct drive—the crankshaft revolves only 3.64 times for every revolution of the wheels on the Graham-Paige model such as used in the test run. Thus the remarkable performance of this car can be understood.

Hupp Officers Find Business Conditions Good

Optimistic After Trip to Oklahoma City, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Business in the Southwest is good this summer and prospects for the remainder of the year are encouraging, according to Du Bois Young, president, and R. S. Cole, general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, who have just returned to Detroit.

The tour took them to Oklahoma City, Kansas City and St. Louis, with a stop in Chicago on the way home. At all points visited they held conferences with their distributers, dealers and salesmen, and found exchanged views with business leaders on industrial and commercial conditions.

"Crop prospects throughout the Southwest are particularly bright," said Cole. "Kansas is assured the greatest wheat yield the State has harvested for six years.

"We found Oklahoma equally as optimistic as Kansas over the encouraging crop outlook, and in addition the stiffening of oil prices in Texas should be reflected there.

"In St. Louis, where a tendency toward slackening business was making itself apparent earlier in the year because of mining and other conditions, there is now a general disposition to comment on improvement already evident and to find only encouragment in the outlook for coming months. Our dealer organization rounded up 100 per cent strong to meet us in St. Louis, and all the men reported constantly improving conditions in their respective communities.

"So far as Hupmobile is concerned, 1928 has been a wonderful year in the localities we visited as it has been everywhere else. There is no sign of a turn in the tide which has been running so strongly in our direction ever since our new Century cars captured public preference on their first appearance."

Eye-Sight Tests for Drivers.

Eyesight tests for automobile drivers are rapidly being adopted by various State licensing bureaus in the Union. New York requires two-fifth normal vision. Pennsylvania requires 20 per cent normal vision. On a dull, foggy or rainy day with a wet windshield, this would come pretty close to zero vision. But most states have no such requirement at all.

Eyesight Tests Now.

Adoption of eyesight tests for automobile drivers rapidly is becoming obligatory throughout the United States.

Steel Plates for Streets.

Steel plates are suggested for street paving in large cities. The initial cost, it is thought, would be more than offset by the saving in repairs. Water pipes, telephone wires, etc., could be laid beneath removable plates, thus saving the cost of digging up the streets.

PROBLEMS PRESENTED BY NEW MODELS

What They Mean to Maker, Dealer and Buyer —Meeting Them.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., July 7.—The importance of new models in stimulating automobile sales cannot be overestimated, according to B. H. Cram, president of Cram's Automotive Reports, Inc. However, several important problems must be faced whenever radical changes are made. Certain preparations for the new cars should be made.

Manufacturers are criticised because they bring out new models before the dealers, who may have heavy stocks of the old models on hand, are in a position to handle them successfully.

It is difficult to state just how this problem can be solved. It should be a matter worked out by each individual manufacturer and co-operated in to the fullest extent by the dealer.

An intelligent and far-sighted merchandising program should permit the scientific reduction of manufacturers' and dealers' stocks to a minimum at the time of the new announcement. Manufacturing programs and schedules should be so arranged as to allow all dealers to have enough cars to meet the initial demand. And dealers, knowing that new models are coming, should not relax their selling efforts on the old models.

The standpoint of the consumer also should be considered. Actually, new cars or new models fulfill a consumer demand inasmuch as line changes are usually made to meet a competitive situation. In spite of this dealers and, in some cases, manufacturers, feel hesitant about changes because of the effect they will have on consumers who recently have bought the old models and who will feel that their cars will depreciate substantially as soon as a new model is brought out.

This, of course, is an unfortunate and entirely unjust way of looking at the matter. Actually, a new model has no effect on the real value of the older car. The new line detracts not at all from the old car's mechanical qualities or its ability to perform or function properly. Style may be affected, but the automobile industry will be in a better position when it educates the public to prize mechanical perfection and performance above style. In other words, there is probably little gained in buying a new car each year, while a great deal is lost through the unused mileage that is discarded.

If this matter of the proper arrangement of dealers' stocks and the education of the public could be accomplished, producers would be in a position to work out costs of operation and manufacturing on such a basis that two yearly model announcements would be customary instead of one. This, as we have shown, would stimulate sales at the proper seasons, and even out to some extent the weaker sales periods.

Males Lead Auto Fatalities.

Of the 5092 persons killed by motor vehicles in the United States in the past five years, almost three times as many men and boys have been killed as women and girls. Nearly 2000 of the victims were children under 15, 1446 being boys and 531 girls. The same proportion between the two sexes held true for all ages, 3728 of the victims being male, compared with 1364 females.

IF IT'S POWER
you want
JUST DRIVE THIS OLDSMOBILE

Full 55 horsepower! For hills and hard pulling in high—for mastery of the open road—for sparkling acceleration in traffic! Just drive this Oldsmobile—and let your own experience confirm that now familiar phrase, "The Fine Car of Low Price!"

Even if this new Six were not so vividly styled, even if it did not handle so easily and offer so many fine-car accessories as standard equipment——its fine-car performance alone would be creating praise on every hand.

Fine-car standards demand power plus smoothness . . . so Oldsmobile introduced a new high-compression cylinder head which does not require special fuels and which develops power with such smoothness that it has been compared to the steady pickup of an electric motor.

Fine-car standards demand power plus silence—so the Oldsmobile engine is rubber-mounted and its bodies insulated to deaden noise!

Fine-car standards demand all this plus enduring stamina—so the new Oldsmobile was tested for over a million miles before being offered to the public!

In every way this new Six is more than fulfilling the expectations of critical motorists—and in no way more impressively than by its power! Come take that drive today!

A Merchant drives the new Oldsmobile

OLDSMOBILE

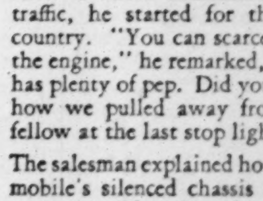
"I don't use my car much for business," said the elderly gentleman who had come in to look at an Oldsmobile. "I drive almost exclusively for pleasure, and consequently, I insist upon having a car that it is a pleasure to drive.

"I've owned a small shop over on G——— Street for years. Business is pretty good, my clerks are reliable, and I frequently take a few days off to motor somewhere with my family.

"These new Oldsmobiles caught my eye when they first came out. I've been looking them over and I'm satisfied with their appearance; the upholsteries and interior finish are remarkably good; now I want to take one out and drive it."

After a short demonstration in traffic, he started for the open country. "You can scarcely hear the engine," he remarked, "yet it has plenty of pep. Did you notice how we pulled away from that fellow at the last stop light?"

The salesman explained how Oldsmobile's silenced chassis and interior provide silenced performance and discussed the new General Motors Research cylinder head which gives high-compression performance without the use of special fuels.



Then as they pulled a particularly steep hill in high, the shop-owner exclaimed. "This is the car for me! Why, it's got everything. More power and speed than I'll ever need. Plenty of leg-room and head-room for long trips—to say nothing of the riding comfort those four Lovejoys give. And it's positively the easiest handling car I've ever driven. Let's go back—I'm ready to sign an order now!"
Come take that drive today.

How to Get Your Car To Europe for Touring

Not as Intricate as It Might Seem—Rules of the Road and Speed Limits of Principal Countries.

If you are going to Europe this summer and want to take your car along, you will want to know in advance the best plan to follow in shipping the car overseas. Also, you will want to know something about regulations and requirements imposed by the countries you intend to tour.

It is estimated that American tourists will take more than 5000 cars to Europe this summer and it is believed that this number would double were it not for the tourists' apprehension of intricacies attached to foreign rules and regulations. If your trip is properly planned in advance, taking a motor car to Europe is as simple as taking baggage.

Seeing Europe from your own car means that you see all of Europe — out-of-the-way places where trains do not run, as well as cities like London and Paris. The advantages are obvious. You can travel leisurely and the cost of transporting a car across and back is nicely offset by the saving in rail and taxi fares in cases of touring parties of three persons or more.

Three Big Questions.

The things that concern a Europe-bound American motorist are essentially these three questions:

1. How am I to ship my car and what will it cost?
2. How about regulations governing the use of motor cars in foreign countries?
3. Where will I get service on my car in Europe?

Before contemplating the above phases of taking a car to Europe, the tourist should first decide upon the countries to be included in the tour. The American Automobile Association maintains a foreign department to aid members of affiliated organizations in planning itineraries.

Members of these affiliated motor clubs have the courtesies of the Alliance Internationale de Tourisme, which is composed of the leading touring clubs in Europe and the United States.

How to Ship Your Car.

All of the large shipping companies maintain "tourist automobile departments" to relieve the trans-oceanic motorists of a multitude of details. The Cunard Lines, for instance, will not only carry your car to Europe, but without extra charge above the fixed rate, as a matter of routine, will register your car with the United States Customs; wash and polish it en route; supply oil and gas; pay port charges; furnish International license plates; arrange for International driving license; furnish customs papers for touring both the British Isles or the Continent and membership in the American Automobile Association or the Royal Automobile Club.

All of the necessary documents are delivered to the motorist by a representative of the lines at the time of arrival at the port of discharge. The rates quoted, including the services above are as follows:

	East-bound.	Round Trip.	West-bound.
Class No. 1. cars weighing under 2000 lbs.	$150	$250	$120
Class No. 2. cars weighing 2000 to 3000 lbs.	170	285	135
Class No. 3. cars weighing 3000 to 5000 lbs.	190	320	140
Class No. 4. cars weighing 5000 lbs. and over	230	385	165

There is a charge of $12 for landing or loading the car at Queenstown or Cherbourg.

The steamship company usually insures the car for the owner against loss at sea in an amount of $1000. Additional Marine Insurance may be obtained by the tourist at a rate of about 35 cents per $100.

Papers Required.

As all of the foreign countries require a customs bond or guarantee that the car will be returned the country from which it was shipped, the American Automobile Association, through its representatives at the port, furnishes the owner with a triptyque and carnet de passage for foreign customs. Until recently it was necessary for the owner to deposit $500 in cash and give a banker's indemnity for 60 per cent of the value of the car. Under a new system, a deposit of only $250 is required and the banker's indemnity is no longer required.

The papers required by the overseas motorist in addition to passports, are (1) Triptyques, or (2) Carnet de Passages en Douanes, and (3) International Traveling Pass. The latter is accepted in most European countries. Tourists wishing to visit countries not covered by the carnet will have individual triptyques issued to them.

To simplify the procedure in preparing for a motor tour of Europe, it is advisable that motorists contemplating such a trip should immediately communicate with the foreign department of the American Automobile Association at Washington, D. C.

The third question which concerns the prospective overseas motorist, that regarding service for American-made cars is readily answered. General Motors, through its export division, has dealer representatives in virtually every city of consequence in Europe, who are prepared to give standard service on General Motors cars as well as to extend special courtesies. Other American manufacturers of motor cars are similarly equipped.

Traffic Regulations.

Rules of the road and speed limits in principal European countries and the Near Erst are as follows:

AUSTRIA.

Rule of the road: Keep to the left, except in the Province of Corarlberg.

Speed limit: In open country, 45 kilometers (28 miles) per hour; inhabited places, 15 kilometers (9½) per hour.

BELGIUM.

Speed limit: No fixed limit. Law requires keeping car under control.

DENMARK.

Danish driving license is necessary for anyone not in possession of international traveling pass. Issued by Chief of Police in any city.

Rule of the road: Keep to the right and overtake on the left. Hand signals must be given when changing directions.

Speed limit: In open country, 45 kilometers; in inhabited places, 30 kilometers.

EGYPT.

International traveling pass is not available. Motor cars have to be registered and a driving license seecured.

Rule of the road: Keep to the right.

Speed limit: 20 miles per hour.

FRANCE.

Rule of the road: Pass to the right, and on overtaking pass to the left. Motorists must always stop to allow passengers to board and alight from tram cars and must never pass to the left of the road to avoid them.

Speed limit: No fixed limit. Law requires driver to keep speed under control and moderate pace through towns and villages as well as when roads are not perfectly free or when conditions of visibility are not good.

GERMANY.

Driving license: American tourists may have American licenses translated into German.

Speed limit: No fixed limit. Car must be kept under control.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Rule of the road: Keep to the left.

Speed limit: 20 miles per hour.

GREECE.

Rule of the road: Keep to the right.

Speed limit: In towns and villages, 20 kilometers; in open country, 25-45 kilometers per hour.

HOLLAND.

Rule of the road: Keep to the right.

Speed limit: No maximum legal speed limit, but motor cars must be driven at no speed dangerous to traffic.

HUNGARY.

Rule of the road: Keep to the left.

Speed limit: In towns and villages, 25 kilometers per hour.

IRELAND.

Rule of the road: Keep to the left.

Speed limit: 20 miles per hour.

ITALY.

Rule of the road: Keep to the right.

Speed limit: No fixed limit—driver must keep car under control.

RUSSIA.

Rule of the road: Keep to the right and overtake on the left. Trams overtaken on the right.

Speed limit: 50 kilometers per hour, may be exceeded on straight, open main roads. In populated areas, 25 kilometers per hour.

SPAIN.

Rule of the road: Keep to the right.

SWEDEN.

Rule of the road: Keep to the left and overtake on the right.

Speed limit: In open country, 25 kilometers; in towns and villages, 15 kilometers; at night, 10 kilometers per hour.

SWITZERLAND.

Speed limit: No fixed limit—car must be always under control of driver.

TURKEY.

International Traveling Pass is not available.

"Bumming" of Rides Prohibited.

A noticeable effect in the decrease in number of accident to pedestrians has been found in Minnesota's experiment in making it illegal to solicit an automobile ride from the roadside. The highway traffic act says: "No person shall stand in the traveled portion of a roadway for the purpose of or while soliciting a ride from the driver of any vehicle other than a common carrier."

Poor Distance Judgment Causes Most Accidents

MADISON, Wis., July 7.—Inability of automobile drivers to guage the minimum distance in which they can stop their automobiles when confronted by an impending crash constitutes a large portion of the cause of motor accidents, says C. N. Maurer, traffic engineer of the state highway commission, who recently conducted a series of brake tests.

The tests as conducted by Maurer were made to define the term "efficient brakes" as it appears in the Statutes.

The tests were conducted in the following manner.

A zone line was placed on the level place of concrete and the car under test was driven across the line at a speed of 10 miles per hour. A signal was given the operator and he brought the car to full stop as soon as possible without skidding the wheels. The stopping distance was then measured. This same test was performed in the opposite direction and the average of these two stopping distances was taken. The average of the two stopping distances in either direction is believed to have established more accurate results as this equalized windage and other factors entering into the differences of the stopping distance.

Announcing THE NEW FRANKLIN
AIRMAN LIMITED
introducing a wholly new vogue of
Luxurious Fast Travel

Anticipating this announcement, a Franklin sedan was driven from Los Angeles to New York to Los Angeles—6,692 miles in 6½ days—shattering the former record by 10½ hours—the fastest trip ever made by motor car or Limited train . . . .

This amazing feat offers the greatest demonstration of fast travel ever presented to American motorists. And the new Airman Limited offers luxury such as you have never known in a motor car.

In introducing LUXURIOUS FAST TRAVEL, Franklin has stolen a march on the entire motor world. To the foremost championship of the day, in which Cannon Ball Baker established Franklin as the world's fastest road car—to a beauty of body lines already copied by half the motor world—Franklin now adds undisputed leadership in interior style, comfort, convenience—an elegance, completeness and color harmonies which have been no more than hinted at, by the built-to-order motor cars exhibited in recent American and European Custom Salons.

The Airman Limited must be seen and driven—then you will know the meaning of LUXURIOUS FAST TRAVEL. We predict that no other manufacturer will be able to duplicate these interiors for three years—if ever. Franklin alone has the facilities for this important step—the one motor car builder who has never sacrificed quality to price or profit.

It was the combination of sustained high-speed ability with unmatched riding ease and supreme motor performance which made possible the remarkable new transcontinental record . . . In these new models, the increased motor compression achieves still greater responsiveness. And a new perfection of the famous spring suspension brings riding comfort surpassing all previous standards of this renowned Franklin feature. Throughout the car, quality has been added to quality—performance to performance.

The complete enjoyment of a motor car, as now afforded by the Airman Limited, establishes an entirely new conception of values, which must inevitably benefit every automobile owner.

The fastest road car in the world—and the most luxurious.

New Chrysler "75" Prices—Royal Sedan, $1535; 2-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1535; Roadster (with rumble seat), $1555; Town Sedan, $1655 (wire wheels extra). All prices f. o. b. Detroit.

THESE two entirely new Chrysler Sixes—the "75" and the "65"—are deliberately designed and executed to inspire public admiration to such a pitch that they will immediately supersede all that has gone before and usher into existence an entirely new motoring vogue.

Striking new standards of beauty have been created in these new Chrysler Sixes, even when the artistry of a great industry has seemed to be at its height.

The wholly new Chrysler style creations, now shown for the first time, represent unusual advances over even Chrysler power, speed and efficiency.

We believe that, at their new low prices, they demonstrate that Chrysler engineering, research and manufacturing again have greatly increased the buying power of the dollar when invested in motor cars.

We are confident that all who are even remotely interested in the progress of motor car artistry will find themselves amply repaid by their immediate inspection of these two new Chrysler style achievements.

Features—New Chrysler "65"—New larger engine—65 h. p.—"Silver-Dome" high-compression head using any gasoline—65 and more miles per hour—counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft, only car at or near this price with this costly feature; new, slender profile radiator—new bowl-shaped lamps—beautiful cowl moulding and cowl lamps—new, longer chassis and longer, wider, roomier bodies—new arched window silhouette—new "air-wing" full-crowned fenders—new internal expanding Chrysler hydraulic four-wheel brakes, unaffected by weather conditions—Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear—spring ends anchored in live rubber, instead of metal shackles.

WORK STARTED ON OAKLAND IRON FOUNDRY

Plant Will Be Used for Casting Engine Blocks and Other Parts.

PONTIAC, Mich., July 7.—A. R. Glancy, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Car Co., announced here today that construction would start immediately on a modern gray iron foundry. It is understood the new building project will represent an investment of several million dollars.

Six new buildings will comprise the foundry unit. Full operation is expected to be reached not later than next February, 1929, Glancy stated.

Excavation work is under way, under the direction of L. A. Blackburn, resident manager of the Oakland company.

The foundry will stand adjacent to the recently completed Oakland and Pontiac factories, and will be devoted to casting engine blocks and other castings used in the manufacture of Oakland and Pontiac sixes.

Included in the group will be a foundry proper; a core building, a cupola building, sand storage building, cleaning building and service building. The group will have 200,000 square feet of floor space.

The foundry will have a pouring capacity of 450 tons of castings daily. Machine operations will be used wherever possible, so that a maximum of only 700 men will be needed when the foundry is running at capacity. Several miles of conveyors, overhead monorail electric trucks, pneumatic equipment and scientific devices of the most advanced type known will perform the labor which was done by hand in the old type shop.

Unusual Demand For Falcon-Knights

Dealers in the Falcon-Knight line of six-cylinder cars state that since Cannon Ball Baker established a new transcontinental speed record in a stock model Falcon-Knight six a few months ago, an unusual demand has been registered for these sixes which employ a Falcon-Knight sleeve-valve engine.

In demonstrating the power, speed and stamina of the Falcon-Knight Six, Baker traveled from Washington, D. C., to Los Angeles in 72 hours, 47 minutes, breaking the old record by six hours.

Most Packard Men With Company for Over Ten Years

Eight Employees Have Been on Staff for 27 Years.

Twelve hundred and twenty-two men have spent more than 10 years of their lives working for one Detroit automobile company. An equal number have been in the employ of the same company more than five years. The veteran of this small army, Grant Winfield, went to work for the Packard Motor Car Co. in May, 1901, and has been in the continuous employment of the company ever since.

Twenty-one per cent of all the employes of the company have been Packard men more than five years. Included in this number are almost all the responsible department heads and foremen. E. F. Roberts, vice president of manufacturing, as an instance, has been an employe of Packard 25 years. Alvan Macauley, the president, has been with the company 18 years.

A. A. A. Lays Down Sanitation Rules

Sanitary conditions are just as important in the selection of a summer vacation spot as golf courses, tennis courts, ballrooms and scenery, says the United States Public Health Service, in issuing a timely warning to motorists through the American Automobile Association.

The Public Health Service announces the following simple rules for the vacationist:

"Get away from home and business if you can possibly afford it. A change of surroundings is helpful to restore health and strength. It isn't necessary to go long distance, but it is important to get out into the open. Forget business; it will be the better off for your vacation.

"Wherever you go, make careful inquiry concerning the sanitary conditions of the place. These are more important than golf links, tennis courts, ballrooms and beautiful scenery.

"Is the water supply safe? What is its source?

"Is there a sewerage system? Where do the sewers empty?

"Keep happy. Worry is the foe of health."

Tells What to Expect From the New DeSoto Six

Engineer Says It Will Embody All of the Chrysler Refinements.

There is no reason why people seeking a low-priced six should not get high quality, roominess and notable performance, says Fred M. Zeder, vice president in charge of engineering for the new Chrysler-built De Soto six soon to be announced.

"There exists a need for a low-priced car which is much more than a six," Zeder continued. "The ideal car for this market should toe the mark mechanically; it should have brillant performance; it should be long-lived and it should be both modern and beautiful in design and performance.

"I have no hesitation in saying that the forthcoming De Soto six will satisfy all of these requirements. It will display qualities which the public expects of it as a Chrysler-built car."

Autos Barred on Sunday Mornings

Automobiles are not allowed on the streets on Sunday morning in Ocean Grove, N. J.; neither can the garage doors be opened on the Sabbath, nor any repair work done. The ordinance which operated for 60 years to prohibit the construction of buildings to house vehicles has been repealed. In its place the trustees of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association have passed a law which will permit the erection of fireproof garages, and thereby allow residents to keep their automobiles within the gates of the community over Sunday.

A repair bill is a motor oil trouble

Automotive statistics prove that 80% of all repair costs on cars are due to neglected lubrication or poor quality lubrication.

You can cut your total car mile cost substantially by changing oil regularly and often, and by using motor oil that you know will stand up in present-day motors.

Pennant Motor Oil is "balanced" with a high flash and a low flow, thus giving extra margin of safety in your engine lubrication.

The new Pennant "balanced" motor oils solve the quality part of your lubrication problem by giving you a margin of safety in motor oil these two ways:

1. Due to being made from pure selected paraffine-base crudes, Pennant oils resist heat, without breaking down, at temperatures far beyond the normal operating temperatures of any motor, even under extreme conditions.

2. A special purifying and "dewaxing" process then makes these heat-resistant oils also cold-resistant—an important factor to insure safe lubrication at any temperature.

Buy Pennant oils for 30 days and you will know that your oil is lasting longer and safely protecting your motor from excessive wear and tear.

The World's BIGGEST Automobile at such low prices

THE sensational popularity of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet is due in great measure to the fact that it is the biggest automobile in the world available at such low prices.

It is built on a wheelbase of 107 inches—and on this longer wheelbase Fisher craftsmen have designed bodies of marvelous beauty with wide, deep-cushioned seats . . . ample head and leg room . . . and generous seating capacity.

Translated into terms of comfort, safety and utility—this additional size is of vital significance in the low-price field. For it means that the buyer of a low-priced car can now secure the balance and roadability that only a longer wheelbase can provide—plus the restful comfort of ample room for both driver and passengers.

Come in for a demonstration—and bring the family along. See for yourself what a difference the Bigger and Better Chevrolet provides in seating and riding comfort.

How to Get the Most Miles Per Gallon Out of Gasoline

That uneasy feeling of not having enough gas to reach the next station is an experience not uncommon to motorists.

While the average motorist will not put himself to any unusual bother to economize on fuel, it is interesting to know how to get the greatest mileage from a car, especially since only one quart of each gallon of gasoline is used directly in propelling the automobile.

The other three quarts are used up through friction of the engine and other moving parts; in the exhaust, and in the cooling system.

So, if the driver wants to get the most out of the quart that propells the car he will do well to acquaint himself with all of the arts of driving, as laid down in the following pointers by the A C Spark Plug Co.:

"Jerky acceleration, due to either rough roads or a sticking throttle, causes a considerable waste of fuel. Every time the throttle is opened suddenly in this way, an unecessarily large quantity of mixture is drawn into the cylinders. Although the relative amount used each time is small, it is sufficient to build up into quite a big waste in the course of a hundred miles or so. Use of the foot rest alongside of the throttle pedal helps steady the throttle action, while on very rough stretches of roads a hand throttle setting will give better fuel economy than foot throttle driving. It is always a good plan when it is questionable whether the supply of fuel in the tank will carry you to the next filling station, to use the hand throttle in driving the intervening distance.

"Fuel economy varies with the speed of the car—the average car giving its best mileage at road speeds of from 25 to 35 miles an hour with diminishing mileage per gallon of gas as the car is operated above or below this range.

"Correct adjustment of the carburetor is important, keeping in mind that a leaner mixture can be used in the summer than in the winter; also that cars used at fairly high speed over long distances can operate on a much leaner mixture than cars operated at slow speeds, such as in city driving with frequent stops, because once the engine has warmed up it will run on a much leaner mixture without sputtering or missing, than it will when running slowly when the engine is cool.

"The leaner the mixture the hotter the engine runs because of the fact that the more air added to the gasoline up to a certain point make the gas more volatile or explosive, which produces more heat when burned—sometimes excessive engine heat at high speeds can be traced to too lean a mixture and may be eliminated by slightly enriching the mixture.

"An engine will run fairly well on quite a variety of fuel mixtures, but a few minutes spent at a service station to obtain proper setting of the carburetor will result in effecting good performance and economy. Pipe fittings, strainer connections, tanks, etc., should be occasionally checked to prevent wasteful leaks.

"A thermostat in the cooling system adds to fuel economy as it keeps the engine always at the most economical operating temperature, which is about 180 degrees.

"Another source of wasted fuel is due to hard starting, which in turn may be caused by the spark plug gaps being set too wide, or by worn out plugs. Adjusting the gap or renewing plugs, as the case may require, will correct this trouble.

"Don't keep the car in the hot sun all day, as gasoline in the tank heats up and vaporizes rapidly. Don't keep the engine running for any great length of time when the car is not in operation."

A Scenic Way To the Summer Whitehouse

WISCONSIN State Highway 13 is recommended to the many motorists who prefer the most scenic and interesting route for a tour to President Coolidge's summer retreat on the Brule River in Northern Wisconsin.

Leaving Chicago, the tourist follows the Northwest Highway through Des Plaines and Barrington to Crystal Lake. Then turning northward over U. S. Highway 13, the route leads through Madison and Sauk City to the dells of the Wisconsin River at Kilbourn. Stand Rock and many of the other beautifully sculptured cliffs and canyons of this picturesque summerland are readily accessible by motor or by boat.

Northward from the dells, State Highway 13 is followed through Colby and Prentice to Ashland. Then a short run west over U. S. Highway 2 takes the visitor direct into Brule. Almost half of the trip from Chicago, approximately 500 miles, is over paved roads, the balance is well graded gravel.

The recommended route from Dubuque, Ia., and other southwestern points is via U. S. 118 to Spring Green and State Highway 23 to the Dells. Here the tourist picks up State Highway 13 for Ashland.

A Trip to Muscle Shoals And the Mammoth Cave

St. Louis Motorist Writes Graphic Log of His Tour and His Impressions of Southern Country.

Robert Holm, a resident of Hotel Kings-Way, who is a motor touring enthusiast, has sent the Post-Dispatch an account of a recent 1396-mile tour to see the great Muscle Shoals power development in Alabama and Mammoth Cave. This is a section comparatively unknown to the majority of St. Louis travelers.

Holm's route led through Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Memphis, Tenn.; Tupelo, Miss.; Sheffield and Florence, Ala.; Nashville, Tenn.; Mammoth Cave and Louisville, Ky.; French Lick and Vincennes, Ind. He furnished the following terse comments:

"St. Louis to Cape Girardeau over cement and gravel. Cape Girardeau to Memphis, detour 15 miles below Sikeston, dusty in dry weather and bad when wet. Road follows rickety railroad bridge over Mississippi River into Memphis. Extra fine hotel at Memphis. Left Memphis rain for Tupelo—113 miles—gravel, road soft and sloppy.

"For 20 miles out of Tupelo, nine-foot cement road, thence fair to good gravel to a barrier at reconstruction. Detour over dirt road nine miles—stuck in mud, two pull outs—thence to Russellville, Ala., with good roads from there to Sheffield, near Muscle Shoals.

Impressed by Power Plant.

"The power plant is the greatest I ever saw. Cost $154,000,000. Crossed the Tennessee River on a fine bridge alongside the power dom, into Florence. Then had to detour account of State highway being slabbed, but back into beautiful Tennessee country. Through Mt. Pleasant, Columbia and Franklin to Nashville, a fine city. Visited the Hermitage, Andrew Jackson's home and a Democratic shrine, 20 miles out of town. Fine grounds, well kept, worth visiting; admission, 25 cents.

"Left on Gallatin pike, made of mastic. Magnificent scenery; never saw such woods in all their glory. From Cave City, Ky., went 13 miles over road covered with loose macadam to Mammoth Cave; held up by barkers every few miles to visit other caves, but kept on and got no puncture. Admission to Mammoth Cave, $2.20 per person. Colored guides. Lard oil lanterns; smoky. Guide had acteylene lamp. Trip took three hours; not worth it. Cave discovered in 1802 by a hunter chasing a bear. Saltpeter was found in it and the guide said that the gunpowder used in the War of 1812 was made from this. Cave contains dining hall for 500, installed by Knights Templar in 1915 but not in use.

"Never felt so little in my life. Dark as pitch when lights are put out. Nothing but vastness. Hard walking. Eighty-five miles to Louisville; roads winding mastic; drove fast on straight stretches; one long toll bridge. Visited Churchill Downs.

Cost $21.30 per Day.

"Coming home, detour at Paoli, Ind., rocky, dusty and difficult. Approaching Vincennes, more detour on roads covered with loose, flinty limestone. Cement through Illinois, with detour on dirt four miles at Beckemeyer, account of laying slab.

"Total time on road, four days and seven hours. Total elapsed time, seven and one-half days. Total cost for two persons, $159.90, or average of $21.30 daily, including hotels, $49.50; meals, $59.45; motor expenses, $13.85; gasoline, $22.30; oil, $5.50; cave, $4.40; miscellaneous, $4.50.

"No crops anywhere—too much rain, no sun heat, fields bare. Inhabitants in tail of Missouri, upper Mississippi and lower Alabama desperately poor. Mississippi and Alabama have red soil, looking like iron ore. Mississippi is the most backward in road building; once the richest Southern state, it is now the poorest, and Texas has taken her cotton lead. From Sheffield to Louisville the country is magnificent if you are looking for scenery and there are superb mastic roads. Again no crops in evidence; too cold and too early for cotton; few tobacco plants being set out. Inhabitants of the so-called 'bowl' from Tennessee River valley, from Sheffield to Nashville, refer to the bad country below as 'fit only for Negroes and white trash.' One-man street car rides in Memphis and Nashville are a pleasant diversion."

Warning Devices.

In an effort to reduce grade crossing accidents, trailing leather straps, suspended after the manner of dangling cords used to warn freight train crews of tunnels and bridges, scrape the tops of the motor cars on a highway near Vermilion, O. The go-slow signal is a thousand feet from a crossing to give drivers ample warning.

Laborer Aided in Increasing Sales

You can't always tell what a factory worker can do to stimulate business for his company. Alex Papay, employed in the final inspection department of the Peerless plant in Cleveland has proved that.

Over in Hungary, where he was born, they called him Sandor Papay. "Sandor" in English is "Alexander." So when this skilled Hungarian craftsman migrated to the United States and went to work for Peerless he became "Alex Papay" for short.

A man's loyalty to his adopted country soon grows deep and strong. However, he naturally retains a love for his native land, and Alex was thrilled last December when he saw a group of automobiles in the Peerless assembly line destined to be shipped to Hungary, the first shipment ever made to that country.

Accordingly, Alex was careful to see that each car was perfect before it passed his final inspection. And when the shipment was ready to leave the factory, he wrote a little note in the Hungarian language and slipped it inside one of the cars. In this letter he told that many Hungarian-Americans had worked on those particular automobiles and that they hoped Peerless might achieve, in Hungary, the popularity it enjoys in other countries.

The Peerless distributer in Budapest, "Amerit" Automobile-Kereskedelmi, found this letter in due time, and was so much impressed that the letter was reproduced in Hungarian advertisements. These contributed, to a great extent, in the successful introduction of Peerless in that country.

Veteran Editor to Write for Stutz

Glen Buck of the Glen Buck Co., Chicago, announces the addition to his staff of Dan V. Goodman, one of the veteran automobile editors of the countary. For a number of years, Goodman has been in charge of the automotive department of the Indianapolis Star and is widely known throughout the industry. His main duty will be in connection with the advertising account of the Stutz Motor Car Co., which the Glen Buck Agency acquired at the beginning of the year.

Dodge Sales Show 20.2 Per Cent Gain

Sales of Dodge Brothers passenger cars to consumers in domestic and foreign territories from the first of the year to the week ending June 23 show a gain of 20.2 per cent over the corresponding period of 1927. A like total of passenger cars delivered last year was not reached, until the week ending Aug. 6, factory officials announce.

A gain of 67 per cent in retail sales was registered for the week ending June 23 compared to the corresponding week in 1927.

European Auto Output.

England, with an estimated production of 231,000 cars and trucks, occupied first place among European automobile manufacturing countries during 1927: France held second place with 190,000; Germany manufactured 72,000; Italy, 55,800; Czecho-Slovakia, 10,100; Austria, 8700, and Belgium 6500.

2,000,000 Cars and Going Strong!

JULY marks the production of the two-millionth automobile by Willys-Overland. This event happily coincides with the culmination of the greatest 6 months in the company's 20-year history.

Production during the half-year just completed greatly exceeded the entire output of 1927. This unit volume now makes Willys-Overland the industry's third largest producer.

The reasons are plain:—

In the 4-cylinder Whippet the public is getting a light car value absolutely without parallel. Roomy, stylish and beautiful bodies; a dependable engine of tremendous power; BIG 4-wheel brakes; silent timing chain; full force-feed lubrication, and many other features offered only in much higher-priced cars.

The new Whippet Six is the world's lowest priced 6-cylinder car . . . and its surpassing quality is a matter of common knowledge. So true is this, that demand has always exceeded production.

Its extra powerful engine is equipped with 7-bearing crankshaft, Invar-strut pistons, and silent timing chain. Its liveliness and speed capacity are a revelation to owners. Its dependable 4-wheel brakes provide the necessary safety in modern traffic.

The Willys-Knight Standard Six offers the exclusive advantages of the patented Willys-Knight double-sleeve valve engine at the lowest price in history. The Willys-Knight Special Six and the Willys-Knight Great Six complete this masterly line of highest quality motor cars offering features and advantages enthusiastically praised by more than 325,000 Willys-Knight owners.

CLEARING OF 25 CHANNELS IS CONSIDERED

Caldwell Says There Are Not Stations to Use More in Public Interest.

By THOMAS STEVENSON.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—A plan to clear only 25 channels for high-power broadcasting stations is being considered by the Federal Radio Commission on suggestion by Commissioner Caldwell. Originally, Caldwell advocated clearing 50 channels. Now, after going over the list of broadcasting stations, he is convinced that there are not 50 stations which can utilize cleared channels in the public interest.

It had been the intention of the Commission to decide on a plan of allocation before Monday next, when hearings will begin for the 162 stations notified to show cause why their licenses should be renewed.

One of the reasons for notifying the stations was the requirement of the amendment to the radio law that there be an equal division of broadcasting licenses, power, channels and operating time among the five radio zones of the country. Adoption of a new allocation would establish the quotas for each zone and the Commission would know definitely how many stations could be licensed and the number that must be discontinued.

But the members of the Commission were too far apart in their views about the new allocation. So Commissioners Caldwell and Pickard, both of whom represent extreme opposite views, were designated as a committee to study the situation and agree on a plan of allocation.

After working in Washington for several days, Pickard left for Atlantic City, to continue his work, and Caldwell left for New York. Late in the week, Caldwell and Pickard were supposed to get together and attempt to agree on a plan.

The plan which Caldwell advocated called for 25 cleared channels for stations of unlimited power; 25 channels for stations of 1000 to 5000 watts, with two stations operating simultaneously on each channel; 36 channels for stations of 500 to 1000 watts, with two and one-half stations on each channel, and four local channels for stations of 100 and 250 watts, with 50 stations on each channel. Such a plan would enable 365 stations to be licensed for simultaneous operation. This number would be increased, of course, through time division.

Pickard is not sold on the plan. He thinks there should be a greater number of local channels. With even 10 local channels, he contends, it would be possible to provide for 400 to 500 local stations which could serve small communities.

Caldwell asserts that one big station is worth several hundred small ones because the big stations not only serve larger audiences, but also provide better programs.

According to Caldwell, the channels could be much better utilised for service if they were cleared. But, he asserts, it would be futile to clear channels for stations which are not entitled to cleared channels.

RECEPTION NOISES MAY BE CONTROLED

David Grimes Invents Device to Reduce Trouble From That Cause.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Parasitic reception noises, the bane of every radio fan, soon may be as easily controlled as a modern receiver is tuned.

David Grimes, New York engineer, in extensive recearch work, has found that squeals caused by heterodyning, noises originating from rundown B batteries, the hum from defective tubes and the whistle set up by regenerative and superheterodyne receivers, may be greatly reduced.

Probably the biggest obstacle to ideal reception is caused by the overlapping frequencies of broadcasting stations. These produce a whistle or heterodyne in the receiver. Engineers have said that this problem was one for them to overcome. Grimes has developed a device which, while it does not entirely eliminate the troublesome background, reduce it to a point that is not troublesome.

Even man-made static, such as noises caused by running motors, heating pads and other electrical devices, may be lowered. Atmospherics, however, are not within the range of the instrument.

Grimes tackled the problem from the receiver end itself instead of attempting to use wavetraps. He developed a bridge circuit which balances out interference without materially affecing tone quality.

Grimes has brought the instrument to the point where it may be incorporated in a receiver by the simple process of taking out a tube and putting it back, attached to the noise eliminator, for which patents have been sought.

South and West to Lose Because of New Radio Law

Caldwell Assails "Incompetent Lawmakers" Who Caused Congress to Require Equalizing of Broadcasting by Zones.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—According to Radio Commissioner Caldwell, the regions which are likely to suffer most from station allocations necessitated by provisions of the new radio act are the South and the Far West, from which came most of the pressure that caused Congress to enact a bill aimed at equalizing radio opportunities.

"Collating the many valuable suggestions on the broadcasting situation offered to the Federal Radio Commission by the engineers, broadcasters, the general public and interested members of Congress," said Caldwell, "the Commission's committee on Broadcast Reallocation has been working uninterruptedly with expert help to have a plan ready by Aug. 1.

Hardship on Two Zones.

"Gratifying progress is being made toward a broadcasting setup that will equalize the radio facilities granted to the five radio zones, while securing good radio reception, so far as the available radio facilities permit under the new Davis-Dill equalizing law.

"To those who are working on this reallocation program and undertaking to carry out faithfully the equalizing provisions of the Davis-Dill bill, as passed by the last session of Congress, it is becoming increasingly apparent that the greatest — and unnecessary — hardship imposed by the Davis-Dill law on the listening public will be in the South and in the far West, the very sections from which came the sponsors of the bill in Congress.

"Since the Davis-Dill law requires that the wave lengths, powers and licenses shall be divided equally among the five zones, it is apparent that the geographically large Southern zone, and the tremendous Pacific coast (fifth) zone, can be granted only the same number of stations and powers as can be operated satisfactorily in the relatively small and compact First Zone, which comprises New England, New York and neighboring states.

"In the great geographical stretches of the Southern zone, from Florida to Texas, a large number of stations might be operated without radio interference, and the Southern public thus might have the advantage of ideal and adequate radio service, were it be required under the Davis-Dill law limits the South's radio stations to the same number which can be worked in the small Eastern (First) zone.

Hits at "Incompetent Lawmakers."

"A similar imposition is worked on the radio public of the vast Fifth zone, whose huge area includes two-fifths of the United States. This zone's radio stations are now using some 80 different wavelengths, and could continue to use all these without interference with any other stations anywhere. Yet, because the physically tiny First zone sets the limit on the number of stations which can be operated, the great Fifth zone will be required under the Davis-Dill law, to vacate nearly two-thirds of these wavelengths, which must stand idle and useless while this zone's splendid stations are forced to double up and divide time on a few wave lengths, so that legal equalization may be obtained. Especial hardships will be worked on California and Washington, whose time on the air will be cut to about one-third—all needlessly, so far as radio interference is concerned.

"In other words, all four of the geographically great radio zones must, under the Davis-Dill law, wear the same size radio clothes as will properly fit the physically small First or Eastern Zone.

"When the radio listening public of the Pacific Coast and of the Southern States find themselves thus unnecessarily deprived of the radio facilities which, afforded by nature, might be theirs, except for legal enactment, certainly an enraged public opinion will be directed at those incompetent law-makers who led Congress into this needless waste of the nation's precious radio wave lengths."

Another Station On Columbia Chain

During July, August and September the Columbia chain will have an extra link in WMAF on the country estate of Col. E. H. R. Green, South Dartmouth, Mass. This station, which is operated only in the summer, carried Columbia programs last September when this network was organized.

WMAF, known as "The Voice From Way Down East," operates on 428 meters 700 kilocycles) with 1000 watts power. Counting WMAF the Columbia chain has 19 stations.

Political speeches on the radio are prohibited in France.

It is estimated that there are now nearly 12,000,000 receiving sets in the United States, serving an audience of not fewer than 40,000,000 persons.

Rebroadcasting by Airplane Planned in Connection With WIL

The first of three airplanes that WIL is to use for rebroadcasting, public address work and aerial radio stunts is expected to arrive in St. Louis this evening from the factory at Little Rock, Ark., according to William Ellsworth, director of the station. Ellsworth said that the plane would be flown here by Herbert J. Brown, formerly an army pilot, with C. W. Benson of the company operating WIL, and John Buckner, mechanic, as passengers.

Ellsworth says that the machine is a duel control, three-passenger biplane and that a complete receiving and rebroadcasting outfit will be installed in it after its arrival.

Excerpts from "Il Trovatore" and other operas are to be sung in the Opera Hour at 1:30 this afternoon, by Jack Coleman, tenor; Catherine McLennan, soprano; Agnes Vogeler, soprano; Norris Allen, baritone, and others. Miss McLennan formerly was a member of the Dillingham Light Opera Co.

Concert bands of St. Louis are playing on the roof of the Melbourne Hotel several nights a week and their music is being broadcast by WIL, whose studios adjoin the roof garden. Falkenhainer's band, Bauer's concert band and Poepping's band already have played for WIL listeners. Next Tuesday night, the ensemble from the Missouri Theater is to broadcast over WIL. These concerts are part of the series given over WIL by Musicians' Benefit Association No. 2.

CALDWELL IS PLANNING TO RESIGN OCT. 1

Radio Commissioner Only One of Original Five on Board.

Orestes H. Caldwell of New York is to resign as a member of the Federal Radio Commisison about Oct. 1.

Caldwell is one of the original members of the commission. He was appointed with Admiral Bullard, Col. Dillon, Henry A. Bellows and Judge E. O. Sykes to administer the new radio law. Bullard and Dillon are dead. Bellows resigned. Caldwell's departure will leave only Judge Sykes of the original five.

The reason given by Caldwell for his resignation is that he must return to his duties in New York.

"When I first joined the Commission," he said, "it was with the intention of serving only one year. But we made such a mess of things during the first year that my conscience would not permit me to leave.

"I am sure that the Commission will make a good allocation by Oct. 1, and that there will not be much need for my services after that."

Caldwell will return to his radio editorial work in New York. As a member of the Radio Commission he gets a salary of $10,000. In New York he received nearly $20,000. So it is assumed that the difference in the two salaries has much to do with his resignation.

THE new 1929 ELECTRIC SET!

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Ready now—
Get it before the rush starts

OF COURSE you're going to have a self-contained electric set. Why not get it in time for the Tunney-Heeney fight, the baseball games, and all kinds of news and musical programs which are being broadcast through the summer?

All we have learned in twenty-six years of manufacturing, including six years of radio, is summed up in this new 1929 lamp-socket receiver. Everything that has made Atwater Kent Radio the choice of 1,600,000 families in the past is here, with improvements only recently made possible by laboratory research.

Now you have greater power, greater sensitivity. This new set hears programs that used to be too faint, too far away—and passes them on exactly as it hears them. Its reach is wide, its tone pure, its selectivity unusual, its compactness and beauty adapted to convenient placing in your home, its reliability assured by 222 factory tests or inspections before shipment.

In every respect this new Model 40 is a worthy successor of the Atwater Kent 37 (which went into 200,000 homes in four months, setting a new record of sales and satisfaction). Yet—because of ever-increasing demand the price is lower—only $77!

When you ask an Atwater Kent dealer for a home demonstration, remember that high quality and low price do go hand in hand—when your radio is an Atwater Kent.

(without tubes)

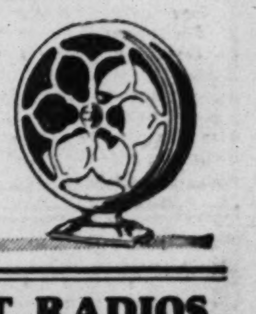
Model 40 A. C. set. Satin-finished in brown and gold or deep golden bronze and gold. For 110-120 volt, 50-60 cycle alternating current. Requires six A. C. tubes and one rectifying tube, $77.

Also Model 42 A. C. set with automatic line voltage regulator, $86, and Model 44, an extra-powerful, extra-sensitive seven-tube A. C. set, $106.

Battery sets, $49 and $68 (less tubes and batteries).

"Radio's truest voice"

Atwater Kent Radio Speakers Models E, E-2, E-3, same quality, different in size, each $20.



On the air—every Sunday night—Atwater Kent Hour—listen in!

MISS EARHART TO TELL STORY THROUGH KSD

First Woman to Cross Atlantic in Airplane to Go on Air July 11.

Amelia Earhart and her companions in the flight of the plane, "Friendship," across the Atlantic ocean, are to tell their stories of the exploit next Wednesday night over KSD and allied NBC stations. The broadcast will be heard from 6 to 7 o'clock central standard time.

Miss Earhart, who was the first woman to fly across the Atlantic ocean, and her companions, Wilmer Stultz, the pilot, and Lou Gordon, relief pilot, are to speak. The stories are to be told in their own words.

There will also be music by a military band.

The broadcast will be sponsored by the Chrysler Motor Corporation, which recently took over Dodge Brothers and apparently is following the policy of the Dodge concern in sponsoring outstanding radio programs when it has special announcements to make.

Tunney-Heeney Fight Over KSD Night of July 26

The Tunney-Heeney fight is to be broadcast by KSD and allied NBC stations direct from the ring on Thursday night, July 26. As the boxers are expected to be at it between 8 and 8:30 o'clock, Halsey Stuart Co. have given up their regular broadcasting period on KSD for that one evening.

Noiseless Contacts to Battery.

The best way to make a good, solid, noiseless contact to a storage battery is to fasten lead strips to the terminals. Connections can then be made to the free end of each lead strip which is free from acid corrosion.

WSPD, Toledo, on Columbia Chain

WSPD, owned and operated by the Toledo Broadcasting Co., has joined the Columbia broadcasting system.

WSPD, the only broadcasting station in Toledo, O., was established this year, when George Storer took over station WTAL, changed its call letters to WSPD and installed a new transmitter and studios. The transmitter is a 1000-watt set, operating on 239.9 meters (1250 kilocycles).

Worth Remembering.

Unless thoroughly experienced, it is dangerous to refill a storage battery with a new solution of sulphuric acid. Different types of batteries require different strengths of acid solution.

WORK ON NEW 50,000 WATT WLW STARTED

Crosley Plans to Have It Operating With Super Power by Sept. 17.

Evidently Powel Crosley Jr. feels assured that the Federal Radio Commission is thoroughly sympathetic with his plans to make WLW, his broadcasting station at Cincinnati, O., the most powerful independent transmitter in this country. He has started work on a $250,000 new station and now states that on Sept. 17 WLW will be operating with 50,000 watts power and, because of high efficiency to be obtained from the new apparatus, will be the most powerful broadcaster in the whole world. At present WLW, which is owned by the Crosley Radio Corporation, has a 5000-watt plant.

The 50,000 watt transmitter is to be a duplicate of 3XN, the experimental station of the Bell Telephone Laboratories at Whippany, N. J. As many St. Louisans who listen in late at night know, 3XN is often received here with really extraordinary volume. Tests made with 3XN on the wave length of WLW are said to have brought letters from listeners all over the world reporting greater volume and clarity of signals than from any other tsation.

Using 50,000 watts power, WLW should become virtually a St. Louis local station. It will be so located that it should be easily received throughout this country and Canada. As has been told, WCFL, the station of the American Federation of Labor at Chicago, also is preparing to build a 50-000 watts station.

The new WLW station is to be built adjoining that of WSAI which also is operated by Crosley, at Mason, O., about 20 miles from Cincinnati. Its towers are to be 300 feet high, 600 feet apart, and 400 feet from the station building. Enough power will be used to light a small town. The total load is expected to run as high as 250,000 watts. A new transmission line will be laid solely to carry current to WLW.

Crosley says that no other station in the country obtains the efficiency of the new WLW transmitter. "One hundred per modulation is obtained," he says, "and this, coupled with the very high efficiency throughout the plant and extremely low ground losses means that the 50,000 watt WLW will be the most powerful broadcaster in the world."

NOTED WELSH TENOR TO SING THROUGH KSD

Ifor Thomas Will Be Soloist in Franklin Program Tomorrow Night.

Ifor Thomas, a tenor from Wales who recently came to this country after a successful grand opera career in Europe, is to be the vocal soloist on a Franklin Airman program that is to be broadcast over KSD and allied stations tomorrow night. Thomas' voice has been compared to that of Evan Williams, most famous in this country of Welsh singers.

Thomas is to feature "All Through the Night," which is said to have been Evan Williams' favorite song. He also is to sing "David of the White Rock"; the aria, "Vesti la Giubba," from "Pagliacci"; "Sigh No More," the words of which are Shakespeare's, and "My Lovely Celia."

An orchestra directed by Josef Pasternack will play the overture to the opera, "The Secret of Suzanne"; "Fruehlingliebe," by Pasternack; "Shepherds, Hey," by Grainger, and the "Mosquito Ballet."

Margery Sill Wickware of the Interior Decorators' Club of New York is to speak.

SCOTCH MUSIC ON STATION KSD TOMORROW NIGHT

ward II, more than 100,000 strong, with less than half the force.

The bagpipes have furnished the military music of the Scots since their introduction to the British isles by the Romans. They have gladdened the weddings and all festivals. The pipes have also served to lighten labor, as on the Isle of Skye in 1726, when the inhabitants were engaged in roadmaking and each party of laborers had its bag-piper. The oldest still in existence is a Highland bagpipe dated 1409.

The early Scottish minstrels are said to have told their stories and sung to the accompaniment of the harp, but it was the fiddle that became the popular accompaniment of song and the dance in Scotland.

Platform Plank Talks Over KSD

Voters in the months before Nov. 6 will not have a chance to forget the declarations of policy adopted by the Republican party in Kansas City and by the Democratic party in Houston. Each Sunday night, over KSD and 17 other radio stations associated with the NBC, David Lawrence will discuss planks of the two platforms. His talk will go on the air from 7 to 7:15 p. m., as usual.

The platform discussions will be from a nonpartisan viewpoint. The legislative and administrative background of each plank will be given, reasons for party stands on various issues will be explained, and the differences between party policies will be pointed out.

The talks will follow closely the style of Lawrence's broadcast talks on "Our Government."

"In previous campaigns, the planks in the party platforms usually have been forgotten," Lawrence said. "This time, however, by means of radio, the voters will have the opportunity to hear and to analyze for themselves the substance and meaning of the party pledges."

Synchronization Test Reported Successful

KMOX and WAIU Operate on Same Wave Without Affecting Transmission of St. Louis Station, Observers Report.

All reports from official checkers and all letters of comment from listeners said that KMOX's transmission sounded as usual during the synchronization test with WAIU, Columbus, O., Tuesday night.

The test was conducted for two hours, from 7 to 9 o'clock. It is to be repeated next Tuesday evening at the same time. The two stations, both of 5000 watts power, operated simultaneously on KMOX's wave length of 300 meters (1000 kilocycles), according to George Junkin, director of vthe St. Louis station. "Apparently, the two stations were synchronized throughout the two-hour test, judging from reports of our checkers, comment in letters received, and lack of complaints about KMOX's transmission," Junkin said.

Because of the hope that in synchronization, and consequent simultaneous of a number of chain stations on the same wave channel, lies possibility of solving the crowded air problem, engineers of the Federal Radio Commission are watching the KMOX-WAIU experiments and similar tests by other stations.

In tests conducted after midnight, Central Standard time, five other stations will try to operate on the same wave length, eliminating heterodyne or carrier wave interference by the method of zero beat. These stations are WTMJ, Milwaukee; WSYR, Syracuse, N. Y;. WODA of Paterson, N. J.; and KPRC of Houston, Tex. WTMJ acting as the key station, will broadcast to each of the other stations and they will adjust their transmitters to the zero beat.

Engineers of the National Broadcasting Co. told committees of Congress, investigating the chain station situation last winter, that synchronization of the networks then was not feasible, from engineering and financial standpoints. Members of the commission and other engineers, however, are confident that the development of matched crystals and other devices will permit successful adoption of the plan.

Few stations have the apparatus for attuning their frequencies exactly to those of other stations and many broadcasters could not install it without a heavy financial outlay.

The commission has no authority to order stations to install synchronizing equipment. It is pointed out, however, that stations which undertake such improvement could be authorized to operate closer geographical separations and so maintain position on the better wave lengths.

BROADCASTING BY BIN-AURAL METHOD TRIED

Demonstration by WLW Gives Vivid Impression of Realism.

Bin-aural broadcasting has just been demonstrated publicly for the first time by the Crosley Radio Corporation before a selected group of newspapermen and radio technicians. Owners of two radio sets tuned them to stations WLW and WSAI both broadcasting an orchestral record and for the first time, it is said, heard radio music with perspective which created the effect of absolute realism.

Bin-aural broadcasting does for audible images what the stereoscope does for those visible. The stereoscope puts perspective into two pictures taken with lens approximating the human eyes, and brought to focus through similar lens.

The bin-aural method of broadcasting puts perspective into the sound as it reaches the listener through two receiving sets fed by two radio transmitters broadcasting on different frequencies and each supplied by a separate microphone.

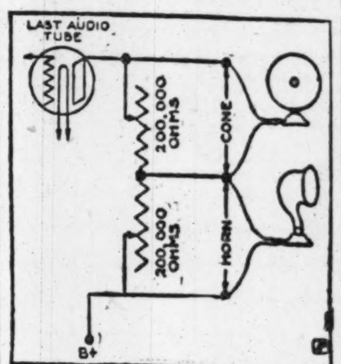
Microphones for the Crosley demonstration were placed in front of the orchestra in positions and at angles corresponding to those of the human ears. Two receiving sets were tuned to the two stations for the bin-aural demonstration. Their loud speakers were set at su[illegible] angle that the focal point of [illegible] was at the listeners' ears.

Each instrument in the orchestra was heard in its proper relation to all other instruments. The fidelity of reproduction made it possible for listeners to locate the instruments and to discover whenever a change in their placement was made. Several letters from distant points contained diagrams of the orchestra showing that those present at the test were not imagining the realism so noticeable.

Scientists have been interested for some time in the possibilities of bin-aural broadcasting, but tests have meen limited to laboratory experiments. So far as is known, the Crosley Radio Corporation with its two stations, WLW and WSAI, is the only broadcaster in the country possessing the facilities for successful bin-aural broadcasting to large numbers of listeners. Further tests probably will be conducted.

How to Couple 2 Speakers

QUALITY output may be obtained from an ordinary receiver by the use of both a cone and a horn speaker. While the cone and horn may be hooked in series and operated without other device, better results will be obtained where a home-assembled "mixing panel" is used. It consists merely of two variable resistances with a maximum of least 200,000 ohms.



Tone improvement will result when a cone and a horn are connected to the out-put of a receiver. A "mixing panel" will deliver the proper amount of power to each speaker. It consists of two variable resistances connected as shown in the diagram.

The resistances are connected in series and placed across the output terminals of the receiver, the movable arm of one to the plate connection of the last tube, and the other movable arm to the B supply lead. One side of the cone is connected to the plate lead, while one side of the horn goes to the B wire. The remaining speaker leads are fastened to the wire leading from one resistance to the other.

Best results are obtained where a horn with a high pitch and a cone which brings out the low notes are used. This combination will result in a mellowness of tone that will be much better than with a cone or horn alone, as practically all of the voice frequencies passing the audio amplifier will be audible.

The resistances should be of a type that give a noiseless adjustment, although any kind may be employed, as it is necessary to regulate them only once after their installation.

The fact that a receiver has an output transformer makes no difference in the installation, as the simplifiel method is to connect the mixer to the speaker terminals on the receiver, making it unnecessary to disturb the wiring. The resistances may be adjusted separately and left until it is desired to produce a different tone.

The mixer may be mounted in a small box and placed near the set.

March Dedicated To Elks on Air

"The Spirit of Purple," a new march by Arthur Yryor, dedicated by him to the Elks, will be played for the first time tonight by the United Military Band over KMOX and allied stations.

Following its air premiere, "The Spirit of Purple" will be played at the Elks' national convention, in Miami, this week, by a number of Elks bands massed into one.

New Coil Said to Improve Reception

Said to Permit Use of Any Number of R F Stages on All Waves.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 7.—Radio reception is expected to be improved introduction of a new type of coil which facilitates reception from 10 to 10,000 meters.

The coils are the invention of Dr. F. W. Twort of the University of London. "The coils work well with detector and one or more stages of audio frequency, but their outstanding merit is that any number of radio frequency stages can be used on all wave-lengths," he said. "There is nothing special about the circuit. The tubes are coupled with the special transformer, the secondary of which is tuned, that is all—with the screen-grid tubes. If ordinary tubes are used, neutralization should be carried out in the usual manner, coils should be shielded, and it is best partially to shield tuning condenser and valves.

"Any aerial can be used. No alteration is necessary for any wave down to well below 16 meters. I use an aerial just under 100 feet long, but sometimes demonstrate with five feet of 26 gauge D. C. C. wire tied to a string and held up in the room. In the aerial lead I have a small condenser which is used chiefly on the broadcast and longer waves to cut down the enormous volume given by the chief European stations."

Dr. Twort says that in changing from one wave band to another no components are changed except the intertube couplers. The same choke is used for 15 meters as for 2000 meters. A master rheostat is used as an "on and off" switch.

The coils function equally well with condenser leak or plate rectification, and work well with almost any type of tube.

Radio Trade Notes

The Staffelbach & Duffy Music Co. has been appointed exclusive distributer of Sparton receivers in the St. Louis territory. The Sparton sets use the newly developed Equasone circuit which is said to provide constant selectivity throughout the broadcasting band with selectivity as sharp at 1500 kilocycles as at 550. Another feature is the use of only one audio stage, which has a 250-power tube and thereby gets rid of considerable distortion attributed to use of two or more audio stages. There has always been difficulty in getting a receiver to tune as well below 250 meters as above that point, but the new Spartons are said to remedy this difficulty. The Equasone Circuit uses a band pass filter immediately after the aerial. This band pass filter acts as the selector and has no tubes, though tuning is all done in it. The tuned signal is passed to a 5-tube radio frequency amplifier with so large a gain that when the signal is passed on through the special detector stage, it is strong enough to operate a 250 power tube at full efficiency.

The range of a voltmeter for B eliminators may be increased easily by the use of a suitable resistance. A measuring device with a maximum of 300 volts may be raised to 600 by connecting externally in series with it a 500,000 ohm resistance, Electrad engineers advise.

Fred R. Ward has been appointed manager of the radio department of the Quality Furniture Co., 1434 Franklin avenue. For six years he has been with a South Side radio firm.

Heavy Wire for AC Tube Circuits.

One of the most important things to watch in using the new AC tubes such as the CX-326 and C 327, is to make sure that the wire used for making the connections to the filament is heavy enough to carry the required current. Rubber-covered twisted wire not smaller than No. 18 should be used. If obtainable, No. 16 or even No. 14 is to be preferred.

9000 CHILDREN TOOK PART IN SCHOOL GARDEN ACTIVITIES

Supervisors Had Charge of Work in Last Year at 60 Planted Tracts.

About 9000 school children were active in the 60 school gardens sponsored last year by the Board of Education. The work was performed by the children under the direction of garden supervisors and is considered a valuable cultural, recreational and vocational activity.

Products grown at the school gardens are sometimes sold for the benefit of some school activity and sometimes given to the workers. Besides the gardens at or near school grounds, two community gardens covering about three acres were cultivated last year, one in Tower Grove Park and another on the grounds of the Wells School.

Home gardens also were encouraged. These were visited several times during the season by a representative of the board and certificates of merit given to those deserving commendation.

Vegetables grown in the garden of the Porter Open Air School, 5436 Natural Bridge avenue, were used in the school kitchen, adding to the health-giving activities of the school.

H. C. Irish, formerly connected with Shaw's Garden, is supervisor of school gardens for the Board of Education.

CANDIDATES TO ADDRESS WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE

All Those in Race for Circuit Attorney Expected to Speak at Luncheon Wednesday.

All candidates for Circuit Attorney are expected to speak before the League of Women Voters at a "candidate" luncheon sponsored by the organization next Wednesday, at 12:15 o'clock at the City Club.

The candidates are Howard Sidener, the incumbent; Arthur Freund, William R. Davis, Louis E. Miller, E. E. Rudolph, Republicans, and former Circuit Judge Franklin Miller, Joseph F. Dickmann and Thomas J. Rowe, Democrats.

Three Hurt at Gasoline Fire.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 7.—A fireman was injured, another overcome by heat of the sun and a third man painfully burned yesterday while combatting a fire at a bulk gasoline station. Louis Schell, 28 years old, was burned as he stood on a delivery tank truck he had just filled with 350 gallons of gasoline, when an explosion of undetermined origin set the station afire. The truck exploded later, injuring Fire Captain Hoffacker. Fireman Lawrence Schweiss, 35, was overcome by the heat.

TWO BOYS, 13, BARTENDERS IN RESORT ON EAST SIDE

They Are Let Go, but Owners of Falling Springs Park Are Arrested in Raid.

Federal prohibition agents reported that they found two 13-year-old boys waiting on the trade in a "home brew joint" run in connection with an amusement park at Falling Springs, south of East St. Louis, which they raided Friday night.

The agents seized a small quantity of home brew, whisky and wine, and arrested F. B. Potter and Edward Reckline, proprietors of the resort. The boys, who live in East St. Louis, were let go with a reprimand.

Better than ever• and winning even greater success

Ever since it flashed into the field, Pontiac Six has been a history-making car. Its first year was one of record-breaking proportions. Its second saw even more spectacular heights attained. And now, Pontiac Six is winning even greater success—because today's Pontiac Six in countless ways is a better car than its famous predecessors.

Now Pontiac offers, in addition to the stamina and reliability for which it is famous, elements of design stamping it as one of the most advanced cars the automotive industry affords. The G-M-R cylinder head—the cross-flow radiator—the AC fuel pump... these, and a dozen additional developments, are typical of its marked superiority over all other cars in the field.

Combining the beauty of bodies by Fisher and highest quality construction with its numerous notable engineering advancements, it provides style, comfort, long life and smooth six-cylinder performance—never before available at prices as low as $745. Ride once—and you will agree... here is value that cannot be matched!

'Student Prince' in Forest Park

Municipal Opera Company to Give Donnelly-Romberg Opera for the First Time—Garden Theater Plans to Reopen Tonight, After Week's Lay-Off Fall Through and Place Is Finally Closed Up.

TOMORROW night the Municipal Opera Company will present, for the first time, the beautiful Dorothy Donnelly-Sigmund Romberg light opera, "The Student Prince." It will also mark the first time that this popular piece has been presented by a repertory organization. During the past week it was reported from time to time that the Garden Theater had recovered from the attack of failing bankroll and frigid feet and plans were made to reopen the Olive Street Road show place tonight. The chorus and principals were kept in rehearsal until yesterday afternoon when a sudden relapse of the old trouble set in and after several financial doctors were called in and consulted it was decided that this time the attack was fatal and so the show was called off altogether. There may be attempts to revive the place later in the season but it seems hardly likely that there will be anything further doing this summer. The bad weather at the start of the season, coupled with the failure of the backers to keep putting in more money completely wrecked the organization which, with a fine company and a great list of musical comedies promised to become a regular summer institution. It is reported that, through some slip up on the part of the Actors' Equity Association, no bond was posted to insure the chorus girls and boys being paid and the theater closses with those young people being out their salaries for the final week's show.

Based, like "The Vagabond King," upon a famous stage success of 30 years ago, "The Student Prince" enjoyed as great favor throughout the country as did its dramatic predecessor, "In Old Heidelberg," in which Richard Mansfield scored such a hit in the larger cities.

"The Student Prince" was among the first of the productions which turned the American musical stage from girl and leg shows back to light opera. In casting about for material for a successor to her first hit, "Blossom Time," Dorothy Donnelly resurrected "In Old Heidelberg" as likely and proven material for her next libretto.

"IN OLD HEIDELBERG" had first won success as a novel by Wilhelm Meyer Forster, and then as a German drama, but it remained for Richard Mansfield to acquaint American theatergoers with the youthful pathos of the German student prince who was compelled to sacrifice his love for a pretty barmaid to take up the regal sceptre of his grandfather king.

Miss Donnelly's faith in the story material of "In Old Heidelberg" was fully justified by the record runs it enjoyed following its production in New York. That it ran for 18 months in New York, a year in Chicago, and 22 weeks in Detroit is also attributable to the stirring score by Sigmund Romberg, who also composed the music for "Blossom Time."

In St. Louis, also, "The Student Prince" established a near record by playing for four consecutive weeks at the Shubert-Rialto Theater in 1925 and by returning in 1926 for another week. There were, furthermore, a dozen companies carrying its beauty to almost every city in this country and Europe.

LIKE "The Vagabond King," however, "The Student Prince" is opera that best lends itself to presentation by an organization with the resources of the Municipal Theater Association. With its chorus ensemble of 96 it is expected that the Romberg songs will be sung with a volume never attained in the legitimate theater, while the settings at the Inn of the Three Golden Apples naturally lends itself to such an outdoor stage as that of Municipal Opera.

Romberg provided "The Student Prince" with a brilliant score that is replete with numbers both musically fine and popularly tuneful. "Just We Two," "Deep in My Heart, Dear," "Golden Days," "Come Boys, Let's All Be Gay Boys," and "Student Life" are among the outstanding songs, while the famous "Drinking Song" provides one of the most stirring thrills of any recent opera.

With such a dramatic background as it possesses, "The Student Prince" naturally has strong story interests. In fact, the romance and pathos of the work are almost as much responsible for the success of the opera as the music, and at the same time there is background of bright comedy.

"THE STUDENT PRINCE" opens with a brief dramatic prologue setting forth the theme of the story. Karl Franz, heir to the throne of Karlsbad, has just completed his studies preliminary to his entrance at the University of Heidelberg. His personality stifled by the rigid convention of the court, he himself longs for the freedom of college.

Prime Minister Von Mark, however, intends that the dreary formality of court shall follow him in his studies, and he commands Prince Karl's tutor, Dr. Elder, to supervise his life carefully, so that the Prince may be ready to marry Princess Margaret and undertake the duties of King on the death of his grandfather.

The first act is laid at the Inn of the Three Golden Apples at Heidelberg. Dr. Engel apparently has made arrangements for the youthful Prince to live at this inn. The proprietor, Ruder, is looking forward eagerly to the rrival of the Prince, and has laid elaborate plans for a reception, the principal feature of which is the recital of a poem by his lovely niece, Kathie. Lutz, the personal valet of the Prince, and his assistant, Hubert, precede the Prince on a tour of in-

Municipal Opera—Ten Years Ago and Now

By Charles E. Galagher

Mr. Galagher was a member of the Municipal Opera cast in 1919, when St. Louis' civic instituton was launched. He likewise appeared in 1920 and 1921, but he returns for the Tenth Anniversary Season to see many changes and improvements.

"A REGULAR American idea—a big thing." That is the reaction of several Milan music lovers with whom I discussed St. Louis' Municipal Opera during a recent musical engagement in Italy. And that reaction, more than any other, I think, typifies Municipal Opera, and lifts it into a class by itself.

From its very start Municipal Opera, as I viewed it as a member of the first cast, was typically American—bringing fine music to the masses at a popular price. And on my return I find Municipal Opera more typically American than ever—the American business spirit carrying it to bigger and greater productions and at the same time attaining a higher artistic quality.

But while my friends in Milan could grasp Municipal Opera as American because it was big, they fell far short of appreciating what it is. They had heard of it, for Municipal Opera's fame had carried even to Milan because of its distinctive difference, but they failed to conceive of it because no one can visualize Municipal Opera without having seen it.

I fear I was not adequate to describing it for them. For the Municipal Opera of which I spoke was a Municipal Opera of 10 and seven years ago But in returning in the Tenth Anniversary cast, I was amazed to find it had gone so far beyond its earlier stages. There is, in fact, virtually no comparison of the Municipal Opera today with that of the first season. The changes are both physical and artistic.

Well do I remember a harrowing experience in a production of "The Mikado." A stiff wind arose during one of the performances, and behind us the stage settings tottered. The whole cast immediately dropped the opera, and went to the rescue of the scenery, holding the sets up against the fury of the wind.

We have no such worry today. The old flat pieces have given way to the solid construction that is both safer and more artistic as the sets fit into the vernal background. The chorus is much larger. In our first chorus there were some 48, against the present group of 96. But the greatest change is in the membership. Instead of a comparatively disinterested imported New York chorus there are 96 St. Louis boys and girls, all of whom are bringing the freshness and enthusiasm of their youth to each offering—an ensemble of which any New York producer would be proud.

In my first year I was worried about by Low G's in "Robin Hood" carrying to the back of the theater. Fortunately, I had no trouble of this kind, but today no singer has to worry with the amplifying system insuring audibility even though there is a south wind to carry your own voice back to you.

One might, of course, ramble on indefinitely about the improvements, noting such theater changes as the erections of pergolas to provide shelter in case of rain, the modern and commodious dressing rooms in contrast to the shed the artist and chorus used the first year, and the more adequate stage equipment.

Then, too, the production standards have improved. It is now possible to light the stage to bring out the full beauty of the natural setting. Costumes and settings are finer and more gorgeous than in years gone by. In fact, the whole presentation standard is far superior to that of the first year.

And, of course, one should not forget the most wonderful improvement of all—the deodorizing of the River des Peres.

While my friends in Milan found it difficult to perceive municipal opera as a whole, I sometimes wonder if St. Louis appreciates its own institution. To one such as I, who saw it 10 years ago and now, it is easy to realize what a wonderful thing it is. But St. Louisans, I sometimes think, may take it too much for granted. To them the changes have been a gradual evolution with little of the wonderful about them.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 7.

THERE were whisperings a year ago that Tom Mix was through. A few trade papers chanted his swan song. And yet he came to New York several weeks ago and broke the house record at the largest theater in town—the Hippodrome. Crowds followed him everywhere and he was the lion of the hour. He may be through elsewhere but not in New York.

There comes a time in every public performer's life when he seems to come to a full stop. It is a sort of testing station and he either goes on to greater heights or passes out of the picture. That is true of writers, too.

It must be discouraging to write poetry. People who like verse are the most enthusiastic of all readers yet so few seem to care for it. At a dinner party the other evening the subject of poetry came up. The 18 guests were a unit in declaring poetry bored them.

Almost every homely man has an unexplainable dislike for one of those extremely handsome devil-may-care fellows you expect to find only on the musical comedy stage—you know, the handsome, wavy haired lieutenant in white flannels. Frequently when I see one of this sort in real life I find myself straying off to a corner to bite my nails and to hope he will be attacked by a swarm of tsetse flies. And how unfair that is! A man can no more help being born handsome than he can homely. There are many extremely handsome men who suffer as much discomfiture over nature's generous gesture as the ugly man does over his comic pan.

Few bankers acquire the dignity of those uniformed chauffeurs who drive imported cars for the rich. They are as aloof in their manner as a prima donna in a cafeteria. Their manner is courteous in opening limousine doors, helping out occupants and accepting driving orders, but it is never servile. They have a certain something.

You often hear it said a man who truckles a little to the boss is a bootlicker. My observation is that most men have to do a little boot-licking no matter how high they are on the ladder. To most salaried men the job is the anchor of dependence for his family and if necessity demands it he would rather do a little "yessing" than have his family suffer, although his heart may not be in the obeisance at all.

It is about time to soft pedal that wheeze: "Don't step on it, it might be Lon Chaney." For years Chaney has been considered a movie monstrosity—crawling about on stumps, looking through glazed eyes, or otherwise horribly disfigured. Yet in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" he appeared without a deformity and proved himself as capable as any actor appearing on the screen.

In a night club an old duffer was seen peeling off several golden notes from a hefty wad and passing them to one of those cute little tricks with a curl and a lisp. "And a little child shall bleed them," sighed the hostess.

A Broadwayite writes he has found the dumbest girl. She was fired from a five and ten cent store because she could not remember the prices.

The legion of friends and admirers of Lew Fields are happy he is attaining new success in advancing years. An added comfort is his son Herbert, who has shown conspicuous ability as a librettist. Fields is now presenting a successful musical play in a theater bearing his own name and the book was written by his son.

Second Thoughts on First Nights

By Alison Smith

NEW YORK, July 7.

CONSIDERABLE biographical matter has already been printed concerning St. John Greer Ervine, who, besides being a playwright and novelist of international popularity, has for some time past occupied a position that can be described as England's leading dramatic critic and who is to come to this country next September, to step in the critical shoes of the New York World lately vacated by Alexander Woollcott, and to write this weekly letter to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

At the risk of repetition, it should be said that St. John Ervine was born in Belfast 45 years ago, has been associated with the theater since boyhood, and served in France during the World War, in which he was very severely wounded.

As a playwright he can lay a claim to fame as the author of "Jane Clegg," "John Ferguson," "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," "The Ship," "The Lady of Belmont," "Anthony and Anna," "Mixed Marriage," "The Magnanimous Lover" (his first play written in 1907), and with H. G. Wells, "The Wonderful Visit."

As a novelist: "Mrs. Martin's Man," "Alice and a Family," "Changing Winds," "The Foolish Lovers" and "The Wayward Man."

Concerning his appointment as a dramatic critic in New York, the World stated, "An unprecedented importance has come to the American stage in recent years. It has taken on an international character that involves every aspect of production. At such a time it seemed to the World desirable to bring to New York the principal center of the American stage, a new viewpoint in the valuation of this golden age of the theater. It believes that in every way Mr. Ervine will give this new viewpoint and give it with a distinction comparable with that which has marked his career in so many fields."

A SIDELIGHT on the man himself gleams forth from a resume of his life in which John L. Balderston, staff correspondent for the Post-Dispatch and the World in London, points out Ervine's gratitude to an unnamed schoolmaster for an early education not to be found among the current curriculums of Ireland's public schools when Ervine was a boy.

Says Ervine:

"I was taught how to read and to write and to work out simple sums, but I was taught no history and my acquaintance with the literature of my country was confined to brief passages selected from Shakspeare and Thomas Moore. I remember now that I had to learn the Quality of Mercy speech from "The Merchant of Venice," but was told nothing whatever about the play or its author, nor

The Empress Stock Fades Away

National Players Company Will Not Return to St. Louis This Fall and Theater Has Been Thrown Back on the Hands of the Skouras Brothers Who Will Welcome Suggestions as to What to Do With It—Writing Music for the Sound Movies Is Attracting the Attention of Many Composers.

By NIE.

ANYONE who wants a perfectly good theater in the heart of the Grand avenue show district can get immediate action by applying to the Skouras brothers. Charley and Spyros and George, who specialize in grabbing up show houses all over this part of the country have an extra one on their hands at present, for last week they were notified that the National Players, so far as St. Louis is concerned, have faded out of the picture and would have no further use for the Empress, which, as everyone knows, is on Olive street just a few doors west of Grand. The stock company which has played there for some years dropped $25,000 last season and will not try it again this year. The Skourases control the house on a long lease, having taken it some years ago to prevent any more movies operating in that district. Now the Empress may be had by anyone who will come forward with the rent money in one hand and a plan of any sort of operation which does not involve showing films, in the other.

So there will be no dramatic stock company in St. Louis next season, unless some other organization steps into the shoes of the National Players. Thus ends the stock enterprise which began when O. D. Woodward opened at the Garrick Theater in September, 1922. Woodward came to town, not exactly on a shoestring, but something like that. Forest P. Tralles, attorney for the Shuberts, and Edward L. Butler, who at that time held the Garrick lease, gambled with Woodward on the rent. The rent, it is said, was paid. Woodward gave good shows and they were widely approved if not financially supported. Fourteen weeks found Woodward at the end of his resources, without money to pay his orchestra. However, Tralles and Butler thought the stock impresario might fare better at the Empress, in the Grand-Olive district, Tralles, as the Shubert representative having previously obtained the Empress lease for the short-lived Shubert unit vaudeville shows.

BUSINESS was better, but hardly good enough, at the Olive street house. After a year Tralles, Butler and Woodward organized the National Players, Woodward sacrificing complete control of his destiny for the sake of freedom from some of the business cares. He became general director of the organization, the company standing the losses and he sharing in the profits, if any. There followed five seasons of varying success. The first was modestly profitable, the second more so, the third showed some decline, the fourth resulted in breaking even and the fifth, last season, showed a loss of considerably more than $20,000. Woodward severed his connection with the enterprise toward the close of last season.

During most of his sojourn in St. Louis Woodward had as his leading woman, Hazel Whitmore. She was a talented actress, but, in truth, grew somewhat too familiar to steady stock fans. On the theory that Miss Whitmore had worn out her welcome here, the management, over Woodward's protest, decided to dismiss her, and did so. Woodward's resignation was submitted forthwith. He now is on the West Coast touring with Miss Whitmore in the Bram Stoker mystery melodrama of vampires, "Dracula," which he acquired for her.

OTHER leading women who have appeared here under Woodward's direction are Dorothy Blackburn, Gladys Hurlbut, Rhea Dively, Leona Powers and perhaps one or two others. Leading men were John Warner, Selmer Jackson, Alexis Luce, J. G. MacFarlane and, latterly, Don Burroughs.

At one time Woodward tried stock in the Pershing Theater, the old Park, out on Delmar. This venture flashed in the pan. He had a company of the National Players in Kansas City and another in Cincinnati. A short term in Detroit was unprofitable. The Kansas City company was closed last season in a controversy with the musicians' union.

Butler, who has become general manager, says, however, that the National Players will have a house in Cincinnati next season and possibly in Kansas City also. He declares that in time it is hoped to reopen again in St. Lous.

One reason for not reopening here next season, he says—believe it or not!—is the scarcity of good plays. This in view of the fact that of all the plays given here by the stock company the most profitable was an old-timer of indifferent quality—"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

ANOTHER glimpse into the future possibilities of the chain motion picture theaters is afforded this week at the Ambassador in Ed Lowry's stage show, "Swanee Moon," for which the Publix Theaters Circuit engaged Dave Stamper to write special music.

This writing of an individual score for the movie shows coming to St. Louis during a tour of 37 cinema houses is a new wrinkle, it being the first time that a popular composer of Stamper's renown has gone to work for the picture houses.

It naturally brings up the question of just how far the movies will go in their emphasis of stage shows. Before it's over the movie houses may be offering regular Broadway revues and musical comedies. The latter is to be a forthcoming experiment, for Joseph was I told in what circumstances Portia's speech was delivered until, by a piece of good luck, a new headmaster was appointed to my school. He took a great deal of undeserved interest in me, taught me French and geometry and algebra in his spare time, and explained to me why Portia found it necessary to say that the quality of mercy was not strained. It is the fashion to sneer at schoolmasters and schoolmarms. It is not a fashion which I can follow. I owe much to the ill-paid and overworked men and women who, without any remuneration for it, gave up part of their leisure to furnishing my mind with instruction that was not included in the curriculum laid down by the educational authorities of Ireland!"

Interesting is the fact that it was his play "John Ferguson" that may be said to have turned the tide of fortune for the now prosperous and famous Theater Guild, at the time struggling to prevent itself falling into the abyss of bankruptcy. By the way, "John Ferguson" is among the plays that the Guild's Repertory Company will present on their road tour next season.

TO USE Ervine's own words: "I received a cablegram, signed 'Langner,' asking me if I would allow the Theater Guild to produce 'John Ferguson' at the Garrick. I had never heard of Langner or the Garrick or the Theater Guild, which was scarcely surprising since the Guild had only been established for a few weeks. I wrote to Bernard Shaw and asked him if he knew anything about it. I wrote also to my agent and to Mr. James Bernard Fagan, a friend of mine, also a Belfastman, who wrote "And So to Bed." Shaw made many inquiries but could learn nothing of the Theater Guild. My agent advised me to ask for an advance of a thousand dollars on account of royalties which the Theater Guild were unable to pay as they had not got a thousand cents. He then urged me not to let the play be done. Bernard Fagan, however, said that is could never be popular anywhere and advised me to let the Guild have it. 'You may get some kudos out of the production. You won't get anything else!' he said, and so I agreed to let the unknown Lawrence Langner, now one of my dearest friends, have his way.

"The Theater Guild was then nearly broke. It had started its season with Benavente's 'Bonds of Interest' which did not attract the public, and was about to die of neglect and poverty. Langner, it transpired, had walked into Brentano's one night and seen a copy of 'John Ferguson' on the shelves. He remembered that he had met me very casually several years earlier in a mock parliament or debating society in London, and curiosity caused him to take the book down and begin to read it. The hour at which he started to read the play was near to closing time, and the young lady who attended to that part of the shop showed Langner very plainly that she wished he would get out so that she might go home. He is a sensitive chap, so rather than keep the girl hanging about any longer, he bought the play. Nightly on my knees I commend that girl to God, for if she had been more patient, perhaps Langner would not have finished my play and it might never have been performed. He took it home, finished it and then said to the Theater Guild, 'We are about to die. Let "John Ferguson" be our swan song!' With great gallantry, the Guild produced the play, and it ran for something like seven or eight months, establishing the fortune of the Guild and making a great reputation for Dudley Digges who played the part of Jimmy Caesar. When my royalties began to arrive I did not know whether I was on my head or my heels. I had never seen so much money in my life, except on checks belonging to other people, and I had difficulty in believing that I could really be the owner of it."

MONDAY night saw George White unfold the latest and ninth edition of his 'Scandals." It was a hot night and the audience packing the Apollo Theater showed almost as many outward and visible signs of heat as did the players, whose make ups wilted copiously under the lights.

As before, Mr. White has provided one of those wildly extravagant looking de luxe revues of his. Naturally the first question that presents itself is: How does it shape up beside the last edition? From all appearances Monday night this reviewer would say it is just about as good, perhaps a bit better. It seemed lighter and less top heavy than the previous one, although the song hits may not be so pronounced as were "Lucky Day" and "Birth of the Blues." Lighter because there is more comedy, furnished in the main by Willie and Eugene Howard, Harry Richman, and Frances Williams.

There is Ann Pennington and Tom Patricola to take care of the dancing end of it. In fact the line up of principals is practically the same as for the previous edition.

Billed on the program as just Bernice and Emily, the pair of youngsters Mr. White found playing the picture houses in Chicago and promptly corralled for his "Scandals," stopped the show on the opening night with their simultaneous acrobatic dancing.

Taking it all round, it is a good show and at the moment the best example Broadway has to offer of that type of girl and music extravaganza that Florenz Ziegfeld started years ago with his "Follies" and which today George White takes out ponderousness without hurting the elaborate and expensive appearance.

At the time of writing, a state of affairs known as "sold out for weeks in advance" was reported from the Apollo box-office, which looks like a prophecy of a long New York run and possibly an equally long road tour.

"THE STUDENT PRINCE" AT MUNICIPAL OPERA, GARDEN WON'T REOPEN

spection. Over-impressed with his importance and dignity, Lutz and his assistants, Hubert, provide the comedy of the opera. Neither, however, thinks much of the inn, and are preparing to leave.

THEIR objections are heightened by the fact that the Inn is the drinking headquarters of two corps of students—the Saxons and the Rhenishers. They apparently have chosen the Inn because of their affection for Kathie, the pretty barmaid. In the midst of the student revelry the Prince arrives.

Lutz endeavors to induce his master to leave, but one look at Kathie wins Karl to the Inn. The two corps, not recognizing the Prince, thinks he is just another freshman, eagerly ask him to join, to which he acquiesces. As the Rhenisher Corps is drinking the health of the new member, Dr. Elder enters and salutes the Prince.

Both corps, astounded at the newcomer, likewise salute, but Karl insists upon being just Karl, thereupon settling down to the joyous abandon of student life at Heidelberg.

The second act finds Prince Karl in the midst of enjoying the freedom of Heidelberg. The student carousing is not at all acceptable to Lutz but his protests avail him nothing.

Returning from a long night of drinking, the Prince is visited by Princess Margaret, who informs him that she is going to Karlsbad for the betrothal ceremonies at the request of the King. Much more interested in lovely Kathie, the Prince is on the point of refusing when Prime Minister Karl von Mark also arrives, and impresses him with the necessity of his returning because of the illness of his grandfather.

Before leaving, however, the Prince promises to return and pleads with Kathie to remember him.

THE third act finds Karl the King, his grandfather having died. A ball is in progress to celebrate the betrothal ceremonies of the Princess and Karl, though the court is somewhat amazed at the innumerable postponements of the betrothal.

The Princess it seems, has been flirting with Capt. Tarnitz, but she confesses to him that it has been only to arouse the jealously and interest of the Prince whom she loves. The Prince, remembering Kathie, almost breaks down during the betrothal ceremony, but then in a dance, "Just We Two," the Princess tells him she understands.

At the height of the festivities, Toni, waiter at Heidelberg, comes to the palace, and the Prince eagerly receives him, stopping the ball that he may dine with Toni and hear the news of Heidelberg. His desire stimulated by Toni, the Prince decides to return to Heidelberg.

The fourth act is also laid in the garden of the Inn of the Three Golden Apples. But it is a much changed inn, for it has lost its popularity. Preceding the King, comes Princess Margaret, who pleads with Kathie to go away and let her enjoy what love she may with Prince Karl.

Karl then arrives, and requests to hear the Student Corps. Many of his old friends have gone. Some remain. But where he once found cameraderie, the King finds only the formality accorded a king. In desperation he seeks out Kathie to regain the fervor of his memory, but she, too, fails him, telling him that she leaves on the morrow to marry her cousin, Rudolph.

Stunned and not a little heartbroken, Karl knows his student days are over, and turns to Princess Margaret as the opera ends.

The assignment of parts in "The Student Prince" to members of the Municipal Opera cast finds Alice MacKenzie, the lyric soprano, in the rôle of "Kathie," by far the best that she has had this summer. Likewise Sam Ash, the opera tenor, who scored in "Rose Marie," will again be in a congenial role, that of Karl Franz, the student prince.

The cast follows:

Karl Franz	Sam Ash
Engel	Charles Galagher
Von Mark	Wm J. McCarthy
Lutz	Florenz Ames
Toni	Lee Daly
Tarnitz	Joseph Royer
Kathie	Alice MacKenzie
Princess	Leonora Allen
Dutchess	Bernice Mershon
Gretchen	Dorothy Seegar

Diplomats at Miss McKee's Wedding.

By the Associated Press.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 7.—Munasca, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke of Washington, D. C., and the grounds about St. Aidan's Chapel, on the estate of Alanson B. Houghton, United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, South Dartmouth, were thronged today for the wedding of Mrs. Brooke's daughter, Miss Frances Dunn McKee, and Charles Parker Stone, Washington, which took place in the chapel. Diplomatic and official Washington, New York and Newport society were represented among the guests.

Gretchen Kimmel, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Karl Kimmel, who is going on the Orpheum circuit next fall.

Donal Blossom, St. Louis movie actress, who has the only female role in DeMille's new picture, "Bride of the Colorado."

Marie Cortez in "A Night in Spain," at the Grand Opera House this week.

THE EMPRESS STOCK COMPANY FADES OUT OF THE PICTURE HERE

Santley has been eggaged to stage a miniature musical comedy in which the orchestra, now on the stage, remains in the pit. St. Louis will pass judgment on this venture some time in September.

But while this experiment is going steadily forward, the movie operators are fortifying themselves against topheavy expenditures in this direction by the installation of sound reproducers in their theaters. The Loew, Ambassador and Missouri installations are under way now and should be ready by September when the deluge of talking pictures will begin. In addition nine of the St. Louis neighborhood houses will be equipped for the talkies, which is an unexpected move at this time. The St. Louis Theater will get busy soon on the same thing and Fox, of course, will have his new house all equipped for the sound films when the building is completed.

THE great music of the future will be written in Hollywood and broadcast to the world in sound pictures, Samuel Goldwyn, motion picture producer, believes.

Tomorrow's composer of masterpieces worthy to succeed the works of Beethoven, Mozart and Wagner may write his symphonies boldly on the silver screen, inspired by the knowledge that millions of music-lovers, in thousands of theaters all over the world, are listening to what he has to say.

And the girl who now looks toward New York and Vienna and Berlin as the centers in which she may some day achieve operatic fame may make her pilgrimage to Hollywood, instead, and sing to all the world at once.

Goldwyn sees as one of the chief consequences of the success of modern sound pictures a shifting of the musical center of the world toward the admitted world cinema center.

He has so much faith in the future of sound pictures as a new world influence in music that he is negotiating now with two composers of international reputation to write the symphonic score and melodies he plans to send out as part of his next Ronald Colman picture.

MEANWHILE he brought the popular song writer, Irving Berlin, to Hollywood to write the theme song for Vilma Banky's first sound-picture, and signed Hugo Riesenfeld to write the score and direct the symphonic accompaniment for the production.

Goldwyn's view of the musical possibilities of the sound-picture will recall to some film fans the fact that about 10 years ago he made a silent screen version of the opera "Thais," starring Mary Garden, and filmed "Carmen" with Geraldine Farrar in the title role.

Now that the reproduction of orchestral music and voices is proving really successful, Goldwyn feels producers will import composers to write for the screen just as they have imported novelists and playwrights to write for it. The sound-picture of the future, he feels, will be the composite product of writing, directing, acting and musical talent. Composers, even more than authors, will gravitate toward Hollywood.

IF THERE is a Hollywood in the hereafter, the famous characters of history probably are not rolling in the wealth of the biggest screen salaries available. That is the opinion of Fred Datig, casting director, who, after a search through the pages of history for an "all-time, all-star" motion picture cast, remarked drily that celebrities of the past seemed to have few of those qualities which make for film popularity.

He doubted whether Cleopatra, even after making all possible allowance for her good points, would do for anything more than a "bit" in some ancient banquet scene calling for dusky dancing girls.

"Cleopatra," he explained, "lacked something essential. She was too hard and cruel to win a modern audience."

The Empress Josephine, on the other hand, might qualify for a featured role, though Napoleon would have to be content to be a juvenile. His small stature would eliminate him from the group of stars. The only historic character deemed worthy of a first rank starring role was Joan of Arc, chosen for her "personality, brains and human appeal." For a villain Cardinal Richelieu might do. Mona Lisa could get by in mother roles.

For a romantic leading man all history offered no candidate that could satisfy Datig. If celebrities of current history were admitted, he would choose Lindbergh.

Behind the Screens OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, July 7.

THERE seems to be much agitation in the screen colony just now over what the sound-pictures are going to do to the world's languages. Jesse Lasky, producer, has been quoted as saying the talking movies may yet furnish, after all these years, a legitimate demand for Esperanto. Clarence Brown, director, goes as far as to say the producers of sound-pictures will have to join forces with the Esperanto societies of the world if an international exchange of talking pictures is to be realized.

William DeMille, on the other hand, has advanced the theory that American-made talking pictures will coax all the people of the world to learn English. Lon Chaney, too, predicts English will become universal through the talking screen.

One hears much about the movies' search for unusual settings. The South Seas particularly are explored by location hunters from Hollywood, and the studio setbuilders know how to create quaint village streets and city thoroughfares suggestive of any quarter of the earth. All of which causes one to lose sight of the fact that New York still is about the most frequently used setting for a movie heroine's adventures. On the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot alone, at this writing, eight companies are at work on pictures with New York backgrounds.

When picture producers go in for antiques they omit nothing. The latest object of art to arrive here for appearance in a picture is an antique steam calliope, vintage of 1885, bought by Universal for use in the screen version of Edna Ferber's "Show Boat." The old steam organ, a three-octave affair, was discovered in Ohio after considerable looking around and shipped to California to lend authentic detail to the film. It still works, but spouts so much steam along with its music that the organist has to wear a rubber hat and raincoat.

And, speaking of antiques, many an automobile proudly purring down the boulevards of the country today will eventually sacrifice some of its insides to the movement for better movies. Old rear axles and drive-shafts salvaged from junked automobiles are widely used hereabouts as stakes for guy ropes, which are as numerous on a movie lot as around a circus tent. They are, of course, more durable than wooden stakes.

Screen struck boys and girls who never have been to Hollywood have no idea how many hard knocks there are on the road to film fame. However, Edward Nugent who got his first real chance as the young reporter in "The Bellamy Trial," opposite to Betty Bronson, is probably the only player who was kicked by an ostrich on his way up the ladder of opportunity. "It was when I was very broke here," he relates. "I got a job feeding ostriches. Just when I thought I was getting along great on the ostrich farm one bird hauled off and gave me such a kick that I never went back for my money."

Is the public tired of laughing so much or is it the screen comedians who are beginning to tire of making the public laugh? There seems to be a decided drifting away from comedy by various players who a few months ago were bending every effort toward bigger and better laughs.

The Conklin-Fields comedy team has been disbanded, and Chester Conklin is working now in a father-and-son picture which shows him as the self-sacrificing janitor father of a college lad, portrayed by Charlie Rogers. Wallace Beery, of the disbanded Beery-Hatton comedy team, has definitely turned his back on comic screen antics and is going in for heavy drama. The short comedy units at Fox have been disbanded. Bebe Daniels has announced she is through with rough-house humor and henceforth will be more romantic than gay. Colleen Moore is turning to more dramatic roles, and even the red-headed Clara Bow is quieting down.

Film fans seldom hear of the nonacting workers on a movie lot, but when there is a rush call for war medals that are genuine the assistant directors know just where to find them without going outside the gate. At First National the head of the personnel department, Frank Cahill, has a distinguished service medal; the head cutter, Richard E. Goss, has a croix de guerre with citations; the studio chief of police, J. L. Holtzendorff, is a former member of the Foreign Legion, with a citation for bravery in action, and one of the carpenters, Jack Percy, has a croix de guerre with three citations and a D. S. M. for saving the late Joyce Kilmer under fire.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY CARNIVAL PROGRAM

Complete Plans Announced by Chairman for Event July 19.

The complete program of the fourteenth annual Tuberculosis Day celebration and ball game at Sportsman's Park, Thursday, July 19, were announced yesterday by J. Ferd Oberwinder, chairman of the general arrangements committee. More than 600 carnival entertainers, hundreds of women and girls distributing souvenir programs, 200 junior marathon runners, and two big league baseball teams, will participate in the afternoon's program.

A concert by the Mail Carriers' Band will open the program. The first race will be a 100-yard dash for young women. Simultaneously in various parts of the field, flag drills will be given by St. Louis Turnverein children, costume dances by Sherman Park Playground dancers, and human spelling drills by the Boy Scouts. The Jefferson Barracks band will alternate in the musical program.

A new feature this year will be the tennis racquet drill by Sherman Park gymnasts. There will also be tumbling, club swinging, parallel bar exhibits and special stunts by the Sherman Park group; exhibition drills by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Alhambra Grotto, Baily Circle of Daughters of Isabella and Knights of Columbus Zouaves; drum corps drills by St. Edwards' Drum Corps, Boy Scouts, Jefferson Barracks, DeSoto Circle of Daughters of Isabella and Ladies' Auxiliary of Alhambra Grotto.

The annual junior marathon, always a center of interest, will be participated in by 200 boys who are now undergoing regular weekly workouts at Fairgrounds Park. A grand march of the entertainers will conclude the carnival entertainment just before the beginning of the Cardinal-Philadelphia game.

Tickets for the event are on sale at 613 Locust street, 513 Olive street, and the Cardinal's ticket office, in the Arcade Building. All proceeds will be devoted to the public health work of the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis.

Baby Suffered With Eczema

On Face and Legs in Rash, Cuticura Healed.

"At three months my baby's face and legs broke out with eczema in the form of a rash. He seemed to suffer considerably, especially at night. He scratched constantly and caused sore eruptions. The baby was fretful and cried most of the time.

"The trouble went on until he was nine months old when I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. C. Bagsby, 2147 E. 24th St., Kansas City, Mo.

Use Cuticura to clear your skin.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

Burned When Spilled Oil Is Fired.

James Cullen, 47 years od, a plumber, is at City Hospital with burns of the feet suffred Friday when an unidentified Negro threw a lighted match into gasoline, which spilled over the sidewalk in front of 1021 North Thirteenth street when a jug containing the gasoline slipped from Cullen's hand and broke.

Rheumatics Are Wild With Joy

Nurito Prescription Acts Like Magic, Making Bed-Ridden Sufferers Get Up and Dance

DRUGGISTS GUARANTEE IT

Nothing has so startled the community as the effect of Nurito, a physician's prescription for rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago. It is now to be had at the local drug stores and is certainly a boon to humanity. Many won't believe such a thing possible as almost instant relief in even bed-ridden cases of excruciating pain. They say it must be a narcotic, but it isn't anything of the sort, and to prove it, get the regular package from the drug store. Try it as directed and if it doesn't prove almost a miracle in driving away pain with two or three doses, the druggist will refund the price you paid for it. Ask at the drug store for a box of Nurito on this guarantee.

Independence Day Gaily Celebrated at North Shore Resorts and at Newport and Watch Hill.

BOSTON, Mass., July 7.

INDEPENDENCE DAY brought its usual round of gayeties at the summer resorts. At the North Shore the most important event was the American Legion Horse Show at Hamilton, in which horses from the stables of the large estates all along the Shore participated.

Harbor View, the Pride's Crossing estate of the late Henry Clay Pierce of St. Louis has been taken this year by former Senator Henry Lippitt and Mrs. Lippitt of Providence, R. I. Mr. and Mrs. Ebens Richards, the latter a daughter of Mr. Pierce, will come from their home at Tuxedo Park, N. Y. to occupy one of the smaller cottages on the estate.

Allen O. Fordyce of St. Louis has been the guest of friends in and about Boston, having come East some time ago to act as usher at the wedding of Miss Barbara Stone of Brookline and John Pierce Chase of Milton, Mass.

Newcomers ot the Pride's Crossing colony this season are Mr. and Mrs. George F. Steedman of St. Louis who have taken the Nicholas Longworth cottage at Mingo beach for the long season. Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Hinckley (Katherine Steedman) are to be on the North Shore later in the season to visit with Mrs. Hinckley's parents. The Steedmans spent last summer at West Manchester.

Mrs. Samuel M. Kennard has arrived at her cottage on Fuller street, Magnolia, for the summer. Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ely Smith will be with her for much of the summer as will her Many St. Louisans At Rye Beach, N. H.

RYE BEACH, N. H., July 7.

NEARLY all of the cottages here are taken and the hotels well filled. Rye Beach is the summer home of two New England Governors. Gov. Alvan T. Fuller and family own an estate at Little Boar's Head and Gov. Huntley N. Spaulding of New Hampshire occupies Willowbank cottage adjoining the Farragut House.

Fourth of July was observed here with a flag golf tournament at the Abenaqui Golf Club and a baseball game on the Farragut House grounds.

Early season outings here included the New England Insurance Exchange of Boston, the Dalton Club of Newburyport and a joint ladies' night by the Portsmouth, Dover and Rochester Kiwanis Clubs. Mayor F. W. Hartford of Portsmouth was the speaker at the last mentioned event.

Many of the St. Louis colony have already arrived and opened their places. Mrs. George L. Allen and daughter, Miss Mary Allen, of Westmoreland place, St. Louis, are at Allen's Corner. Mr. and Mrs. George L. Allen Jr. are at their summer residence on the South road.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Papin of St. Louis are at their residence on the Central road.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Hill of New York, formerly of St. Louis, are again at Green Gables for the season. The Hills recently returned from a European trip. Hill is president of the exclusive Rye Beach Club.

Wayman Allen of St. Louis is at his cottage on the Sea road. Mr. Allen is an ardent golfer and is seen almost daily on the Abenaqui links.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Lansing Ray and son, E. Lansing Ray Jr., of St. Louis, are again at the Farragut bungalow.

Mrs. Daniel A. Hill and son, Franklin, and daughter, Miss Kathryn, of St. Louis, are at the Farragut House for an extended stay.

Mrs. E. G. Burkham of St. Louis has also arrived to spend the summer at the Farragut House.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ledlie of St. Louis have arrived at the Marshall House, York Harbor, Me., to spend the season.

Vacation Travels Of St. Louisans

MISS MARION DAVIS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lionberger Davis of 8 Brentmoor Park, has arrived from Vassar College where she is a student and will accompany her parents and a sister, Mrs. Anne V. Davis, to H. F. Barr Ranch in Wyoming. They plan to depart July 23.

Mrs. James L. Ford Jr. of 54 Westmoreland place, and her daughter, Miss Jean Ford, have returned from a visit of three weeks with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Draper of Wilmington, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Moreno of 24 West Brentmoor and their daughter, Miss Harriet, and Miss Isabelle Kirkpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kirkpatrick of 6301 Washington boulevard, will leave July 21 for Honolulu, where they will spend six weeks.

Mrs. Daniel S. Brown of 501 Clara avenue, and her daughters, Miss Sidney and Miss Dora Brown, will spend the summer at Troutville, Colo. Miss Sidney and Miss Dora left by motor Thursday. Mrs. Brown will leave July 10.

Parties in Honor of Guest

INFORMAL parties will be given in honor of Mrs. James Bruce Lewright of San Antonio, Tex., who arrived yesterday to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Hall of Hotel Chase. About Aug. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Lewright will motor to Cornish, N. H., to take possession of the summer home of Mr. Hall's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill.

Summer Season At Newport

NEWPORT, R. I., July 7.

THIS year the annual dinner of the Clambake Club on the Fourth of July was held at the recently enlarged club house in Middletown, with virtually all the members who were in Newport in attendance.

The annual meeting and dinner of the Rhode Island Society of the Cincinnati at the Newport Casino Independence day included among the guests the commanding officers of the army and navy and leading state and city officials.

William Henry Vanderbilt has announced that he will give a dance at Oakland Farm Saturday night, Aug. 25, to mark the close of tennis week.

One of the events of the season is the opening next Tuesday evening of the Casino theater for an eight weeks' season. The first play will be "Peter Ibbetsen" with Ina Claire. Grace George and Violet Kemble Cooper will appear later. Virtually all the boxes have been taken for each night, the subscribers including Mrs. Vanderbilt, Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor, and others of the villa colony.

A Newport polo team is being formed which is practicing on the Oakland Farm grounds of William H. Vanderbilt before competing in the games in August at the Point Judith Country Club, Narragansett Pier. Among those often seen at the Point Judith Country Club during the tournament is Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert of St. Louis, who with her family, is at Sagamore Lodge.

Miss Myrtle Lambert, who is with her mother, Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert, at Narragansett Pier, will leave soon for a girls camp in Wilton, Me., where she will spend the summer.

Summer at Watch Hill.

WATCH HILL, R. I. July 7. — The Fourth was gaily celebrated in the summer colony at Watch Hill with a buffet luncheon at the Misquamicut Golf Club, races at the Watch Hill Yacht Club in the afternoon followed by tea and a dinner dance at the golf club in the evening. Among those entertaining at the golf club were Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. West of St. Louis who are at their cottage, Stoneleigh, for the summer. Miss Betty West came earlier in the season to su-

J. W. McCrossen Heads B. Y. P. U.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 7.—J. Willard McCrossen, Philadelphia, vice president of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, today was elected president of the organization at its annual convention here. McCrossen, who was 25 years old today, is in Paris, having worked his way across the Atlantic on a cattle boat. He is a student of the Croser Theological Seminary at Chester, Pa. The 1929 convention will be held in Detroit and the 1930 convention in Stn Francisco.

Eiffel Tower Safe, Engineers Say.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 7.—The Eiffel Tower, 1000 feet high, has a clean bill of health. It is solid and it stands squarely on its feet, says a commission of engineers which has made a periodical examination of the tallest structure in the world.

From time to time someone gets the idea the steel tower erected in 1889 is getting old and decrepit or that settling ground may make it imitate the leaning tower of Pisa. The alarmists are all wrong, the engineers say, and all that has ever been recommended has been occasional coats of paint and increases in the box office charge for taking a ride up the tower.

Germans Adverse to Using Ice.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 7.—The advance guard of American tourists is meeting the traditional shortage of ice water. The German public has resisted efforts to popularize the use of ice. During recent years freezing temperatures have not been uncommon in May and June. This fact, coupled with centuries-old habits in German kitchens and restaurants, has defeated every effort of ice companies to build up a demand for their product.

Clear Face of Skin Imperfections

To keep face, neck, arms and hands pretty and youthful use the ordinary mercolized wax treatment at home. The wax is applied at night like cold cream and peels off the dead and half dead surface skin in invisible particles, a little each day. With the disappearance of the old cuticle, the newer, healthier under skin gradually appears richly beautiful with the freshness of youth. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines, use as face lotion 1 ounce powdered saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel. At all drug stores.

Moorish Relics Gone From Madrid

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, July 7.—The final steps in modernizing Madrid have wiped out traces of the old Moorish city. The Moors first built Madrid as a watch tower overlooking the plains of Castile, from which they could watch the approach of their Christian enemies. In those days it was a small fortified outpost. It occupied ground on which the royal palace now stands.

AMERICAN ETIQUETTE FINDS PLACE IN AFGHAN PALACE

By the Associated Press.

KABUL, Afghanistan, July 7.—The court of Amanula, doughty, westernizing Emir of Afghanistan, has adopted knives, forks and a book of American table etiquette through the act of an American woman, Mrs. Jackson Fleming of New York.

It was Mrs. Fleming who gave to Mme. Hourschid Bey, Turkish feminist lecturing in the United States, a standard book on American etiquette when she learned that her Turkish friend had been appointed matron of honor to Queen Souriya.

Mme. Hourschid Bey came to Kabul last year with Mrs. Fleming's gift under her arm to support her in her task of modernizing the veiled ladies of the court from the Queen down.

When the Emir's eye fell on the book, he declared that it was just what he had been looking for, pored over it for a week and then had it translated into Persian under his personal supervision. Since then knives and forks have been in current and increasingly manageable use in the Afghan palace.

TO OCCUPY BROTHER'S PULPIT

The Rev. M. Lampe of Iowa U. to Preach at West Presbyterian.

The Rev. M. Willard Lampe, D. D., director of the school of religion, University of Iowa, will occupy the pulpit of his brother, the Rev. Dr. William P. Lampe, of the West Presbyterian Church today.

The University of Iowa school is the only tax supported school of religion in the country. The experiment was started last year. Dr. Lampe has as his assistants a Jewish rabbi, a Roman Catholic priest and a Protestant clergyman. The latter, the Rev. Charles A. Hawley, Ph. D., will be at West Church next Sunday.

All day on the beach—then a sun-scorched skin to pay for it!

To relieve sun-scorch—

WITH your finger tips softly smooth in Hinds Honey & Almond Cream. It will cool—immediately. Take out the heat. Relieve the burn. Make your skin feel soft and fresh again.

It's important to take care of sun-scorch as soon as possible. Because it sears the velvety texture of the skin. Dries out its natural moisture. For sun-scorch is a violent form of weathering.

Take your hand mirror to the window

Just to show what weathering does to the skin—look carefully at the skin of your face—then with equal care at the skin of your shoulders. The skin on your shoulders is much smoother, isn't it? You see, your shoulders are protected from exposure. The skin stays young. Protect your face and it will stay young, too.

Youth, say the doctors, is largely a matter of moisture in the tissues

Doctors tell us that as people grow older they dry up—within, from lack of moisture in the body cells; without, from weathering. Keep moisture in the tissues of the body, keep the skin supple—and youth remains much longer.

First, drink plenty of water—at least eight glasses a day. Water helps keep the muscles firm, the face filled out. Second, protect the skin from weathering—with Hinds Cream.

Keep it handy—and use it often

Pat it on before going out on the beach. Hinds Cream, with powder over it, will prevent violent sun-scorch. Pat it on again when you come in. It will refresh. Use it on your face, on your neck and arms, on your hands. It will keep your skin gloriously young—and protect it from all weathering.

Hinds Cream is the cream with the almond fragrance. You may buy it at any toilet goods counter. Or, if you prefer, we'll send you a free sample bottle. Just fill in the coupon below and mail it—today.

STORY OF BENNETT CUP BALLOON RACE TOLD BY WINNER

Capt. W. E. Kepner of Scott Field Describes Flight Lasting 43 Hours and 35 Minutes.

REACHED ALTITUDE OF 20,000 FEET

Forced to Jettison Equipment to Check Too Rapid Descent at End of 460 Miles.

The story of the winning of the Gordon Bennett international balloon race trophy by a crack Scott Field racing team composed of Capt. William E. Kepner and Lieut. William O. Eareckson, was told to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday by Capt. Kepner.

The two balloonists, flying an Army bag, landed last Monday near Kenbridge, Va., 460.9 miles from Detroit, the starting point of the race, in which the Scott Field team was a favorite to win because it had already won the national balloon race, a month before.

Only a scant margin of a mile and a half separated the Army balloon from the nearest contender, the German balloon Barmen, piloted by Hugo Kaulen and his son, Hugo Jr. Third place went to Charles Dollfus and George Cormier, Frenchmen, who landed their balloon, Blanchard, in the Dan River near Walnut Cove, N. C.

The victory makes the Bennett trophy the permanent possession of the United States and a new prize will be offered for future competitions.

Capt. Kepner's Story.

"We took off from Detroit at 4:45 Saturday afternoon, June 30," Capt. Kepner told a Post-Dispatch reporter in recounting the incidents of the victorious flight," and we sailed east over Windsor, Canada, toward Point Belle, on the northern shore of Lake Erie.

"We crossed the lake at an altitude of 5000 feet (an over-water flight of 70 miles) and were over Cleveland at 11 o'clock that night. Then we swung off to the southeast.

"At dawn we were over the northern tip of West Virginia, sailing southeast. During the late morning it got quite bumpy and we threw out ballast and ascended to 12,000 feet about noon last Sunday.

"The German and French balloons were in sight during Sunday afternoon. At dark we were over the Blue Ridge mountains in a dead calm. For half the night we hung at 9000 feet without moving. There was a bright moon and we could plainly see the German just a mile or so away.

Becalmed High in Air.

"We were still becalmed at dawn Monday so we valved out some gas and descended over Lynchburg, Va. There we found a 10-mile wind southeast and sailed on it for two hours. We were quite low and we threw off telegrams to our commanding officer, Lieut. Col. John A. Paegelow, and to our families.

"All this time we were watching our ballast closely. We had taken off with 10 to 12 sacks less than any other contestant and we guarded every handful of the sand.

"After a while our southeast wind died away, and we decided to climb again for another favorable current. Throwing out most of our remaining ballast we ascended to 20,000 feet and there found what we were looking for, a 25-mile wind.

Came Down With a Bump.

"It was uncomfortable, sailing, erably, and it was so cold we were high altitude distressed us considhowever. Lack of oxygen in the fur-lined flying suits.

"At 11:30 Monday morning we started to descend. The bag had lost much of its gas in the ascent and it came down rapidly—too rapidly for comfort. To slow its descent we threw our clothing parachutes and equipment overboard and allowed the bag to blow into the shape of a parachute.

"We came down with a smart bump in a tobacco field near Kenbridge, Va. We were pretty well done up by our stay in the high altitude and we sat there for a while, resting in a temperature of 90 degrees. Later we rolled up the bag and caught the train for home. Altogether we were in the air 43 hours and 35 minutes."

Winning Flyers' Records.

Capt. Kepner, who entered the regular army as a cavalryman in 1917, won the D. S. C. and the Croix de Guerre with palms for individual offensives against machine gun nests in the World War. He received his balloon training at Scott Field in 1921 and is an accomplished airship pilot and has served in the naval airship school.

Lieut. Eareckson is a West Pointer, who has been at Scott Field since his graduation in 1924. He is now engineer officer at the post, holding the place formerly filled by Capt. Hawthorne C. Gray, who died last fall in a balloon ascension in which he reached an altitude of 42,470 feet, the highest ever attained by man.

PART SIX.

SOUTH, ONCE ST OF FREE TRADE, TO POLICY O

Growth of Industries There Explains Return to Doctrine Jefferson Supported, Which Houston Platform Expresses in Demand for "Equalization of Production Costs."

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 7.

THE Houston convention confirmed rapidly accumulating evidence that the South, once the stronghold of free traders and anti-protectionists in general, is gradually shifting toward a policy of protection. While at present these formerly redoubtable warriors, who have broken many a lance against the high protection wall, declare that they favor "competitive" duties, there is no doubt that there has been fraternizing with the old opponents. The explanation is to be found in the rapid development of industry in the South.

The adoption of the present tariff plank has led many observers to declare that if the Democrats are successful in November there will be no radical downward revision of the Fordney-McCumber rates, the highest in the history of the country. For the first time in Democratic history, the party has declared for "equalization of production costs at home and abroad," heretofore a Republican doctrine and a far cry from "free trade" and "tariff for revenue only."

This year there was no denunciation of the Fordney-McCumber act by name or description, a strange omission after one reads the invectives hurled in the 1876 or 1892 platforms. The policies laid down in the 1928 plank would have had few supporters in the South from 1860 to 1900.

SOUTH, ONCE STRONGHOLD OF FREE TRADE, FAST SHIFTING TO POLICY OF PROTECTION

Growth of Industries There Explains Return to Doctrine Jefferson Supported, Which Houston Platform Expresses in Demand for "Equalization of Production Costs."

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 7.

THE Houston convention confirmed rapidly accumulating evidence that the South, once the stronghold of free traders and anti-protectionists in general, is gradually shifting toward a policy of protection. While at present these formerly redoubtable warriors, who have broken many a lance against the high protection wall, declare that they favor "competitive" duties, there is no doubt that there has been fraternizing with the old opponents. The explanation is to be found in the rapid development of industry in the South.

The adoption of the present tariff plank has led many observers to declare that if the Democrats are successful in November there will be no radical downward revision of the Fordney-McCumber rates, the highest in the history of the country. For the first time in Democratic history, the party has declared for "equalization of production costs at home and abroad," heretofore a Republican doctrine and a far cry from "free trade" and "tariff for revenue only."

This year there was no denunciation of the Fordney-McCumber act by name or description, a strange omission after one reads the invectives hurled in the 1876 or 1892 platforms. The policies laid down in the 1928 plank would have had few supporters in the South from 1860 to 1900.

Predicted 50 Years Ago.

Yet almost 50 years ago, it was prophesied that Southern Democrats would withdraw their opposition to the tariff system after the South had experienced a measurable degree of industrialization. In 1880 Gen. Robert Patterson of Georgia, a Confederate veteran, wrote to Congressman W. D. (Pig Iron) Kelly of Pennsylvania, "The child is born who will live to see these three great States (Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee) competing with Pennsylvania in manufacturing and their members of Congress the most ardent defenders of protection."

In 1909 Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia, while talking on the Payne-Aldrich bill, uttered a similar prophecy when he said, "At no distant date you will find the people of the South sending to Congress members who will be the strongest protectionists the country has ever produced."

Scott's prediction has not been entirely fulfilled, but the tendency has been along the lines he laid down. Among the Southern leaders who were members of the Houston resolutions committee that drew up the present platform were Senators Caraway of Arkansas, Tydings of Maryland, Harrison of Mississippi, Glass of Virginia, Blease of South Carolina, Gov. Dan Moody of Texas, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, and Edward Maddox of Georgia. In Congress, due partly to the activities of Southern Tariff Associations, members elected to both Houses have shown an increasing favor toward protection. There is little or no talk now of free trade and a tariff for revenue only.

Return to Old Position.

This shifting of the South, strangely enough, is a reversion to an old position. The traditional Southern policy toward the tariff did not receive definite form until after 1820. Prior to that time there was considerable sentiment in that region favorable to protection. This was when the Southerners joined with the business men from New England and the middle Atlantic States in trying to stem a flood of English-made goods that was being thrown on the American markets. Washington, Jefferson and Madison all Southerners took a protectionist stand and Madison played a leading part in the adoption of the first tariff act in 1789 while John C. Calhoun, later to become the foremost advocate of free trade in the South, spoke in favor of an important tariff bill in 1816.

The tariff acts of 1824 and 1828 alienated this Southern support. By degrees the protection given the Northern manufacturers became oppressive to the Southern planters, and these acts unified the South in opposition to the tariff system.

"Tariff of Abominations."

The 1828 act became the notorious "tariff of abominations," which the South Carolina Legislature in 1832 in her ordinance of nullification declared null and void, and without effect in South Carolina. The constitutional issue thus raised was grave but conciliatory tactics employed by Henry Clay prevailed and the controversy died down when the duties were lowered in 1832 and 1833.

Southern opposition to the tariff remained. By 1830 cotton was king. The cotton gin had been invented and slavery had made cotton and tobacco growing profitable. The South was almost entirely agricultural, yet prosperous. The Southern planters who became exporters began to feel that the tariff only increased the cost of the things they had to buy and made it more difficult for their foreign customers to buy from them.

From 1830 to the end of the century, the South was hostile to the tariff system. Manufacturers in New England and the middle states had established for themselves protection. From 1833 to 1842, when the Southerners were in control of the Government, the tariff rates were low. In 1842, a Whig majority raised the rates. In 1846 the Democrats, again in power, passed the so-called free trade tariff, which actually provided for an average rate of about 23 per cent and in 1857, the duties on some commodities were reduced further.

History of Tariff.

Under Lincoln, in 1861, a thoroughly protective tariff was enacted. High duties were imposed from this time until 1894, when the Democrats under Cleveland revised them downward. In 1897 higher rates were restored by the Dingley bill and were continued under the Payne-Aldrich act of 1909. In 1913, the Democrats, under Wilson adopted the Underwood tariff which substantially lowered the rates. With the Republican victory in 1920, the high protectionists wrote their own ticket and enacted the Fordney-McCumber act of 1922, which imposed the most thorough protection ever enjoyed by American business.

Before and after the Civil War, the majority of the South was for substantial free trade. The constitution of the Confederate states expressly forbade the imposition of customs duties. As rehabilitation was accomplished, however, certain Southerners sought protection and their leaders came out for a "revenue tariff." As the industrialization increased, this policy was modified until it developed in the modified "competitive" tariff sponsored by Oscar W. Under-

DEMOCRACY'S EVOLUTION FROM "FREE TRADE" TO 'COMPETITIVE PROTECTION'

TARIFF planks in the Democratic platforms reflect the gradual shift in tariff sentiment within the party. The following extracts from various platforms show how the tendency has been from "free trade" to "competitive protection."

Platform of 1856 — "The time has come for the people of the United States to declare themselves in favor of free seas and progressive free trade throughout the world."

Platform of 1876—"We denounce the present tariff.... as a masterpiece of injustice, inequality and false pretense, which yields a dwindling and not a yearly rising revenue and has impoverished many industries to subsidize a few. We demand that all custom-house taxation shall be for revenue only."

Platform of 1892—"We denounce Republican protection as a fraud, a robbery of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of the few. We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal Government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties, except for the purpose of revenue only."

Platform of 1912—"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal Government has no right or power to impose and collect tariff duties except for the purposes of revenue. We favor the immediate downward revision of the existing high and in many cases prohibitive tariff duties. We recognize that our system of tariff taxation is intimately connected with the business of the country, and we favor the ultimate attainment of the principles we advocate by legislation that will not injure or destroy legitimate industry."

Platform of 1924—"We declare our party's position to be in favor of a tax on commodities entering the custom houses that will promote effective competition, protect against monopoly and at the same time produce a fair revenue to support the Government."

Platform of 1928 — "The Democratic tariff legislation will be based on the following policies:

"(a) The maintenance of legitimate business and a high standard of wages for American labor.

"(d) Duties that will permit effective competition, insure against monopoly and at the same time produce a fair revenue for the support of Government. Actual difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, with adequate protection for the wage of the American laborer, must be the extreme measure of every tariff rate.

"(f) Equitable distribution of the benefits and burdens of the tariff among all. Wage earner, farmer, stock man, producer and legitimate business in general have everything to gain from a Democratic tariff based on justice to all."

A DAY AT DOORN WITH THE EX-KAISER

Former Emperor Conducts Devotional Exercises for Household Every Morning, Looks After Correspondence, Then Takes Walk Through Village in Evening.

William Hohenzollern, Who Liked to Travel While Ruler of Germany, Now Does It by Proxy by Seeing Movies — Radio Barred From Castle in Holland.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

DOORN, Holland, July 7.

WILLIAM II, last of German Emperors, has become a movie fan. One of his principal diversions now in the evening is watching motion pictures.

His former imperial majesty does not have to go far for an evening's performance. One of the salons of "Huize Doorn," the Hohenzollern castle, has been rigged up as a projection room and German motion picture concerns see to it that their former Emperor is well supplied with films. He who in the heyday of his power used to be known as the "Reisekaiser"—the traveling Emperor—naturally delights especially in travel pictures. His next preference is scientific films.

Globe trotter that he was formerly, the ex-Kaiser now seldom leaves Doorn. He owns four automobiles, among them a large, gray, open touring car which he prefers for his own rides, but in recent months, Doorn villagers say, they have seldom seen him go on a drive.

Story of Trips Across German Frontier Denied.

"The claim of two French newspapers that he has been across the German border three times is too absurd for words," Admiral H. Von Rebeur-Paschwitz, chief of His Majesty's household, told the Associated Press.

When the former Emperor does leave Doorn to visit some Dutch aristocratic family, Maj. Van Houten, a Dutch officer designated by Queen Wilhelmina to exercise a certain control on his movements, takes a seat in the auto. From time to time, also, the Dutch Minister of Agriculture, J. B. Kan, who is a personal friend of William, comes to Doorn to inquire into the health and well-being of the former ruler. The visit often ends in a game of tennis between the ex-Kaiser and the Minister. The tennis court was laid out on the Doorn estate about a year ago.

Besides Maj. Van Houten, four members of the National Rural Constabulary and one secret service man are the only evidence that the former ruler is a virtual prisoner—unless the high fence surmounted by barbed wire, which surrounds the Hohenzollern estate of some 30 acres, be considered as added evidence.

Ex-Ruler Seems Willing to End His Days at Doorn.

During the first years after his banishment, the Dutch Government had a far larger staff to watch events at Doorn. It is now quite apparent, however, that William II is resigned to his fate and looks upon Doorn as his permanent abode. The laying out of the rosarium, or flower garden, which was opened to the public May 15 but still is Hohenzollern property, points in that direction. So does the erection of a large garage, which is about to be completed. So, also, does William's evident effort to identify himself actively with the community.

Every child in Doorn, of course, knows the former Emperor by sight, and it seems to be an unwritten law that everybody should remove his hat respectfully as he passes the former ruler. William always returns the greeting, but when somebody of "high birth" passes him his hat comes off with an added flourish.

EX-KAISER WILHELM.

To get a glimpse of the former Emperor or even a close-up is not difficult if one "knows the ropes." The best way is to keep an eye on Mynheer Bolthuis, the secret service man. About half an hour before William II is likely to emerge from his estate for a stroll along the village street or into the woods, Bolthuis may be seen leaning nonchalantly against a tree opposite the little gate leading to the rosarium and pretending hard not to be on duty. He is deeply engrossed in whittling a piece of wood, and the bicycle standing by his side seems to be there by accident.

Same Bearing and Voice as When He Was Kaiser.

Presently, however, the little gate opens, and a well-dressed, carefully groomed old gentleman with snow-white hair and close-cropped full beard emerges, accompanied by some man younger than himself, but well past middle age.

Any former subject who knew him well in Germany would know without being told that the white-haired gentleman is William II. The rather loud voice, the nervous, animated characteristic gestures with the right hand, the imperial bearing are giveaways which the absence of brilliant uniform, the substitution of a beard for the upward pointing mustache of pre-war days, and the oldish complexion cannot offset. And the accompanying person has all the earmarks of a former Prussian officer. It is his adjutant, or the chief of his household, perchance.

There are a third and fourth party to this daily outing: A brownish black dachshund, which barks at every stranger approaching his master, and some distance behind, Mynheer Bolthuis, the secret service man. As William II, despite his 69 years, walks at a surprisingly brisk pace, Bolthuis prefers to mount his bicycle and pedal slowly behind his majesty.

The daily stroll usually takes place around 7 o'clock in the evening. After it the former Emperor retires to dress for the 8 o'clock dinner, which is as formal and ceremonious an affair as though it took place in the palace at Potsdam. William dons one of his numerous uniforms, his consort and other guests appear in evening dress, and the servants in formal livery.

The menu is rather simple. Even on the fortieth anniversary of his ascension to the throne, the bill of fare read merely as follows: Soup, filet of sole with madeira sauce, loin of venison, raspberry ice cream.

After the evening dinner, movies often follow. There is no radio entertainment, because neither William nor Hermine believe in it. So no radio set has been installed. As Hermine is reported to have put it, "Better a good gramophone plate than that everlasting jazz out of the ether."

At times a concert is given by some German string quartet or soloist of note, but these occasions are rare, and the villagers say they seldom hear music issuing from Huize Doorn.

Nor are there balls, dances and similar entertainments. Except that occasionally a festival is arranged for the personnel, numbering about 30, and their families. The former Emperor still wears a mourning band on his arm, which some villagers say is retained out of respect for his first wife, Empress Augusta-Victoria, while others maintain it indicates the ex-Kaiser's mourning for the "Lost Fatherland."

William is an early riser; 7 o'clock finds him up and around. Every day he carries a rose into the room in which his first wife died. At 8:30 he conducts morning devotional exercises, which everybody on the estate, from maid to honored guest, is expected to attend. Often the ex-Kaiser merely reads from a religious book. At times, however, he takes some biblical text and expounds it as he used to do when he conducted services on the high seas as commander of the Imperial fleet.

Pastor Holds Services About Once a Month.

About once a month, on a Sunday, regular church is held at Huize Doorn, in that Pastor Herbst, of the German church at the Hague, or some visiting parson from Germany conducts services.

After devotions, the ex-Kaiser retires to his study, where he attends to the correspondence that is placed in his hands in red leather folders emblazoned with gilded letters "His Majesty Emperor William II's Correspondence." These letters are mostly from monarchists in the Fatherland, but also from men of science, especially archeologists, in various parts of the world.

The correspondence attended to, his majesty—nobody in Doorn thinks of speaking of William II as an "ex"—often strolls into the rosarium with Kaiserin Hermine, or walks among the centuries-old oak trees of his estate, or, if he can find a tree that needs cutting down, resorts to his old favorite occupation of tree felling.

Lunch is served at Huize Doorn between 1 and 2 o'clock. From 2 to 4 silence is preserved throughout the estate, as the former Emperor and his family always take an afternoon nap. There follows afternoon coffee, whereupon the Emperor usually returns to his study and later goes on a walk through the village. Often, too, he has guests to entertain. Or, he is invited by some Dutch aristocrat in the neighborhood in which case, of course, the daily routine is somewhat upset. On the whole, however, life at Huize Doorn is marked by regularity and peaceful repose.

Stabilization of French Franc Should Have Beneficial Effect On Europe's Industrial Life

Four-Fifths of Debt to Its Own People Written Off Thereby, Lloyd George Says—Open Road to Settlement and Reparations.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
War-Time Premier of England.
(Copyright, 1928.)

LONDON, July 7.

THE stabilization of the franc is acclaimed as the most important economic event in Europe since the establishment of Germany's currency on a sound basis. It is rather remarkable that the stabilization by France—the richest country on the continent of Europe—of her currency at one-fifth its pre-war value should be hailed as the crowning triumph of her Premier's career, more especially as she is the last great country to stabilize.

Germany, Sweden and Russia stabilized their currency in 1924; 1925 was the year of Great Britain and the British Empire, Holland, Switzerland, Hungary and Finland; in the autumn of 1926 Belgium followed suit after the breakdown of an attempt made earlier in the year; in 1927 Italy, Denmark and Poland; and now Greece, Norway and France. Thus these five years have seen the definite stabilization at old or new parities of most of the countries of Europe and the actual if not the formal stabilization within the comparatively narrow limits of the rest.

"The chapter of European history is now practically closed in which the nations of Europe, following the recommendations of the Brussels and Genoa conferences, have definitely linked their currencies to the common basis of value." This is how the "Economist" sums up the story of European restoration of its currency.

Legalizing Accomplished Fact.

The formal stabilization of the franc will not have any startling economic consequences. The actual stabilization occurred eighteen months ago and the effect of the process upon trade has already been discounted. During that time France's industries have had time to adjust themselves to the change. Poincare's latest move is merely legalization of a fait accompli. Internally it means that the French burden of debt is definitely fixed at roughly one-fifth of its nominal amount in pre-war francs.

Of all the European countries Britain, Germany, Switzerland and Spain alone have restored the gold standard on the basis of pre-war value. The Italian lira is fixed at one-fourth its previous value, the French franc at one-fifth and Rumanian coin at not quite one-thirtieth its 1914 value. Before the war continental coinage had some approximation to a common value; today the variety in values is bewildering and it will take some time for traders to get accustomed to the new scale thus established.

The net effect of the process has been wiping out of war and pre-war indebtedness of the belligerent countries of Europe. Germany has practically obliterated all the internal obligations which existed before the days of the rentenmark. Apart from reparation her jubilee is complete. France has expunged four-fifths of her debts, Italy has reduced hers by three-fourths, Russian and Austrian debts are no more. The continent of Europe has cast its burdens into the slough out of which it is now rapidly emerging.

Britain Pays What She Owes.

Britain alone is still staggering along under an undiminished burden of debt. The more she pays off the debt, the heavier it becomes for the very payment appreciates the value and thus the weight of what remains. In addition to her enormous internal debt, Britain has undertaken to pay the whole of her indebtedness (incurred for her Allies) to America. Debts that are due to her from her Allies she can recover only in part. France has wiped off finally and forever four-fifths of her debt to her own people and a large proportion of what she owes to others, gets a fresh start with a light burden and when she stabilizes her franc on that basis, the achievement is a triumph of French statesmanship.

No wonder Mr. Maynard Keynes should cynically observe in the "Nation," "assuredly it does not pay to be good."

While there were obvious and possibly compelling arguments which favored or necessitated maintenance by Great Britain of all her contractual obligations, the policy adopted by her has imposed a very heavy burden on both the present and the future in favor of the past. Indeed her present activity and profit-earning power have been sacrificed in large measure to the maintenance of integrity and good faith to all her creditors at home and abroad. It was not policy that determined the action of the Government in Britain. It is just because a Briton has an ineradicable habit of paying what he owes and it never occurred to him to abandon that habit because he had fought a victorious war. Great Britain thought it her duty to uphold her credit even at the highest cost. Whether in the end this will tend to her material advantage may be rather a moot point which may safely be left to impartial and expert opinion to assess.

Effects of Stabilization.

Stabilization of the franc will have important effects on the cost of living. For a long time past the internal purchasing power of the franc has been higher than the external and wages consequently have been low when measured in world gold prices. When the franc was depreciating, the competition of French industry with that of other industrial countries was artificially and continuously stimulated. Even after the quasi-stabilization which came into force a year or 18 months ago had taken place the disparities of French internal prices and wages and world prices enabled French manufacturers to compete under artificially favorable circumstances.

From now on steady process of adjustment will take place; French wages and prices measured in gold should rise; the French cost of production should increase; and abnormal pressure on the industry of other countries particularly on the heavy industries of Great Britain should therefore cease.

The artificial advantage temporarily reaped by France from the depreciation and unsettlement of her currency has been so marked as completely to reverse the balance of trade in case of Anglo-French commercial exchanges. Whereas, before the war, British exports to France were roughly in the ratio of three to two, to French exports to Britain, today this ratio is almost exactly reversed. While the French manufacturer will not regard rising costs of production as an unmixed blessing during the time it is taking place, once the adjustment has been effected, his position will be greatly and most desirably strengthened. The 12 months of practical stabilization have given them time for that adjustment to take place. The immediate effects of formal stabilization have therefore been discounted.

The effects of stabilization on the industrial life of Europe should therefore be entirely beneficial. From the Atlantic almost to the Urals—with the exception of only the Polish plain and the Italian peninsula—all important industrial

A Southern Protestant Democrat Explains His Choice of Smith.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

EVERY voter is a compound; he is an American; he is a member of certain religious, sectional, racial, trade and other groups; and finally he is an individual. The causes for his voting may derive from any of those elements or from several, but generally he doesn't recognize the origin from which are determined his final opinion.

May I give the causes for my determination to vote for Gov. Smith as originating in my being of a Southern Protestant group. The same causes may work to the same end with others.

1. As coming from a Protestant environment, I have always considered religious liberty as a fundamental principle of Protestantism which is essentially sound. This means toleration. To vote for Gov. Smith is an act of toleration which proves my belief in religious liberty. It is in accord with the Constitution of the country and of its several states.

He who would have toleration should be tolerant

2. In the matter of the eighteenth amendment, I find the suggestions of Gov. Smith in accord with the Southern position that self-government has in many matters been prohibited by Republican majorities since 1876. The attempt, such as President Wilson made, to find some relaxation within the eighteenth amendment of the Volstead act to meet the popular sentiment of our varied population is in line with Southern prinples.

He who would have self-government for himself should extend it to others.

3. As a Southerner I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to the Northern Irish Catholic Democrats who have been the political friends and allies of the South for the last 60 years. When the South was overrun by alien arms and ignorant incompetency, the Northern Irish Catholic Democrat was his stanchest friend in face of the taunt that he was aiding rebellion and treason. This is the first opportunity of the South to repay that large debt of gratitude. To remember old differences and to foster old grudges is unwise, unpatriotic and uncharitable; to forgive one's enemies is Christian, but I recall no Christian injunction that compels one to forget his friends.

Ingratitude is no less contemptible in a group than in an individual.

Incidentally, Robinson is the first Southerner of the South on a major presidential ticket since 1864.

Finally, as an American I find Gov. Smith wholly satisfactory. A vote for Gov. Smith is a vote for honesty in Government, efficiency in Government and democracy in Government, all of which are considerations of the highest policy and the highest morality. T.

Cherry Pie a la O'Fallon.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

READING your editorial on our June weather, the saddest part was your missing out on a fresh cherry pie.

Sorry for you, but we had ours, two in fact, two weeks ago, raised on our own cherry trees, in our back yard near O'Fallon Park. Even the birds had their share, also the small boys around. Cheer up, try July for yours.

MISS M.

A Mark Twain Quatrain.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ANTICIPATING the avalanche of Democratic votes that will be cast in November I am reminded of a quatrain by the eminent and lamented Mark Twain, paraphrasing which we have:

We'll bury "the Republicans" out in the woods
In a beautiful hole in the ground;
Where the bumblebees buzz and the peckerwood sings
And the straddle bug tumbles around."

I am inditing this to you rather than to my own State paper for the reason that, as Missouri is accredited as the home of Mark Twain, it were more becoming that reference to him emanate from his own State. J. F. KENNARD.

Batesville, Ark.

Al Smith's Courage.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHETHER one agrees with Al Smith or violently disagrees, one must honor the honest courage of his declaration on prohibition at this time when his "destiny hangs on the utterance." The wildest flight of the imagination could hardly picture Cautious Cal rising to such heights.

Smith won the nomination at Houston and it is not improbable that millions of disgusted, disgruntled Republicans, wet and dry alike, will help to cinch his election in November. It is the best thing that could happen right now for the Republican party, because a continuation of the present regime would come

THE AMERICAN PRESS.

Andre Siegfried, author of "America Comes of Age," did not think highly of the American press. He found that it had so far identified itself with trade that in the main it had ceased to be free, as the country found out when the oil business got into trouble and some of the most powerful newspapers in the country openly discountenanced the oil inquiry. Prof. Siegfried said in his book:

> The great newspapers, as everyone knows live entirely by their advertising. Logically, therefore, they are bound to fall sooner or later under the influence of high finance and big business which pays for publicity. Whenever an editorial contradicts their views, the captains of industry can easily exercise a little pressure. "Your editorials are not up to our standards," they write; and the editor, realizing what he is up against, gives in. Otherwise the paper goes to the wall. The national interests thus possess an effective means of moulding the public to their ends by withholding what they think it should not know and presenting each subject from the desired angle. A rigid code is soon built up from which there is no escape, though people are soon unaware of its existence.

This has caused a stir among American newspaper proprietors. Replying to the charge through Personality, a magazine, which has editorially denied the charge, they quite generally join in the denial. It is, of course, absurd to say that advertisers have any such power as that attributed to them. Prof. Siegfried put the charge too clumsily. Had he said that the press has become rich and disposed to share the point of view occupied by all riches he would not have exposed himself to such effective denials as that of Mr. Ochs of the New York Times. The proprietor of the Times says that if the professor knows a single example of a great newspaper which is subservient to its advertisers and whose editorial and news policy is at the beck and call of interests, he should name that newspaper so the quality of his statement could be tested in a suit for libel.

So much for a faulty and careless indictment. Nobody believes that an advertiser could make the Times do anything it did not want to do, but that its point of view is that of trade is unconcealed. It thought in the early stages of the oil scandal that the inquiry ought not to become so ruthless as to give the country the impression that all business is corrupt, and when Secretary Fall and Edward B. McLean were attacked by Senator Caraway it declared that "judicious Democrats everywhere must grieve over this Bombastes Furioso, for this is but another act of Trying to Bamboozle the People." It was clearly out of sympathy with the whole exposure, defended Denby until the United States Supreme Court found him guilty of most blameworthy lack of fidelity in office, and denounced the committee investigating Daugherty for introducing to the public "a fine collection of crooks asserting that other men are crooked." March 31, 1924, the Times delivered a broadside at the effort which Senator Walsh and others were making to purify the public service. It said:

> A few Senators at Washington have borne themselves like men who are at heart enemies of lawful and orderly Government. They profess to be engaged in the laudable effort to uncover corruption. * * * But * * * they make it seem that their real purpose is to paralyze the administration, to terrorize members of the Cabinet, to break down the efficiency of the Government. * * * The inquisitorial power of Congress, which should be reserved for great events, has been placed at the disposal of men who display no sense of responsibility, and who make use of it for the pettiest and most malicious purposes. What should be the strong medicine of the Constitution, * * * has been made the daily bread of scandal-mongers and assassins of character.

Similarly, the New York Herald-Tribune is innocent of the charge made by Prof. Siegfried in the way he made it, but here is what it said of Senator Wheeler when the Montanan was driving Daugherty out of the office of Attorney-General:

> He turned his back on the rules of fair play and decent conduct that control private citizens and, ordinarily, Senators of the United States. * * * Senator Wheeler would place senatorial cowardice on a par with senatorial courtesy. * * * The country is in for a period of wild accusations, rumor-mongering and loud-mouthing by little minds.

To the Herald-Tribune Senators Walsh and Wheeler were "the Montana scandal mongers," and the investigation was "a Democratic lynching bee" which it found "contemptible and disgusting."

The New York Evening Post certainly is not under the influence of its advertisers, but it shares the viewpoint which Prof. Siegfried had in mind. When the scandals in Washington were at their height the Post characterized Senators Walsh and Wheeler as "the mud gunners," and it made this prediction:

> There will come a day when Washington will recover its now lost sanity. * * * For weeks its mud-guns have belched and splashed. What once was a great deliberative body has been resounding to the partisan yelping of little men and the snaps and snarls of character assassins. * * * The public has been shocked and finally disgusted by this brazen exhibition of poison-tongued partisanship, pure malice and twittering hysteria.

The truth about the American press, or a large part of it, was very well stated by William Allen White when his opinion was asked. The publisher of the Emporia Gazette is an understanding and plain-spoken person. This is his answer:

> The professor is wrong when he says that the American press is directly dominated "by the money interests through advertising." He is right, however, when he concludes that the American press is tremendously property minded. This property mind comes from the fact that the American newspaper is becoming more and more an industrial enterprise, collecting and selling news as the packers collect and sell meat or the iron masters collect iron and sell steel. I know of no editor so low that he would take direct dictation from any advertiser. I know of no editor so high that his mind is not affected by his industrial environment. The fact that he lives in daily contact with the rich people of his community, whether the community be large or small, that he gangs with them at the country clubs, eats with them at the leading hotels, and indeed prays with what might be called a plutocratic congregation, colors his mind and he sees things as his friends and associates see them. What was once a profession has become a trade because the cost of entering the trade is prohibitive to anyone who has mere opinions to sell, thoughts to peddle, ideals to propagate.

In our opinion that approximates the true answer to the Siegfried indictment. It explains why the American press, despite some striking exceptions, is such a great disappointment to this intelligent foreign observer. He is not the first European to make the point. In an address before the American High Justice of England, solemnly warned the United States of the commercialization of the press. He said it began about 30 years ago, and might be termed conquest of the editorial department by the business department. He concluded his address with this very sound declaration:

"There can be no free government without a free press."

ALABAMA ABOLISHES SLAVERY.

Alabama has at last abolished its convict lease system which has disgraced that State for 20 years. Under this system prisoners were hired out to private interests at beggarly wages, were worked like beasts of burden and, in notorious instances, were treated with shocking brutality.

The majority of the victims were Negroes. No color line, however, was drawn. The lowly white man who had fallen afoul of the law figured in the miserable barter between conscienceless sheriffs and avaricious employers and was brother to the black man in this barbarous slavery.

Nor were the victims hardened criminals. Many of them presumably were, but the business became so profitable that anyone unfortunate enough to be arrested, no matter how harmless the offense, was liable to be put on the block, especially if he were without means of protest. Thus it happened that a youth still in his teens who was caught stealing a ride on a freight train was shunted off to a convict camp, became ill under the excessive labor and dreadful conditions, was beaten by a brute of an overseer and died. The realities of the abomination reached the public owing to the fact that the apparently friendless hobo was not friendless, was not a tramp, and assuredly was not a criminal. Since that exposure publicity has pilloried the system and continuously accused Alabama.

For ending this degradation Alabama should be penitently grateful to the press.

THE SPIRIT OF CHINESE NATIONALISM.

Mighty events have occurred in China, and they were properly dramatized a few days ago. What a memorable scene was that enacted in a little shaded grove outside the environs of Pekin! The place was the tomb of Sun Yat-sen, in whose great heart and brain the vision of a Chinese nation first took definite form. Before his opened casket stood the four Generals of the victorious Nationalist armies, which had done so much to make the vision a reality.

The slender, dashing, belted youth was Chiang Kai-shek, commander of the army which swept a thousand miles from Canton up to the Yang-tse without a defeat, then rallied and struck home to Pekin, hurling old Chang Tso-lin back into Manchuria. Now he sobbed unrestrainedly as he gazed on the dead face of his old teacher. The burly, war-stained giant, with hollow cheeks and stolid mein, was Feng Yu-hsiang. Driven once from Pekin, he marched his seasoned legions half way across China, reorganized them in the Mongolian wilderness, and marched them back to share in the final crushing triumph. Now he laid a brotherly arm across the heaving shoulders of his brilliant young ally, and uttered steady words of consolation.

These leaders and their colleagues had come to render an accounting to the soul of Sun Yat-sen of the trust which Sun Yat-sen bequeathed to them. There is no mistaking such a spirit. It is the spirit in which nations are born, and intelligent men in all countries will not fail to recognize it.

RASH SCIENTISTS.

Dr. Emmett W. Price, a veterinary of the Bureau of Animal Husbandry at Washington, has completed an investigation of an intestinal parasite taken from the liver of a diseased giraffe. Dr. Price conducted the experiment upon himself, swallowing the parasite, from which he suffered an illness. Fortunately, he recovered. Conducting the experiment upon himself, the veterinary was carrying out the code of the bureau.

And Dr. Maurice C. Hall, head of the parasiteology section of the Bureau of Animal Husbandry, says self-experimentation "is the only way to obtain exact information. It is a tradition of the service that the man conducting the experiment use himself as a subject."

That Dr. Price and Dr. Hall are enthusiastic scientists seems to be obvious. But that it is necessary for the men of this bureau to experiment upon themselves and chance the dangers involved seems doubtful. As for "code" and "tradition," the sound, in this instance, a bit more cavalierlike than scientific. We do not doubt that both Dr. Price and Dr. Hall are doing important work, but that is all the more reason they should endeavor to preserve themselves. As for self-experimentation, the fact remains that Ehrlich discovered salvarsan without infecting himself with the spirochete, and Pasteur found the cure for rabies without taking the disease himself. We applaud the conscientiousness of the Bureau of Animal Husbandry, but we doubt its practical judgment in selecting subjects for experimentation.

TOLERANCE IN POLITICS.

Gov. Smith's nomination, with the consequent infusion into the campaign by certain elements of the religious issue, recalls the somewhat similar situation which existed in France in 1924.

In June of that year, for the first time in the history of the French Republic, a Protestant, Gaston Doumergue, was elected President. European political observers were agreed that this unprecedented event demonstrated for all time how complete is the separation of church and state, how widespread is the principle of tolerance and how small is the influence of religion in politics in France. Four Catholic cures, members of Parliament, cast their votes for President Doumergue. The fact that he is a Protestant caused scarcely a murmur in a country which is preponderantly Catholic. Doumergue, who is a Calvinist (similar to a Presbyterian in America), still holds office.

There are those who are always eager to boast, without qualification or reservation, that the United States is the most progressive nation in the world. Yet with certain groups denouncing Gov. Smith as objectionable on the sole ground of his religious faith, it would seem that we still have something to learn from France. That is in the matter of religious tolerance if in no other field.

Church and State in America

The Proposed Meeting of Southern Democrats at Asheville, Called by Methodist and Baptist Clergymen, Is an Attempt to Use the Power of Churches to Influence an Election; as Such, It Offers a Challenge to the American Tradition That Church and State Must Remain Separate.

From the New York World.

THE Rev. James G. Cannon Jr. of Richmond, Va., Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Barton of Atlanta, chairman of the Commission on Social Service of the Southern Baptist Convention, have issued a call for a conference of Southern Democrats to be held at Asheville, N. C., on July 11, for the purpose of making plans to defeat the Democratic candidate. This call was issued after a meeting in Houston attended by Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

There appear to be differences of opinion among these political clergymen as to how they are to go about accomplishing their purpose. Dr. McBride, who was born in Ohio has an office in Ohio, promised to deliver the Anti-Saloon League vote to the Republicans before the Houston convention assembled. But Bishop Cannon and Dr. Barton, being Southerners, are unable to take so straightforward a course. They are in the unhappy position of having so many prejudices that it will tax all their resources before they can find a way of expressing all their prejudices in this campaign. They can't vote for Hoover because they are Southerners. They can't vote for Smith because he is a Catholic and a wet. They can't organize a third party because by a bolt they would then forfeit their right to dictate to the Democratic party. So they will confer in Asheville to see what is to be done.

This conference will be worth the thoughtful attention of the American people. It will present the interesting spectacle of the dignitaries of two religious denominations meeting to decide on the political program of their respective churches. They have, of course, no power to deliver the votes of Southern Baptists and Southern Methodists. But the only reason any special attention is paid to Bishop Cannon and Dr. Barton is that they are supposed to control a certain bloc of votes. Thus at Asheville we shall behold an avowed effort by churchmen to determine the result of a national election. They will constitute themselves as the leaders of a Southern Methodist-Baptist bloc "to organize at once for the election of dry Democratic senatorial and congressional nominees for office and for the defeat af the wet Tammany candidate for President."

They are within their legal rights. There is no law in the United States which forbids churchmen and churches to interfere in the secular affairs of the state. But if they are within the law, they are certainly outside the pale of the most cherished tradition of the American people. The American people believe in the separation of church and state. This theory means that the state must grant no special favors to any church, and must forever grant to every church complete freedom to worship and to teach. It means that no church must ask special favors of the state, and that it must refrain from all attempts to interfere with the conduct of the state.

This theory, which is fundamental in the

It is admittedly a compromise, for in human affairs it is never possible to draw an absolutely sharp line. But it is a compromise hammered out by the wisdom of the white race in the West after centuries of religious wars and persecutions. Nothing in the heritage of modern man is so tested by experience as his conviction that he must be forever vigilant to keep separate the affairs of churches and the affairs of states. This conviction is one which binds together churchmen who know that religion must be free of the Government and patriots who know that Government must be free of clericalism. It is the conviction upon which rests religious freedom and religious peace, the abandonment of inquisitions and persecutions and all the black hatred of a thousand years.

No people can remain free which does not vigilantly protect this supreme achievement of the modern world. The day has passed in America when any Government dares proscribe any religious or any religion dares to aspire to control the Government. We believe this is the sober conviction of the great mass of the American people, and it is one of the soundest convictions which a people can cherish.

We have no fear that Bishop Cannon and Dr. Barton can succeed in persuading the people of the South to accept their political leadership. But nevertheless the effort of these clergymen to seize political power is an affront to the American tradition and must be challenged and rebuked. The South has a very great obligation, for if it permits the bold experiment in clericalism to succeed, it will have sanctioned a precedent which may have the gravest consequences.

We wish to make ourselves perfectly clear. We do not believe it is the obligation of any Southern Democrat to vote for Gov. Smith. We should have the utmost respect and good will for men like Gov. Moody, Mr. Daniels or Senator Simmons if they refused to support the Democratic ticket because they do not believe in the Democratic candidate. They are fully entitled, without incurring reproach, to stay at home, refusing to vote, to bolt the ticket, to organize a new party or to do anything else which their consciences dictate. They are laymen. But what is intolerable is to have clergymen, bearing the titles of their spiritual office, attempt to dictate to a political party. That is a challenge to Methodist and Baptist laymen particularly, and to all Americans, and we believe that the new South, the young and vigorous South, and that South which still remembers its greatest traditions, will not fail to deal adequately with that challenge.

BALLADE OF WANDERLUST.

Express trains have the right of way,
The calling tracks run true and straight,
But knights who tread the dusty way
Will heed alone the rumbling freight;
The limited is too sedate
For such as wander to and fro
Impelled by urge they cannot state,
But where do all the freight trains go?

For some to travel is to play,
But such can feel no urge innate,
Since those who, restless, ever stray,
Will heed alone the rumbling freight;
Ere tales of travel you relate,
Tell me, do you the box-car trow?
The Pullman I, too, cultivate,
But where do all the freight trains go?

The Pullman cars no urge convey,
No hearts express trains elevate,
For those who tied to desks must stay
Will heed alone the rumbling freight;
The slightest ride can soon abate
The wanderlust that does not know
The rides that seldom terminate,
But where do all the freight trains go?

L'ENVOI.

Who stand and watch the crossing gate
Will heed alone the rumbling freight;
Adventure calls, insistent, low,
But where do all the freight trains go?

rwood explained the philosy of his measure in these s: "We say that no revenue be produced at the customs s unless there is some comon between the products of n countries on domestic pro. As a general rule we have t to fix a reasonable protecariff—with this qualification at we levy high taxes on the ries of life and endeavor to taxes on the necessities as as possible consistent with ng a reasonable amount of nue."

rom this it would seem that erwood was interested princiy in protecting revenues to be ed from the tariff. The presplank stresses "adequate pron for the wage of the Amer laborer."

Industrializing the South.

he South has been on the boom e 1900, particularly since the rld War. New England textile ufacturers have migrated there the wholesale. Georgia, Ala a North and South Carolina, siana and Mississippi have d a steady growth, which coms most favorably with the rida inflation. This developt has been the motive force be the tariff sentiment.

n imposing list of Southern ints seeking tariff protection was n to the House Ways and ns Committee as early as 1921, n the Fordney tariff bill was r consideration. This list was the form of a memorial from Southern Tariff Association, claimed to represent 57 af d industries in 18 different hern states. The more impor products listed as requiring ection were as follows:

riculture: Cottonseed and vegle oils, Egyptian cotton, citrus , onions, peanuts, cane sug rice, hides and skins, tobacco dairy products.

anufacturing: Cotton goods, mill products, saddles and ss, chemical dyes, meat prodpencil leads, fertilizers, furni foundry products, wood pulp, and steel, boots and shoes.

ining: Asbestos, barium, bary bauxite, cement, clay, feldspar, o-alloys, gypsum, graphite, le, mica, potash, sulphur, talc zinc.

They Asked for Protection.

mong 65 producers' and growassociations subscribing to the orial were the Texas Farmers' ue, Florida Citrus Exchange, d Peanut Association of ica, Southern Rice Growers' iation, Georgia and Florida cco Growers' Associations, essee, Georgia and Alabama Manufacturers' Associations, West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Georgia-Florida Saw Mill Association.

This was a formidable group for any Southern Representative or Senator to reckon with the Senator Reed Smoot (Rep.) of Utah, high priest of protection, never lets the Southern Democrats forget that there are large and growing sections of their constituencies favoring protection.

This growth of protective sentiment among their constituents has been reflected in the votes and actions of many Southern members of Congress, despite their volubility in denouncing the protective system. About the only old-fashioned low tariff Democrat of any consequence is Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, and he comes from an agricultural district. Some of the Democrats who have spoken most vehemently against the Fordney-McCumber act voted for certain high rates in that bill.

Senators Ransdell and Broussard of Louisiana voted consistently with the Republican majority on these rates and for the bill on final passage. Senator Sheppard of Texas voted almost as frequently with the majority as with the leaders of his own party. In the House, the Louisiana members and several of these from Texas voted generally in support of the bill, while other Southerners joined the Republicans in supporting particular schedules.

In January of this year, Senator McMaster (Rep.), South Dakota, offered a Senate resolution calling for immediate downward revision of the tariff as a constructive step toward farm relief. It was amended and finally adopted when the Progressive Republicans joined with the Democrats. The Democrats, however, were so lukewarm in their support that the Washington correspondent of the Protectionist, a leading tariff magazine published in Boston, said in his correspondence that if there had been any chance of tariff revision during that session of Congress at least half of the Democrats who voted for the McMaster resolution would have opposed it. This was rather a liberal estimate, but there is no doubt that the Democrats knew that the House would table the resolution.

During this debate, Smoot of Utah—always the statistician—inserted in the Congressional Record a computation of Senate votes on the Fordney-McCumber schedules, listing instances where Democratic Senators supported duties higher than these recommended by the Senate Committee on Finance. According to Smoot's figures, Southern Democrats voted for higher duties on particular items as follows: Broussard, Louisiana, 2; Caraway, Arkansas, 3; Dial, South Carolina, 1; Culbertson, Texas, 2; Fletcher, Florida, 7; Harris, Georgia, 3; Heflin, Alabama, 11; Robinson, Arkansas, 5; Sheppard, Texas, 27; Swanson, Virginia, 1; Trammel, Florida, 6; Underwood, Alabama, 1, and Williams, Mississippi, 1.

One reason and an important one, why protection has made such headway in the South is due to the frank protection policy of the Southern Tariff Association, which has been active since 1920. Its avowed purpose is "to recommend the Tariff Commission and to Congress such tariff schedules on Southern products as will equalize the cost of production in this country with that of foreign countries, so far as consistent with the public welfare."

It would be hard to distinguish this policy from the public utterances of the Republican protectionists.

Building Up Sentiment.

Since 1920 the association has held annual congresses at which many prominent Southerners have argued for the protective system. The organization has carried on propaganda in favor of protection through a monthly periodical, the Southern Tariff Advocate, and through the formation of congressional district and county tariff clubs. The association has adopted a nonpartisan political attitude, endeavoring to elect men from either political party who were committed to a policy of protection. Since the South is preponderantly Democratic, the effort has been made to change the policies of that party.

"I have voted the Democratic ticket for a long time and I expect to continue to vote it and to make it a tariff party," W. D. Hass, president of the Louisiana State Bankers' Association, declared at the Tariff Association's congress in 1924.

Many other organizations, some of which are affiliated with the Tariff Association, are also playing an important part in developing Southern protective sentiment. Practically all the state manufacturers' associations support high tariffs. Such industrial bodies as the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, which represents the Southern cotton textile manufacturers, advocate protection in general as well as protection for Southern products. The Cotton Textile Association on several occasions has indicated its official approval of the Fordney-McCumber schedules, and its opposition to their reduction. Stuart W. Cramer, president of the association, expressed the views of many of his fellow manufacturers when he urged the South in 1924 to "return to the protective tariff system, promoted and fostered by George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, John C. Calhoun, Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay and other great Southern leaders."

Bidding for the Farm Bloc.

As these manufacturers, producers and growers have insisted on protection for their own products, they have naturally been forced to accept the principle of protection for all industries that say they need it. It would be hard for them to demand protection for their own products and deny it to others. That is not the way legislation is log-rolled through Congress. It is the old back scratching game multiplied a hundred fold.

In line with these tactics, some of the Southerners have tried to line up the farm bloc with them. When the McMaster resolution was under debate, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who can usually be counted upon to heap vituperation and sarcasm on all things republican, while he referred to the "iniquitous protective tariff system," declared in the same speech: "I would so adjust the rates if I could write a bill, that if of this particular kind of wheat there were some imported into this country . . . I would put a tariff on that particular kind. I would look with the greatest particular favor on the products of the farmer that could possibly be benefited by the tariff."

That too was a far cry from "free trade" and "tariff for revenue only." Carried to its logical conclusion, it would mean general protection.

The writer recently attended a political dinner attended by many Southern Democrats. In the course of the evening, the publisher of an influential Southern newspaper declared that his newspaper reflected the true democracy.

"What side would your paper take, if there were a move to lower the tariff on sugar?" a listener asked.

"Now you're getting personal," the publisher retorted, which was another way of saying that the tariff was a local issue.

It should not be adduced from this article that all of the South is whole-heartedly for a high protective tariff. The most that can be said is that a protection movement is growing rapidly in that region. The large stretches of the South where cotton and tobacco are the chief crops generally still hold to the tariff for revenue doctrine. With the recent industrialization of other sections of the region, however, this group, while perhaps at present still in the majority, is dwindling. Otherwise there would have been a stiff fight from the South on the present tariff plank.

Stabilization of Franc Beneficial, Says Lloyd George

nations are now firmly anchored to gold.

International Consequences.

There are four international consequences which will be of great economic importance.

In the first place, stabilization of the franc will enable co-operation of the central banks of issue to develop vigorously and in healthy fashion. During the past few years there has been a striking growth in the intimacy of conferences between the heads of the central banks of Europe and America. The intimacy and confidence of these authorities should now be increased.

Second, the necessity to take international measures against the possible world shortage of gold which would have a most disastrous effect by lowering general prices and by producing world-wide depression of trade, can be much more easily met now with France on the gold standard.

Third, the tariff situation should be greatly eased by stabilization since the war depression of currencies and resultant uncertainties and chaotic current policies, the various nations have afforded the most powerful argument against the lowering of tariffs. In recent years, complaints of British traders doing business with France have been allowed and justified against the phenomenal increases which have been introduced at short notice into French tariffs, increases which could only have been justified outwardly by virtue of the wide fluctuations of the franc at certain periods. With stabilization, it will be possible to push rapidly ahead with proposals of the World Economic Conference. Opposition to the tariff reform will now come only from existing interests and will not be artificially strengthened by currency fears.

War Debts, Then Reparations.

Fourthly, stabilization of the French franc also opens one of the doors which hitherto barred the road to settlement of the contentious and difficult problem of reparations and war debts. France has feared the effects of definitely settling all her debts to America and England on her economic position and on her exchanges. With stabilization, there is no reason for France to fear for her exchange position, and as her economic position is now coupled to gold, any adjustments which exchange will require will be made in quasi-automatic fashion. Consequently only sentimental barriers of war debts remain; and when a definite arrangement as regards to war debts has been arrived at, it will be possible to approach the reparations problem again with new hope and reaching a final settlement.

An interesting question is how stabilization of the franc will afsees the yield of his stockings in victory bonds now definitely reduced by four-fifths its nominal and erstwhile value. Will he be tempted to invest further after this bitter experience of his new government in the redemption of internal pledges? Will he lose that tendency to thrift on which even distribution of wealth in France and consequent resourcefulness of the average French citizen has so long been founded? If one may judge from the German precedent where treatment of the national bond holder has been yet infinitely more drastic, there will be no such unfavorable recognition on the part of the French rentier. For in Germany, deprivation of the pre-war holders of German and Prussian State bonds of almost the totality of both capital and interest, has by no means diminished the saving habit of the German burger as is shown by official statistics relating to holdings of the German savings bank.

POLICE PENSION BILL CAMPAIGN PREPARED

Citizens' Committee to Work for Initiative Measure.

An active campaign will be waged in behalf of the proposed Police Pension Fund law at the coming election, by a Citizens' Committee headed by Felix E. Gunter, president of the Liberty Central Trust Co. Initiative petitions carrying more than 40,000 signatures placed the measure on the ballot. Although it applies to St. Louis only, it will be voted upon by the State at large.

Voters of Missouri in 1926 adopted by a majority of 246,184 a constitutional amendment authorizing the law. In 1927 the measure was passed by the lower house of the Legislature, and although approved by the Municipal Corporations Committee in the Senate, it failed to come to a vote.

The measure provides pensions for disabled and veteran police officers, and for the widows and orphans of policemen killed in the line of duty. The pension fund is to be made up of contributions of 2 per cent of their salaries by policemen and appropriations by the city limited to $150,000 annually. About $500,000 now in a pension fund made up of contributions from policemen averaging 5 per cent of their salaries will be turned over to the fund in the event the bill becomes law. Certain fees and rewards are also to be credited to the pension fund.

The proposed law was submitted to direct vote of the people, Gunter said, to avoid further delay.

"Every other city of the size of St. Louis has recognized the importance of establishing a police pension system," Gunter said. "The movement was started here years ago. The necessity became so urgent in 1924 that members of the department voluntarily organized a temporary pension system and have been contributing 5 per cent of their salaries to it. It is a hardship and unfair for those men to continue paying at this rate. The proposed law was prepared after careful study and is designed along lines found fair and practical."

Members of the Police Department, Gunter said, have received promises of support for the measure from influential men and women in all parts of the State.

GETS 5 YEARS IN U. S. PRISON

Frank Hager Robbed Drug Store Which Was Postal Branch.

Frank Hager, an ex-convict, was sentenced to 5 years in prison at Leavenworth, Kan., on his plea of guilty yesterday to participation in the robbery last spring of a drug store at 3801 Lee avenue in which there is a contract Postoffice.

Three men obtained $365 after holding up the druggish. Only a small portion of the money taken was postal funds. Federal Judge Faris pronounced sentence.

Reserve Officers In Train.

Thirty-five St. Louis Reserve Army Officers, attached to the 407th Reserve Infantry Regiment, will leave tonight for Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for two week's training. The regiment is commanded by Col. Edmund J. McMahon. The instruction will be under the direction of Col. E. L. Butts and Capt. Abraham Tanachnik, of the regular army.

PLANS FOR THREE BUILDINGS TO COST ABOUT $3,000,000

Twenty-Story Apartment House With Roof Garden to Be Erected on Lindell West of Euclid.

$1000-A-FOOT SITE SETS NEW RECORD

Other Projects Are 19-Foot-Wide, 15-Story Office Structure and 8-Floor Garage Downtown.

By Berry Moore.

Plans were announced yesterday for a 20-story apartment building, with roof garden, for the south side of Lindell boulevard, just west of Euclid avenue; a 15-story office building for the northwest corner of Fourteenth and Olive streets, and an eight-story fireproof garage for the northwest corner of Ninth and Chestnut streets—involving altogether a total outlay of more than $3,000,000.

A vacant site, 140x240 feet, adjoining that of the Frank H. Gerhart residence, at the southwest corner of Lindell and Euclid, has been purchased by a syndicate which is to erect the apartment building. The purchase price of the site is understood to have been $140,000, or $1000 a foot, for the Lindell frontage. This is the highest price yet scored for inside ground on this thoroughfare west of Spring avenue.

Henry R. Weisels, Inc., formed the apartment building syndicate and conducted negotiations for the site, owned by Theodore F. Meyer Jr., president of the National Veneer Packing Co.

This is one of several large projects disclosed for Lindell within the last month, the others, including a 15-story apartment building for the northwest corner of Lindell and Taylor, to be erected by Meyer Finkelstein, and a 14-story hotel and apartment for the southwest corner of Lindell and Spring, to be built by Preston J. Bradshaw, as an annex to the Coronado Hotel.

15 Stories, 19 Feet Wide.

The 15-story building designed for the northwest corner of Fourteenth and Olive street is to be built by the Arlington Investment Co., of which W. J. Holbrook is president. Financial arrangements have been completed for this project, according to Holbrook. The structure will be remarkable in that it will be confined to a lot 19x107 feet, which will make it a conspicuous feature of the Memorial Plaza, which it will overlook. Its main entrance will be on Fourteenth street, on which it will have a frontage of 107 feet, facing the Public Library, with an Olive street or Memorial frontage of 19 feet.

There will be eight offices to the floor, all with removable partitions. The ground floor will be divided into three stores. Roof and walls of the building will be used for advertising purposes, which will add, it is believed, appreciably to its income. Annual income, exclusive of that derived from advertising, is expected to total $90,000. The building will be erected with wind-breakers with the foundation extended 6 feet into solid rock. Manske & Bartling are the architects. The project was announced by the Holbrook-Blackweider company.

Garage for Ninth and Chestnut.

A syndicate headed by W. P. Anderson of Cincinnati, has acquired title to about a quarter of a block at the northwest corner of Ninth and Chestnut streets, as was forecast exclusively in the Post-Dispatch. An eight-story fireproof garage is to be erected as soon as plans are available. The site was assembled by the Singer-Klein Real Estae Co., representing the purchasing syndicate.

The building will have a capacity for about 500 automobiles and up-to-date equipment. There will be eight stores on the ground floor, four on Chestnut street and four on Ninth street. Details are not settled. Construction, however, is to start without delay. Old three-story buildings now occupy the site, comprising two parcels, with an aggregate frontage of 130 feet on Chestnut street by a depth of 109 feet on Ninth street, extending to the east and west alley of this block. One of the parcels was owned by Laura G. Hill, and the other by the Flad, Griffith & Howard estates. The total value of the property, as reported by the agents, is about $400,000. The Jost-Miller Co. represented one of the sellers of the corner part of the site. W. B. Shelp & Co. represented the Hill holdings. John A. Watkins acted for one of the heirs. The Singer-Klein Real Estate Co. will have the management of the building, the estimated cost of which is $500,000.

MANY FINE SITES OFFERED FOR NEW FEDERAL BUILDING

Notable Among Them Is Half Block on West Side of Twelfth Between Olive and Pine Streets.

TWELFTH-MARKET CORNER ANOTHER

Suggestion Has Been Made That the City Donate Available Space on Municipal Plaza.

A number of sites have been assembled and offered for the proposed new Federal building in response to the formal request of the Treasury Department at Washington for property available by "sale or donation to the United States." These include, notably, the half block on the west side of Twelfth boulevard, from Olive to Pine streets, a plat of which, with a specified price of $1,750,000, was forwarded yesterday to Carl T. Schumeman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, by Henry R. Weisels, Inc. The offer virtually gives the Government an option. The appropriation for the new Federal building is $3,825,000.

The site embraces both the southwest corner of Twelfth and Olive and the northwest corner of Twelfth and Pine, with a frontage on Twelfth of 195 feet and 193 feet on both Olive and Pine streets. These dimensons contemplate vacationby the city of the north and south alley of the block.

The Olive and Pine street corners are owned by the Essex Realty Co., of which W. K. Bixby is president. The ground on Twelfth between these two corner is owned by the Barknight Realty Co. Also included are 50 feet and 25 feet on Olive street, owned, respectively, by Jack Dubinsky and the McManus estate, and 51 feet on Pine street, owner by the Nathan Investment Co., of which Nathan Frank is president, and 21 feet owned by the Plaza Realty Co.

Adjacent to Memorial Plaza.

The site is regarded as one of the most appropriate adjacent the Memorial Plaza. It has figured in plans for a number of ambitious building projects, including notably a 38-story hotel for the southwest corner of Twelfth and Olive.

A 50-foot strip, extending from Olive to Pine and lying on the west of the half block offered by the Weisels concern for the new Federal building, has been acquired for a 12-story office building to conform in exterior design with that of the new Missouri Pacific Building, occupying the Thirteenth street side of this block. Preston J. Bradshaw has drawn the plans for this project, to be known as the Plaza Building, and which is being engineered by Henry R. Weisels, Inc.

Situated between the Missouri Pacific Building and the site proposed for the Federal building, the building would have an added value, with decided speculative advantages. The Memorial Plaza which it will overlook on Pine street will further enhance its importance.

Another site recently offered the Government for the new Federal building is the block bounded by Pine, Chestnut and Ninth and Tenth streets, assembled by William R. Cady, real estate officer of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., in connection with Ralph Coles of Cornet & Zeibig.

The northwest corner of Ninth and Chestnut, comprising nearly a quarter of a block, has just been purchased as a site for an eight-story garage by clients of the Singer-Klein Real Estate Co. Title to this was acquired yesterday by a syndicate, which, it is announced, will erect the garage. This project, it is suggested, now may be halted in light of the availability of this block as a site for the new Federal building.

Other sites mentioned include the southeast corner of Twelfth and Market streets, which after the widening of the two streets, will front 246 feet on Twelfth and 290 feet on Market; the northeast corner of Twelfth boulevard and Chestnut street, which fronts 233 feet on Twelfth, and extends 435 feet on Eleventh, and the two blocks bounded by Market, Walnut, Eighth and Tenth streets.

The block at the southeast corner of Twelfth and Market is one of the strongest contenders as a site for the new Federal Building, in view of the fact that it will overlook the Memorial Plaza and the Municipal group of buildings, and is just across the street from the new Civil Courthouse. It is owned by the Oreon E. & R. G. Scott Realty Co.

Several other parcels, all adjoining the new Municipal Plaza have been mentioned, including one on the Plaza, which would be donated by the City—a suggestion which has been under discussion at the City Hall for some time.

Recently city officials discussed with a Treasury Department representative the two available spots in the Municipal Plaza, one bounded by Chestnut, Pine, Twelfth and Thirteenth street; the other by Chestnut, Pine, Fourteenth and Fifteenth, both reserved under the Plaza plan for future public buildings. No decision was reached.

The Government specifies "a corner lot, approximately 245x300 feet, centrally and conveniently located." The proposals will be opened at 2 p. m. Aug. 1 in the office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department at Washington.

In addition to the $3,825,000 Federal Building proposed, the Government also contemplates the erection of an addition to the present Post Office to cost about $1,600,000. Bids have not been requested as yet on a site for this. The Treasury Department plans the erection of a building of the monumental type, which would harmonize with other features of the Plaza, about eight stories tall and containing about 211,000 square feet of floor space, more than sufficient to accommodate all of the Federal offices in the city.

Building to be erected at the south approach of the Kingshighway viaduct for the Central Hardware Co.

TIVOLI BUILDING SOLD TO SYNDICATE

Henry R. Weisels Co. Announces Sale of University City Structure.

The sale of the Tivoli Building, at 6346-70 Delmar boulevard, between Limit avenue and Westgate avenue, to Frank Ott, representing a syndicate, is announced by Henry R. Weisels Co., Inc. The property belonged to the Parkview Realty & Investment Co., of which Mrs. Harry J. Cohen is president.

The building, which is located in the heart of University City, cost, including the site, approximately $600,000. It is a substantian 4-story fire-proof structure, comprising the Tivoli Theater, with 1500 seating capacity, nine stores and 45 kitchenette apartments, of two and three rooms, with modern equipment. The theater has lounge rooms, ladies' rest rooms, men's smoking room, and handsome lobby. The main entrance to the upper floors in the Tivoli is equipped with electric passenger elevator. The lot fronts 193 feet by 110 feet. The annual rental is approximately $60,000.

The building hereafter will be under the management of the Henry R. Weisels company.

NEW CUTTING MACHINE FACTORY TO BE BUILT

J. B. Gury Manufactruing Co. to Erect Plant at Skinker and Clemens.

J. B. Gury Manufacturing Co. will erect a new building at the northwest corner of Skinker road and Clemens avenue. The Gury Co., formerly the Universal Cutter Co., manufactures the Universal cloth cutting machines. Its present factory at Euclid and Scott avenues recently was purchased by Washington University.

The new building will be of modern fireproof construction. The exterior will be of face brick and terra cotta. The interior walls will be lined with white enameled brick.

The contract has been awarded to the Woermann Construction Co. Work on the building has been started. The cost of the completed building will be about $61,000. The building was designed by Alfred H. Norrish, architect.

MULLIN-WALTERS LEASES FLOOR TO DIAMOND HAT CO.

The Diamond Hat Co. has leased the third floor at 801-03 Lucas avenue for factory, office and stockroom. This lease was made by the Mullin-Walters Realty Co. for the Red Diamond Overall Co., owner. The Phillip-Jones Corporation has leased part of the second floor at 1107-09 Washington for office, stockroom and sample room. The Gardner Pocketbook Manufacturing Co., now at 210 Olive, has leased western side of the fourth floor at 1900-12 Pine. A. W. Berson of New York has leased space in the newly erected Fashion Square Building at 1307 Washington avenue. This lease was made for the account of the Rose Realty Co., owner. The Schwander Supply Co., Inc., has leased the first floor at 1622-24 Morgan. This lease was made for the account of H. & K. Garment Co.

Wenzlick Business for Week.

O. H. Jones, salesmanager for the Albert Wenzlick Real Estate Co., reports the following sales: 6335 Suburban, single flat, for Charles H. Andrae to Imogene Wilson; 5864-66 Roosevelt, for Aaron Morganstein to Bernice and Edward Kampe; 6141 West Park, for Bernice and Edward Kampe to Aaron Morganstein; lot, 58 Edgewood Park, for Luke Mee to Florence Meyer; 6141 West Park, for Aaron Morganstein to a client; bungalow, 5648 Kennerly, for George Lilly to Edward M. Powers, and bungalow, 4250 Connecticut, for Henry Sevedge for Anton Sischka.

DOWNTOWN CORNER WITH FUTURE

Southeast corner Eleventh and Morgan; 84 feet on Morgan, 105 feet on Eleventh St. (reduced to 75 feet after widening Morgan St. to an 80-foot boulevard).

Present improvements, while of little consequence, can be made to net purchaser 6 to 8%, holding this property until the street widening and the proposed Illinois Traction Co. improvements which, together with other factors, will make sure the betterment of values on this corner.

Morgan street, when widened, will merge into Delmar Boulevard, just west of Grand avenue, and will provide a rapid outlet to west and central St. Louis from North St. Louis. Today's price on this corner will seem cheap 5 years from now. A little study on the corner and its future now will be profitable. When everyone knows a thing is valuable it is hard to buy that item cheap.

$1,000,000 FUND TO BE AVAILABLE FOR MEMORIAL

Benefited Property in Neighborhood of Plaza to Bear $1,689,615 of Cost, Report Shows.

Benefited property will bear $1,689,615 of the cost of Memorial Plaza, which is $6,677,088.

As the bond issue for the Plaza and Soldiers' Memorial is $6,000,000, it thus appears that there will be more than $1,000,000 available for some form of memorial. It was feared that the high cost of the site might leave nothing for a memorial. The total cost of the plaza site to the city will be $4,987,473.

These facts are given by J. L. Muldoon, city condemnation attorney. A report of the Plaza Condemnation Commissioners will be filed in Circuit Court this week, after 17 months of work.

No exact statement of the benefit assessment is obtainable in advance of the report. It is known, however, that the minimum assessment is $3 a front foot and the maximum $300 a foot. Naturally the higher assessment is against property facing directly on the plaza.

The district in which assessments are made is as follows:

Beginning at a point midway between Sixth and Seventh streets, running west, including both sides of Washington avenue to Tenth street, running north to Lucas avenue, and west including both sides of Lucas, to Sixteenth street, south to Washington avenue, west on Washington, including both sides of the street, to a point approximately 100 feet west of Eighteenth street, thence south along this line, approximately 100 feet west of Eighteenth street to Pine street, thence west including both sides of Pine street, to a point approximately 100 feet west of Twenty-first street, thence south to Market street along this line, thence east including both sides of Market street, to Nineteenth street, thence south along the prolongation southwardly of Nineteenth street to Clark avenue prolonged westward from Eighteenth street, thence eastward to a point approximately 100 feet west of Eighteenth street, thence south along this line and parallel to the west line of Eighteenth street to Randolph street, thence east along Randolph street to Twelfth street, thence north on Twelfth street to Poplar street, thence east on Poplar street to Seventh street, thence north on Seventh street to Clark avenue, then east to a line midway between Sixth and Seventh street, thence north along this line to Washington avenue.

There are 157 parcels of land to be condemned for the site. The city has purchased 71 parcels at a cost of $2,992,410.

The condemnation commissioners are A. D. Ruth, real estate dealer; August F. Weeke, insurance, and Carl F. Stifel, real estate dealer.

BECKEMEIER SELLS BUILDING TO EAST ST. LOUIS K. OF P.

The August C. Beckemeier Realty Co. reports having sold one of the important business corners in East St. Louis, consisting of a two-story brick mercantile building with apartments above. The lot fronting 95 feet on St. Louis avenue by a depth of 120 feet on Thirteenth street. The property was sold for Elizabeth Rohm to Eureka Lodge, No. 81, Knights of Pythias, for $25,000.

Where to Live? to Dine?

That question is solved to our guest's satisfaction. The newly furnished Forest Park Hotel is on a high point in coolest part of St Louis. Convenient to all Summer Amusements. Our Menus are particularly selected for the jaded "Hot Spell" appetite. OUR DAINTY DAILY DINNER appeals to particular people and is modestly priced at $1.00. OUR SUNDAY DINNER AT $1.50 could not be prepared at home for double the price.
—and think of the trouble and time you save.
Good place for father while the family is away.

ADVISORY BOARD TO DIRECT HOOVER CAMPAIGN IN EAST

Ex-Congressman Good of Iowa Put in Charge of G. O. P. Headquarters at Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee announced tonight that no separate eastern organization to conduct Hoover's presidential campaign would be established for the present, but that the campaign in the East would be under the supervision of an advisory board.

Work's announcement followed a long conference of party leaders, which ended late tonight.

The "northeastern advisory board" which was established, he said, will be comprised of the national committeemen from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Maryland and will include in addition Senator Moses of New Hampshire, Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island, chairman of the Senatorial Campaign Committee, and Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of the Congressional campaign committee.

Because main headquarters of the national committee are in Washington, Work said it was deemed "there was no immediate necessity for establishing a separate Eastern headquarters in New York City."

Those who attended the conference included Daniel Pomeroy of New Jersey, a vice chairman of the National Committee; Representative Fort of New Jersey, secretary of the committee; Senator Moses of New Hampshire; Earle S. Kinsley of Vermont; Charles D. Hilles of New York; Louis K. Liggett of Massachusetts; Frederick Peck of Rhode Island; D. O. Hastings of Delaware; Albert Hyslop of New Hampshire; and James Francis Burke of Pennsylvania, counsel of the committee.

Meets New York Editors.

The luncheon attended by Hoover is said to have been organized by K. D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post Standard; Henry J. Allen, former Governor of Kansas and publicity manager for the Republican campaign, reported such details of the affair as were made public.

Early in the day James W. Good, former Representative from Iowa, agreed to serve as Western campaign manager for Herbert Hoover and, while he was speeding to Chicago this afternoon to establish headquarters, Chairman Work of the National Committee went over the Eastern situation with committeemen from that section. Good served as Western manager for Coolidge in 1924.

Chairman Work merely declared that all of the committeemen were confident of Republican success in the East next November. The nature of the discussion was not disclosed but it is understood to have included the situation in each state with relation to particular issues. There seemed no doubt that prohibition received some share of the discussion but it was emphasized that the meeting was for the purpose of making plans and not issues.

Herbert Hoover met with the Eastern committeemen at dinner tonight at his residence. At noon he was the guest of a group of New York State newspaper editors at luncheon at the Carlton Hotel. He answered their questions about plans for the campaign but this was behind locked doors and he asked that the discussion be considered confidential because of his desire to keep silent until he is formally notified of his nomination when he will publicly discuss issues.

With his resignation now in the hands of President Coolidge and his organization taking definite shape, Hoover was nearly ready to select a definite hour for leaving the city for his home in Palo Alto, Cal., where he will receive official notification of his nomination. Some time next week is the nearest date now on his calendar for the departure.

CUCKOO GANGSTER ACCUSED OF PART IN EXTORTION PLOT

Herman Tipton Denies Police Charge He Is Racketeer Attempting to Bleed Dyeing Firms.

Herman Tipton, Cuckoo gang leader, who aspires to be to St. Louis what Scarface Al Capone is to Chicago, has been arrested and placed under bond pending grand jury investigation of efforts of local gangsters to dominate the wholesale cleaning and dyeing business.

At a recent conference at the Missouri Hotel, gangsters urged the cleaners to withdraw from their own trade association and to join with the gangsters in putting the business on a "racket" basis, similar to that operated by Capone gangsters in Chicago. The racketeers demanded that each cleaner pay them $2000 annual "dues" and 10 per cent of gross receipts in return for protection against bombing, labor troubles and competition. It was intimated that bombing would continue if the protection money were not paid.

Rival Gangsters Join Hands.

Tipton was the spokesman for the local racketeers at the hotel conference, according to police, and he was backed up by two other gangsters associated with one of the factions involved in the Italian gang feud. Among the cleaners invited to the conference were Levi McCaskill, president of the Ozark Cleaning & Dyeing Co., whose Wellston plant was bombed recently, and Harry Cramer, president of the White Way Cleaning & Dyeing Co., Twenty-fifth and Hebert streets.

McCaskill, obviously in fear of another bombing, would not discuss with reporters the racketeers' proposal. Cramer admitted going to the meeting at the invitation of another cleaner, but said he withdrew as soon as he learned a racket was proposed. Cramer said he did not approve of the attempts to force the racket system on St. Louis industry. Cramer added that invitations to attend the meeting had been sent to nearly all members of the St. Louis Cleaners and Dyers' Association, composed of wholesalers who employ union labor and receive business from small cleaning and pressing shops.

Arrested 109 Times.

Tipton, who is 26 years old, has been arrested 109 times for investigation and shot once by rival gangsters. He surrendered at police headquarters Friday, accompanied by his attorney, William Baer, when he heard police were seeking him. He denied he was a racketeer or that he attended the Hotel Missouri conference, and was released on $10,000 bond. He is a brother of Roy Tipton, now serving a prison term with members of "Dinty" Colbeck's gang for the St. Louis mail truck robbery, and of Raymond Tipton, Cuckoo gangster.

Police Guard at Residence Following Bombing Threat.

A police guard has been placed around the residence of Emmett Watson, 5677 Waterman avenue, following receipt of a threat to "blow it up." Watson is vice president of the Asphalt Distributing Co., the St. Louis County plant of which was bombed 10 days ago.

Watson informed police that a man telephoned him Thursday and said: "I'm the man who brought the men here from Chicago who blew up your plant. You've got to quit doing business in Illinois at once, and if you don't we'll blow up your home."

5 1-2 TONS OF STOLEN COPPER INGOTS RECOVERED

But Only "Driver" Remains of Three Men When Sheriff Returns With Reinforcements.

Five and one-half tons of copper ingots, stolen from a Chicago & Alton railroad car at Brighton, Ill., were recovered Wednesday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Nick Shafer of Jerseyville, Ill., as the copper was being hauled by truck towards Jerseyville.

Shafer, with a county jail "trusty" for chauffeur, trailed the truck for several miles and managed to stall it long enough, while feigning a breakdown, to verify its contents. After going to Jerseyville for reinforcements, Shafer returned to the highway and found the truck again, but two of the three men in it were gone. The chauffeur declared he had merely been hired to drive the truck.

Steel Mill Operations in Youngstown Area to Improve.

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 7. — Steel mill operations in the Youngstown district next week will show a marked improvement, according to operating schedules made public today, sending thousands of men back to work, and bearing out executives' predictions that the summer slump will not be so pronounced this year as in 1927.

Independent steel production will show a gain of two open hearth furnaces; sheet mills will have one of the best weeks this year with 114 of the 127 independents operating; strip mill operation will be at about 90 per cent of capacity.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS BUILD NEW CHURCH

Ground Broken for Structure at Alexander Drive and Wydown Blvd.

The Eighth Church of Christ, Scientist, has started work on a new edifice at the intersection of Alexander drive and Wydown boulevard, on the west side of Skinker road. Edward P. Felker is chairman of the board of trustees and L. V. Fox, chairman of the building committee.

The building will be on a triangular lot facing the park space between the building lot and Skinker road. This will permit access to the front entrance from either Alexander drive or Wydown boulevard.

The architectural design is Italian Gothic. The building will be of stone, brick and terra cotta with a tile roof. The shape of the lot has created a plan which will give an abundance of light and ventilation throughout the interior, and present an interesting external appearance. The interior arrangement is unusual as compared with other Christian Science churches, in view of the fact that the auditorium will be placed on the same level with the foyer. The interior arrangement makes it possible to use part of the foyer and the entire Sunday School room as extensions to the auditorium.

The ground floor will contain boiler room, mechanical equipment room, committee rooms, retiring rooms, ushers' rooms and officers for the treasurer and clerk.

The first floor will contain the main auditorium, having a seating capacity of 1000 with adjoining rooms for readers, organist and precentor, an unusually large foyer, with adjacent library and reading rooms, an entrance vestibule, entrance portico and outside terraces and approaches. The second floor will contain Sunday School room, wash rooms and the board room.

In addition to the main entrance, access to the building can be gained from automobile entrances and side entrances, approachable from either Alexander drive or Wydown boulevard.

Ground was broken for the building Monday. It will be constructed by the Humes-Deal Co., with plans prepared by Aegerter & Bailey, architects, and the building will be erected under their supervision.

JUNE BUILDING CONTRACT RECORD EAST OF ROCKIES

New Construction and E gineering Work Involv in 37 States Amounts $650,466,200.

$192,700,300 TOTAL FOR CENTRAL WEST

In This Area 40 Per Cent for Residential Structures 22 Public Works, 12 In dustrial Projects.

June construction contracts the territory east of the Rocky Mountains broke all previous June records, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. New building and engineering work contracted for the month in the 37 Eastern States (including about 91 per cent of the total country) amounted to $650,466,200. This figure was the second highest monthly total on record. It was 3 per cent ahead of the June, 1927, record and was only about 2½ per cent under the total for the preceding month of this year.

Last month's contract total made another record. It brought the total amount of new construction work started in these states since the first of this year up to $3,444,867,500, which was the largest first six-months' total on record. The increase over the first half of last year was 8 per cent.

The June contract record included the following important classes of work: $258,083,700, or 40 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $130,852,400, or 20 per cent, for public works and utilities; $93,942,200, or 14 per cent, for commercial buildings, and $63,536,700, or 10 per cent, for industrial projects.

Contemplated new work reported in June amounted to $1,0[illegible]095,000, being 17 per cent in excess of the May, 1927, total and 41 per cent ahead of the June 1927, record.

The June total for building contracts let in the Central West (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Southern Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska) amounting to $192,700,300, was the second highest June contract total ever recorded in this district. There was a drop of only 1 per cent from both the May, 1928, total and the June, 1927, record. Analysis of the June construction report in the Central West showed the following important classes of work: $76,235,600, or 40 per cent of the total, for residential buildings; $41,508,700, or 22 per cent, for public works and utilities; $23,433,000, or 12 per cent, for commercial buildings, and $22,208,000, or 12 per cent, for industrial projects.

During the past six months there was $1,015,784,600 worth of new construction work started in the Central West, as compared with $873,452,000 for the corresponding period of last year, the increase being 16 per cent.

Contemplated new work as reported last month in this district reached a total of $348,422,600. Last month's record was 54 per cent ahead of the total reported in the preceding month of this year and was 57 per cent ahead of the total for the same month of last year.

Grand-Bates Corner Changes Hands.

The speculative character of South Grand avenue is again in evidence in the sale by the Federer Realty Co. to Charles Magel of the northwest corner of Grand boulevard and Bates street. Covering a lot 90 feet on Grand boulevard and 142 feet on Bates street, containing eight stores and eight apartments. It was erected by Christ Schultz and August Dauernheim three years ago. The Federer company also reports the following sales: 2322 Michigan avenue, 5-room cottage for John B. Reichenender to Charles Bleharski; 4-room frame bungalow, 5027 Leona avenue, for Fred Heitz to Josephine B. Hudson; bungalow, 5747 Lisette avenue, for George J. Wibbelsman to Donald P. McNitt; bungalow, 4206 Shreve avenue, for Patrick J. Fleming to Capt. William F. Rathgeber; double flat, 3841 McDonald avenue, for Charles Magel to August H. Dauernheim; 40 foot lot, east side of Goodfellow boulevard, for William F. Rathgeber to P. J. Fleming; 35 foot lot, east side of Grace avenue, for Frank J. Fendler to Charles Magel; 35 foot lot, south side Dover place in Holly Hills, for William F. Riley to J. Henry Noll and 50 feet north side of Federer place in Holly Hills for James H. Lar[illegible] to George Koertel.

Lease at Eighth and Washington.

The Sanders & Melsheimer Engraving Co. have taken a 10-year lease on the third floor at the southeast corner of Eighth and Washington avenue. The company for the last 14 years has been at 217-19 North Third. The lease was made for the Nanking Inn. Martin & Breitt Real Estate Co. representing both parties.

JUNE BUILDING CONTRACT RECORD EAST OF ROCKIES

New Construction and Engineering Work Involved in 37 States Amounts to $650,466,200.

$192,700,300 TOTAL FOR CENTRAL WEST

In This Area 40 Per Cent Is for Residential Structures, 22 Public Works, 12 Industrial Projects.

June construction contracts in the territory east of the Rocky Mountains broke all previous June records, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. New building and engineering work contracted for last month in the 37 Eastern States (including about 91 per cent of the total country) amounted to $650,466,200. This figure was the second highest monthly total on record. It was 3 per cent ahead of the June, 1927, record and was only about 2½ per cent under the total for the preceding month of this year.

Last month's contract total made another record. It brought the total amount of new construction work started in these states since the first of this year up to $3,444,867,500, which was the largest first six-months' total on record. The increase over the first half of last year was 8 per cent.

The June contract record included the following important classes of work: $258,083,700, 40 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $130,852,400, or 20 per cent, for public works and utilities; $93,942,200, or 14 per cent, for commercial buildings; and $63,536,700, or 10 per cent, for industrial projects.

Contemplated new work reported in June amounted to $1,030,095,000, being 17 per cent in excess of the May, 1927, total and 41 per cent ahead of the June, 1927, record.

The June total for building contracts let in the Central West (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Southern Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska) amounting to $192,700,300, was the second highest June contract total ever recorded in this district. There was a drop of only 1 per cent from both the May, 1928, total and the June, 1927, record. Analysis of the June construction report in the Central West showed the following important classes of work: $76,235,600, or 40 per cent of the total, for residential buildings; $41,505,700, or 22 per cent, for public works and utilities; $23,438,000, or 12 per cent, for commercial buildings, and $22,208,000, or 12 per cent, for industrial projects.

During the past six months there was $1,015,784,600 worth of new construction work started in the Central West, as compared with $873,452,000 for the corresponding period of last year, the increase being 16 per cent.

Contemplated new work as reported last month in this district reached a total of $348,422,600. Last month's record was 54 per cent ahead of the total reported in the preceding month of this year and was 57 per cent ahead of the total for the same month of last year.

Grand-Bates Corner Changes Hands.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

MRS. T. T. E.—Mixed Pickles: Three hundred small cucumbers, four green peppers sliced fine, two large or three small heads cauliflower, three heads white cabbage shaved fine, nine large onions sliced, one large root horseradish, one quart green beans cut one inch long, one quart green tomatoes sliced; put this mixture in a rather strong brine 24 hours; drain three hours, then sprinkle in a quarter pound black and a quarter pound white mustard seed; also one tablespoon black ground pepper; let it come to a good boil in just vinegar enough to cover it, adding a little alum. Drain again, and when cold, mix in a half pint ground mustard; cover the whole with good cider vinegar; add tumeric enough to color, if you like.

W. L. H.—The present Congress is the Seventieth Congress. The Sixty-ninth Congress began March 4, 1925, and ended March 4, 1927. (2) As to how the sessions of Congress are numbered, each Congress is numbered consecutively from the first term, which began March 4, 1789. There are two regular sessions of each Congress, commonly called the "long" and the "short" session. The long session begins on the first Monday in December of the odd-numbered years, and lasts until some time in the following spring or summer. The short session begins on the same date in the even-numbered years and lasts until March 4 following, when the term of all Representatives expires. The adjournment of Congress last May 31, was the adjournment of the long session of the Seventieth Congress, not the adjournment of the Seventieth Congress. Generally speaking bills die if not passed when Congress adjourns, but a bill on which either House had acted in the long session could be taken up for action again in the next session of the same Congress. (3) A "lame duck" is a member of Congress who had failed of re-election and who will not return to the next Congress, but who will be in the session from December until March, finishing his term.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

SWEENEY.—A girl becomes of age in Illinois at 18.

C. B.—Judgments are good for 10 years and can be revived at any time within that period for another period of 10 years.

MRS. C. T.—You could get a marriage license at any county seat in Missouri and then have the ceremony performed in St. Louis.

RENT—The landlord can keep your 15 dollars and can hold you for the balance of your month's rent. See him and try to make some arrangement with him for releasing you.

E. G.—As to the ability of the United States Supreme Court to declare an amendment to the Constitution, unconstitutional, the Supreme Court can declare that the amendment to the Constitution was not constitutionally enacted. (2) The Supreme Court can declare unconstitutional an act enacted to help enforce an amendment to the Constitution, as you ask. (3) There are nine U. S. Supreme Court Judges. All sit ordinarily. (4) There is no retirement. (5) If there is a tie vote there is no "deciding vote." The decision of the lower court is "affirmed by necessity."

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

SUBSCRIBER—Hay fever is being successfully treated in many cases by serum. This is, of course, administered by a physician only, after proper examination and tests to determine what serum is adapted to the case. (2) Prescribing for a case should be the work of a competent specialist in charge of the case, for safety and best results. (3) Aspirin usually does, as in your case, offer a certain measure of relief, but is of little or no value as a curative. It may with propriety be continued for this purpose. (4) Aspirin is to a certain extent a heart depressant, even in proper doses, and especially so to the unduly susceptible, to all others in large doses, and even in small ones frequently repeated. (5) Practically all drugs are habit forming when used over a long period of time and to this rule aspirin is no exception, although doubtless less habit-forming than many others.

WORRIED READER—The disease you mention is susceptible to, and almost always is, completely cured by the proper treatment continued long enough. There is nothing unusual or to be discouraged about in a return of positive after a negative test, or tests. Two years is the average time necessary to effect a cure and negative tests during this time may show progress towards cure, but are not conclusive. At the expiration of two years tests should continue to be made evey two or three months for a year or more, and if no positives are shown at the expiration of this time, it is safe to conclude that the case is cured. It is only when the disease is allowed to advance to the third or tertiary stage that different tissues and organs suffer the ill effects of the disease. The mercurials, iodidies, and salvarsan are considered the best mode of treatment by the regular profession, and authorities. Middle age is no barrier to complete cure, when treatment is begun soon after infection. If your general health is good, and treatment is taken faithfully, you should recover completely with no after effects.

IN MEMORIAM

FOLKERS—In memory of my father, F. H. Folkers, who passed away July 7, 1927.

From this world of pain and sorrow,
To the land of peace and rest,
God has taken you, dear loved one,
Where you have found eternal rest.
Sadly missed by
SON AND FAMILY. (c)

APPEL—In loving memory of my dear husband and our father, William G. Appel, who passed away one year ago, July 4, 1927:

Gone, dear father, gone forever;
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

BRUNDAGE—In loving memory of my dear husband, Charles C. Brundage, who passed away one year ago, July 2, 1927.

One year has passed since that sad day
The one I loved was called away.
I mourn for him in silence,
No eyes can see me weep,
But many a silent tear is shed
While others are asleep.
Sadly missed by wife,
TERESA BRUNDAGE. (c)

CASSIDY—July 9 marks 12 months of sincere grief since you departed this life, dear son and brother Maurice. While you were in the bloom of happy youth out during that period of sorrow we found consolation in recalling, and admiring all of the graces depicted on your handsome young face, bespeaking a good character that recommended you to your many relatives, friends, your sister and parents, who miss you every day and who commend your spirit to Almighty God.

In searching for one outstanding trait
As though your clean young life we revel,
We find all your acts stand up straight
Like water seeking its level.
MR. AND MRS. MAURICE J. CASSIDY AND DAUGHTER, JEAN.

FARRELL—In memory of Eddie J. Farrell, departed this life July 7, 1902. Gone, but not forgotten.
MOTHER, ELLEN FARRELL, WIFE.

FITZMAURICE—

No one knows how much we miss you;
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you;
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, kind and true.
There's not a day, dear Vincent,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by mother, sister, brothers and all who loved him.

Requiem mass July 10, Holy Rosary Church.

HAY—In loving memory of Urvan Hay, who departed this life, July 11, 1924.
Sadly missed by MOTHER.

HEIMBURGER—In loving remembrance of my dearly beloved husband, Otto J. Heimburger, who died July 9, 1927:

Just one year ago tomorrow
Since my dear husband passed away;
I saw him suffer, heard his sighs,
With aching heart and weeping eyes.

I saw him sinking, hour by hour,
Yet could not stay death's awful power;
But now he calmly sleeps at last,
All pains, all aches, all suffering past.
HIS WIFE, ADELE HEIMBURGER.

HILLEBRAND—In remembrance of our dear daughter, Mary Henrietta Hillebrand, who passed away July 7, 1925. Gone only on person, but not in our memories. Sadly missed by FATHER AND MOTHER.

HUNTER—In loving memory of Harry C. Hunter, my darling husband, who passed away three years ago, July 9, 1925:

I have lost my soul's companion,
A life, linked with my own;
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, BROTHERS AND SISTERS. (c)

KRAMER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Josephine Kramer, who died July 5, 1927.

The golden sun is shining,
Upon dear mother's grave;
One we loved so dearly,
Tried so hard to save.
Her smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
She had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
When we lost our dear mother
We lost our dearest pal.
We love and miss you,
And forever shall.
So rest in peace, dear mother,
Your place in heavenly bower;
The day when we shall meet
Grows nearer every hour.
Sadly missed by her CHILDREN.

MEHLBERG—In loving memory of our dear son, Peter Mehlberg, who died July 6, 1923.

Five years ago today
The dearest pal we ever had on earth
Was called away.
He bade no one a last farewell,
He said good bye to none,
God a one knows the sorrow in our home,
That is lonesome today.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FATHER.
And all who loved him.

MEHRHOFF—In loving memory of my dear husband, Louis W. Mehrhoff, who departed this life one year ago July 7, 1927.

Dear Louis, can it be true
One year has passed since God called you?
The call was short, the shock severe,
To part with one I loved so dear.
When the evening shadows are falling
And I am sitting all alone,
In my heart comes a longing
If you could only be back home.
Sadly missed by Clara Mehrhoff, wife, Minnie Mehrhoff, mother, Emily Ett, sister.

OSTERTAG—In memory of my dear husband, who passed away one year ago, on July 8, 1927, Frank M. Ostertag:

Today recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest.
Those who think of him today
Are the ones who loved him best.
One year has passed since you left me;
Sad was the shock that day.
Oh, how my heart was broken
When I found you could not stay.
Days of sadness still come over me,
Secret tears do often flow,
But memory keeps you ever near me,
Though you died a year ago.
Lonely wife, STELLA OSTERTAG.

ROESCH—In loving memory of our dear son, Arthur, who passed away one year ago July 10:

Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome,
In the midst of our joys we are blue;
With a smile on our face we have heartaches,
Longing, dear Arthur, for you.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND DADDY, SISTERS AND BROTHERS. (c)

HELP WANTED—MEN, BOYS

Amazing New Glass Cleaner Offers

$15 A DAY COMMISSION

Here's an absolutely new money-maker—Jiffy Glass Cleaner. You can make $50 a week spare time—$100 a week full time—just demonstrating and helping me handle orders in your territory. Nothing else like it. Easily and instantly cleans windows, mirrors, windshields, showcases, etc., without water, soap or chamois.

Anyone, Anywhere Can Earn Big Money

All you do is demonstrate to housewives, auto owners, storekeepers, garages, etc., and take orders. I don't sell dealers. So you and you alone get the commission on all business from your locality. It's fun to demonstrate. Just moisten a cloth with Jiffy Glass Cleaner, rub over a window and polish with a dry cloth. Instantly removes every trace of dirt, grease and grime without streaking. And windows stay clean twice as long.

Albers Made $47 in One Day!

He says $100 a week is easy for him. Men and women everywhere are earning amazing commissions with Jiffy and my 350 other fast-selling products. Vaughan, O., $125 a week; Van Allen, Ill., better than $100 a week; Mrs. Hodges, N. Y., $18 to $20 every day; H. C. Hanson, N. D., $75 a week in spare time. You can do as well as any of them.

SEND NO MONEY

I'll prove you can make $50 to $100 a week without capital, training or experience. I furnish everything. Tell you just what to do and say in this fascinating work. You don't risk a penny. And you have a chance to double or triple your present earnings. So get the facts without delay. Mail coupon NOW!

The Jiffy Glass Cleaner Co.,
646 Monmouth Av., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Without cost or obligation send full details of your new money-making proposition.

CITIZENS TO BEGIN TRAINING TOMORROW

Half of 1500 Men at Barracks Are Old Timers; Some to Get Commissions.

The Citizens' Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks is to open tomorrow with a month's program of recreational and military activity laid out for the more than 1500 boys and young men who are expected to attend.

Instructions vere given to applicants to report tomorrow morning, but many of them arrived Friday and yesterday afternoons, coming by train and automobile, or "hitch-hiking" from their homes. One quartet, from Arkansas, drove into camp yesterday in a battered flivver with a back seat that had spent earlier and better days on a buggy.

More than 50 per cent of the lads to be enrolled in the camp this year have had service in former camps, and some of them entering on their fourth camp will find a commission in the Organized Reserves waiting for them when they finish this year's course.

As they arrive tomorrow the student soldiers will be received at the Red Cross tent and served with lemonade and sandwiches while awaiting their turn in the "processing" tent where they will be examined by physicians and fitted with uniforms and equipment. Their training will be under supervision of regular army officers and non-coms and a staff of reserve officers called to active duty for the occasion.

CAB COMPANY OFFICERS LOSE PLEA IN BANKRUPTCY HEARING

U. S. Judge Orders Executives of Yellow Taxi to Appear Before Referee When Called.

Federal Judge Davis yesterday overruled an application for a writ of prohibition to prevent the officers of the Yellow Taxicab Co. from appearing before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles to be examined in the involuntary proceeding against the company filed by creditors in Federal Court May 8, and ordered that they appear when cited for the examination.

The taxicab company filed an answer to the bankruptcy proceeding, alleging that the company is solvent and that the petitioners were not creditors of the company. The company was reorganized while in receivership in the State court.

TWO SISTERS KILL EACH OTHER IN FIGHT OVER FATHER'S WILL

Turkish Women Quarrel Over $50,000 Legally Left to One Remaining Spinster.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—Two sisters quarreled over the terms of their father's will and fought a duel with knives, which resulted in the death of both. This is the sequel to a $50,000 legacy left by Mahmoud Faruk Effendi, a wealthy farmer living near Mersina.

Mahmoud left his fortune to whichever of his daughters who remained a spinster three years. Neither girl would marry; and they decided to settle it by cutting a pack of cards, the one to draw the higher card to marry and the other to take the fortune and give the bride a share of it.

Zekie, the elder, married and applied for the money, which wes refused. This led to the duel.

DEATH IN AUTO UNDER INQUIRY

California Police Think George Channing Lawrence Was Slain.

By the Associated Press.

GLENDALE, Cal., July 7. — Working on the theory that George Channing Lawrence, member of a wealthy and prominent Boston family was murdered and did not commit suicide as it was first thought, police today continued to investigate circumstances surrounding his death.

Lawrence was found shot to death in an automobile parked along a lonely road near here. Police discarded the theory when it was found there were no powder urns near the wound, and the position of the wound, it was reported, indicated that it was not self-inflicted. Lawrence, whose wife died two months ago, was a familiar figure in the night life of Los Angeles.

SMITH WILL URGE 8-WEEK CAMPAIGN AS BEST STRATEGY

Tactics for Coming Political Contest to Be Decided at Meeting of Democratic Committee Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The machinery will be set up this week for the presidential campaign of Gov. Smith.

Wednesday the Democratic National Committee will hold its first meeting for selection of a chairman and other business. Both Smith and his running mate, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, will attend, and it is generally expected that when that meeting adjourns the strategy of the campaign will have been definitely settled. It is thought Smith will in a large measure dictate this strategy and that the National Committee will function chiefly in devising ways and means rather than in originating plans of battle.

The Governor returned to Albany today after a one-day trip to Delaware to attend the funeral of William Raskob, son of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Finance Committee of General Motors Corporation, a close friend of the Governor.

Tuesday he will come to New York and Wednesday will thrash out with the National Committee details of the campaign, the main fetatures of which his supporters have intimated he already has settled in his own mind.

Whether decisions reached at that meeting will be made public has not been announced, although the Governor's consistent reply since his nomination to questions about his campaign has been that he could not say anything until after the Wednesday conference.

Despite the reticence of the Governor, it has been learned that he will suggest to the committee an eight-week campaign, during which he will deliver not more than two speeches in any one week. He will tell them that he wants the speeches given at strattegic points about the country and that they should all be broadcast on a national radio hookup. Each speech will be different, but all will deal with matters close to the interests of the "common man," little emphasis being laid on foreign relations or matters of complicated finance.

If the National Committee should by any chance think the campaign should continue the charges which filled the keynote speech at the convention, charges of "pillage and privilege" against the Republicans, it is known the Governor will oppose them and insist on what his supporters have called "constructive statesmanship."

He thinks a candidate is like a salesman and can sell his own goods best by telling how good they are instead of how bad he thinks those of a competitor are.

After the meeting Wednesday, tthe Governor will return to Albany where he will prepare his formal acceptance speech in which he has promised to enlarge at length on his position on the eighteenth amendment and the laws enacted to procure its enforcement.

TWO WOMEN AND THREE MEN PLEAD GUILTY IN U. S. COURT

Forgery, Auto Theft and Selling Narcotics Among Offenses for Which Sentence Is Passed.

Two women and three men pleaded guilty to violations of Federal statutes before Federal Judge Faris yesterday and were sentenced to varying terms in prison and jail.

Mrs. Hazel Gracey, 30 years old, was sentenced to a year and a day in prison for forgery. She intercepted and cashed a compensation check mailed last spring to Mrs. Martha Sisk, 1210 North Kingshighway, where both women lived at the time. Mrs. Gracey admitted having served a six-month jail term for passing a worthless check at a department store.

Howard Taft Tull, 20, admitted driving a stolen automibile from St. Louis to Indianapolis last spring in violation of the Dyer act and was sentenced to three months in jail. He explained he had lost his job as usher at a local motion picture theater and took the machine of a fellow-usher to drive to Indianapplis where he was promised a job, intending to return it when in funds. He will be incarcerated in the Mexico, Mo., jail.

William Prosser, 22, was sentenced to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary on a similar charge when it was shown by government counsel that he had been fined $400 in the State courts for carrying concealed weapons two years ago. Prosser was arrested in St. Louis last April after he drove a stolen car here from Evansville, Ind.

Mrs. Daisy Weber was sentenced to 18 months in prison on a charge of selling narcotics. Charles Kelly, 42, who has served two previous terms for violation of the narcotic law, pleaded guilty of sale and possession of narcotics and was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary.

ROCKEFELLER SR., 89 TODAY, HAS GIVEN AWAY $443,832,644

Son's Gifts in Same Time (Since 1910) $60,094,489—Oil Magnate Keeps Birthday and Gives Recipe for Quiet Sleep.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—John D. Rockefeller, who will be 89 years old tomorrow, has not made major gifts to as many institutions as his son, but his total in money is larger by far.

A compilation of the larger gifts of the Rockefellers from 1910 to the present time shows that the father has given $443,832,644 to 10 institutions, and the son $60,094,489 to 42 recipients. These figures do not include gifts to the University of Chicago made before 1910, which amounted to approximately $45,000,000.

Only three of the elder Rockefeller's gifts listed are less than $1,000,000, whereas 22 of the son's 42 are below that amount. No gift of less than $100,000 is included in the compilation.

The contributions of the senior Rockefeller in the period mentioned follow:

Rockefeller Foundation, $182,704,624.

General Education Board, $129,197,960.

Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial, $73,875,457.

Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, $39,904,602.

American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, $5,725,000.

Ministers' and Missionaries' Benefit Board of the Northern Baptist Convention, $5,700,000.

American Baptist Home Mission Society, $5,475,000.

Y. M. C. A. International Committee, $550,000.

Inter-Church World Movement, $500,000.

Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, Cleveland, O., building fund, $200,000.

The largest contribution of John D. Rockefeller Jr. listed in the compilation is $21,000,000 to the International Education Board. Next is $3,500,000 to the New York Public Library, Astor, Lenox and Tilden Foundations. And then follow seven contributions ranging between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 to the Bureau of Social Hygiene, International House, Hampton Tuskegee Institute, Metropolitan Museum of Art, for reconstruction of Rheims Cathedral, reconditioning gardens of Versailles and similar projects, League of Nations library gift and Palestine gift. There are 10 contributions from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, and most of the large ones range between $100,000 and $500,000.

Surrounded by his children and grandchildren, Rockefeller tonight cvelebrated the eighty-ninth anniversary of his birth at his Pocantico Hills estate.

He issued a brief birthday statement, saying that he was in the best of health and telling how he obtained restful sleep.

"I do not permit myself," the statement read, "to look at a timepiece after retiring at night or before rising in the morning, and I find it adds very much to the restfulness of the night's sleep."

FUMIGATING GAS CAUSED DEATH OF A. L. OLIVER

Chemical Analysis Discloses Quantity of Cyanide in Blood of Former U. S. Attorney.

Cyanogen poisoning from fumigating gas was given as the cause of the death Tuesday of Arthur L. Oliver, former United States Attorney and candidate for Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge, in a report to the Coroner by Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, 3514 Lucas avenue, who made a chemical analysis of the viscera. Dr. Gradwohl reported that he found cyanide in marked quantities in the blood which caused Oliver's death.

The Oliver home at 1245 Shawmut place had been fumigated with cyanogen, a gas produced from cyanide. William E. Martin, manager of a fumigating company, went to the Oliver apartment at 3 p. m., Tuesday, to open it for airing and found Oliver's body fully dressed. A rear screen door had been forced open, indicating Oliver had entered by that way.

Mrs. Oliver had gone to visit friends, and Oliver was believed to be at his office. Martin said he warned the family not to enter the apartment until he had aired it and made an inspection.

This was the fourth death from cyanogen fumigatinon in St. Louis since 1920.

30 ST. LOUISANS PAY HONOR TO GEN. STEUBEN AT POTSDAM

Lay Wreath at Monument and Are Guests of Lord Mayor at a Luncheon.

By the Associated Press.

POTSDAM, Germany, July 7.—Thirty members of the St. Louis Steuben Society, led by Vice President Dollefeldt, placed a wreath on the Steuben monument here today.

Dollefeldt, in a brief address, paid tribute to "the valorous General of Frederick the Great, who rendered great service for the establishment of the North American republic."

A. Fuehr, representing the Foreign Office, recalled the battle of Monmouth, where Steuben's system of drilling an army proved its worth and thanked the members of the society for remembering the German General.

After seeing the sights of the city, the visitors were guests at a luncheon given by Lord Mayor Rauscher, who made a brief address, in the course of which he said: "The peace which brought freedom to your people was concluded at Versailles—the peace which led our people into slavery, likewise was concluded at Versailes."

CITY COLD TO BREMEN FLYERS

Koehl and Von Huenefeld to Leave Cologne and Its Receptions.

By the Associated Press.

COLOGNE, Germany, July 7.—So piqued were the Bremen trans-Atlantic flyers, Capt. Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld, with the frigid reception accorded them here on their arrival from Doorn this afternoon, that they announced they would leave early tomorrow for Dortmund without waiting to attend the receptions planned for them later in the day.

One Alderman greeted the flyers officially when they landed at the airdrome here, but the enthusiastic cheers of a large crowd made up in a measure for the lack of official warmth. They had been on a visit to the former Kaiser, and it was thought the scanty notice by the authorities of the flyers' arrival had something to do with resentment in certain circles at their trip to Doorn. A program of some extent had been arranged, but was suddenly abandoned on the alleged ground that the aviators had failed to notify the city officials of the time of their arrival.

SHOWS AT THE GARDEN ARE "OFF FOR GOOD"

Charles Sinclair, Finding No New Angels, Finally Abandons the Enterprise.

It's "on again, off again" with the Garden Theater.

After four weeks of rainy weather had run up a $50,000 loss at the open-air theater on the Olive Street road, the original backer, Earl Thompson and James Powers Jr., withdrew last Sunday night and the final performance of "Up She Goes" was called off.

Charles Sinclair, managing director, and F. D. McDonald Jr., concessionaire, then went after new angels. They thought they were successful Thursday and announced that the season would be resumed tonight with "Lady, Be Good." However, the guarantors who were to put up the necessary $10,000 cash for the week's production, suffered a change of heart and held on to their purse strings.

"The show's off for good," Sinclair announced at noon yesterday. He said no further efforts toward financial reorganization would be made.

The cast of principals, brought here in anticipation of a 10-week season, will disband. The chorus members recruited from among St. Louisans, are singing the blues. They haven't been paid for the last two weeks, and some question has risen as a whether a wage bond posted by the former management protects the chorus.

In Chicago today, Frank R. Dare, spokesman for the Actors' Equity Association, announced that Thompson had personally agreed to pay up chorus claims in full within the next 30 days and that the principals had already been paid their salaries and transportation to New York. The union had required the new management to deposit a $10,000 cash bond in the University City State Bank covering a week's salary for principals and chorus, which the management was unable to do.

GERMANY'S PROTEST AGAINST SOVIET SABOTAGE SENTENCES

Members of Reichstag Sign Document, Regarding the Donetz Trial, Submitted to Moscow.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 7. — A protest against the death sentences and imprisonment imposed by the Soviet courts in the Donetz sabotage trial, has been sent to the Soviet Government. The protest is signed by members of the Reichstag, including Paul Loebe, former Chancellor Wirth and Paul Levi, Communist. It is declared that the execution of the sentences would be contrary to humanity, and that on the evidence submitted it is not clear that the men are guilty.

FIND LESSEE IN BOMBING

Abraham Green Had Bought Furniture for Rooming House.

Police have located Abraham Green, lessee of the upper floor of the Hodiamont building, 1105-17 Hodiamont avenue, which was bombed Wednesday night, but their interview with him puts them no nearer a solution of the mystery.

Green, 62 years old, was found ill in bed at his home, 2929 Dayton street. He said he purchased $3000 worth of furniture and installed it in the building to start a rooming house, but became ill and could not open the place July 1, as he had planned. He carried $3000 insurance on the furniture. He formerly was a coal salesman for 18 years.

SIX SENATE ASPIRANTS ADDRESS G.O.P. WOMEN

Three Candidates, Talking of National Issues, Would Change Dry Laws.

Six candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination addressed the Republican Woman's Club yesterday at the Annex Hotel at a luncheon arranged so they could state in public their positions on matters of national import.

David M. Proctor of Kansas City, unsuccessful contender for the nomination two years ago, declered, with reference to prohibition, that he would not vote for any measure designed to "whittle away" the eighteenth or any other amendment to the Constitution.

As to farm relief, Proctor deceared he thought the farmers needed assistance but added he was convinced the Republican party was "large enough to solve the agricultural problem if it can be solved." Proctor facetiously remarked in discussing the Democratic platform that it stands on prohibiton as adopted at Houston was "not a dry plank but a floating dock."

Roscoe C. Patterson, United States Attorney at Kansas City, made only passing mention to the farm relief problem without committing himself to any measure of relief, or to the necessity for relief. Discussing prohibition he said:

"The Republican National Convention declared for law enforcement and I stand on this platform. As long as the eighteenth amendment is a part of the constitution, it must be enforced. When I take the oath of office I shall keep the Constitution in letter and spirit, and as Senator will vote for no nullification measure."

Nathan Frank of St. Louis said he would revise the eighteenth amendment to give Congress the power to regulate the possession, sale and transportation of beverages.

Bernard P. Bogy of St. Louis declared he thought the prohibition laws in contradiction to the principal of individual rights and an interference with the police powers of the States. Bogy added that he favored farm relief, protective tariff, federal assistance in road building, a strong naval armament, development of the Mississippi waterway and more comprehensive development of the air mail service.

W. O. Atkeson of Butler declared himself in favor of farm relief and prohibition. Henry A. Bundschu of St. Louis declared he favored a modification of the Volstead law.

FIVE-YEAR FIGHT OVER LAKE COAL CARGO ENDS

Railroads Arrive at Compromise, but Announcement of Rates May Start Fresh Dispute.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Coal-carrying railroads which today agreed on a compromise in the lake cargo coal fight have not filed tariff schedules explaining their proposals to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It was said at the office of the commission that in view of the intervention of the courts in the proceeding, a compromise or an attempted compromise among carriers to prevent a rate war was logical. At the same time coal producers have not in any degree settled their differences and the filing of the announced new rates probably will again arouse controversy before the commission.

In the absence of any official statement after the conference, which was held in the office of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania, in New York, it was understood that the Southern carriers, on the basis of the amicable settlement, will advance rates to Lake Erie ports to $1.81 a ton, under an agreement to refund 10 cents a ton on coal transported to destination north of Port Huron, Mich., and Sarnia, Ont.

Another point agreed upon was said to be that the refund clause of the Northern and Southern railroads would terminate Dec. 31, the effect of which would amount to $1.81 a ton from the Kanawha-Thacker region, and a rate of $1.46 from the Pittsburg district.

The apparent settlement will end a five-year contest which has involved large sums of money and an immense soft coal tonnage.

The lake cargo traffic involves shipment of about 25,000,000 tons of coal annually, from which a large revenue accrues to the carriers. The traffic is considered as the most desirable of the coal markets of the United States, enabling the mines to keep in operation in the summer months when demand for coal in other sections of the country naturally is below normal.

TO INSPECT AIR STATIONS

F. Trubee Davison Will Visit Scott Field on Tour.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, reached Dayton, O., today in his airplane piloted by Capt. Ira C. Eaker on his 10-day inspection of air stations in the Middle West and Northwest.

Davison, after inspecting Wright Field at Dayton, will continue to Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., and then to Minneapolis, where he will inspect the National Guard Air Squadron of Minnesota in camp near there. Reserve squadrons of the air corps at Fort Riley, Kan., and Scott Field, Ill., also will be inspected and later the American Legion encampment at Aberdeen, S. D.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

14-DAY GYPSY HIKE PLANNED BY SCOUTS

Boys of Any Rank Eligible to Start Trip Through Ozarks July 19.

A 14-day gypsy hike for the cabin campers at the Irondale Reservation, the official summer camp of the St. Louis Boy Scouts, will be held during the next, or fourth, section of the camp, to furnish the cabin scouts some of the outdoor life led by the Rangers, the expert campers of the reservation. The cabin campers are members of the main Irondale camp, and may be of any rank, while the Rangers are limited to the older and more experienced first-class scouts.

Contrary to usual custom, the cabin gypsy hike will be open to any scout of any rank. The hike will be under the leadership of Field Executive Merle D. Shippey and Morris "Ozzie" Greenwald, morale officer and director of activities at Irondale, assisted by Scoutmasters Charles J. Vogt and Edwin M. Skinner, and Quartermaster Herman Wenzel of the Ranger camp.

The hikers will arrive at Camp Irondale July 19 with the regular fourth section contingent. They will receive hike equipment, and immediately build a camp of their own on the reservation. Thursday and Friday will be spent in short training hikes, and in assembling the camping equipment. The main hike will start Saturday, and will continue each day for the next two weeks through the Ozark country southwest of Irondale. Camp will be made each night at a swimming hole.

The turning point of the trip will be the Indian Trail State Park, where guides will be furnished to take the scouts around to see the herds of deer and other wild animals which range the preserve.

All packs and bedding will be carried on the trip by one of the Irondale prairie schooners, while a truck will carry the kitchen equipment and provisions. The Missouri Pacific Railroad will lend the campers one of its railroad chefs to do the cooking. The scouts therefore will have no work to do except to pitch and break camp each day.

The cost of the entire trip will be $14 a scout. In signing up for the trip, scouts have been requested to specify "Fourth Section Gypsy Hike" instead of mere "Fourth Section," in order not to be assigned to the regular cabin camp. Any scout now signed for the cabin camp is privileged to change to the hike if he prefers to take the trip rather than remain at Irondale.

Corn Belt Meeting Postponed.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 7.—Postponement of the meeting of the Corn Belt Committee at Des Moines from July 9 to July 16 was announced here yesterday. Illness of William Hirth, chairman, and previous engagements of other members of the committee were given as reasons for the postponement. The committee is expected to decide its position with reference to the Republican and Democratic platforms.

TROOP NOTES

North District.

Three scouts passed the Scouts' Pace test at a meeting of Troop 161 at the Webster School last week. Games were also played, and yells practiced. This meeting will be the last held by the troop before next September.

Sixteen members of Troop 40, with Scoutmaster Edwards and Assistant Scoutmaster Michean, spent last week-end at the Lions' Den Scout Reservation at Seckman. Michean was cook and instructor during the camp. Those attending were Scouts Ben Whitlock, Claude Michean, Philip Michean, Robert Lasuse, Claude Eggan, James McComb, Bill Mansfield, Edward Ross, Clarence Hodges, Ellis Hodges, Henry Hinds, Philip Goldenburg, Fred Layentlatt, Allen Griffin, Walter James and William Williams.

Scout Lawrence Schroder has been appointed scribe of Troop 58 of Holy Name Catholic Church. Several new games were introduced at the last meeting.

An interpatrol treasure hunt was held by Troop 88 in Penrose Park after the regular meeting last week, the winning patrol receiving a reward of ice cream. Scout Arnold Saunders was presented with a medal by Troop Committeeman Bull for building the best model tower. A hike was held yesterday.

South District.

A talk on safety and first aid in scouting will be given at the meeting of Troop 217 of the Southampton Presbyterian Church, next Friday evening, by H. D. Livers, safety supervisor of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. As the subject is of general interest, all scouts of the city and county are invited to attend. The church is at Nottingham and Macklind avenues.

Suburban District.

The name of Webster Groves 9 has been changed to Glendale 1. The troop will continue at its present headquarters. Having finished second in the Suburban District Camparall last month, the troop held a camparall of its own to show the parents what the scouts had learned a week ago yesterday. Eight tents, each with a different type of fire built in front, were erected on the grounds of the Henry Hough School in Glendale, and a regular camparall program was carried out. Ice cream and soda were sold also, about $9 being cleared for the troop treasury. The troop delivered telephone books for a good turn during June. Scout Bill Power is now scribe.

Webster Groves 3 is on a hike to Morse's Mill on the Big River this week-end, camp being made on the property of an uncle of Assistant Scoutmaster George Harris. This uncle also recently presented the troop with an old touring car to be used for transportation to the camp site, and has offered the scouts the privilege of remodeling a cabin for troop use Indiana Bank Fails.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLAYPOOL, Ind., July 7. — The State Bank of Claypool, with $120,000 capital, was in the hands of State bank examiners today, who closed it last night following the discovery of what they termed "an apparent cash shortage of $8000 to $10,000." This was the eighteenth Indiana bank to fail since Jan. 1, 1928, and it was the third bank crash in the State this week.

ALL-WEATHER ROAD TO CAMP OF SCOUTS

Four Miles Longer Than Old Way, Which Is Often Cut Off by High Water.

A new all-weather road leading into the Lions' Den Reservation, the official week-end camp of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council near Seckman, Mo., has been opened by the council, according to Field Executive Merle Shippey, in charge of the camp. The new road, leading from the Lemay Ferry road, is four miles longer than the old way, but it obviates the necessity of going through a creek bottom that is easily flooded. Formerly high water often prevented campers from entering or leaving the reservation. The old road will still be used in dry weather.

Now that it is possible always to reach the camp, local headquarters has obtained the names of several truck owners who will haul troops to the reservation. The council will run no regular busses this year, at least, but each troop coming to the Lions' Den must furnish its own transportation. Names of the truck owners may be obtained from headquarters.

Several new shelter halves have been purchased for use in the Lions' Den class A camps, which have proved the most popular types this year. The newest A camp, Camp A-1, which contains a covered kitchen, a covered dining-room, and four open-air shelters, each large enough to accommodate one patrol, has been in use every week-end since the reservation opened. Plans are being made to start the construction of a new quartermasters' building at the camp this week-end, containing the camp office and trading post.

Troops 8, 33, 40, 140 and 3 were in camp last week-end.

TEXAS DEMOCRATS SUMMONED TO PLAN SMITH'S DEFEAT

V. A. Collins of Dallas Calls Meeting of Dry Opponents of Party's Nominee.

DALLAS, Tex., July 7. — The battle in Texas to prevent the election of Gov. Alfred E. Smith as President took definite form today.

V. A. Collins of Dallas, Democratic candidate for the Governorship four years ago and leader of the bone-dry element in the State party, issued a call to all Texas Democrats dissatisfied with the nomination of the New York Governor for a mass meeting here July 17 to formulate plans for carrying the State against Gov. Smith in November.

The statement was signed by several college presidents, a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor on the Democratic ticket and prominent dry political leaders.

GOLF

JOHNNY FARRELL

"The Champion Over Champions"

Without question, the most conspicuous figure in the world of sport today is Johnny Farrell, who astounded fans all over the country by capturing the national open golf championship from the supposedly invincible Bobby Jones and a brilliant field.

How did Farrell score this unexpected triumph? How did he feel when pitted against golf's "miracle man"? What were his thoughts as he found himself forging ahead of his mighty rival?

Farrell will tell all this—himself!

For years before he scored his sensational victory over Bobby Jones in the national open championship, Johnny Farrell has been known as one of the best of all player-writers on the subject of golf.

Now that Farrell has captured the championship by achieving the supposedly impossible feat of stopping Jones, his writings carry added weight.

Farrell will contribute three articles a week—pass out some tips that will help many an amateur—and will write numerous "inside" stories, not only on well-known personalities, but upon the big tournaments scheduled for the season.

RENEWING the SEARCH for the "FLAMING GOD" of the NAVAJOS

Mining Operations Directed Towards Salvaging the Great Arizona Meteorite, Worth $850,000,000, Again Under Way.

By GUY FORSHEY

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IN A DESERT plain of Arizona, between Flagstaff and Winslow, a mining company has set up its camp in the sage brush and is renewing the search for the "flaming god" of the Navajos. Somewhere below the south rim of the gigantic Meteor Crater, it is expected, the great Arizona meteorite or comet head will be found where for more than 700 years it has lain buried 1500 feet deep in solid rock. Operations in the past have consisted chiefly of drilling in an effort to locate the precise resting place of the body. With that satisfactorily accomplished, the task now is to sink a mine shaft nearby to a point even with the top of the meteorite and to tunnel horizontally from that point into the enormous mass of iron and nickel which awaits a claimant. No less than 10,000,000 tons of metal, it is estimated, fell to earth with that terrific projectile. As samples taken have assayed about $85 a ton, it means that the Meteor Exploration and Mining Company is now digging for a fortune of something like $850,000,000.

Since about 1903 the mystery of Meteor Crater has caught the imagination of both scientists and tourists. It presents an appalling spectacle. Approaching over a plain as flat as a table, the traveler sees first what appears to be a hill that rises about 100 feet above the surrounding plain. Climbing the slope, he encounters increasingly numerous fragments of nickel-iron shale and great boulders of sandstone and limestone. Not until he reaches the summit of the elevation does he discern the real character of the "hill." No matter how well he knows what awaits him, his reaction then is one of astonishment and awe.

He looks into and across a vast bowl, more than 500 feet deep and nearly a mile wide. The walls drop away precipitously to a floor covered with rock debris and sage. Somewhere below that floor, under a thousand feet of rock dust and pulverized sandstone, lies the meteor. How long it has been there and what awful catastrophe attended its coming are matters which must be left mostly to speculation. The deafening roar of the approaching monster, the thunderous impact, the shower of flaming fragments, the blistering heat and the shock that must have shaken the entire Southwest like an earthquake—all these things can be but faintly imagined.

FOR many centuries back—nobody knows how many—the Indians have passed down a legend of the crater's origin. It is the grave, they say, of a tribal god who was ousted from his celestial council seat and tumbled from the heavens robed in fire, burying himself under the desert sands. They tell of the fallen god's hot breath, which burned up the vegetation for miles around; of the hissing, roaring sound, heard for several moments before the crash, and of the blazing, many-colored lights which made the night as bright as day. But the Navajos can't say how long ago it happened. Tribal memory is usually hazy about the age of legends.

Science has been but little more successful in fixing the probable date. It has arrived only at two more or less definite limits between which the crash probably occurred. A gnarled and ancient cedar tree growing on the rim of the crater was found, when cut, to have 700 rings. Since the tree could not have been growing there prior to the meteor's fall, the fall must have occurred more than 700 years ago. On the other hand, a study of radio-activity of the rocks indicates it must have occurred less than 5000 years ago. Between these dates, therefore, the actual date of the projectile's arrival must lie.

IT IS only in the last 30 years that science has made serious effort to locate the meteor. Indeed, there existed at first a great deal of doubt that a meteor had caused the vast depression anyway. Some attributed the crater to volcanic activity. They regarded the meteor theory as a bit too sensational. The mere thought of a celestial body as large as half a dozen good-sized office buildings burying itself in solid rock seemed preposterous. But investigators soon disposed of the volcanic explanation. There were too many evidences in favor of the meteor theory.

In the first place there was the "fallen god" legend of the Navajos and the further fact that the Indians, usually indifferent to volcanic craters, attached supernatural significance to this one. For centuries they have regarded the pit with reverential awe and refused to carry away or make use of the surrounding iron fragments.

In the second place there was the presence of the iron and nickel fragments themselves, dotting the plain round about and becoming more numerous near the bowl. These fragments were precisely the same as meteorites found elsewhere and the significant fact was that in the region of the crater more of them were found than have been found in all the rest of the world. The center of a swarm of meteorites seemed to coincide with the center of the bowl.

There was other evidence in the characteristics of the pit. The rocks in the region were disturbed not as from an upheaval from below, but as from the impact of a terrific falling body. Except where thrown out of their original position by the meteorite, the sedimentary rocks lie in horizontal beds. At the surface of the plain is limestone, known to geologists as the Kaibab limestone. This bed is about 250 feet thick. Below the limestone is about 1000 feet of white, soft sandstone, known as the Coconino formation, and below this an indeterminate thickness of hard, red sandstone, called the Supai formation, or, more commonly, the "Red Beds." Lying level except near the crater, these beds, at the rim, are cracked and shattered and raised up so as to slope away from the pit in all directions. The rocks which once lay in the area where the hole is now have been crushed into powder or hurled in fragments larger than a house outside the bowl. They now lie scattered over the plain. Much of the debris has fallen back into the pit, partly filling it and burying deeply the main body of the meteorite. The intimate mixture of this excavated material and the smaller meteorites make it apparent that they got there at the same time.

Convinced by this preponderance of evidence that a giant meteor had caused the disturbance, science then set to work to locate the projectile itself. In this they encountered more difficulty than might at first seem probable. Because the crater was circular, they reasoned that the falling body must have come straight down, and therefore must be directly below the center of the hole. In this supposition they were in error, as subsequent exploration disclosed.

THEY first started to sink a shaft in the center of the bowl, expecting to dig down to the "Red Beds," 1300 feet below the level of the plain, and then tunnel radially in all directions. They knew the meteor could not be deeper than this because no fragments of the "Red Beds" had been thrown out. This venture, however, was doomed to early failure. Owing to accumulation of rain—scanty though it is in that region—the rock dust, ground so fine that 55 per cent of it will pass through a 200-mesh screen, had been converted into quicksand. It was impossible to sink a shaft through it.

Drilling was the next device undertaken. Still supposing the meteor mass to be directly below, the explorers sent drills down to a depth of 800 feet, passing through rock dust, quicksand and then unstratified fragments of limestone and sandstone, representing debris which had fallen back into the pit. Finally they reached the undisturbed "Red Beds" and still there was no sign of a meteorite. The drillers were puzzled. What could have become of a missile great enough to make a hole four-fifths of a mile in diameter in solid rock?

There were only three possible solutions. Either the meteorite had rebounded out of the hole and gone on its way, or it had been vaporized by the impact, or it had neither rebounded nor vaporized and was still in the hole.

THE first of these explanations was disposed of at once. The crater was circular. Had the meteorite struck a glancing blow and rebounded, it would have left not a circular crater but a trough. And having spent so much of its force, it would not have traveled far from the point of its first impact. The evidence that it had not rebounded out of the hole was conclusive. What about the theory of vaporization?

To have formed such a vast crater in solid rock, the falling body must have been of enormous bulk. At the least, it must have comprised millions of tons of iron, perhaps ten millions. Now, 10,000,000 tons of iron, if volatilized and converted into iron oxide, it is estimated, could spread a red insoluble coating over many hundred square miles of surface. D. Moreau Barringer Jr., in a series of articles in the Scientific American, estimates that had the meteor vaporized, the oxide coating would have been possibly two feet thick over an area of two miles square around the crater.

No such coating was found. Indeed, there was no coating of oxide whatsoever. The rocks were found to be white and free from iron. Only in the crater and around the rim was found evidence of fusion. In the debris a great number of small specks of oxidized meteoric iron were encountered. These, Barringer says, possibly were sparks thrown by the advancing body. There were also dark and yellowish stains here and there on the fragments of sandstone in the crater. Some of the sandstone was metamorphosed and had a glassy appearance. But all of this was in the area where the friction and resultant heat had been most intense. It was not evidence that the entire body had vaporized.

THEN there was but one explanation left. The meteor was still in the hole. Drilling operations were resumed, but over and over the same mistake was made. The explorers drilled in the bottom of the pit. No less than seven holes were put down and invariably the drill encountered undisturbed sandstone beds at depths ranging from 600 to 800 feet. Finally, funds were exhausted and the attempt given up for the time being. That was in 1908. The work to that point had been ineffective but not entirely in vain. Three main facts had been determined, namely, that the meteor was not in the center of the hole; that a shaft could not be sunk in the pit, even when the meteor should be located, because of quicksand; that the "Red Beds" lay at a depth of 1300 feet and that the meteor had not gone deeper than these.

It was not until 1920 that further attempts were made to locate the meteor by means of drills, but in the meantime D. M. Barringer Sr., who had directed the previous drilling operations, made an intensive study of the crater and did a bit of experimenting. Largely by accident one day he discovered that by firing a rifle ball into mud he could make a replica of the crater in miniature. He found also that in order to make a circular crater it was not necessary to fire the shot straight down. He could fire it from an angle less than 45 degrees from the horizontal and still produce a hole as round as though the bullet had gone straight down, but, of course, the bullet would lodge under one edge instead of in the center. He applied that discovery to his study of the meteor crater.

Upon close examination now he observed that the south wall of the bowl was steeper than the others; that, while on the other sides the strata had been tilted upward at an angle of 60 degrees or more, a section of some

BELLE LIVINGSTONE, the little Kansas girl whose shapely legs were the toast of New York 30 years ago, and who has since become famous in the capitals and resorts of Europe for her gay and reckless Bohemianism, is back in New York again, mistress of a smart salon, playing the role of queen to a fashionable circle of wits, artists and society folk, a sort of Madame de Stael of modern Manhattan. After an absence of three decades from the Broadway that knew her name as a synonym for gaiety, she quietly returned a few months ago from her gypsy wanderings in Europe and the Orient.

Accompanied only by a maid who has been her constant companion for years, she made her re-entry with all the dignity and quiet that one expects of a grand dame in her fifties. She found New York changed, but many of her playmates of the gay Nineties still retained traces of their former ardor, for she soon found herself surrounded by a group of old admirers, men who now occupy positions of sober respectability in society, but whose youthful doings were the subject of more than one lively newspaper article. When these old flames learned that Belle Livingstone was in town they lost no time in making their calls. They found her older, to be sure, and with the added sophistication of a wide European background, but the old gaiety and joy in living were still there and soon her hotel suite became the daily rendezvous of these admirers.

IT IS an unwritten law of the stage that no leading lady, nor, indeed, any other female principal of a show company shall associate with a chorus man. The chorus man, in theatrical circles, is regarded as a very low form of life, something like a lichen or a sponge. He is expected to associate only with himself and his lowly fellows. Even chorus girls, who are not such high forms of life themselves, disdain to be seen off the stage with chorus men. As for a leading lady falling in love with a "gentleman of the ensemble," that is as unthinkable as for the banker's wife to fall for the ice man, and probably it is done less frequently.

Rosalie Claire broke that unwritten rule. Rosalie Claire, the beautiful and brilliant young comedienne of "Sunny Days," playing here, fell in love with a chorus man of her company. It cost Rosalie her life.

Of course, the unwritten law against hobnobbing with chorus men doesn't provide the death penalty for its violation. It may even have been written in the stars that, regardless of the course of her affections or the social status of her companions, Rosalie Claire should die when she did. But stage folk are superstitious. You can't tell them that Miss Claire and Audrey Maple weren't riding for a fall—and a tragic one—when they set out one night recently to visit a Negro cabaret with two chorus men. Anyway, whether the chorus men had anything to do with it or not, there was an automobile accident on the return from that all-night cabaret party. Miss Claire was almost instantly killed when their machine, driven by the Negro proprietor of the cabaret, crashed into a concrete light pole.

She was not the only casualty. Audrey Maple, who is another well-known actress featured with the same show, was badly injured and had to spend several days in a hospital. The two young men of the chorus, William Tasek and Herbert Carnegie, suffered only slight injuries and were able to rejoin the show in a few days, but Julian Black, the driver, was laid up for extensive repairs.

To the theatrical world the shock of Rosalie Claire's death was severe, but at that it was only contributory to the greater shock caused by the revelation that she, a leading lady, and a popular one, had "fallen" for a chorus man and was openly going about with him. That Miss Maple had been out with one didn't cause so much surprise, although she had been starred in musical comedy for several years. She had figured in so many newspaper reports of love affairs that a chorus man or two in the string didn't make much difference. Just a few days previously she had filed suit for divorce from George E. Griffiths of New York, to whom she had been married for 12 years, and Tasek was merely one of several casual boy friends.

It had been rumored that Miss Claire also was about to seek a divorce from her second husband, Jack Oppenheim, a New York stock broker. Whether that was true or not, it was learned after the accident that Herbert Carnegie was not merely a casual companion. They had been going about together for some time and conducting an ardent love affair.

The two young women had been sharing a suite at the Congress Hotel during the local engagement of "Sunny Days." After a recent Saturday night performance at the Four Cohans Theater, they went to their apartment at the Congress accompanied by Carnegie and Tasek. The four sat about chatting until about 2 p. m., when everybody got hungry.

ROSALIE suggested a trip to the Apex Club, a "black and tan" resort popular for its chicken dinners, served at all hours of the night. Miss Claire had been there often and was slightly acquainted with Black, the owner. So to the Apex Club the foursome went. There was a lot of gaiety and they remained until after 5 in the morning, eating and dancing.

There was nothing particularly objectionable about the party going to the "black and tan" resort. Such places are patronized by the "best people" of Chicago. The owners, entertainers and employes are all Negroes, but the customers are almost exclusively white. There are scores of such places in Chicago and "everybody" goes to them.

And there was nothing highly improper about theatrical folk being abroad at 5 o'clock in the morning. They don't finish their day's work until past midnight and 5 a. m. is as conservative an hour for retiring as 9 o'clock is for people who work in the daytime, if they take their recreation after working hours, as most people do.

But what caused consternation along Chicago's Rialto was the disclosure that the two featured actresses had visited the "club" in company with two chorus men. This is what happened afterwards.

When the four troupers left the Apex they were unable to get a taxicab. They waited many minutes in vain. Finally, after closing his place for the day, Black discovered them waiting outside for the elusive taxi. He volunteered to drive them back to the Congress, and they gratefully accepted.

Black took the wheel, with the two couples in the back seat. Tasek, the only one of the entire party able to testify at the inquest into Miss Claire's death, said he and Miss Maple were sitting together and that Miss Claire was sitting on Carnegie's lap.

BLACK drove from the South Side to the vicinity of the loop at high speed, taking the new Outer Drive along the lake shore. The drive was virtually deserted at that hour of the morning and he was "stepping on it." When he reached Jackson boulevard he attempted to turn west, but turned too short. The car skidded, crashed into one of the new ornamental concrete light poles and turned over. It was completely wrecked.

Miss Claire was unconscious and Miss Maple, badly hurt, was screaming with pain when help arrived and took the five victims to a hospital. Miss Claire died without recovering consciousness. Even had she lived, her stage career would have been over, for she would have borne disfiguring marks for life.

Only a few days before she had given notice to the "Sunny Days" management and was preparing to depart for New York to be starred in a new musical comedy on Broadway. The party at the Congress and later at the Apex Club was somewhat in the nature of a farewell festivity. Nobody suspected just what a grim farewell it was to be.

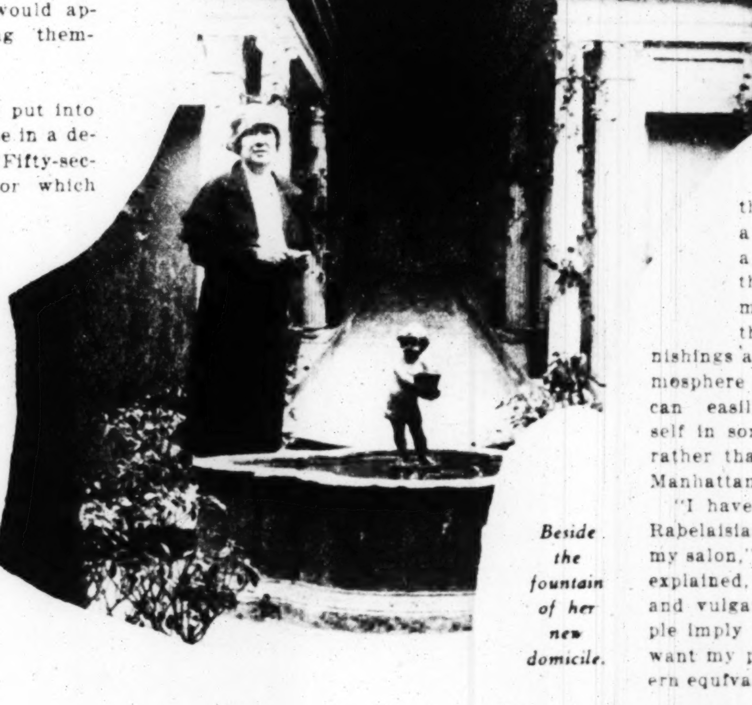
BELLE LIVINGSTONE, the little Kansas girl whose shapely legs were the toast of New York 30 years ago, and who has since become famous in the capitals and resorts of Europe for her gay and reckless Bohemianism, is back in New York again, mistress of a smart salon, playing the role of queen to a fashionable circle of wits, artists and society folk, a sort of Madame de Stael of modern Manhattan. After an absence of three decades from the Broadway that knew her name as a synonym for gaiety, she quietly returned a few months ago from her gypsy wanderings in Europe and the Orient.

Accompanied only by a maid who has been her constant companion for years, she made her re-entry with all the dignity and quiet that one expects of a grand dame in her fifties. She found New York changed, but many of her playmates of the gay Nineties still retained traces of their former ardor, for she soon found herself surrounded by a group of old admirers, men who now occupy positions of sober respectability in society, but whose youthful doings were the subject of more than one lively newspaper article. When these old flames learned that Belle Livingstone was in town they lost no time in making their calls. They found her older, to be sure, and with the added sophistication of a wide European background, but the old gaiety and joy in living were still there and soon her hotel suite became the daily rendezvous of these admirers.

Old friends brought other friends, and soon the little circle was widened to include writers and artists and actors and actresses, so that she found herself the mistress of a salon of no little distinction. Her little parties increased in frequency and expensiveness, until it became apparent that their magnitude would soon be beyond the compass of her modest income. Then it was that some of these old flames came to the rescue with a brilliant plan. Why not obtain a more suitable rendezvous, a house where Belle Livingstone could more elegantly be the mistress of her smart salon, and where these friends could drop in for tea or dinner or for an evening of music or conversation? To make the plan practical, the friends would apportion the expense among themselves.

THE plan was promptly put into execution. A fine house in a desirable block on East Fifty-second street was obtained—for which the rent alone is $2000 a month. A good chef, servants and a butler were engaged. The house was decorated in the Italian manner. It is filled with rare pieces of antique furniture. Oriental rugs cover the polished floors and the walls are adorned with century-old brocades and more modern murals. From the balcony which overlooks the long, two-story living room one looks through the French doors into a yard paved with flagstones and lined with flower beds, from the center of which a fountain bubbles and sparkles through the summer days. Among the Old World furnishings and in the quiet atmosphere of the place one can easily imagine one's self in some European villa rather than in the heart of Manhattan.



Beside the fountain of her new domicile.

"I have tried to create a Rabelaisian atmosphere for my salon," Belle Livingstone explained, "not in the crude and vulgar sense most people imply with that word. I want my place to be a modern equivalent of the old Abbaye Theleme, where the motto was 'Do as you please'—an entirely safe rule among cultured and artstic people."

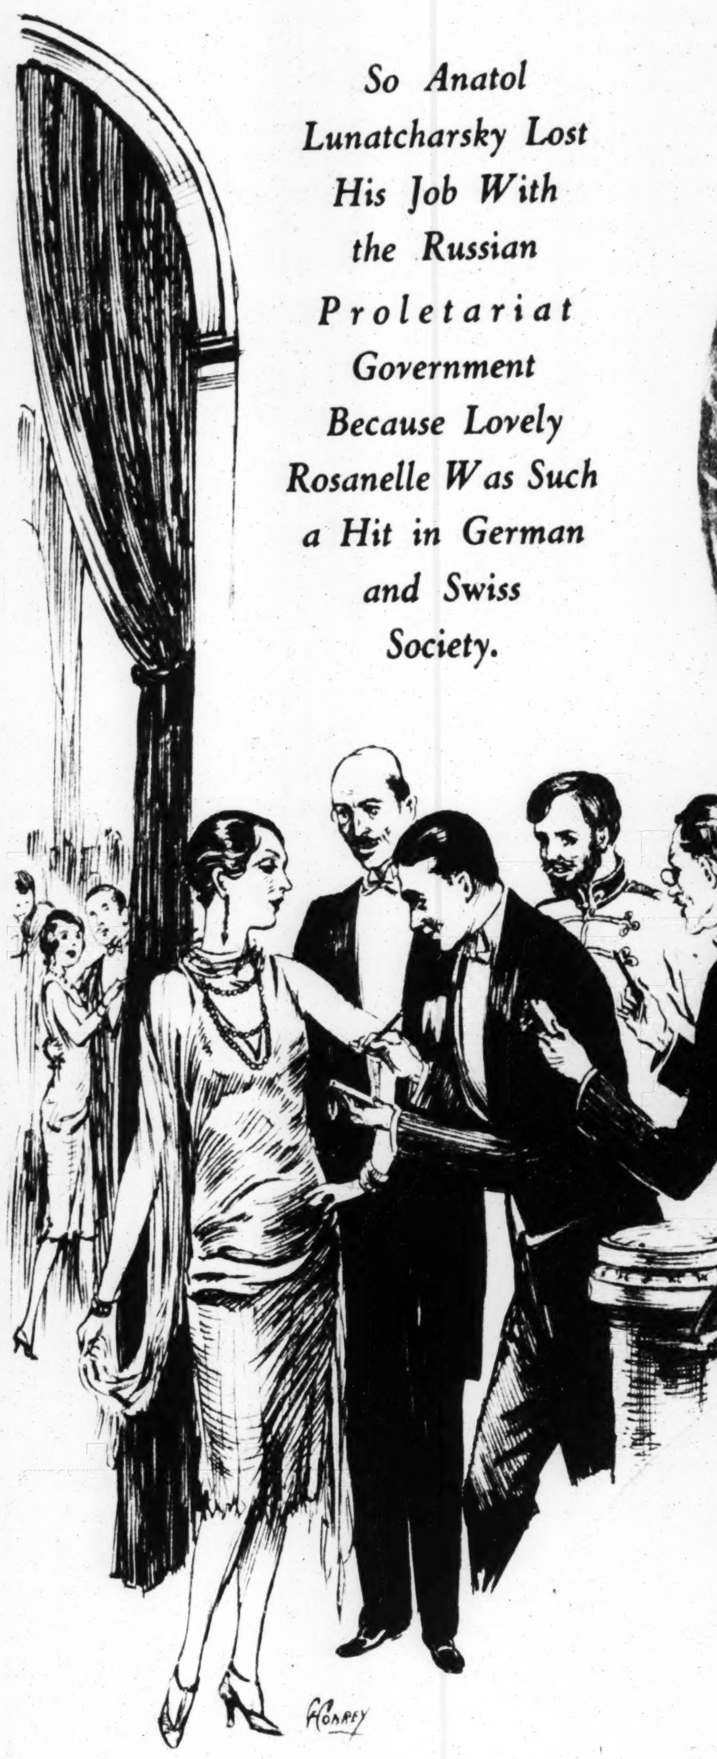
The salon in some respects has certain features usual to the more exclusive private clubs. Those who belong pay an initial fee of $200 and subsequent fees are more or less dependent on the parties to which a member is the host, for it is not an uncommon practice for one of the "members" to call up and say that he is going to bring three or four friends for dinner. The membership, however, is far from being open to the public. One must be invited to join, and there are other requirements than mere wealth. Several persons with little more than their money to recommend them have been refused admittance. The purpose is to maintain an intimate Bohemian atmosphere, with little formality, where members of the exclusive circle can feel perfectly at home and always find congenial company.

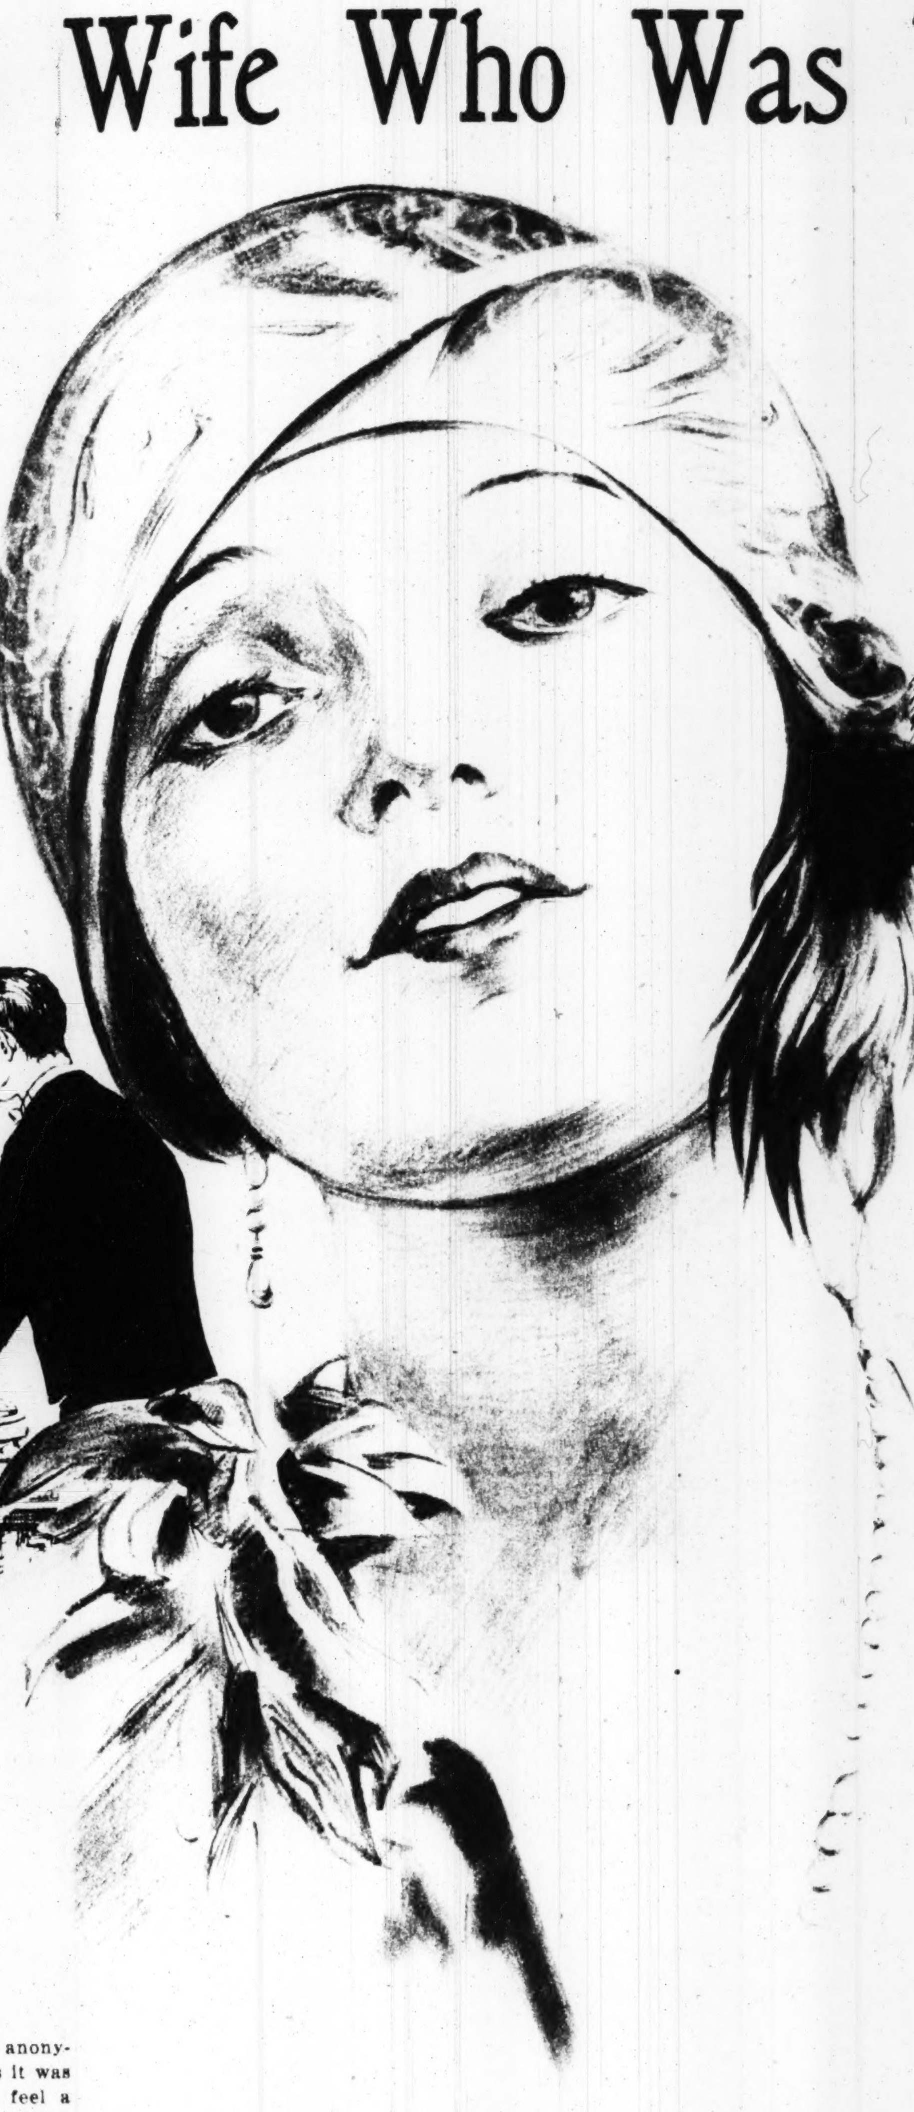
THE salon is in no sense of the word a glorified speakeasy. It grew out of the need which Belle Livingstone's friends felt for a friendly meeting place, freed from the promiscuity of night clubs and public restaurants, where congenial spirits could congregate for a bit of supper, a tea or a few hours of talk. The plan is working admirably, and the reason for the success may be judged from the kind of people with whom Belle Livingstone has surrounded herself. Henry L. Mencken and Theodore Dreiser may be seen there of an evening, smoking their Havana cigars and earnestly discussing the American scene. Ray Long, the editor; Ring Lardner and Claire Briggs, the cartoonist, may be found listening to Belle Livingstone tell of one of her amusing European adventures. Texas Guinan, the cabaret queen, occasionally drops in for an hour or two, and one of the Vanderbilts and Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken lend their social prestige to some of the gatherings.

And the girl from Kansas rules, in a small way, once again in New York.

Soviet Envoy's Wife Who Was TOO Fascinating

So Anatol Lunatcharsky Lost His Job With the Russian Proletariat Government Because Lovely Rosanelle Was Such a Hit in German and Swiss Society.





Rosanelle Lunatcharsky.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

GENEVA.

IF THE brilliant career of Anatol Lunatcharsky, statesman and diplomat of soviet Russia, has come to an abrupt end — and there can be no doubt this is what has happened—he may justly blame his wife for the dramatic turn in his fortunes.

Not that Mme. Lunatcharsky interfered in any way with her husband's official duties, or failed to acquit herself with dignity in the social sphere. On the contrary, Mme. Lunatcharsky is known in international diplomatic circles as a most charming hostess, a "grande dame," in short, and an ideal wife for a diplomat.

And yet these very qualities of the beautiful Rosanelle Lunatcharsky wrecked the career of her husband, provoked a furious political battle within and without the borders of soviet Russia, and were the cause of an incident perhaps unprecedented in the history of diplomacy.

Only a year ago, both M. Lunatcharsky and his wife held influential positions in Red Russia, and nobody would have thought it possible that within a twelvemonth they would be fallen idols, and regarded as enemies of the revolution.

M. LUNATCHARSKY was one of the intimates of Lenin, and played an important role in the communistic organization. As Commissar for Cultural Affairs he was an influential member of the Government; as a leader of the revolutionary art and theater his name was widely known.

Less celebrated but not less gifted was his wife, the beautiful Rosanelle. Before her marriage to M. Lunatcharsky she had been a movie actress, and when her husband became the Czar of Russian art she advanced rapidly in her profession. Unfortunately, this success was of a more or less impersonal character. True to the political ideals of communism, the Russian film studios turned out pictures without stars, and however brilliant Rosanelle might have been on the screen, she played now under a forced anonymity. Under such circumstances it was natural that Rosanelle should feel a bit envious when she read about the life of movie stars in foreign countries and dreamed of having her name advertised in large letters before the theaters. Nevertheless, for a time she found compensation in her marital happiness, which was not disturbed by thwarted personal ambition.

ABOUT a year ago the situation of M. Lunatcharsky and his wife underwent a radical change. The Commissar for Cultural Affairs was intrusted with a very important diplomatic mission, which forced him to relinquish his work in Moscow and to leave Russia for a considerable period of time. So M. Lunatcharsky came to Geneva and brought his wife with him.

The advent of Mme. Lunatcharsky in Geneva caused quite a flurry among the assembled representatives of international diplomacy. If they had expected to find in the wife of Red Russia's envoy a revolutionist of proletarian aspect, they experienced the shock of their lives when they first saw her at a social function. Rosanelle had a proper idea of what she owed her husband's rank and position, and she fulfilled the role of grande dame to perfection. She appeared in a gown made by the most modish Paris designer. Her fur coat was valued in thousands of dollars.

Her shapely neck was adorned with a circlet of pearls worth a fortune, and her head crowned with a diadem wrought of those precious Orlez stones that cannot be found anywhere but in the Ural Mountains. Rosanelle, in fact, was a living picture, the embodied ideal of a woman born to be feted and adored. Her conquest was instantaneous. She became the sensation of Geneva. The newspapers featured her portrait, with descriptions of her gowns, furs and jewels.

The whirlwind success of his wife was anything but pleasing to M. Lunatcharsky. The bolshevists of Switzerland were bewildered to see the wife of a soviet statesman clad like a Princess, and back home in Moscow the members of the Government frowned when they read the reports of the luxury with which the resplendent Rosanelle surrounded herself.

M. Lunatcharsky made a few ineffective attempts to persuade his wife to represent Red Russia in a less regal manner. But try to induce a beautiful woman to wear a coat of frieze when she can dress in the latest creations of Paris!

Rosanelle continued to dazzle Geneva society with her modish gowns, sable coats and ermine stoles. The only thing M. Lunatcharsky could do about it was to issue an unofficial statement fo the effect that neither the jewels nor the furs worn by his wife were genuine. But the wives and daughters of the Geneva diplomats knew enough of these things to flatly contradict the statement.

As for Rosanelle, she had a glorious time in Geneva, and when her husband prepared to return to Moscow she declared she was not ready to accompany him. At last she had a chance to see the world outside of Russia, to really enjoy life, so why shouldn't she stay a while longer in Western Europe? Moreover, she had long desired to study the German method of cinema production, and here was her opportunity to go to Berlin and look around the studios. She could make good use of her experiences in Russia when she returned to her work.

M. Lunatcharsky finally consented. He went home alone, and Rosanelle duly appeared in Berlin.

There is a strong communistic party in Berlin, and some of its leaders are women. Not very young nor very beautiful women. Women who really do go about in frieze cloth, and who expect every sister communist to wear the dismal garb of the proletarian. These formidable female politicians saw Rosanelle in her Paris gowns, her costly furs and jewels. They observed that Rosanelle did not go to live in the slums but took the most expensive suite in the most luxurious hotel. They knew that Rosanelle did not attend bolshevist meetings but accepted invitations to palaces in the fashionable Tiergarten Viertel, where the plutocrats gave their parties. They also learned that Rosanelle met members of the exiled aristocracy, who recognized some of her jewels as the former property of the Romanoff dynasty. And they read about Rosanelle's contract with a German moving picture concern, which was to give her a special role and set in motion its whole publicity machinery in the interest of the new star.

This was too much for the German communists, and particularly for those female bolshevist leaders who had no jewels, no fur coats, were not starred in the movies, and, worst of all, had long passed that age which poets call the springtime of life.

The first of these indignant ladies to attack Rosanelle was Mrs. Ruth Fischer, leader of the radical communists in Germany. She published a series of articles describing the uncommunistic behavior of Mme. Lunatcharsky, and suggesting that the Russian be excommunicated from the party.

ROSANELLE read these furious onslaughts and smiled. What did she care about old Mrs. Ruth Fischer? Then Mrs. Fischer attacked Comrade Stalin himself.

Meanwhile, the picture in which Rosanelle was starred had a sweeping success, and the actress received offers from movie companies all over the world. In the intoxication of her triumph she forgot everything, and ceased to concern herself with bolshevism, communism, Moscow and revolution. Absorbed in her own career, she lived as a reigning movie star was entitled to live. She went to balls, soirees, mingled with fashionable people, arranged gorgeous receptions. All this extended her sojourn in Berlin.

Such was the state of affairs when a new attack was launched against the fair Rosanelle, an attack more portentous than that of old Mrs. Ruth Fischer. The official organ of the German Communist party, the Rote Fahne, published a severe criticism of Mme. Lunatcharsky's conduct in Berlin. The paper is controlled by the soviet Government itself, and it would not have dared to attack so important a personage as the wife of Lunatcharsky without sanction by the Russian Government.

The attacks created a sensation and their immediate result was that M. Krestinski, the Russian Ambassador in Berlin, suggested to Rosanelle that she should leave Germany within three days. M. Krestinski, however, realized very soon that suggestions were of no avail in this case. Rosanelle declared that she would not think of returning to Moscow, but proposed to sue the Rote Fahne for criminal libel. As for Krestinski, she suggested that he should not visit her again unless he was eager to be thrown out by the servants.

FOR three days it looked as if Rosanelle were victorious in her battle with the German communists. The Rote Fahne ceased its attacks, M. Krestinski kept under cover and Rosanelle continued to wear her jewels and to revel in gay Berlin society.

On the fourth day she received a telegram from Moscow. It was sent by the soviet Government. It was a very short message, a few words only. But it was strictly to the point, like a death sentence. After reading it, Rosanelle threw herself on her bed, sobbed like a child, and made her preparations to quit Berlin.

Next day she departed, and the Rote Fahne published a brief official statement to the effect that Mme. Lunatcharsky had been ordered by the soviet Government to return to Russia.

The radiant Rosanelle is at present in Moscow. Her husband is no longer People's Commissar, nor did he receive another appointment. Well informed people say he is "politically dead." Rosanelle has not been announced to appear in any new motion picture. Doubtless her expensive gowns and jewels are in storage. The German movie concern for which she worked, however, says that, while no communication has been received from Mme. Lunatcharsky, she is expected back in Berlin before long, regardless of whether or not M. Lunatcharsky will be able to accompany her.

Typical home and family circle of a Russian peasant.

Diagram showing how, it is proposed, a rocket plane would travel from Berlin to New York.

Plane Glides to Earth
NEW YORK

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BERLIN.

BY AIR to New York in less than an hour—that is the promise held out by Fritz von Opel, German airplane and automobile manufacturer, and Prof. Max Valier, Munich inventor of the rocket motor.

The rocket airplane met the first secret test successfully the other day, near Hanau, in the Rhoen Mountains. And while the details of construction of the machine that embodies the principles of both the light airplane and the rocket are carefully guarded, the inventor and designer have indicated the method by which they hope virtually to abolish space, in our ordinary concept of the term, and reduce Jules Verne's "Around the World in Eighty Days" to the status of a leisurely tourist's junket. Von Opel speaks of circling the globe in 12 hours, and he is neither a visionary nor a crank, but a rather hard-headed scientist and manufacturer.

Prof. Valier had done a great deal of research work on the use of powder rockets as the propelling power for motors. But his theories were generally held in contempt by practical scientists as well as manufacturers. Young Von Opel, junior partner in the Opel Motor Car Company, heard of his work, became convinced of the possibilities implied in the rocket motor and decided to give it a trial.

The rocket motor was first installed, as is now well known, in a light racing car and its success was phenomenal. With its constructor, Engineer K. C. Volkhart, at the wheel, it attained a speed of 103 miles an hour in the first 10 seconds and was at one time during the test going at 130 miles an hour. In secret, driverless tests it went 430 miles an hour, according to Von Opel.

FROM the first Valier and Von Opel have emphasized the fact that they were not interested in the rocket motor in connection with the automobile. They have no desire to revolutionize the motor industry, they say, even if this were possible. They developed the rocket racing car purely as an experiment, which, they hope, will ultimately lead to the perfection of the rocket airplane.

They talk quite seriously of reducing the time from Berlin to New York to an hour. A kind of terrific commuter's journey in the course of which one might leave Berlin in the morning, lunch in New York and return to Berlin in time for dinner and the opera. They have an experimental and developmental program that approaches this goal logically, step by step.

The initial test of the rocket plane has already been made, and successfully. It flew up in an arc of some 1000 feet and landed easily. This is a miniature parallel of the success they hope to have on a great scale.

Prof. Valier has reduced his theories to practical figures, from which he concludes the trip to New York could be made in an hour, perhaps a little less, perhaps a little more. After all, no one would be likely to squabble over a matter of minutes on such a journey.

At the beginning of such a trip, Prof. Valier says, the rocket airplane would have to contend with the resistance of the atmosphere, and therefore could be aided in its initial progress by a pair of propellers.

Shooting up into the air at an angle of 70 degrees, however, the rocket airplane would reach a height of nine miles in less than a minute. At this height the atmosphere would be so rarefied that it would make the propellers practically worthless as a means of pulling the airplane along and the ship would have to depend entirely for its further progress on the series of explosions of rockets in this peculiar motor.

The extremely thin air—above winds and fog—would relieve the plane of so much resistance that it particularly for those female bolshevist leaders who had no jewels, no fur coats, were not starred in the movies, and, worst of all, had long passed that age which poets call the springtime of life.

The first of these indignant ladies to attack Rosanelle was Mrs. Ruth Fischer, leader of the radical communists in Germany. She published a series of articles describing the uncommunistic behavior of Mme. Lunatcharsky, and suggesting that the Russian be excommunicated from the party.

ROSANELLE read these furious onslaughts and smiled. What did she care about old Mrs. Ruth Fischer? Then Mrs. Fischer attacked Comrade Stalin himself.

Meanwhile, the picture in which Rosanelle was starred had a sweeping success, and the actress received offers from movie companies all over the world. In the intoxication of her triumph she forgot everything, and ceased to concern herself with bolshevism, communism, Moscow and revolution. Absorbed in her own career, she lived as a reigning movie star was entitled to live. She went to balls, soirees, mingled with fashionable people, arranged gorgeous receptions. All this extended her sojourn in Berlin.

Such was the state of affairs when a new attack was launched against the fair Rosanelle, an attack more portentous than that of old Mrs. Ruth Fischer. The official organ of the German Communist party, the Rote Fahne, published a severe criticism of Mme. Lunatcharsky's conduct in Berlin. The paper is controlled by the soviet Government itself, and it would not have dared to attack so important a personage as the wife of Lunatcharsky without sanction by the Russian Government.

The attacks created a sensation and their immediate result was that M. Krestinski, the Russian Ambassador in Berlin, suggested to Rosanelle that she should leave Germany within three days. M. Krestinski, however, realized very soon that suggestions were of no avail in this case. Rosanelle declared that she would not think of returning to Moscow, but proposed to sue the Rote Fahne for criminal libel. As for Krestinski, she suggested that he should not visit her again unless he was eager to be thrown out by the servants.

FOR three days it looked as if Rosanelle were victorious in her battle with the German communists. The Rote Fahne ceased its attacks, M. Krestinski kept under cover and Rosanelle continued to wear her jewels and to revel in gay Berlin society.

On the fourth day she received a telegram from Moscow. It was sent by the soviet Government. It was a very short message, a few words only. But it was strictly to the point, like a death sentence. After reading it, Rosanelle threw herself on her bed, sobbed like a child, and made her preparations to quit Berlin.

Next day she departed, and the Rote Fahne published a brief official statement to the effect that Mme. Lunatcharsky had been ordered by the soviet Government to return to Russia.

The radiant Rosanelle is at present in Moscow. Her husband is no longer People's Commissar, nor did he receive another appointment. Well informed people say he is "politically dead." Rosanelle has not been announced to appear in any new motion picture. Doubtless her expensive gowns and jewels are in storage. The German movie concern for which she worked, however, says that, while no communication has been received from Mme. Lunatcharsky, she is expected back in Berlin before long, regardless of whether or not M. Lunatcharsky will be able to accompany her.

BERLIN to NEW YORK

In ONE HOUR by ROCKET PLANE

Having Already Made Short Experimental Flights With That Type of Motor, Inventors Believe All That Remains is to Work Out Details.

BERLIN.

BY AIR to New York in less than an hour—that is the promise held out by Fritz von Opel, German airplane and automobile manufacturer, and Prof. Max Valier, Munich inventor of the rocket motor.

The rocket airplane met the first secret test successfully the other day, near Hanau, in the Rhoen Mountains. And while the details of construction of the machine that embodies the principles of both the light airplane and the rocket are carefully guarded, the inventor and designer have indicated the method by which they hope virtually to abolish space, in our ordinary concept of the term, and reduce Jules Verne's "Around the World in Eighty Days" to the status of a leisurely tourist's junket. Von Opel speaks of circling the globe in 12 hours, and he is neither a visionary nor a crank, but a rather hard-headed scientist and manufacturer.

Prof. Valier had done a great deal of research work on the use of powder rockets as the propelling power for motors. But his theories were generally held in contempt by practical scientists as well as manufacturers. Young Von Opel, junior partner in the Opel Motor Car Company, heard of his work, became convinced of the possibilities implied in the rocket motor and decided to give it a trial.

The rocket motor was first installed, as is now well known, in a light racing car and its success was phenomenal. With its constructor, Engineer K. C. Volkhart, at the wheel, it attained a speed of 103 miles an hour in the first 10 seconds and was at one time during the test going at 130 miles an hour. In secret, driverless tests it went 430 miles an hour, according to Von Opel.

FROM the first Valier and Von Opel have emphasized the fact that they were not interested in the rocket motor in connection with the automobile. They have no desire to revolutionize the motor industry, they say, even if this were possible. They developed the rocket racing car purely as an experiment, which, they hope, will ultimately lead to the perfection of the rocket airplane.

They talk quite seriously of reducing the time from Berlin to New York to an hour. A kind of terrific commuter's journey in the course of which one might leave Berlin in the morning, lunch in New York and return to Berlin in time for dinner and the opera. They have an experimental and developmental program that approaches this goal logically, step by step.

The initial test of the rocket plane has already been made, and successfully. It flew up in an arc of some 1000 feet and landed easily. This is a miniature parallel of the success they hope to have on a great scale.

Prof. Valier has reduced his theories to practical figures, from which he concludes the trip to New York could be made in an hour, perhaps a little less, perhaps a little more. After all, no one would be likely to squabble over a matter of minutes on such a journey.

At the beginning of such a trip, Prof. Valier says, the rocket airplane would have to contend with the resistance of the atmosphere, and therefore could be aided in its initial progress by a pair of propellers.

Shooting up into the air at an angle of 70 degrees, however, the rocket airplane would reach a height of nine miles in less than a minute. At this height the atmosphere would be so rarefied that it would make the propellers practically worthless as a means of pulling the airplane along and the ship would have to depend entirely for its further progress on the series of explosions of rockets in this peculiar motor.

The extremely thin air—above winds and fog—would relieve the plane of so much resistance that it could attain a speed of 3500 miles an hour in a few seconds. At a height of 31 miles above the earth, four times the altitude actually attained by man so far, Prof. Valier believes that the airplane could continue to go on an even keel parallel to the earth at a speed of 4500 miles an hour. A bullet fired from a rifle would go only half as fast. The rocket ship could reach this altitude at a distance of only 43 miles from its starting point, and in a minute and 40 seconds.

In considerably less than an hour the ocean could be crossed and the airplane could glide slowly down to earth. The gliding process would take nearly as long as the actual flight.

The fact that human beings cannot live in so rarefied an atmosphere as that which exists 31 miles above the earth does not bother the advocates of the rocket airplane. They explain that the ship could have an airtight cabin, for both pilot and passengers, in which the oxygen content will always remain the same as that on the earth's surface. The passengers, according to their scheme, would therefore feel no ill effects in mounting to so great a height.

Perfection of an airtight cabin is one of the greatest of many problems now confronting those who are furthering the project. A long series of experiments is to be started, in which it is hoped to send animals to much greater heights than man has ever attained in airtight, oxygen-equipped compartments. This will be done by means of small rocket airplanes, so constructed that when, after rising to a maximum point, they have fallen to a certain height a parachute will open which will enable them to land gently. Then the effect on the animal can be determined. These small model planes will, of course, be equipped with automatically recording altimeters.

Hitherto any consideration of flight in rarefied atmosphere has been balked by the fact that it is impractical to take up sufficient oxygen for a flight of any length. But the duration of that proposed by Prof. Valier is so short that this will not be an obstacle. A long series of experiments which it is hoped will bring the rocket motor near to perfection is also to be carried out. It is not by any means a sure and certain machine as yet. Engineer Friedrich Sander of the Von Opel company is the rocket expert. He is also the inventor of the best nautical life-saving rockets. As used in the racing car the rocket motor consists of a steel box, or case, with 12 round openings, from which the blast pipes of Congreve rockets project. The ignition wires are run from the blast pipes to an automatic switch operated by means of a foot-pedal by the driver. It is absolutely essential to the rocket motor that the rockets explode at recurring intervals. For example, in the tests with the car the driver would almost surely have been killed had they all exploded at once.

Sander is, however, very confident. He maintains he can build rockets to meet any stipulated demand, provided only sufficient money is available.

That is another important factor. The rockets are extremely costly, and they are much less efficient, per unit quantity, than, say, gasoline or benzine. One expert has estimated that turning one kilogram of powder into mechanical energy gives but one-tenth of that of one kilogram of benzine, benzol or alcohol, and is 10 times more expensive. The same expert adds that the use of benzol is but one one-hundredth as expensive as the use of the cheapest powder mixture. The idea of a powder motor has long existed, being advanced before gasoline motors came into existence, but it was always discarded for this very reason. It was an interesting experiment, technically successful, but apparently beyond the realm of economic possibility.

Still another obstacle confronts the backers of the rocket airplanes, and that is the problem of the extremely low temperatures at such high altitudes as it is proposed to attain. Some provision will certainly have to be made to meet this difficulty, which has not yet come up for practical discussion.

Following the experiments with animals, it is believed that Pilot Anton Raab of the Raab-Katzenstein Works at Cassel, co-operating with the Von Opel company in the construction of the rocket plane, will be the first flyer to attempt to explore the upper reaches of the atmosphere. Raab will not try to get outside the atmosphere, because Dr. Hans Hoerbigher, Viennese scientist, holds that the cold in space would be unbearable for any living creature.

HERE the venture touches on those even more fantastic proposals to fly between the planets. There was the recent announcement of the American engineer, Robert Condit, who proposes to go to Venus in a rocket.

According to word from America, Condit constructed a rocket in which he was to be sealed. It was his hope that he could be hurled in the projectile so accurately, by means of mathematical calculations, that the rocket would connect with a meteor stream which, annually, flows during the latter part of February between the earth and the planet Venus. It is understood that he still plans to make the attempt, having postponed it for a year because of differences among his financial backers. This is the most fanciful undertaking yet proposed.

There is also Robert Esnault Pelterie, the French scientist, who made his reputation 20 years ago as a designer of light engines and stream-line airplanes. Pelterie is offering, through the Societe Astronomique, an annual prize of 5000 francs for the best essay upon astronautics, the name given interplanetary travel

That the creating of the essay prize is no idle gesture is proved by the fact that in scientific circles there is a school of astronauts. Pelterie is the founder of the class and it is only 15 years ago that he made the first mathematical investigation of the factors involved in interplanetary travel. In computing the power necessary to hurl a cosmic craft to the moon, Pelterie used 414,000 horsepower in his calculations

THESE interplanetary projects all imply the use of a rocket in some form or other. Unlike the ordinary airplane, with its power propeller, which is effective only in atmosphere, the rocket motor operates even in a vacuum. It is the exhaust kick of the rocket that acts to propel the car or airplane in which it is installed. Similarly, a rifle fired in a vacuum would have the same sort of kick that it would in air.

Considering all these things, it will probably be some time before it is possible for Berliners to run over to New York to see a movie after dinner. But it is well to remember that many scoffers who were certain that man would never get off the ground in a heavier-than-air machine now take their air journeys as commonplaces of existence. Just so, another generation may take for granted a week-end jaunt around the world and commuters, working in New York and living in London or Berlin, may daily demolish distances that were once formidable

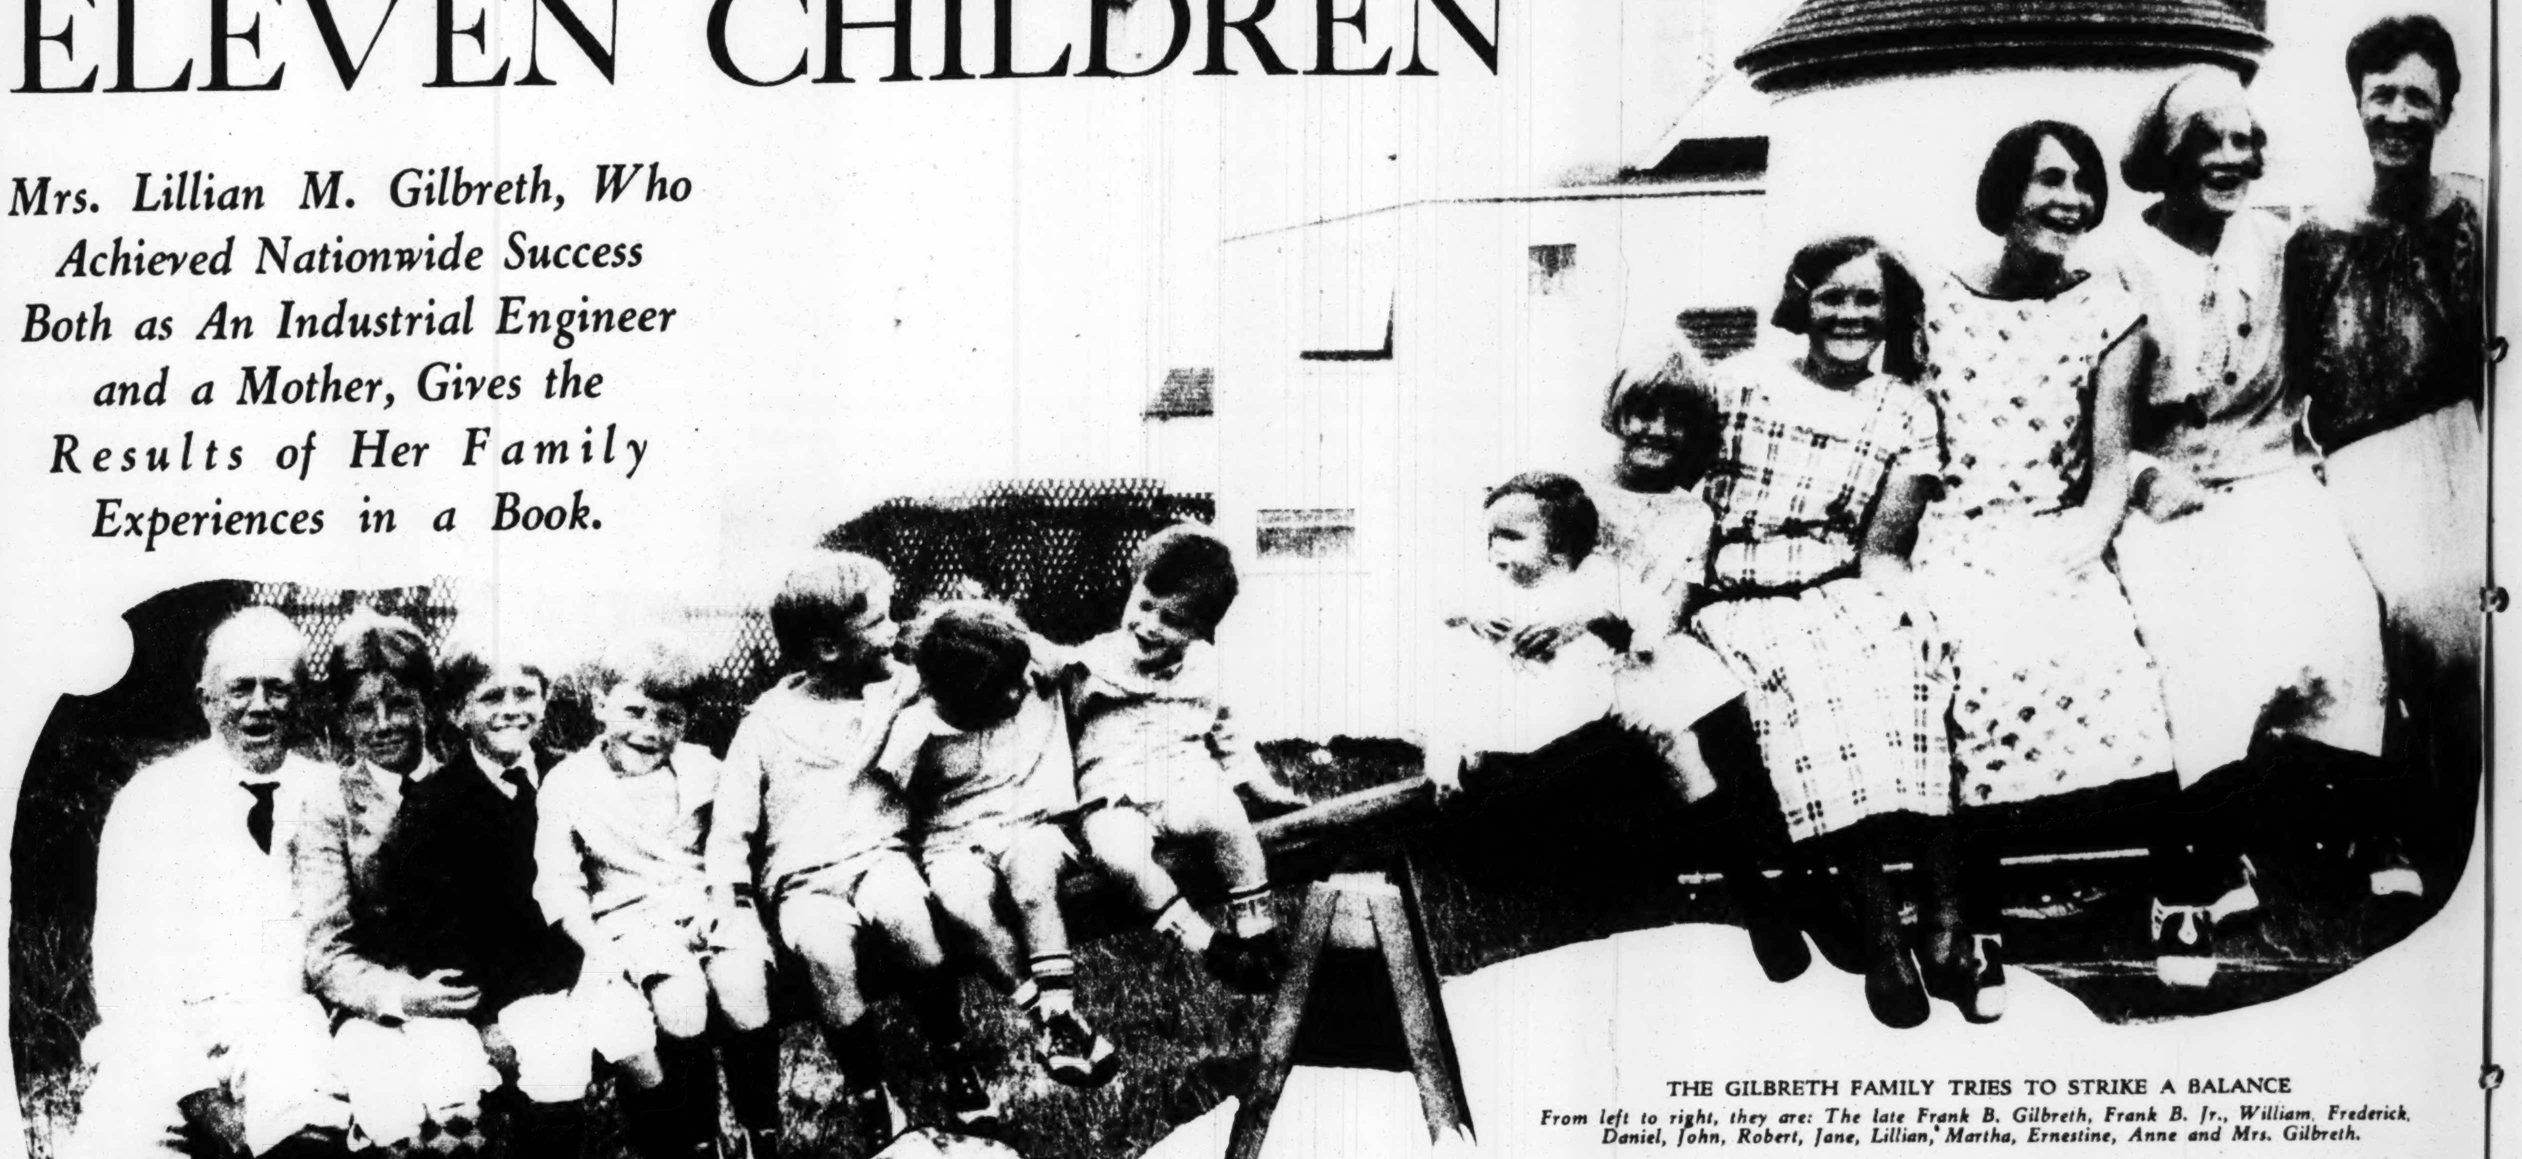
GROWING UP WITH ELEVEN CHILDREN

Mrs. Lillian M. Gilbreth, Who Achieved Nationwide Success Both as An Industrial Engineer and a Mother, Gives the Results of Her Family Experiences in a Book.



THE GILBRETH FAMILY TRIES TO STRIKE A BALANCE

Mrs. Lillian M. Gilbreth.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IT IS a considerable feat in this age of small families, and one to be wondered at, for any woman to rear 11 children. It is a considerable feat in any age. But when to this accomplishment and along with it the mother adds a highly successful career in industrial engineering and industrial psychology, when it is discovered that her profession and her children did not prevent her from obtaining her Doctor of Philosophy degree, when you realize that her 11 youngsters were brought up in a manner so scientific and yet so charming that even the crawling child was given its family job and liked it, the mother concerned takes on the appearance of one who, in some manner at least, approaches Mr. George Bernard Shaw's idea of a superwoman.

The woman in question is Mrs. Lillian Gilbreth of Montclair, New Jersey, and in a recent book, "Living With Our Children" (W. W. Norton and Company, Inc., New York), she explains the manner in which she and her husband, the late Frank B. Gilbreth, set out to rear their family in such a way that each child would learn to stand on its own legs, to appreciate the beauties in life, to live worthily and to accomplish sound work in this world. Mrs. Gilbreth tells her tale simply and in it there is no hint of self praise. When you know she is speaking of the Gilbreths she insists on saying "in a certain family;" she never picks out one of her youngsters and says, "Here, look what he did"; still, at the same time her story is never so scientific that the little one furnishing the temporary example is made to look like a bug under a microscope; beneath all her facts and philosophies you feel the hand of an intensely human woman and one who sometimes needs must steel herself to prevent condoning mischief.

YOU are likely to say, perhaps, "Well, she gave her life to her children and all she had out of it was work and more work." But in saying that, you will be wrong. For, to quote from her book, Mrs. Gilbreth declaims, "Live with them, and not for them." The italics are Mrs. Gilbreth's, just that sentence in italics in a paragraph, and the lady is not given to italics. There is no doubt she means just that.

Lillian Moller was born at Oakland, California. At 22 she took her bachelor's degree, two years later her master's, and she was but a year from a Ph. D. when she chanced to meet Frank B. Gilbreth, then a contracting engineer of Boston. And she became his wife, but only after a strange courtship.

It seems that Miss Moller was on her way to Europe with a party of college friends and before sailing they decided to spend a few days in Boston. Now one of the young women in the party had a brother named Frank Gilbreth; this gentleman had been advised of their coming, and on their arrival he did the brotherly thing of looking them up.

There is no evidence tending to show he wasn't bored with the party; in fact, there is testimony of a contrary nature. But look them up he did and he took them off on an automobile ride, the bachelor of 36 himself at the wheel. In those days automobiles were objects of curiosity vying with Halley's comet. True to tradition, and undoubtedly somewhat to Mr. Gilbreth's exasperation, one of his tires exploded. Mr. Gilbreth got out to repair it.

BUT the gentleman did not only have to put up with the mechanical difficulties entailed, he was beset by a crowd of urchins whose spirits ran high with the break-down of the gas wagon. Then and there Miss Moller got herself a husband. For noting her host's discomfiture, she gathered the small devils about her, enticed them to a nearby lot, and there, by telling them stories and starting them off on games, completely detached them from the persecuted Gilbreth, who, left alone, managed to repair his tire in peace.

When the automobile was once again ready to resume its journey, its pilot asked Miss Moller to sit beside him. The lady did. Up to that time he had not spoken 10 words with her and couldn't have told you her name had you asked him. But no sooner was she beside him than he informed her that, "You are the cleverest girl I ever met, and I'm going to marry you." He followed up this declaration by "hoping there are no suitors in the way; it will just make complications and take longer, with the same result in the end, for I intend to marry you. When you come back from Europe I'll be at the boat, waiting for you, and please have your mind made up to marry me at once. I'm a very busy man."

Miss Moller married him.

Those who know say this was the turning point in Frank Gilbreth's life. In Boston, where he had been jogging along for nine years, he was fairly well known. When he died, late in 1924, his reputation was international. He had lectured at numerous American and European universities, he had directed schools of management for professors of engineering, he had revolutionized the back-breaking methods of brick laying, he had invented methods of industrial education for fitting crippled soldiers for industrial life, in collaboration with his wife he had written books and papers on applied motion study.

Lillian Moller Gilbreth had studied with her husband, she had gone with him on inspection trips, she had helped him work out efficiency methods, whipping his technical ideas into practical shape. And Gilbreth was wont to say, "It may have been my idea, but she got it across."

LATE in 1924, just before he was to start for Europe to attend a power conference, Frank Gilbreth dropped dead in a New York telephone booth while talking to his wife. At the time she was at their Montclair home, packing to accompany him.

That was on a Friday. On Saturday, Frank Gilbreth's brain, which he had bequeathed to a medical college for research, was removed. Sunday, after simple funeral rites, all that was mortal of the man was reduced to ashes. On Tuesday, Mrs. Gilbreth sailed, as scheduled, to attend the conference. Once there, she read her husband's and her own papers, and took his place on the American Participation Convention. She presided over the last session of the congress which, before adjourning, held a memorial service for its distinguished American member. Through all their life together Frank Gilbreth and his wife had remained friends, lovers, partners.

And now that you know something of Lillian Gilbreth, let us get to her book.

In her preface, which she calls the "Adventure of Living," besides paying a tribute to her husband's theories—she does it in her characteristic fashion, unassumingly, without mentioning his name—she sums up his and her purpose in rearing their children.

This is what she writes:

"ONCE upon a time, as the story book says, there was a little boy of pioneer stock, who came into this world. For him time was always an opportunity, for he was an optimist. His project all through the 55 years of his life was to find the One Best Way of doing everything, having in mind satisfaction not only in the result but in the doing.

"To him the family was always the most interesting and significant group, so when he came to organize his own family he tried to apply the principles and practices he had used in making his own life an adventure and a quest.

"It is too soon to say whether the applications of his theories in this family group are a success or not, perhaps even to evaluate them as an educational project. But it can be said that they do conform to many of the findings of the newer education, and that they made life so interesting that it never ceased to be an adventure to him, as it still is to his group.

"It is his philosophy of life that this book presents, in the form not of a theory but of a working force. If it serves to pass on to the lives of others some of the enthusiasm, courage and persistence with which he pursued his adventure, the book will have served its purpose."

Getting to her book proper, Mrs. Gilbreth continues:

"Why should not a family life have a plan? Every educational or industrial project has one. Planning is so interesting that surely we should want to use it in the most worthwhile project we can undertake. . . .

"In the family I knew best, there was great need of such planning because the young people had not known each other very long or very well when they were married, and felt the need of thinking their project completely through as they started it. 'Do you realize how little we have in common?' the young groom said as they set out on their wedding trip. 'We'll just have to settle down and make a job of planning out our life together if we are going to make a success of it!' This did not remove the romance or interest from it, but added a stability and a long view which might otherwise have been lacking. They knew so little of each other's background and experience that they began with a review of these in order to see just what each might contribute to the new partnership and just what each would need to receive, as well as enjoy receiving, if the outcome was to be satisfactory. They made what was practically a job analysis of the part each was to play in the family life in order to find out what each could do best and with most satisfaction to himself and the other. . . .

"The family I know best started, on the advice of a relative, with the rule, 'Outside the house the man rules, inside the house the woman rules.' It worked very well as a start. Gradually, as fitness for leadership in any function showed itself, it was delegated there when appropriate. The greatest help was found in changing the leader-follower relationship to the teacher-pupil relationship. In all of life there is no more beautiful relationship than that of the teacher-pupil. The true teacher gathers material that he may transmit it; he aims to develop his pupil, takes pride in his achievements.

"Insofar as the husband-wife relationship and the parent-child relationship become teacher-pupil relationships, happiness is assured. Especially where there is that readiness every true teacher feels to take the pupil role, and that satisfaction every pupil feels when he can become (though only temporarily and perhaps inadequately) the teacher. This, it seems to me, is the keynote of our new education; that we learn and teach simultaneously.

"Nothing is more vital to the success of the project of happy family life than finding out as soon as possible in what lines each member of the group can lead and giving him a chance, a time and a place. 'I want to be queen of something,' a small girl said. Her desire was real and right, and one that had to be gratified. If every man, woman and child in a home, and this includes the helpers, is given a chance to lead, one great source of satisfaction will be assured."

So did the author plan and conjecture. And then the children came. But the mother was not afraid of her task of bringing them up. She writes:

"THE problem of bringing up a large family would not be rated so difficult, by any one who has studied the field carefully, as that of bringing up an only child. None but the group itself can decide the proper size of that group. The measure of success is the happiness and satisfaction of every one involved, and here again one can only urge the study of successes. If the health heritage is good, there is always help along the way. What may seem to be too many children will prove not to be so as the project develops. They are not all babies at one time. The older help bring up the younger. . . .

"The solution of all these problems seems to me to lie in making the children from the beginning a part of the adventure of living. Just as we plan for them from the beginning, so let them be an integral part of living from the very moment they begin to be. Live with them, and not for them. Make changes in your way of living not primarily because it is best for them but because it is best for every one. . . .

"We must not only enter into the child's life when we can, but allow him to enter into ours. Of course, as the object of our work and interest and affection, he does enter. We must let him give, too, and become ourselves the object of interest, affection, activity and work. A certain father had this in mind when he marked places on his closet floor with chalk where his slippers should go and nailed down a paper circle where his waste basket was to stand, and allowed the baby, even before she could walk, to feel that she could help by putting away the slippers and pushing back the waste basket. We can appreciate the training and pleasure even a pup gets in carrying our newspaper or handbag. How much more keenly then should we understand all that serving us can and should mean to our children. * * * * *

"If we start living with our children from the very beginning of their lives, it will become a habit and a joyous habit before we realize it, whereas the longer we postpone the day of starting, the more difficult the start will be, and the more slowly the habit will be formed. Do not let the children feel that they have to be invited to belong. Let them be born belonging!"

THE child must be taught, but the method must be thought out and the teacher must be patient. For, Mrs. Gilbreth writes:

"Teaching work habits is simplified if the parent first thinks through the difficulties to be overcome. He knows then how and when to help the child over the hard places always encountered in any new task, and he can also tell whether the learning process is going forward successfully or not. We know that in every chart of learning process, there are plateaus which show as flat places in the otherwise ascending line. We know that there are well established reasons for these: The learner may have lost interest in the subject; he may not know exactly what he is supposed to do; he may be tired; or he apparently may make no advance though he is really co-ordinating his knowledge and will suddenly increase the efficiency of his work with surprising speed. So we should watch the child, understand each apparent delay in getting results, encourage him when he feels he is not succeeding, and rejoice with him when he does. In this way he gets pleasure in the work and in learning to do the work, both equally important to progress."

Many problems are there, but great opportunities. And so:

"Finally, we should realize as our pioneer forefathers did that the future, though more or less unknown, offers a challenge to every one to better the best of the past. Much remains to be discovered by those who choose to explore; much progress remains to be made by those who choose to make of individual and group experiences a training for those who follow; better methods remain to be devised for furthering group work and the enjoyment of that work. Best of all, there remain always greater opportunities for living with our children so that we may be educating them slowly and surely, to meet the opportunities which will come to them in their turn in a never-ending series of tomorrows."

Early Plans to Fly the Atlantic Stopped by the Armistice

PART II of "SKYWARD"

Commander Richard E. Byrd Tells of War Activities in Canada and His First Aerial Navigation Out of Sight of Land.

"As we flew along Newfoundland at about 5000 feet it was bitterly cold. A lot of white objects began to appear below. When I looked down with my binoculars I saw they were icebergs."

COMMANDER BYRD, in today's installment of his great story of the air, "Skyward," tells of the tragedies that beset our naval flying students in the days of the World War, he tells how he furthered the first flight over the Atlantic, and how it was successfully accomplished. This is the second article of Commander Byrd's series.

By RICHARD E. BYRD

IT FELL to my lot while at Pensacola to try to find out why so many of our pilots were being killed. The conclusion must not be drawn from these accidents I describe that aviation cannot be made safe. It is because of them that we have learned enough to make aviation safe. As I was one of the few regular officers on the Pensacola Air Station in 1917, I was detailed to the "Crash Board." This was really a sort of "Coroner's Jury." Officially, we had to "sit" on the ghastly evidence that came out of each tragedy. Also, I had to go out with the rescue boat and help haul the mangled bodies of my friends out of the water. It wasn't exactly what you might call stimulating work; certainly not for the beginner.

I remember my first case came while I was still a student. A plane nose-dived into the bay a few hundred yards from the landing. Though rescue boat and divers reached the wreckage in a few moments, both victims were dead before we arrived. We examined the wreckage carefully as soon as it could be hoisted to the wrecking barge. We found control wires were in good shape, and enough of the body and wings intact to indicate that the equipment was still all right when the plane took her fatal dive.

Next day the senior member of the Crash Board looked around the table after all evidence was in and we had cudgeled our brains to figure out what had happened.

"The only things that really help," he said, "are that a student was aboard and that the plane was up only 600 feet when she went into a spin."

The rest of us sat there like dummies. As we were all flyers, we would have given our bottom dollar to know what had killed our friends. The same fate might be ours before the day was out. Moreover solution of the mystery could possibly save a score of lives that week, taking the whole country into consideration.

"Probably the student was at the controls," went on the senior member, but without conviction, "and made a bad turn. The plane side-slipped and then went into a spin. Before the instructor could get her out, she was down."

Pretty vague; altogether unsatisfying. But the best we could do in those days.

It had been some years before pilots had learned how to get out of tail spins; that is, spinning towards the earth with tail up. It nearly always ended in tragedy. One day a naval pilot at Pensacola got into a spin and accidentally kicked the high side of the rudder and got out of the spin. That is how the tail spin was conquered.

It is hard to realize now how absurd were some of the accidents that happened to flyers in those days, nor how easily a pilot could get into trouble with some of the crude devices then still in use.

No wonder that flying safety has enormously improved in the 10 years that have elapsed since then. Our engines must now be a hundred times more dependable and our pilots almost know more before they start to train than our experts did in 1918.

I BELIEVE that the high-point in my Pensacola training period came when I rammed another plane going 60 miles an hour. I had just got off the water and was intent on gaining speed so I could zoom upward. The first thing I knew I saw almost directly ahead of me a plane plunging down on the water out of the sky. Its pilot was a beginner. He had been intent, I think, on gauging his distance from the water, so as to make as perfect a landing as possible.

The crash was deafening. We were just enough out of line to make our wings lock. As a result, both planes flung around with violent centrifugal force that was the result of the 120 miles per hour aggregate speed we were traveling at the moment.

Both planes were demolished. I fell dazed and bruised into the water. A few minutes later the rescue party hauled us into the speed boat, safe and sound, but very much crestfallen at the damage we had done to our planes.

The spring of 1918 found me still basking in the Florida sunshine. True, I was no longer a listed cripple. I had my "wings" to show that I was an accredited Navy pilot.

But it wasn't war.

Since graduation I had been convinced that the next big feat in flying would be the air crossing of the Atlantic Ocean. Early in 1917 I had written confidentially to my friend, Walter Camp of Yale, asking his advice and help. This plan was reborn in me with new vigor in the spring of 1918.

In January of that year the Navy had begun the construction of the largest flying boat ever built. She was named the NC-1. I conceived the idea of delivering the plane to the commander-in-chief in Europe by flying her across the ocean, via the Azores.

ON THE night of May 13, 1918, I sat up until 3 a. m. evolving another letter to Walter Camp. I figured that his large acquaintance among rich and influential men would make him a keystone in importance if only I could win him over.

A very encouraging telegram reached me from Mr. Camp three days later. And in the following week I learned confidentially that Walter Camp and Admiral Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, had gone to the Navy Department and urged that the flight be undertaken. This touched me in a tender spot also because I had long thought a flight across the North Pole was possible.

I was so encouraged that I took a friend of mine, Lieutenant Walter Hinton, into my confidence. With his help and the permission of the commandant at the station, we installed compasses in some of our planes. After brief instruction we managed to start a series of out-of-sight-of-land flights. We obtained special data on fuel consumption of the Liberty engines and on the cruising radius and seaworthiness of the Navy flying boats. We found also that we had to design a special instrument for making extra rapid calculations, which were necessary, owing to the high speed of a plane as compared with a ship. This, I think, was the first practical move to conquer the Atlantic by air.

Despite red tape and war, the situation was soon such that I was in a position to put in my official request for the flight. The big NC-1 was due to be finished in a few weeks and the night flying squadron had been organized for service abroad. On July 9, 1918, I wrote to Washington, requesting that I be detailed to make a trans-Atlantic flight in an NC-1 type of flying boat.

Two weeks later I received telegraphic orders to Washington.

The Navy Department was working under such a terrific pressure that it was difficult to find out on arrival just what were the plans for me and the big seaplane. I could find no one who would actually say she wasn't going to fly to Europe right away with me aboard her. At the same time, I could dig up no conclusive proof that she was. As a result, I oscillated between bursting optimism and abysmal despondency.

On August 12 I was surprised to receive orders to Halifax, Nova Scotia, for duty as commanding officer of our U. S. Naval Air Station to be put there. A supplementary document set forth that I was "in direct command of the U. S. Air Forces in Canada."

All very imposing. But what had it to do with my dream of flying the Atlantic Ocean and getting into the war?

LATER a ray of sunshine came in the shape of still another set of orders supplementing my first ones.

As these latest orders constituted the first official move to bridge the Atlantic Ocean by airplane, and are, therefore, of historic importance, I am going to give them in full:

Navy Department,
Washington, D. C.

From: Chief of Naval Operations.
To: Commanding Officer, Naval Air Station, Halifax.
Via: Naval Attache, Halifax, Nova Scotia.
Subject: Refueling station in Newfoundland—proposed establishment of.

1. It is desired to locate a suitable rest and refueling station on the east coast of Newfoundland. Such a station should have a beach, upon which large seaplanes could be hauled up, but if such a beach is not available, a floating hangar, complete with quarters and small workshop, can probably be supplied by next spring.

2. The general requirements for this rest station are:

(a) Sufficient area of sheltered water for maneuvering of large flying-boat type seaplane with full load.

(b) Sufficient depth of water for a destroyer or seagoing tug.

(c) Telegraph or long distance radio communication is highly desirable, but not absolutely necessary.

3. You are directed to take up the matter with the Newfoundland Government and obtain permission to make an inspection of their coast, for the purpose of locating a suitable place. The Department is of the opinion that a suitable place may be found in the immediate vicinity of Cape Broyle, about 60 miles south of St. John's, and it is particularly desired that this place be thoroughly examined. Upon completion of this inspection, submit a detailed report to the Navy Department. Inasmuch as large seaplanes will probably not be supplied to air stations in Canada before the early part of next spring, the proposed station will not be established until that time, but the inspection should be made as soon as practicable without undue interference with your present duties.

(Signed) W. S. BENSON.

BEFORE leaving Washington I was able to put through orders for Walter Hinton to join me. Also I was able to pick up several other good men to help me get started. But most of my crowd I had to take "sight unseen."

The site that the Canadians assigned to us for our station was about eight miles across the bay.

Though at first we were only two officers and eight men, all told, we worked night and day to go into commission.

Soon officers and men began arriving by dozens. While we were putting up our tents, Lieutenant Donahue of the Coast Guard was digging in at Sydney. Under my direction he started a station similar to the one at Halifax.

Meanwhile Hinton and I made some headway with the sextant with which to take an altitude of the sun and stars from an airplane at sea. We thought the problem could be solved by using a bubble level glass to replace the sea horizon which is used in taking sights aboard ship. We actually tried a sextant so fitted by an Englishman, Commander Walker, and achieved some success.

I spent hours plotting our course on the chart. Altogether, I was in every way prepared to fly the Atlantic: companion pilot, fuel, food, clothing, instruments.

And every minute of the time General Pershing and his armies were doing their level best to wreck my plan. On November 11, 1918, they succeeded. The armistice was declared. I was ordered to turn my station over to the Canadians and return to Washington. It was great—wonderful that there would be no more bloodshed. After my first shock of bitter disappointment I realized I must forget my insignificant self and be glad of that.

But my big plan for a trans-Atlantic flight had evaporated: there was no longer need for the NC-1 in Europe; money wouldn't be forthcoming, and I felt that the attendant risk would not be permitted, now that peace had come.

I sent my men and planes south. It was not so easy to cut loose from those great shipmates.

On my way to Washington I learned to my surprise that the Navy was going to tackle the trans-Atlantic flight after all.

THE minute I hopped off the train at Washington I rushed up to the Navy Department to get the latest report. I got two reports. The first, very exciting, was:

"Captain N. E. Irwin, Director of Aviation, is recommending to Secretary Daniels that Commander J. H. Towers be placed in command of the trans-Atlantic flight, which is to go through at once."

This meant the party was bound to go through. I felt like going out behind the big white building and shouting for joy.

Then I got the second and, to me, crushing report:

"No officer or man who has had foreign duty will be permitted to be a member of the trans-Atlantic flight expedition. This includes those who have been on Canadian detail."

I was stunned. I knew that one motive behind this ruling was to give a chance for excitement to some of the poor devils who had fought the war behind their desks in Washington. Yet, wretched months at Halifax were to deprive me of realizing my dream. I confess that the wave of bitterness that struck me over this seeming injustice was almost beyond control. It was some time before I could honestly and coolly say that "after all, the important thing is for an American Navy plane to prove that it can first fly the Atlantic Ocean."

TWO days later I came down with influenza, bordering on pneumonia. The day after I passed my crisis, another officer was brought in and placed beside me.

This was Lieutenant Kirkpatrick, Captain Irwin's aide. "Hello, Dick," he greeted me, "I suppose you know the Captain has just directed your transfer from Washington to duty at the Pensacola Station."

I could scarcely believe my ears. "Is the big flight off?" I gasped. It was the only possible thing, I thought, that could account for such orders. Surely the authorities could not be so unjust as to ship me away after I had worked for a year on the idea.

"No, I should say not. But the Commandant down there has asked for you to come as his aide. You are not available for the NC flying boat on account of your war duty. And I gather you have finished most of the navigational plans."

Feeling as if I should faint, I staggered to the telephone and called up Towers. "Do you still want me to help out on the flight?" I asked him weakly.

"Decidedly so," was his prompt reply.

As soon as I had enough strength I went to Captain Irwin's office and "went to the mat" with him on my Pensacola detail. I

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, gave his final official approval of the trans-Atlantic flight project on February 6, 1919. Eight of us were then formed into what was called the "Trans-Atlantic Flight Section."

By April 21 the Trans-Atlantic Flight Section was moved to the Naval Air Station at Rockaway, Long Island. Two other NC boats had been built. So now we had a group of three, the NC-1, NC-3 and NC-4. The last named was fated to be the first flying machine to cross any ocean on earth.

Until now, no face powder has been safe for oily skin. That's why women with oily skin quickly get enlarged pores. While oily skin needs an astringent to close the pores, even the imported powders contain zinc stearate to make them cling to dry skins. And any skin specialist knows this chemical should never be put on an oily face. It is dangerously laxadermic (skin-relaxing), the reverse of astringent. It relaxes the skin and opens the pores. And, too many powders contain rice starch. The starch mixes with the oil causing enlarged pores, blackheads and often eruptions. No wonder millions of women have been begging for a face powder good for oily skin.

But, at last a famous cosmetician has created a guaranteed face powder to correct oily skin. He did this by replacing the dangerous skin-relaxing zinc stearate and the harmful rice starch found in other powders with a harmless beautifying astringent to reduce the pores and neutralize excess oil. And thousands of women discovered this can't say I won. Rather, the Captain decided to have a little mercy. My orders were cancelled.

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, gave his final official approval of the trans-Atlantic flight project on February 6, 1919. Eight of us were then formed into what was called the "Trans-Atlantic Flight Section."

By April 21 the Trans-Atlantic Flight Section was moved to the Naval Air Station at Rockaway, Long Island. Two other NC boats had been built. So now we had a group of three, the NC-1, NC-3 and NC-4. The last named was fated to be the first flying machine to cross any ocean on earth.

These NC boats would even today be considered very large craft. In fact, there is no plane in the states today with so great a wing spread.

The NC type of flying boat was not a step forward in aeronautical design. It was a whole jump.

On May 3, 1919, the NC flying boats were regularly placed into commission.

Each plane carried a commanding officer, who also navigated; two pilots, a radio operator, an engineer and a reserve pilot engineer. Commander Towers took command of the NC-3, using it as his flagship. Lieutenant-Commander P. N. L. Bellinger took the NC-1. Lieutenant-Commander A. C. Read had the NC-4. Three better men could not have been selected.

ON MAY 8, 1919, we were ready for the first ocean crossing by air in history.

I was to have a taste of the early flight after all. Through the efforts of Towers I was permitted to go with him in the NC-3 to assist in the navigation and look after the navigational instruments in the first two legs of the flight.

At 10 a. m. on May 8, 1919, we left the water in the NC-3, with the NC-1 and NC-4 taking position on either side of us.

The roar of our four engines was terrific. Of course, we were used to it. And we were stimulated by the excitement of being off at last.

A squall struck us. We headed down through it. Just before it struck us we received a radio from Read saying that the NC-4 was having engine trouble, was running on three engines and would probably have to land.

We reached Halifax Harbor at 7 p. m., Rockaway time, which was 8:30 Halifax time. The first leg of the great hop of 621 statute miles was successfully completed. It had taken us just nine hours to do it.

Between Cape Cod and Nova Scotia we had for the first time in history done some real out-of-sight-of-land navigating in a seaplane and had been successful.

As we flew along Newfoundland, at about 5000 feet, it was bitterly cold. A lot of white objects began to appear below. When I looked down with my binoculars, I saw that the objects were icebergs, hundreds of them. I was numb from cold. The icebergs a mile beneath us did not add to my feeling of warmth.

Presently we were gliding into Trepassey Harbor.

Soon after our arrival, Towers handed me a radio from Captain Irwin, which specifically directed that I should not accompany the expedition. My Nemesis was still on duty.

My gloom was broken by a strange diversion. Sudden telegraphic orders came for me to report for duty in connection with the dark horse of the trans-Atlantic flight—the tiny Navy dirigible, the C-5. My duties would be primarily concerned with navigational methods and instruments of the C-5. I was further directed to do all I could for the C-5 in regard to navigation.

The C-5 was a fragile nonrigid gas bag of only about 200,000 cubic feet capacity, or only about one-tenth the size of a modern airship. While we had been flying north in the big planes she had been in the air on a nonstop flight from Long Island to St. John's, Newfoundland, a world's record for a dirigible of this type.

Now began a brief but exciting period for me while I nursed my last thin hope that I might still be in one of the aircraft to cross the ocean.

On May 15, the NC-1 and NC-3 were about to take off when a speck appeared in the sky far to the south of us. It turned out to be the NC-4. Had Read been an hour later he would have been left behind. I grabbed a boat and rushed over to congratulate him.

One of Read's sentences stuck in my mind: "Not far from Trepassey I saw an airship headed out to sea," he said.

Could it be that Emery Coil, the commander of the C-5, had gone?

The mystery was solved a few minutes later when a radio was passed around: "The C-5 has broken loose from her moorings in a storm and blown away with no personnel aboard her."

My last chance gone!

Towers sportingly decided to wait until Read was ready.

On May 16 the weather was reported still to be good. Read was ready. The great moment had come.

WEARY, I climbed the hill behind the rough field and sat down to see the take-off. To be here on the spot and see three planes hop off for Europe for the first time in history, and, after all my hopes and work, not to be in one of them, was a cataclysmic actuality that no amount of philosophy could efface. My depression was tempered only by the fact that our navy was doing the great job.

After three trials, all the planes got into the air, led by the NC-3, and bravely roared their way out into the unknown and were soon lost to view in a cloudless sky.

The NC-1 and NC-3 kept in touch until dawn, when clouds hid them from one another.

During the following morning, Towers' rougher calculation put the NC-3 near the Island of Flores. He was afraid to get too close lest he strike the high mountains in the fog that prevailed. As he had only about two hours of fuel left, he decided to go down, attempt to locate his position exactly, and take off again for his goal.

Unfortunately, the sea proved rougher than he thought. The NC-3 hit the top of a wave, porpoised to the top of another, and then slid down into the deep trough beyond, until she struck a third heavy head-on blow that split the bow in several places, and she began to leak.

AFTER a bad night the storm broke with full fury on May 18. The wind began to blow 60 miles an hour. The fusilage then began to leak so badly that it took the full energy of the crew to keep her bailed out.

At 9 o'clock a heavy sea carried away the left wing pontoon. The men took turns strapping themselves out on the end of the opposite wing in order to keep the plane from capsizing.

The second night came on with hope for rescue very faint. Toward morning they had hardly strength enough to bail. All were weak from exposure and lack of food, their sandwiches having in the beginning fallen into the bilge and been soaked with salt water.

Just as they reached the limit of their endurance, land was sighted astern. It was the island of San Miguel. Gradually they worked in close.

The NC-1 had an almost identical experience up to nearly the end of her vicissitudes. I am sure that during this past summer most of the ill-fated planes that have been lost had the same experience upon landing. They hit the top of a high wave and porpoised to the top of another and then struck the oncoming wave with a bang, and, of course, being land planes, they had no chance. After six hours of misery the NC-1 was picked up by the S. S. Ionia of the Hellenic Transport Company from Athens, Greece, and taken into Ponta Delgada.

THE NC-4, with Read and five others aboard, made better speed than the other two. After 13 1-2 hours of flying, her navigator sighted the southern tip of the island of Flores through a rift in the fog.

At this moment the weather began to thicken and things looked bad. Then Read, with excellent judgment, decided to make Horta. Here he landed at 1:23 p. m., Greenwich time, May 18, 1919, after 15 hours, 18 minutes of flying. He joined the others at Ponta Delgada on the twentieth.

Read was weatherbound at Ponta Delgada until May 27. He left for Lisbon at 8:01 a. m., Greenwich civil time, and arrived at the Portuguese city after nine hours and forty-three minutes in the air.

The Atlantic had been crossed by air for the first time in history.

Once more I turned south, sure my big chance had come and gone. But the American Navy—bless her—had once more won the admiration of the world; and the Stars and Stripes had been the first across the Atlantic through the air.

(Next Sunday Commander Byrd tells of his successful effort to create a Bureau of Aeronautics for the Navy, of the tragedy of the dirigible ZR-2 and his narrow escape from death, and of his first experience in the Arctic.)

2700 feet around the south rim, although almost horizontal, had been bodily upraised 100 feet so as to form the top of a great arch. At and near the northern rim the rocks had been relatively little disturbed. These features convinced Barringer that the meteor would be found under the south rim.

Pursuing this theory, a mining company leased the crater and sank a churn-drill hole on the southern rim. At 1200 feet the drill encountered fragments of meteoric material which became increasingly numerous until they constituted about 75 per cent of the ground. Then, at 1375 feet, the drill became permanently wedged between two large fragments. Thus, the meteor finally was located, but the company became discouraged and moved away.

Now, the Meteor Exploration and Mining Company is taking up the quest and, without further drilling, is beginning its shaft.

But there will be plenty of difficulties to overcome. No matter how undertaken, mining operations are bound to result eventually in a chamber of vast size. How to support the debris and earth above while a body 500 feet in diameter is being dug out bit by bit is problem enough for any mining engineer. Probably the entire mass never will be removed.

Even a honeycombing process, which would leave in the ground more than would be taken out, should result in enormous output. Fragments so far obtained assay about 92 per cent iron, 6 per cent nickel and 2 per cent carbon and phosphorus with small percentages of cobalt, copper, platinum and iridium. The entire mass, estimated to be 500 feet in diameter, is believed to total about 10,000,000 tons. Nine million two hundred thousand tons of iron and 600,000 tons of nickel available for anybody who will dig it out! Is it any wonder that Meteor Crater is a field of enchantment to mining engineers?

But the commercial aspects of an iron mine—even one worth $850,000,000—cannot match in popular interest the awesome aspects of its origin. The imagination dwells longest on the appalling spectacle of a meteor 500 feet in diameter falling out of the heavens. The Railway Exchange Building is 250 feet high, 278 feet long and 225 feet wide. A body 500 feet in diameter would be, roughly, four times as large. Try to imagine a flaming, white-hot mass of iron four times as large as the Railway Exchange Building hurtling out of the sky and burying itself 1500 feet deep in solid rock!

New—A Face Powder Good for Oily Skin

Until now, no face powder has been safe for oily skin. That's why women with oily skin quickly get enlarged pores. While oily skin needs an astringent to close the pores, even the imported powders contain zinc stearate to make them cling to dry skins. And, any skin specialist knows this chemical should never be put on an oily face. It is dangerously laxadermic (skin-relaxing), the reverse of astringent. It relaxes the skin and opens the pores. And, too many powders contain rice starch. The starch mixes with the oil causing enlarged pores, blackheads and often eruptions. No wonder millions of women have been begging for a face powder good for oily skin.

But, at last a famous cosmetician has created a guaranteed face powder to correct oily skin. He did this by replacing the dangerous skin-relaxing zinc stearate and the harmful rice starch found in other powders with a harmless beautifying astringent to reduce the pores and neutralize excess oil. And, thousands of women discovered this powder not only corrects oily skin, but it refines coarse skin and prevents fine skin getting coarse.

This face powder for oily skin is called La-May (Poudre L'Ame). So, if your skin is oily, let La-May correct this fault. Or, if you are getting coarse pores on your cheeks, chin and nose, let La-May refine your skin. The more you use it the more you prevent enlarged pores and the quicker you restore your complexion to youthful beauty. That's why even in Paris it is called the most perfect face powder known to science. You, too, will say it is marvelous; that it goes on smoother, looks better and stays on longer than any other. It comes in all shades at one dollar; also a trial size. The color for brunettes gives an unusually beautiful effect.

Remember, La-May is the only face powder guaranteed for oily skin and to prevent and reduce enlarged pores. If you do not find it better for your skin than any powder you have ever used, your money will be refunded. Show this guarantee to your druggist.

ESKIMO, ONCE WANTED FOR MURDER, BECOMES MEMBER OF FORCE

Ikalukpiak, Central Figure in Arctic "Eternal Triangle" Case, Served Term in Jail.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

FROM being sought by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for murder to becoming a special constable in the very force that once effected his arrest—from the role of breaker of laws to that of enforcer of laws—is the strange experience of Ikalukpiak, Copper Eskimo from the Coronation Gulf district of the Western Arctic.

Six years ago, Ikalukpiak was the central figure in a remarkable "eternal triangle" case, wherein the destinies of two men and a woman were involved, beneath the shimmering Northern Lights and the glint of steely Arctic stars hanging in a velvet pall of constant night.

It ended with the crack of a rifle—with a man's body outstretched on the white snow—and with Ikalukpiak, a fugitive from justice, being arrested by the Mounted Police.

Ikalukpiak.

To understand the strange triangle itself, and how it was possible for the famous frontier force to engage as special constable a self-confessed slayer, the reader must ever bear in mind that he is dealing with a primitive people, living their own lives under an age-old code that recks but little, despite the Mounted Police and the priest, of the law of the white man.

So, with this background, let the story revert to the winter of 1921, its scene an Eskimo igloo on the grim shores of the blizzard-swept Arctic Ocean; its actors, Ikalukpiak, his partner, Havougach, and his partner's wife, Khattia.

The Eskimos have a custom which is as old as their history, that where two men become partners on the hunting trail, trapping, fishing and living together, the wife belonging to either of them becomes a common wife to both men.

Strange as it may seem to civilized people, this custom has in the main worked out satisfactorily, the three people living together in perfect harmony. But in the case of Khattia, Havougach and Ikalukpiak, jealousy arose in the heart of the older man, because of the woman's apparent preference for Ikalukpiak, the younger one.

There were daily quarrels in the lone snow house. Many times Havougach threatened to shoot Ikalukpiak. Then came a day of incessant bickerings, the departure of the two men to get deer meat from a cache and the return of Ikalukpiak alone.

Later the young Eskimo confessed to the Mounted Police that he had shot Havougach because he was in fear for his own life. The confessed slayer was with extreme difficulty taken west along the Arctic coast to Herschel Island, where took place one of the strangest trials in the annals of outpost justice.

A Judge of the Alberta courts made the 2500-mile journey from Edmonton to the Arctic, and held his court on the deck of the river boat which carried him down the Mackenzie River. Hudson's Bay traders and rivermen were the jury, and the prisoner was ably represented by counsel, selected by the Canadian Government to defend him.

Ignorance of the white man's law and the plea of self-defense reduced the murder charge to manslaughter, and Ikalukpiak received, in view of his lack of knowledge of the law he had transgressed, the light sentence of five years' imprisonment.

The sentence, imposed more as an example to other Eskimos that they must not take human life than as a real punishment, was only partially served, when Ikalukpiak was released and taken back to the Arctic to rejoin his fellow tribesmen.

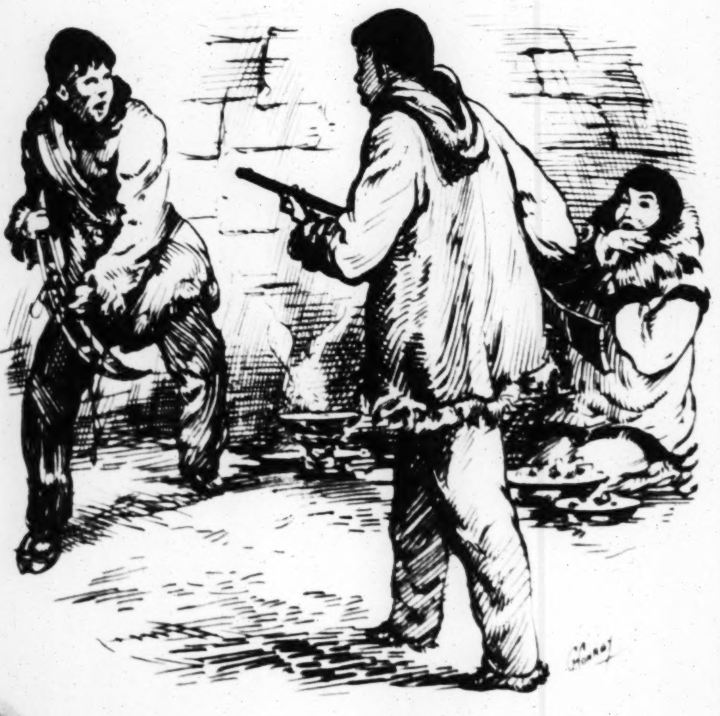
While in prison he had learned some English, and also a working knowledge of useful handicrafts.

In the Far North, good guides and interpreters are difficult to obtain. Ikalukpiak had won a reputation for being a cheerful, resourceful native, who had learned to admire and respect the men of the famous police force, and when the detachment at Bernard Harbor suggested the appointment of Ikalukpiak as special constable, to act in these various capacities, the suggestion was adopted.

So Ikalukpiak, once sought by the Mounted Police, is today a valued member of that same force which, six years ago, placed him under arrest. Inspector Calukin, formerly officer commanding at Herschel Island, gives the Eskimo an excellent character, and it is altogether likely that Ikalukpiak will long remain a member of the force.

He is, of course, a great man in the eyes of the other Eskimos, who regard him with mingled fear and pride.

Khattia, the woman in the "triangle" case, is wife to the young Eskimo, and you may be quite sure that no third person will ever be welcome in the snow igloo that houses Mr. and Mrs. Ikalukpiak of Bernard Harbor, Western Arctic.



Many times Havougach threatened to shoot Ikalukpiak.

The War on Fat
Look about you—Note its results

For 20 years medical men have been conducting a scientific war on fat. They have been using a factor which science discovered. A certain gland food which greatly affects nutrition. They found in this gland deficiency a great cause of obesity.

A great American laboratory, years ago, embodied this factor in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now anyone can see, in any circle, how slenderness prevails. Excess fat is nowhere near as common as it was.

Users have told friends about it, and the use has grown. People are now using some 5,000,000 tablets monthly. And the joys they bring in new beauty and health are enormous.

Now fat reduction does not require abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. People combat the cause. They take four Marmola tablets daily until weight comes down to normal, then desist.

Users know the reasons for results. A book in each box gives the complete Marmola formula. And fully explains how the fat loss comes in a normal and helpful way.

Don't wait longer, when so many have for 20 years enjoyed the results of Marmola. It may mean more to you than anything else you know. Go start today and let the results tell you how long to continue. You will be amazed and delighted.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will order from his jobber.

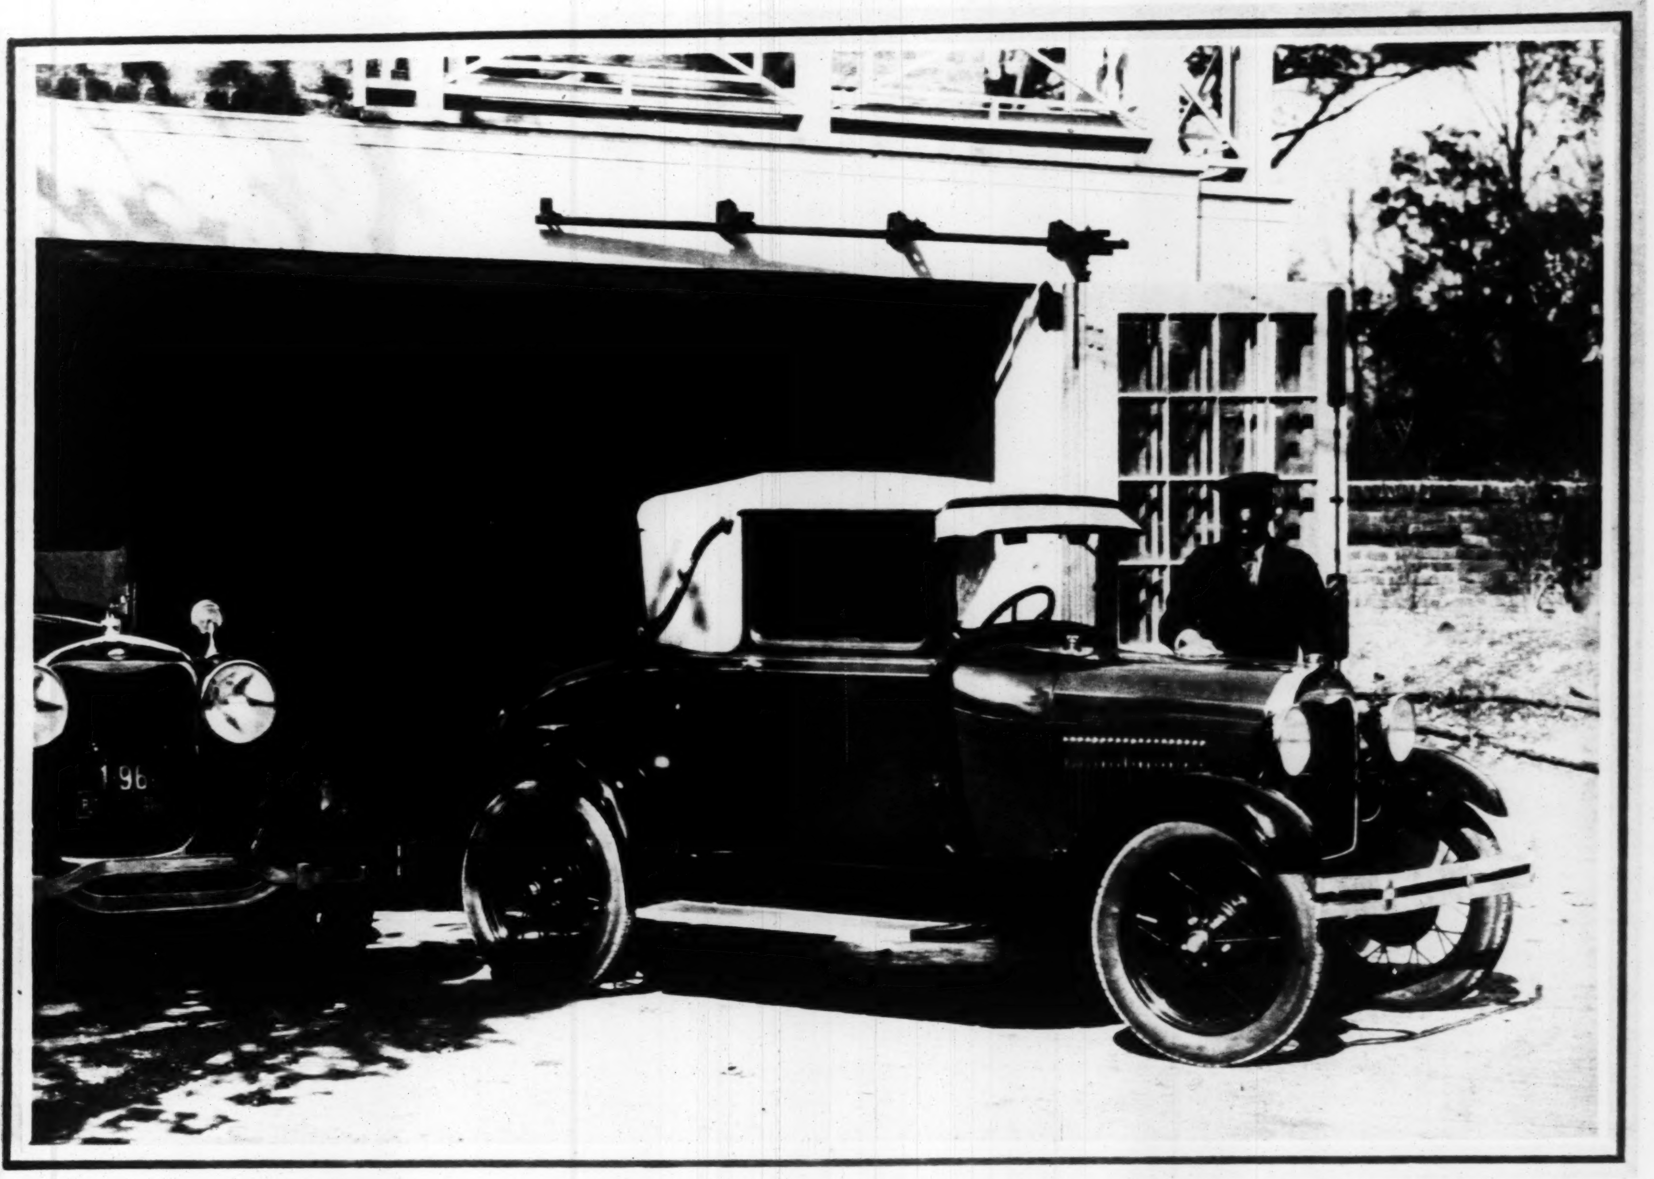
THE SAFE AND GENTLE WAY TO END A CORN

The new Ford has been built to endure



The new Ford Sport Coupe is a great choice for the family needing two cars. You'll especially like to drive it because it's so alert and capable—so easy to handle.

Long life and economy of new model as important as its beauty, speed, safety and quiet comfort

THE remarkable performance of the new Ford is the direct result of the quality that has been built into every part.

It has beauty of line and color because beauty of line and color has come to be considered a necessity in a motor car.

Yet even more important than this outside beauty is the strength, efficiency and beauty of those parts which are on the inside—those vital mechanical parts which are the very heart of value and performance. It is well to look to this mechanical beauty when you buy an automobile.

Instantly you examine the body construction of the new Ford, its engine, its transmission, its oiling, cooling and ignition systems, you will understand some of the reasons for its speed, safety, comfort, quiet, reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

An example of the quality that is built into the new Ford is the use of steel forgings instead of malleable castings and steel stampings. They are used throughout the chassis, except, of course, for the engine castings.

More steel forgings, in fact, are used in the new Ford than in almost any other car regardless of price.

Just what this means to every motorist is shown in the strength of the forged-steel spring perches alone. They will withstand 15,000 pounds pressure before indicating a permanent change in their structure.

Added strength, quiet and reliability also come from the number of electric weldings used in the new Ford. By the use of these weldings, one-piece parts of great strength replace those formerly made up of several parts bolted, riveted or soldered together.

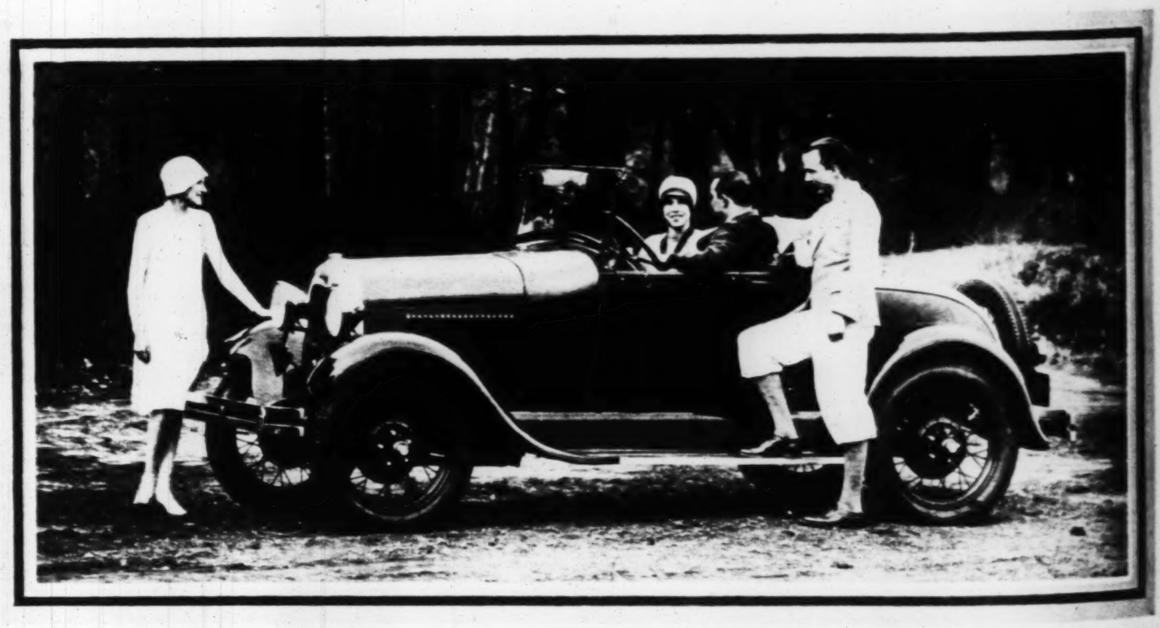
The perfecting of electric welding machines to do this work was the result of ten years of constant experimenting in shop and laboratory.

Some of the other features which show the strength and quality that have been built into the new Ford car are the steel bodies; the carbon chrome nickel alloy valves; the five-bearing camshaft; the heavy crankshaft which is statically and dynamically balanced and built to withstand a twisting stress up to 60,000-inch pounds; the aluminum pistons which were selected because of their light weight and heat-conducting qualities; the new pump, splash and gravity oil system; the standard gear shift with bronze, ball and roller bearings; the new battery, coil and distributor ignition; the low center of gravity and minimum unsprung weight which combine with the Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers and the new transverse springs to make the new Ford such an easy-riding car; the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield; the new steering gear which prevents road shocks from being transmitted to the hands of the driver and is unusually strong because the column and the housing of the steering gear mechanism are welded into a single all-steel unit; the mechanical four-wheel brakes; the seamless, all-steel torque tube; the new one-piece, welded, steel-spoke wheels; the three-quarter floating rear axle, and the all-steel rear axle housing.

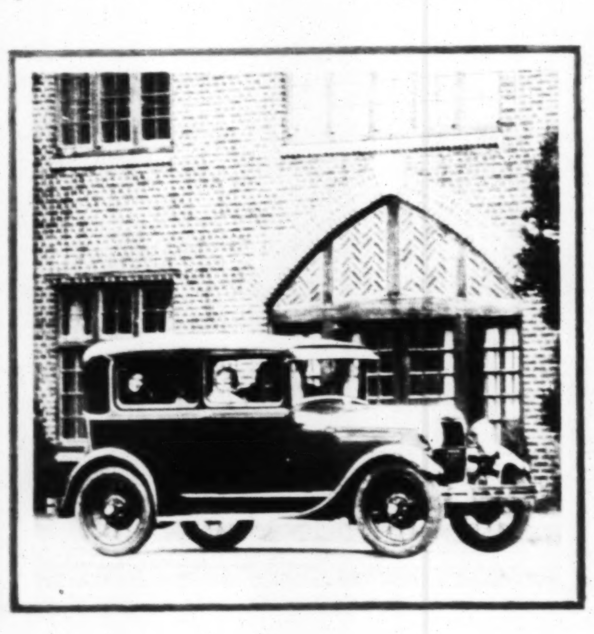
So we say to you—take a little while to see and inspect this new car at the nearest Ford showrooms. Examine it carefully, part by part. Listen to its quiet, smooth-running engine. Know the thrill of driving it. By its performance you will know there is nothing like it in design, quality and price.

The new Ford Roadster sells for $385; the Phaeton for $395; the Tudor Sedan for $495; the Coupe for $495; the Business Coupe for $495; the Sport Coupe, with wide, substantial rumble seat, for $550; the Fordor Sedan for $625. (F. O. B. Detroit.)

These prices include four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers, mechanical, internal expanding-shoe type four-wheel brakes, five steel-spoke wheels, electric windshield wiper on closed cars, speedometer, gasoline gage on instrument panel, dash light, mirror, combination stop and tail light, theft-proof coincidental ignition lock, high pressure grease gun lubrication, and Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.



The new Ford Roadster, like all the other new Ford cars, is furnished in a variety of beautiful two-tone color harmonies. Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield is another feature you will appreciate.



The new Ford Tudor Sedan has been built to seat five people in comfort. Easy-riding, too, because it is equipped with four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers.

The new Ford Sport Coupe is a great choice for the family needing two cars. You'll especially like to drive it because it's so alert and capable —so easy to handle.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY

By H. J. TUTHILL

IT'S A CHILDISHLY SIMPLE GAME, CLARA. YOU MERELY HIT THE BALL SO IT GOES IN THE DIRECTION OF THAT FLAG OVER THERE.
I KNOW. BEVERLY GIVES ME INSTRUCTIONS EVERY TIME I PLAY GOLF WITH HIM. OH DEAR I MISSED IT AGAIN! WELL, IT WASN'T MY FAULT SO I JUST WONT COUNT THOSE TWO.
I WONT COUNT THE THREE TIMES I MISSED, EITHER. SO WE'LL BOTH BE EVEN, CLARA.
BEVERLY INSISTS THAT THE MOST IMPORTANT THING IN THE WORLD IS THE WAY YOU HOLD YOUR FEET WHILE PLAYING GOLF. HE HAS TO HAVE ABSOLUTE QUIET TOO.
I KNOW. GEORGE IS THE SAME WAY. AND HE ALSO HAS SOME WEIRD IDEAS ON HOW A CLUB SHOULD BE HELD. HOW SILLY! EITHER YOU HIT THE BALL OR YOU DON'T HIT IT. THAT'S LOGIC.
I LEARNED GOLF IN TWO LESSONS. MY HUSBAND THOUGHT I'D NEVER LEARN IT. BUT.. OH, FIDDLESTICKS! I MISSED AGAIN! NO I DIDN'T, EITHER!
HERE'S MY BALL DOWN AT THE VERY BOTTOM OF THIS GULLEY. THE IDEA! I HADN'T THE REMOTEST INTENTION OF KNOCKING IT IN HERE EITHER.
JUST BRING THE BALL UP HERE WITH MINE, CLARA. IT'S SILLY TO WASTE TIME TRYING TO KNOCK IT OUT OF SUCH AN ABSURD PLACE.
ON TWO OCCASIONS SHE FOUND LACE HANDKERCHIEFS IN HIS CAR. THEN ON NEW YEARS WHILE HE WAS ASLEEP ON A LOUNGE A LITTLE RED BOOK FULL OF TELEPHONE NUMBERS FELL OUT OF HIS INSIDE COAT POCKET.
I KNEW ABOUT HIM FOR A YEAR. WHEN I TRIED TO GIVE HER A HINT OF WHAT WAS GOING ON SHE MERELY SNIFFED AND SAID SOMETHING ABOUT PERSONS MINDING THEIR OWN BUSINESS.
THERE'S THE WOMAN WE SAW AT THE CLUBHOUSE TALKING TO THE STOUT MAN. ISN'T SHE THIN? SHE'S OLD TOO. AND KNOCK-KNEED
SHE LOOKS LIKE A WOMAN I SAW HERE LAST YEAR. SHE IS THIN. SKINNY! DID YOU NOTICE HOW THICKLY THE PAINT WAS PLASTERED ON HER FACE?
OH DEAR, I'M ALL MIXED UP AGAIN. WHICH WAY WERE WE GOING? WHEN WE STARTED THE SUN WAS ON OUR RIGHT I THINK.
WE'RE GOING THIS WAY, I'M SURE! OR WAS IT OVER THAT WAY? WELL ANYHOW WE'LL GO THIS WAY, CLARA!
THERE'S JUST NO USE TRYING TO KNOCK THIS BALL OUT OF THIS SAND. AND I DON'T THINK IT'S FAIR TO COUNT ALL THE TIMES I MISSED EITHER, JOSEPHINE.
I HAD THE VERY SAME TROUBLE ON THIS SIDE. LET'S PUT BOTH BALLS UP ON HERE AND START ALL OVER. THAT'S FAIR FOR BOTH OF US.
THERE'S THAT WOMAN AGAIN JOSEPHINE! SHE ISN'T INTERESTED IN GOLF SO MUCH AS SHE IS IN THE HOPE THAT SHE CAN STRIKE UP A FLIRTATION WITH SOME SILLY MAN. LOOK AT HER POSING. LOOK!
I SEE HER! ISN'T SHE SILLY! HEAVENLY DAYS, I'VE LOST COUNT AGAIN! OH WELL!
MY FEET ARE JUST KILLING ME JOSEPHINE! DO YOU REMEMBER MY SCORE? I THINK I'LL MULTIPLY IT BY EIGHTEEN AND FEEL THAT I WENT ALL AROUND THE COURSE.
I BELIEVE I'LL DO THE SAME. LET ME THINK WHAT IS MY SCORE? LET ME THINK?
7-8-28
WHAT! ARE YOU TRYING TO TELL ME YOU WENT OVER THAT COURSE IN 54? WHY THAT'S IMPOSSIBLE!
ALL RIGHT! IF YOU WONT BELIEVE ME CALL UP JOSEPHINE BUNGLE WHO WAS WITH ME AND ASK HER.
LISTEN, JO, LET'S BE REASONABLE. YOU CLAIM YOU WENT ALL AROUND EIGHTEEN HOLES OF THE TOUGHEST COURSE IN THIS PART OF THE COUNTRY IN—?
55! YES SIR! 55! AND IF YOU WONT TAKE MY WORD CALL UP CLARA BUCKY. SHE WAS WITH ME!

MR. AND MRS.—

I TELL YOU VI I DON'T WANT TO GO OUT A DAY LIKE THIS--I'D RATHER STAY HOME THAN GET IN THAT HOLIDAY JAM
YOU NEVER WANT TO GO ANYWHERE-JUST STAY HOME AND READ PAPERS WELL IT'S A WHOLE LOT MORE SENSIBLE THAN-EVERYBODY ELSE GOES OUT BUT US
DOGGONIT- THERE'S NO PERCENTAGE IN THIS PUSHING AND SHOVING AROUND IN A FOURTH OF JULY CROWD - IT'S AWFUL- ME FOR THE HOME STUFF
THERE'S THE PHONE
NO GRACE - WE THOUGHT WE'D STAY QUIETLY AT HOME TODAY-- JOE HAS HAD A BUSY WEEK AND IS REALLY IN NEED OF A REST- - YOU GO ALONG WITHOUT US THIS TIME
GRACIE AND HER GANG ARE HAVING A PARTY- A SORT OF PICNIC BUT I KNEW HOW YOU DISLIKE THAT SORT OF THING SO —
GRACIE WAS TERRIBLY DISAPPOINTED- SHE SAID YOU WERE THE LIFE OF THE PARTY LAST YEAR
THAT WAS A GREAT LITTLE PARTY- HEH HEH
SHE SAID THAT IF YOU WOULD ONLY JOIN 'EM TODAY-
WELL — OH WELL
WELL - SHE SAYS IT WON'T BE COMPLETE WITHOUT YOU
TUT TUT
I'LL TELL HER WE JUST CAN'T MAKE IT WAIT NOW WHAT?
LISTEN - IF YOU REALLY WANT TO GO - I CAN STAND IT I SUPPOSE
I DIDN'T SAY I WOULDN'T GO--- YOU TELL HER WE'LL BE THERE- AFTER ALL IT'S A GOOD THING TO GET OUT IN THE OPEN

LOOK WHAT THAT GOAT DID TO JUNIOR'S PANTS! — YOU'VE GOT TO GET RID OF HIM!
BA-A-A
WELL, LOOK WHO'S HERE — HE LOOKS LIKE A HICK COP
EXPRES
BA-A-A YOURSELF!
THERE'S A GOAT THAT IS A GOAT, MISTER = HE'S GOT A PEDIGREE AS LONG AS THE ATLANTIC CABLE = HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO HAND ME $10.00 FOR HIM AND GET A PRIZE?
$10.00 FOR THAT GOAT? = I WOULDN'T GIVE YOU $10.00 FOR ALL THE GOATS THIS SIDE OF THE ARK.
THIS GOAT IS INTELLIGENT, EDUCATED AND REFINED = HIS DADDY COULD "BA-A-A" THE A-B-C'S AND DO EXAMPLES IN ADDITION AND SUBTRACTION = SUPPOSE'N YOU TAKE HIM FOR NOTHING?
I WOULDN'T TAKE HIM FOR NOTHIN'. A GOAT AINT GOOD FOR NOTHIN' = IF I OWNED THE WORLD, I WOULDN'T GIVE HIM STANDING ROOM IN A DESERT.
WELL, SUPPOSE'N YOU TAKE THIS $2.00 BILL, LOAD HIM IN YOUR WAGON AND DROP HIM SOMEPLACE, BEYOND HIS MEMORY TO FIND HIS WAY BACK.
NOW YOU'RE TALKING MY LANGUAGE = SLIP ME THE DOUGH = I'LL TAKE HIM TO A PLACE WHERE I'LL HAVE TO GET A SEARCH WARRANT TO FIND MY WAY BACK.
GOODBYE, AARON, PLEASANT JOURNEY.
DO YOU WANTA KISS HIM GOODBYE?
EXPRES
DADDY, I JUST SAW A BAD MAN TAKING AARON AWAY = I WANT MY AARON BACK!!
LISTEN, SON, I SOLD HIM FOR $5.00 SO YOU WOULD HAVE ENOUGH MONEY TO BUY THAT BASEBALL SUIT. NOW STOP CRYING AND GO AND GET THAT SUIT.
FORGIVE ME FOR THAT LIE BUT IT WAS WORTH $7.00 TO GET RID OF THAT GOAT — OH, WHAT A RELIEF!
HERE'S YOUR BUM GOAT! HE ATE UP MY OILCLOTH COVER = IT COST ME $8.00 = YOU'RE GOING TO GIVE ME $6.00 MORE OR THERE'LL BE TROUBLE.
RESS
BAAA
FIVE TO MY SON AND EIGHT TO THIS TRAMP! $13.00 MORE I'VE GOT INVESTED IN YOU = YOU MAY LOOK THE PART BUT I'M THE GOAT!!

THE ARMY SURE HAS MADE A MAN OUT OF YOU, ROD - I'M GIVING A BIG PARTY IN YOUR HONOR TO-NIGHT
YEP - TO-DAY'S MY LAST DAY HERE - THEY'RE GOING TO MUSTER US OUT RIGHT AFTER INSPECTION
BEFORE YOU TURN YOUR UNIFORM IN, ROD, I WANT A BUTTON TO KEEP AS A SOUVENIR OF HEROIC DAYS IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY
BUT, DORA, THIS IS INSPECTION DAY - THEY'RE VERY FUSSY ABOUT THE WAY WE LOOK
ONE MINUTE, PRIVATE RUCKETT, IS THAT A BUTTON MISSING FROM YOUR COAT?
YESSIR - A BUTTON, SIR, ONE BUTTON
HOW DO YOU EXPECT US TO WIN WARS WITH SOLDIERS LIKE YOU? NEATNESS HAS WON MORE BATTLES THAN GUNS! SHAME ON YOU!
I FEEL MY SHAME, LIEUTENANT, BUT IT WAS A WEAK MOMENT
GO IN AND SEE COLONEL BLUSTER - TELL HIM I SENT YOU
OH, LIEUTENANT, WON'T YOU GIVE ME ONE OF YOUR BUTTONS TO ADD TO MY COLLECTION?
YES'R YES'R
LIEUTENANT SIMPSON, WHAT DO YOU MEAN BY APPEARING ON INSPECTION DAY WITH A BUTTON MISSING FROM YOUR COAT?
IT WAS THIS WAY. CAPTAIN...
NO, EXCUSE - TELL COLONEL BLUSTER I SENT YOU IN YES, CAPTAIN
OH, CAPTAIN, I'LL GIVE YOU ONE PRIVATE'S AND ONE LIEUTENANT'S BUTTON FOR ONE OF YOUR BARS
BUT, MAJOR - IT - ! I -- I -- ER -- R --
THE IDEA OF A CAPTAIN APPEARING WITH PART OF HIS INSIGNIA MISSING - REPORT TO COLONEL BLUSTER, AT ONCE SAY, WHAT THE HECK IS THIS, A GAME?
COL. BLUSTER
I'LL PUT AN END TO THIS NONSENSE - RIGHT NOW
THREE DAYS IN THE GUARD - HOUSE FOR ALL OF YOU WELL, THAT'S THAT SAYS YOU
SHUT UP YOU GUYS
BUT, COLONEL, REALLY THIS IS ENOUGH. YOU'VE BEEN SO SWEET - YOU MUST COME TO MY PARTY
SHE AIN'T SO DUMB!
FINE! - BUT FIRST LET ME GET ONE OF MY SWORDS I ONLY NEED ONE

MISTER PRESIDENT, YOUR ENGAGEMENT RECEPTION TAKES PLACE TONIGHT AND THE LAWS OF SAN STEVEDORE SAY YOU MUST DANCE THE NATIVE PALOOKA WITH CARMEN, YOUR FUTURE BRIDE - THE STATE DANCING TEACHER WILL BE HERE TO INSTRUCT YOU IN A FEW MINUTES
THE ONLY DANCE I EVER TRIED WAS THE ST. VITUS
THREE HUNDRED AND FOURTEEN POUNDS! IT WILL BE A DAY'S WORK TO GET MY ARM AROUND HER WAIST
PRESIDENT McNUTT, WE HAVE COME TO TEACH YOU THE PALOOKA
THE FIRST MOVEMENT OF THE DANCE IS TO TOSS THE LADY OVER YOUR HEAD LIKE THIS
THEN YOU WHIRL HER AROUND TWENTY-FIVE OR THIRTY TIMES LIKE THIS
I WONDER IF HE'S EVER SEEN CARMEN!
YOUR EXCELLENCY, THE GAY CROWD IS WAITING OUTSIDE TO CARRY YOU TRIUMPHANTLY TO THE GRAND BALL
I'M TIRED ALREADY JUST FROM WATCHING YOU
I'M IN A TOUGH SPOT - IF I REFUSE TO DANCE WITH CARMEN, I'LL GET SHOT - AND IF I DANCE WITH HER I'LL PROBABLY DIE FROM EXHAUSTION VIVA!
THE SWEET YOUNG COUPLE WILL NOW DANCE OUR ANCIENT WALTZ OF BETROTHAL, THE PALOOKA!
THE FIRST MOVEMENT WILL COMMENCE!
ZUNK
10
MISTER PRESIDENT, THAT WAS A GREAT IDEA TO INTRODUCE ONE OF YOUR QUAINT AMERICAN STEPS INTO OUR NATIVE DANCE
